THE CANADIAN GROCER

A Weekly Newspaper Devoted to the Grocery, Fruit, Provision, Canned Goods and Foodstuffs Trades of Canada.

Office of Publication 10 Front Street East, Toronto.

VOL. XXI. MONTREAL, TORONTO, WINNIPEG, JULY 4, 1907. NO. 27.

The dealer that pleases the housekeeper gets her steady trade. One of the leading trade-winners in the grocery line is

Keen's Oxford Blue

It is unequalled for satisfactory work in the laundry.

Quality is never questioned when

Edwardsburg "Silver Gloss" Starch

and Benson's "Prepared Corn"

are offered to the housekeeper. For nearly 50 years they have been proved the Best.

There Is No Reason

why any grocer should be unable to obtain any single article packed or made by Crosse & Blackwell from his wholesale house. There are, no doubt, a number of the C. & B. lines which it would probably not pay a wholesaler to keep regularly in stock, but he can procure any single article on our export list for you. We would suggest that our retail friends make up an order in the Spring and Fall—or as often as they desire—for those sundries and particular lines of C. & B. goods which the wholesaler does not stock. Hand this to your wholesaler and he can have the goods brought on to you in original packages, under your mark, direct from Crosse & Blackwell's factory. It is really less trouble for the wholesaler to handle an order of this kind and you are assured of getting all the goods you order—packed according to your instructions—in original coverings. Stock the lines of C. & B. goods your customers ask for. If they ask for something not on your shelves, send an order in to your wholesale house for it, with the request that the goods be imported for you. We are continually bringing on special shipments to all parts of Canada, and your order, however small, will receive prompt attention.

All Dealers and 381 Queen St. W.

TORONTO, ONT.

Dealers find Common Sense a very good seller, for the reason that it gives general satisfaction and each customer tells others about same.

Write for prices.

Do not accept a substitute for any article advertised in these columns. Insist on getting what you ask for.

A retail grocer doing a large business in one of our eastern cities bought a year or so ago some Canned Goods of a new brand, because they were cheaper than the old established brands.

The quality of these goods may have been fair, although one woman returned a can of Peas and said they were not nearly as good as Simcoe because she had counted the Peas and there were six less in the can.

These cheap Canned Goods were offered to the public at cut prices, and were largely advertised. This cheap sale naturally caused a flurry among the Trade, but, as do all such flurries, it soon died out, and the dealers in standard brands found the demand for their goods better than ever.

The price cutter, however, gained for himself the name of a purveyor of cheap quality goods, as cheap prices and cheap quality usually travel together.

The demand for the brand of goods sold at cheap prices was practically killed, and if information is reliable, is still dead as regards that particular territory.

All this is fact, not fiction.

The moral is, that it is more profitable to pay a fair price for an article that can be sold at a good profit, than less money for one that has to be sold at a cheap price.

Buy and sell Canned Goods that are guaranteed as to quality by the Canadian Canners, Limited, and that have a long established reputation, such as, e.g., "Aylmer," "Little Chief," "Log Cabin," "Horseshoe," "Auto," "Kent," "Lynnvalley," "Maple Leaf," "Lion," "Thistle," "Grand River" and "White Rose," etc.

There are more than a few reasons for the preference, so unanimously expressed, by the women of Canada in favor of

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

Canned Fruits and Vegetables

The climate, where our products come from, is ideal for the gradual and thorough nourishment of the vegetable kingdom. Too sunny lands and sultry winds mean premature growth and quick decay and nowhere else on the globe are climatic conditions just right for the best fruits and vegetables. Then we better nature's work by eliminating all fruits and vegetables showing the least symptoms of coming taint, and, mind you, the scrutiny of our experts is microscopic in its severity.

Canada's Ideal Canning Factory.

Home of Old Homestead Brand

And there you see Canada's best canning factory—in fact, the ideal one. The ultra cleanliness of the place goes without saying. Numerous devices, making for perfection, obtain therein. Extravagant! No sir! We had simply determined to give you the concentrated goodness of fruits and vegetables in cans—a goodness so unapproachable by even the next best brand that the particular women of Canada called OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND—"Incomparable." People who want fruit and vegetable goodness condensed, order OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND. Can you supply the demand?

"Canada's Pride" Canned Goods

We feel proud that our efforts to produce a superior quality of canned goods has been appreciated, which decided us to still further improve our facilites, which we are doing by the addition of two large buildings in which we are installing the very latest machinery for handling Peas in the most improved way, and with our expert help we shall be able to give to our customers a much improved article in peas.

Our buildings, which are open to visitors at all times, are large and well ventilated, having cement floors throughout with perfect drainage; greatest cleanliness being exercised is a guarantee against disease germs of all kinds.

Our system of grading and naming our peas assures consumers that they are getting just what they pay for, as the size of the peas contained in each can is designated on the label.

Give "Canada's Pride" Peas a trial and be convinced that our system is a success.

When placing your orders for this season don't forget that all lines bearing the name "Canada's Pride" are the very best possible to produce and that we feel proud of the reputation already gained, and that we shall in every way protect our reputation and brand.

DEAR SIRS:

If you care to intrust to us the pushing of your interests in Western Canada, we can place at your command exceptional facilities and a wide and thorough knowledge of the trade in this territory.

We have been successfully prosecuting the business of general selling agents and manufacturers' representatives for many years. There is no better known house in Western Canada, or one possessing a larger or more loyal circle of clients.

Our facilities for storing and handling goods are excellent. We have three warehouses----one each at Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton---- from which points we can readily and quickly reach all towns in this region.

We should like to receive some consignments from you, and believe you would find a connection with us very profitable.

A reply from you would be greatly appreciated.

Retail Grocers Convention at Hamilton

Third Annual Meeting of the Ontario Grocers' Section of the Retail Merchants' Association—A Small Attendance—Interesting Addresses and Discussions—H. C. Beckett, President of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild, Talks Very Instructively on Trade Evils and the Need for Organization and Co-operation.

The third annual convention of the grocers' section of the Retail Merchants' Association was held in the Conservatory of Music hall, Hamilton, on Tuesday, as a preliminary to the eighth annual convention of the association in Ontario. The attendance was extremely small, but there were some very interesting addresses, notably one by H. C. Beckett, president of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild, and under the head of resolutions some interesting topics were discussed. At no time were there more than thirty present and scarcely half that number were grocers.

John A. Green, secretary of the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States, was not present, much to the disappointment of those who had looked forward to having the leading man in grocery organization on the other side of the line.

The convention was scheduled to commence at 10 o'clock. At eleven there were a dozen present and President J. O. Carpenter, of the grocers' section of the local Retail Merchants' Association, and Mr. Smye, president of the Retail Grocers' Association of Hamilton, briefly and heartily welcomed the delegates to the city and an adjournment was made till after luncheon.

Ontario President.

When proceedings were resumed the chairman, M. Moyer, president of the Ontario grocers' section, called upon A. L. Geen, a Belleville druggist, and Ontario president of the general association, for an address. Mr. Geen expressed regret that he so seldom was able to meet with the various sections of the association. It was in the sections, he said, where the solid work was done. In the sections they understood each other's troubles, and if it were not for the sections the association would do very little. The association had to be just what the sections were. While in provincial and Dominion associations they could tackle the Governments, it was in the sections that they helped each other individually. Every section had its discouragements, but he reminded them that they were just laying the foundation for the retailers' association of the future.

Grocers the Best.

Ald. Kirkpatrick, of Hamilton, recently retired from the grocery business after 20 years' success. He extended a hearty welcome to the city and promised that the mayor would be present next day. The grocers, he declared unblushingly, were the best class of citizens in Hamilton. He urged association as a necessity to success in retailing. The grocers in Hamilton had organized an association 16 or 17 years ago, but had not been able to get more than half the grocers into it. It had, however, been a very great benefit. They had not attempted any price-fixing combination or anything of that kind. They had derived their greatest benefit from becoming acquainted with each other.

Right Plan of Organization.

J. A. Beaudry, Dominion treasurer, Montreal, was the next speaker and conveyed the greetings of the retailers of Quebec. His remarks were confined to a eulogy of the association's system of organization. They had tried the single line organization in Quebec, but when they had got up against conditions at Ottawa they had found their influence was nil. The result of the trading stamp fight had shown what combination could do. That had demonstrated the necessity of retailers of all other lines coming in with the grocers if they were to accomplish anything. Some people might think they should be organized on different lines. Let them come to the front and say how it should be done. Until they did that the association would have to continue the way it had been doing.

H. C. BECKETT, HAMILTON
President Dominion Wholesalers' Guild.

From the States.

Elisha Winter, of Boston, national organizer for the Retail Merchants' Association of the United States, then was called upon and enlivened proceedings with a flow of oratory that was most entertaining. Mr. Winter was very fluent. He too, but at greater length, endorsed the plan of an association of all retailers. He dwelt too on the attainment after 20 years' labor, of the National Pure Food Law. He awarded the glory for evolving the United States plan of organization to Canada and implied that he and his countrymen had only heard of it this spring, when Messrs. Trowern, Higgins and Moyer had attended the Vermont State convention.

"The individual class organization," he asserted, "cannot appear at Washington without being accused of seeking class legislation."

"The grocers have been doing the nigger and jackass work for years. We have to come to Canada to get the right idea of organization." Now grocers were discovering they were merchants and in state after state the organizations were changing their names from grocers to merchants.

After a diversion to comment on the fact that John D. Rockefeller was evading service of a summons to court and on the tendency of Canada and the States to get together, Mr. Winter got back by asserting that the grocers should establish the food standards and make the Government adopt them. In the United States, he told them, the order of things was money, men, method. Here it was method, men, money, and "the spot dollar was not so near to God Almighty as on our side." He talked for awhile of equal rights for retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers and dilated at some length on the achievements of the merchants of Venice in making laws for the world in the dark ages. He delivered the encouraging news that the catalogue houses of the United States had seen their day. They were "talking prison" to them over there now.

However, in thinking around for something original and inspiring to say, Mr. Winter had hit upon the idea of an international organization of merchants. He was sure it had got to come.

A Wholesaler Present.

Chairman Moyer then called upon H. C. Beckett, president of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild, and remarked upon the progress that had been made in adjusting relations between retailers, wholesalers and manufacturers. A few years ago no one would have thought of finding a wholesaler at one of the association meetings. The association was getting to be better understood by manufacturers, wholesalers and consumers. The association was working to improve trade conditions and by so doing they were making things better for everybody.

GUILD PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

Need for Organization and Co-operation to Correct Trade Abuses.

Mr. Beckett's address was carefully prepared and was the feature of the convention. He said:

"It must be gratifying to the members of your splendidly managed association to learn that substantial progress is being made in the very necessary work commenced eight years ago, this, I understand, being your eighth annual convention.

"Having been invited to offer suggestions to the members of your association on lines calculated to promote the best interests of both the wholesale and retail trade, I feel indebted to you for the privilege of being present and, therefore, beg to offer suggestions emphasizing THE GREAT NEED AND BENEFIT OF A BETTER UNDERSTANDING OF TRADE CONDITIONS.

"Recognizing and realizing the great difficulties that beset the grocery trade, both wholesale and retail, we are here to suggest, in a general way, remedies for improvement, and no better argument could be advanced in favor of better trade conditions than the fact of the merchants of Ontario traveling, in some cases, hundreds of miles to attend this convention. Comparatively little can be accomplished by the individual; problems in business are continually arising that can only be studied and dealt with by united effort.

Many Evils and Difficulties.

"The years of experience you have had in the grocery business have, no doubt, made it clear to all here that there are many evils and difficulties existing, ruinous to trade and business morality, and it is a reasonable view to hold that these evils must be remedied sooner or later.

"A business of such magnitude as that of the selling of groceries, both wholesale and retail, must necessarily be in a more or less confused condition without organized effort to establish in the minds of manufacturers and others the great need of reforms and changes in business methods absolutely necessary to meet present day conditions.

"While more or less effort has been made in the past to acquaint manufacturers with the situation as it applies to the jobber and retailer, the real improvement and benefit to the trade generally is largely due to the efforts of a few. More aggression is necessary to emphasize the evils we have to contend with.

"Manufacturers who take an interest in the profits made by the jobbers and retailers are few and far between. Some hold the absurd idea that it is unlawful to sell goods with restrictions as to re-sale; in fact, the sale of many proprietary and staple lines on margins not sufficient to cover the cost of distribution is encouraged and forced upon the trade by manufacturers who are shrewd enough to take advantage of and profit by the petty and unbusinesslike jealousies that exist among competitors.

Cost of Doing Business.

"The wholesalers' and retailers' cost of doing business is not generally known to the manufacturer, and very little consideration is given to this vital matter. This important and vital question of the cost of doing business is frequently lost sight of. It, therefore, should be the duty of the trade to take this matter up more vigorously, for just so long as the trade is dormant and tardy in bringing these matters to the attention of the manufacturer, just so long will the time be prolonged in which business must be done at cost and frequently less.

"The remedy is a systematic and persistent hammering into the minds of manufacturers and merchants the cost of doing business, and without organized effort in continually interviewing manufacturers it is impossible to improve the condition of trade.

Cleavages in Trade.

"It has been argued by those unfamiliar with trade conditions that the purchaser who buys the maximum quantity should get the minimum price without regard to his standing in the community as consumer or merchant. Such a view is not held by business people because experience has demonstrated the absolute necessity of recognizing the cleavages in trade, namely, the manufacturer, the wholesaler, and the retailer. If the manufacturer elects to sell his goods direct to the retail trade, he has that privilege, but he should not discriminate in favor of the large buyer, as is frequently done.

H. C. ELLIS, OTTAWA
President Ontario Branch of the R.M.A.

"The quantity price has induced cutting and demoralization very hurtful to the interests of the retail trade generally. If the manufacturer elects to sell his goods through the wholesaler he should pursue an honorable course and not secretly and quietly sell to a few favored retailers at wholesaler's prices to the injury of the great majority of the retail trade.

"The trade generally has not been alive to present day needs, and has not appreciated the fact that a great educational work is necessary.

Lack of Business Knowledge.

"Our difficulties are due, in a great measure, to the great lack of general business knowledge on the part of the press and the people's parliamentary representatives. A continuous, combined, collective and united effort on the part of the merchants and manufacturers to educate the press and the politician to a correct general knowledge of trade conditions is of prime necessity.

"We all appreciate the great and surprising influence of the press with the masses in moulding public opinion, but very rarely is that influence used to get at the truth. The tendency has been to feed the public mind with something sensational on the subject of trade combines. False and erroneous statements through the press have so prejudiced the public mind that merchants and manufacturers have frequently been regarded with suspicion and mistrust in any collective effort they might make to protect their interests.

"Commercial laws suited to present day conditions are a necessity. Laws that will protect the mercantile interests of this country on a sound, honest, financial basis are just as necessary as laws to protect the public. Unfortunately, however, the aim of the politician has been directed to endorsing a popular cry in preference to being mindful of the mercantile interests of his country.

Commission to Investigate.

"In advocating the appointment of a commission to investigate trade conditions, with a view to reporting to the Government, and pointing out the necessity and absolute need of a permanent tribunal to which trade agreements may be submitted for ratification and approval, there can be no question as to the need of this, for experience has taught us that apparently little is known except by those actively engaged in business, of the necessity for progressive legislation on lines that will protect the rights of the many against the dishonest and unfair competition of the few.

"If the sale, both wholesale and retail, of groceries is a lawful business, then wholesalers and retailers alike should be protected in any efforts they may make to protect their interests.

"There should be no question as to the necessity of a proper recognition of honest methods in business, and a common sense attitude on the part of the Government to those engaged in business. The aim of a government should be to correct and not encourage unfair and dishonest competition. The right of competition must be recognized, but when unhealthy trade conditions prevail, it is in the public interest to prevent such a condition of trade.

Manufacturers' Obligation.

"It is needless to remind you of the great obligation the manufacturer is under to the retailer for the service he renders in placing the goods before the consumer, and, therefore, there can be no sense or justification for such service being rendered for less than the cost of doing it, as is the case now, and has been for some time past. If it is lawful to protect business interests, then those in business should know they have the right to use every legitimate method to prevent unhealthy trade conditions.

"The powerful influence of your association, through its very large membership, is perhaps not fully realized at Ottawa, or the very reasonable request asked at the hands of the Government would have received earlier consideration.

Impossible to Know.

"Under the present statutes it is impossible for the business man to know with any certainty the agreements which it should and may be lawful for them to enter into for the protection and existence of the various businesses in which they are respectively engaged. It is an injustice to differentiate against the merchant when other classes of the community are legally sanctioned to carry out the very same principles for which the merchants stand.

New Bureau of Commerce.

"The wholesale grocery trade of Canada, and I trust you will endorse to the full extent of your power the movement, are in favor of and have suggested to the Government the appointment of a branch of the Department of Trade and Commerce to be known as the Bureau of Inland Trade and Commerce. This branch would, undoubtedly, be of great value, as it might be the medium of educating the Government to the needs of business men, as it is quite clear that considerable missionary work is necessary before the needs of the trade will be noticed by the Government.

"It is hard to bring about these reforms without enthusiastic work and assistance, and you should take these matters up urgently and personally through your parliamentary representatives and urge and insist upon your rights being respected.

United States Wholesalers.

"In Chicago, last week, I had the pleasure and privilege of being present at the first annual meeting of the National Wholesale Grocers' Association of the United States. The meeting lasted three days, and was attended by upwards of 250 representative wholesale men from all parts of the United States, as far west as California and as far south as New Mexico; in all 32 states in the union were represented. The Wholesale Grocers' Association of the United States has a membership now of over 490, and they had their first convention in Buffalo last year. They are working in harmony with the National Retail Grocers' Association of the United States. They find the need of co-operation over there exactly the same as we do in Canada. The trade there are making an earnest attempt to put the grocery business on a paying basis, realizing that in this age of keen competition no one can control all the business. They expect the benefit they will get out of co-operation will be worth all the labor.

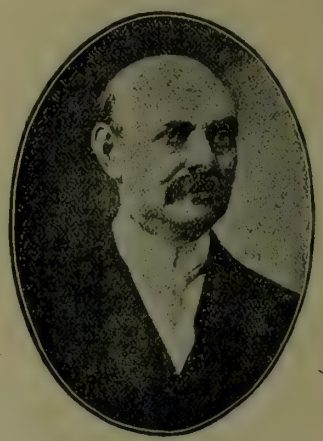
"All should be willing to labor in the cause of the business with which they are identified, as results can only be obtained through hard work and persistent effort.

"It is a short sighted policy to expect practical results if you do not subscribe liberally to the funds of your association, and a careful investigation will convince you that no better investment, or an investment that will bring you larger returns can be made than liberal association subscriptions.

Damage to Goods in Transit.

"I would also respectfully remind your association that the wholesalers and retailers have much in common, but unfortunately are not getting the benefit that would come to us all if we tried harder to help each other. You are aware that we have a Board of Railway Commissioners at Ottawa, appointed by the Government to protect the rights of the people in their dealings with the railway companies, and I would ask you if proper use is being made of that board? The answer is emphatically, 'No.' Delays in transportation, damage to goods in transit, pilferage, and the delays in settlement of claims are grievances that the trade have labored under for years. Due probably to the lack of initiative on the part of the wholesale and retail trade, very little, if any, effort has been made to lay this condition of affairs before the railway board.

"Every retail merchant has, at some time or other, received goods in a more or less damaged condition, and if he has made a claim upon the railway company he knows how difficult it is to secure a settlement. The settlement of claims is slow and tedious, and railway companies, in this respect, do pretty much as they like. Rules and regulations to protect the shipper and consignee should be put in force by the Railway Board, but this is not likely to be done, unless more active measures are taken to bring these matters before the Railway Board.



JOHN C. GREEN
Secretary National Association of Retail Grocers of the U.S.A.

Wholesalers in Accord.

"As representing the wholesale grocery trade of the Dominion, it may be interesting to you to know that the resolutions passed at your convention held in Toronto April 3rd, 1906, received the unanimous endorsement of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild at their annual meeting, April 19, 1906, and that the wholesale grocers are heartily in accord with the ideas of your association, so much so, that the wholesalers are in favor of the appointment of a standing committee to confer with a similar committee of your association with a view to assisting each other in the adoption of means to place the sale of staple lines in the grocery trade on a more healthy and stable basis.

Welcome to Hamilton.

"I am sure I voice the sentiments of every merchant in this city when I say it is a great pleasure to have the privilege of extending to you in this manner the glad hand of fellowship. Personally, I take a great pride in my native city and like to see every visitor carry away pleasant recollections of a visit to Hamilton.

"We cannot say much for our street car system, but we will have a better one some day. In the meantime we are exercising that Christian virtue for which Hamilton citizens are noted, namely, patience.

"I mention our transportation facilities so far as it affects our visitors because Hamilton business men are ashamed of such a condition so long delayed.

"This fraternal greeting extended to you by the wholesalers of Hamilton is evidence, I hope, that we are co-workers with you in a desire to encourage the spirit of the time, namely, a united effort to better trade conditions. The work which you are carrying on, and which we are also engaged in, is an earnest attempt to extend to a higher moral plane, the making of money in our business; not by unfair methods and dishonest practices, but by a spirit of live and let-live.

Must Deal Firmly.

"In business we find a few who attempt to take unfair advantages—with such we must deal firmly in protection of our interests.

"The business men's organizations have come to stay. They are founded on ideals of absolutely fair dealing, and with such ideals the associations will continue to prosper, grow, and increase in strength.

Government Will Take Notice.

"The time is not far distant when the Government of Canada will take notice and be seized with the fact that the merchants of Canada must be reckoned with and that laws hurtful to the interests of merchants and manufacturers are not in the public interest.

"Along these lines the value of your association will soon be manifest. Your work will require a sacrifice of time and labor, but results will more than repay you.

"Create good fellowship and good will—do not become discouraged if some forget the code of honor—have patience—a kind word—a little education will work wonders.

"Educate the travelers to be on the square. Playing a sharp trick on a rival is not honorable merchandizing—let your ideals of business become actual realities—honesty, part of the heart and a principle of the soul, is in man's nature—encourage it—protect yourselves. Conditions confronting the merchants to-day are past reasonable bounds, and the time has arrived when you must be aggressive and demand the just consideration of trade grievances.

"I thank you for listening to me and hope the views expressed may find favor with you."

Mr. Beckett informed the convention that some of the city wholesalers had

RETAIL GROCERS' JOINT PICNIC

Montreal and Ottawa Grocers Combine Forces at Alexandria—Weather Disagreeable, but Fun Fast and Furious—A Big Success.

Montreal and Ottawa retail grocers joined forces this year and held a joint picnic at Alexandria, Ont.

The picnic was a good one in many respects—in fact in most respects—but, unfortunately, it rained during the day in Alexandria, just when the sports were promised to be a daisy, and everybody about half over, and the balance of the events were run off as best could be arranged in the wet and mud.

When the Montreal train drew out of the station the day, while a bit skeery, was sure that the annual picnic would break all records. Soon after getting into Ontario it began to rain and the weather man joked with the picnickers all the rest of the time, getting down to work in earnest about 3 p.m.

At any rate, the Montreal grocers turned out in good numbers, twelve coaches leaving the Grand Trunk station, bearing somewhere near nine hundred excursionists.

The Ottawa train with the grocers from the Capital, about two hundred and fifty strong, arrived before noon, beating the Montrealers. Ottawa had nasty rain all morning.

Citizens of Alexandria were out in force to welcome the sellers of foodstuffs, and the grocers were escorted to Landscape Park for dinner and to see the afternoon's sports.

Two of the first people The Grocer met on alighting from the train from Montreal were President Forde, of the Ottawa grocers, and ex-Secretary Ellis.

Everybody Hungry.

Arriving at the grounds there was a wild scramble by several hundred persons to get into the grounds by way of two gateways, one of them six feet wide and the other about two. Before going in you had to perform an acrobatic act to secure a ticket of admission. To see some of the "larger" boys balancing on the eighteen inch platform before the ticket windows, a platform elevated a couple of feet from the ground, was worth going a hundred miles to see. Anyway everybody got in before the rain commenced in the afternoon, and seeing some white canvas in the distance, investigated, finding out that same covered the tables whereat the multitude were to feed. It looked easy to get your dinner, but on arriving at the canvas it was found that the whole thing was fenced in with staunch Alexandrians guarding the gate. The why was because there was one "standing" already at the tables, and dinner had to be served in instalments owing to the immense crowd present.

PRESIDENT F. W. FORDE, OTTAWA.

After the train journey, however, everybody was pretty hungry, and no one seemed very anxious to be last in getting to the tables. The crowd stood the bars because they had to for a while, but after an hour of waiting they rushed the gate, and easily overpowering the guards, made a wild dash for the tables where the good things were. You could hardly blame a hungry lot of people for doing such a thing. Just imagine standing with an empty stomach watch a couple of hundred people eating turkey, ham, beef, pickles, thirty-two varieties of fancy cakes, and a whole lot of other things, and you with a ticket in your pocket!

Once at the tables there was food aplenty and nobody had to go hungry.

Games and Good-fellowship.

The games next occupied the attention of the grocers and up to the time of the rain were enjoyed by contestants and spectators. The programme was a long one, and everybody was given a chance to win some of the valuable prizes given. President Laniel, Montreal, and President Forde, of Ottawa, were always on hand, and tried at all times to assist in getting the events off on time and in many other ways lent a hand.

There were quite a few others who helped also. Ex-President Daoust, of Montreal, was on hand, and brought his smile with him; Walter Gaden forgot Red Rose tea (if he could) for the day and sported a judge's badge, same color as the one which adorned the manly breast of Mr. Hodge, who thinks Chase & Sanborn's Red Seal brand coffee the best ever. James Fletcher, of Demers, Fletcher & Co., could not do enough, while Jos. Ethier, of Laporte, Martin & Co., who would rather miss a chance to land a big order for Mitchell's finest than overlook a grocers' picnic, was there too. Frank Cockburn and Fred Perry were on hand for the Comfort Soap race and to be good fellows as well—they always are. Mr. Probert, of Sunlight Soap, ate a good dinner, but from the weather it was evident he had no Sunlight with him. Alf. Childs was seen on the grounds during the day, as was also Mr. Laing, of the Lake of the Woods Milling Co. Secretaries Beaudry and Johnson worked hard and deserve special praise for the efforts they put forth to make the picnic go.

The Arrangement Committees.

All the officers of the two associations spent a busy day. Officers of the Ottawa Association are: President F.

Montreal officers are: President, A. Laniel; vice-presidents, J. A. Dore and E. P. Guillemette; secretary, A Sarazin; treasurer, H. Laniel.

A word should be said, too, about the efforts put forth by the grocers of Alexandria. They worked hard and their efforts certainly showed.

The various committees were as follows:

Organization—J. A. Dore, A. Sarazin, H. Laniel, G. Pilon, P. Daoust, J. A. Maynard, A. Laurendeau, Jos. Deneau, J. A. Beaudry, E. P. Guillemette, J. A. Labonte, E. P. Lalande, A. Laniel, president.

WINNIPEG PURE FOOD SHOW.

Winnipeg's first Pure Food Show was opened this week under the most favorable auspices. The large Auditorium Rink is gaily decorated for the occasion and at night when the thousands of lights are lit it is a very attractive place to visit. The exhibitors have spent a lot of money in the decorations of their booths and the result is a very handsome exhibition.

The formal opening occurred on Tuesday afternoon, the event being honored by the presence of the Lieutenant-Governor of Manitoba, the mayor of Winnipeg, the members of the board of control and city council, and several of the wholesale grocers of Winnipeg.

The exhibition will close on the 13th. It promises to be an immense success.

F. W. Thompson, vice-president and general manager Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., left Montreal for St. Andrews last week.

GROCERY TRADE NEWS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

St. John, N.B., July 1.

There were but slight changes in the grocery markets here during the past week. Cheese declined from a quarter to half a cent a pound. Hand-picked beans have gone up five cents. American plate beef has advanced $1, and Canadian from 50 to 75 cents. In the produce line, business was not so active as the week previous. Dealers report butter and eggs coming in more satisfactorily and prices of both slightly easier. Potatoes are also easier and are quoted at from $2 to $2.25 a barrel. In the fish market the supply is said to be about equal to the demand and prices remain about the same.

WALTER GADEN, OF RED ROSE TEA.

J. E. Cowan, the Main street grocer, received the first consignment of native wild strawberries last Thursday. They were grown on the Washedemook river and sold for twenty cents a box. Considering the backward weather this is early for native berries.

The schooner Falmouth arrived at Yarmouth on June 27th, with a cargo of molasses for the Crosby Molasses Company, of this city. The schooner made the trip from Barbadoes to Yarmouth in something less than thirteen days, which is considered remarkably good time.

The Sussex Mineral Springs are running full capacity in an effort to meet orders at hand. The present season is expected to be a record-breaker for the company.

Retail grocers have packed their seed stocks away, as the sale for the present season is about over. The trade this year is reported to be about up to the average, despite the backward weather.

An association that is doing good work and is proving of great benefit to the members is the St. Martin's Merchants' Association, at St. Martin's, N. B. Nearly all the merchants in the village have joined the body, their object being to promote business in every way possible. The merchants realized some time ago the difficulties they had to contend with in getting goods shipped them owing to the fact that the only railway, a branch line, known as the Hampton & St. Martin's Ry., making connections with the I.C.R. at Hampton, was not a paying proposition, and they set to work to remedy the trouble. Considerable of the freight up to a few years ago, was sent to the village by schooners, but it was thought some concerted action would result in better railway service, cheaper rates and more business. The association was therefore formed, and it was decided that it would pay all the dealers to work together, buy goods in carload lots and agree on a schedule of prices. The idea was not to make the consumer pay more, but by buying in larger quantities get better discounts so as to be able to sell cheaper. Since the formation of the association price-cutting has been done away with and meetings are held monthly to talk over matters of interest and discuss plans for the betterment of business. The present officers of the association are: President, Michael Kelly; vice-president, Allan Love; secretary, E. A. Titus; treasurer, S. V. Skillen. The executive is composed of the four officers and W. Bently, J. B. Hodsmythe and J. S. Titus. As a result of their efforts St. Martin's now has an improved train service and trade generally is much improved.

TORONTO HORSE SHOW.

The first prize and a fine gold medal was awarded to E. W. Gillett Co., Ltd., at Toronto Open Air Horse Show, July 1st, in the light fancy delivery class of horse and wagon. In all classes the entries were superior to those of former years and the parade was viewed by a larger crowd than ever before, showing that interest in this annual event is increasing each year.

T. Kusanobu, of Shaw T. Nishimura, Montreal, spent a few days in Toronto last week. His calls on the trade were made in company with Geo. Stanway.

Mr. H. Gardiner, of the T. J. Castle Co., Ottawa, was in Toronto last week.

The Canadian Cocoanut Co., Montreal, have opened a new department in connection with their rapidly extending business. This is for the supply of bakers' and confectioners' specialties and promises to be a popular move.

GROCERS' CONVENTION.

united to show their appreciation by providing a band concert the following evening in the Alexandra pavilion. He extended a cordial invitation to the delegates and city retailers to be present.

The First Convention.

George E. Bristol, another Hamilton wholesaler, was present and was called upon. "It gives me very much pleasure to greet the retailers of Ontario assembled in convention at Hamilton," said Mr. Bristol. "I hope your deliberations will prove of benefit to the body of trade throughout the country and I am satisfied they will. I take a great interest in retail organization. The first merchants' convention ever held in the Dominion was held in Hamilton and I was the originator of it. I don't think anything worth while can be done in this world without united effort."

An Unselfish Purpose.

Chairman Moyer announced himself foe a speech, but he made it short and like other officers of the association addressed himself to the question of the plan of organization. "This association," he asserted, "is quite unselfish. What we are trying to do here is not selfish or for our individual benefit. It is for the benefit of all merchants and every class of the community. If this were a gathering of men working different schemes for their own benefit you would not see me here or any of you. We want to improve our conditions and thereby improve the conditions of all with whom we come in contact. I am retired from the grocery business after 35 years, but I am still in the work of this association. I simply cannot drop it. I am here to help the few who are carrying on the work. The association is increasing every day."

Mr. Moyer declared there was no other calling on earth so enjoyable as retailing. The retailer stood between the manufacturers and jobbers and the consumers. They were just beginning to realize their position and its importance. Some people were questioning the plan of a united retailers' organization and were advocating single line organizations. "If there is a better way of organization," he said, "we want it, but if there is not, those who are opposing us should turn in and help us." Mr. Moyer mentioned specifically The Canadian Grocer as the principal objector. He spoke of the good work the association was doing and the facility for influencing legislation presented by the association's organization.

Getting Along.

Secretary Trowern was called upon for his report. He commented upon the progress the association was making, including now 5,500 retailers in Ontario. Much better relations were being established with other branches of trade, wholesalers and manufacturers. The work of last year would be set forth in the minutes as printed. He had 20 resolutions drafted upon suggestions sent in by local organizations.

Resolutions.

Pure food law—No higher duty on eggs—Inspection of all canned goods.

Upon motion of F. C. Higgins, the convention resolved itself into committee of the whole to consider the resolutions separately.

"That we consider the act relating to the inspection of canned goods should include goods offered for home consumption."

Secretary Trowern explained that the act as passed applied only to export goods.

Mr. Beckett stated the wholesalers had made representations to Ottawa to have the labelling regulations changed to provide that jobbers' names on a label suffice without that of the packer. They had been just too late, but the Government admitted they were right and would correct the error.

The resolution was adopted upon motion of A. B. Griffin and W. Smye.

Bag of Potatoes.

"That we endorse the recommendation of a large number of our branches that the weight of a bag of potatoes be fixed by the Government at 90 lbs."

Mr. Trowern pointed out that there was a general understanding that a bag of potatoes meant a bushel and a half. The small-sized sugar bags were largely responsible. The resolution was passed upon motion of A. B. Griffin and J. O. Carpenter.

GEO. E. BRISTOL, HAMILTON.

"That this convention consider the method adopted by some manufacturers of increasing the price of their products in such a way that the increase is taken out of the pockets of the retailer."

A. B. Griffin, Toronto, gave instances of tinned meats where a slight advance in the wholesale price took 10 per cent. off the retailers' profit. In another case of tinned milk a slight advance took 3¾ per cent. of the retailers' profit. Those increases in price were not sufficient to justify an advance in the retail price.

Ald. Kirkpatrick, of Hamilton, thought 20 per cent. a living profit on package goods.

"There's where the one price comes in," put in J. O. Carpenter. "It's the only way out that I can see."

"Before a resolution of that kind is passed," said F. C. Higgins, "the criminal code should certainly be amended."

The resolution was sent to the Joint Committee upon motion of J. H. Walker and John Bond.

Pure Food Committee.

The next resolution was submitted in this form:

"That this convention appoint a Provincial Pure Food Committee of three to act with a similar committee of our association to be appointed from the other provinces."

After a little discussion the following was adopted, upon motion of A. B. Griffin and F. C. Higgins:

"That this convention appoint a committee of three in conjunction with the other sections of the association as a Dominion Pure Food Committee, to act with a similar committee of our association that may be appointed from the other provinces.

Messrs. Moyer, Nappy and Smye were appointed the committee.

Food Stuff Standards.

"That this convention endorse the proposal of the Pure Food Committee of the Grocers' Section of the Toronto branch to secure, if possible, a Government standard for food products.

This resolution was sent on to the Interprovincial Pure Food Committee.

"That this convention consider the best system of keeping accounts for grocers."

This resolution was one of a number that originated with Mr. Higgins in the Toronto branch, and was intended more for discussion and suggestion than action.

Mr. Beaudry explained the system of providing customers with books of coupons containing tickets of various denominations. The merchant found out about how much credit a customer would require, furnished a book containing about that amount of coupons and took for it an acknowlegment in the form of a promissory note. The customer then paid for goods as he got them with coupons.

A St. Thomas System.

L. O. Pearson, St. Thomas, said the merchants of that city gave more credit than any other city in Canada. It was a railway centre and a great many of the people were paid monthly. His system was to have a counter check book for each credit customer. These books he kept in a case arranged alphabetically. Each account was kept always totalled up and carried forward, so that when a customer came to settle, his account was always ready. This system had proved very satisfactory with him and several other grocers in St. Thomas. The case for the books was essential. The resolution was sent to the executive, along with the following:

"That this convention consider what is the best system of handling cash."

Surprise Soap.

A resolution that evoked considerable very good-natured discussion was the following, also from Toronto:

"That this convention consider the method adopted by the Surprise Soap Co. in placing their goods on the market as unfair."

Chairman Moyer stated that on account of the increased cost of raw products the price of Surprise Soap had been advanced, and the retail price of six bars for a quarter had been advanced to five cents straight. Sales had fallen off, and to recover ground the company had offered a bonus in the form of one box free with every ten. At the same time they distributed to the retailers window cards offering six bars for a quarter.

Mr. Pearson, of St. Thomas, was surprised to learn that Surprise had been sold anywhere anytime at six bars for a quarter. They had never sold at less than five cents straight, and their only trouble was to get enough of it. Recently it had taken a month to get it. The bonus had not been offered to grocers in St. Thomas.

Mr. Smye said the cards had not been distributed in Hamilton.

Retailer to Blame.

S. M. Thompson, Hamilton, said the retail grocer himself was to blame. As soon as he got a chance to make five cents he had to give ten cents away to the consumer. If the retailers didn't know enough to make a profit on Surprise it was their own fault.

Mr. Griffin said the Toronto retailers had dropped the price without figuring what their profit would be.

Ald. Kirkpatrick: It is the retailers own fault. Why should any man come into a store and say what the merchant has to do?

J. O. Carpenter declared that the selling of the soap at a favored price in Toronto and Hamilton was unfair to the grocers in outside towns. The association should protect the weaker members.

Upon motion of Messrs. Thompson and Smye, the resolution was left to the executive to make representations to the company.

Another resolution to evoke suggestion was the following:

The Best Scales.

"That this convention discuss their experience of the best sort of scales for the grocer to use."

It also came from Mr. Higgins, Toronto. He said he would like to hear the experience of other grocers in regard to scales. "I have some I would not give house room," said he, "and they were expensive, too. The old balance scale is the best yet, so far as I can see."

"Does this resolution refer to the weights and count given us by the wholesalers?" asked W. A. Thompson, Hamilton, and the grocers laughed.

"That this convention considers that it is not desirable to have the advertisements of those goods placed in our windows and in our stores that do not bear a reasonable profit."

This resolution was adopted.

No Higher Egg Duty.

"That we consider that the present duty on eggs is not sufficient and that we ask that the same be increased."

It was stated that this resolution had its original source in the fertile mind of one of the wholesale provision men in Toronto. Mr. Higgins pointed out that the provision men packed eggs and kept up the price and wanted a higher protection to save themselves. He thought the duty was high enough. Upon motion of Messrs. Higgins and Griffin the resolution was laid on the table.

"That this convention again impress upon the Dominion Government the advisability of co-operating with the municipalities with a view of the more effective enforcement of the Fruit Marks Act."

The Hamilton men said their Board of Health inspector did this for them, and Ald. Kirkpatrick objected to the Government interfering in municipal affairs.

The difficulty was pointed out by Mr. Trowern of enforcing the Fruit Marks Act as to packing and quality with any but a Dominion officer.

Upon motion of Ald. Kirkpatrick and John Bond, it was agreed that the motion be referred to the committee appointed last year to look into this matter and that all the Grocers' Sections be asked to support the appointment of an inspector in Toronto and Montreal as an experiment.

"That we endorse the recommendation made by the Grocers' Section of the Toronto branch to have the law governing the weights of bread amended."

Hamilton delegates represented that there they had a fixed price of 4 cents a loaf and any fluctuations were in the weight, which was always stamped on the bread. They vigorously defended this system. The motion was laid over.

"The benefit coming from association work is worth all the labor."

"Confidence one in another will win."

"Blind self interest is fatal."

"By extending true fraternalism we give to the business world an example of the right kind of co-operation."

"The habit of money making is good, but should be checked when honor is sacrificed."

"Patience is a great asset. Always have a good stock of it on hand."

Futures in Canned Goods.

The resolution that occasioned most discussion was this one:

"That this meeting consider the methods adopted by some manufacturers of placing their goods on the market without any guarantee as to price or quality."

It was aimed at the canners and was a protest against the system of future selling by which retailers were made to carry heavy stocks six or eight months. It was asserted that the canners, after getting in their orders, made the pack to suit, thereby keeping up prices, and that to do this vegetables were allowed to go to waste. It was also asserted that grocers who bought late were punished by not getting what they wanted when the packers or jobbers had the goods in their cellars.

The resolution was finally adopted in this form, upon motion of Messrs. Griffin and Higgins:

"That the system of buying canned goods without knowing the price or quantity is unsatisfactory and that we hereby urge upon the members of this association to discourage the practice as much as possible in future."

New Officers.

These officers were elected: Chairman, M. Moyer, Toronto; vice-chairmen, F. C. Forde, Ottawa; J. O. Carpenter, Hamilton; treasurer, T, Nappy, Brockville; secretary, M. Trowern, Toronto.

An open meeting was announced for the evening, but the attendance was still very small and was confined to the delegates. However, there was an interesting programme. Adam Ballantyne, president of the local association, made an excellent chairman. Addresses were delivered by A. L. Geen, Elisha Winter and H, C. Beckett. Mr. St. Leger, of Toronto, gave a splendid rendering of Victor Hugo's description of the battle of Waterloo, and Bag Hill stirred up a whole lot of amusement with one of his orations. This one was on ready-made, hand-me-down foods.

Those Present.

The delegates who registered were:— M. Moyer, F. C. Higgins, Toronto; W. A. McIntyre, St. Marys; T. Nappy, Brockville; W. Smye, jr., Hamilton; J. Kirkpatrick, Hamilton; John O. Carpenter, Hamilton; John Bond, Toronto; J. H. Walker, Toronto; Elisha Winter, Boston; J. A. Beaudry, Montreal; Henry Watters, Ottawa; Arthur G. Johnson, Ottawa; A. L. Geen, Belleville; A. B. Griffin, Toronto; L. O. Pearson, St. Thomas; W. N. Thompson, Hamilton; Fred. Rollin, Stirling; W. R. Mather, Stirling; Fred. Brandon, Cannington.

FLOUR AND SUGAR IN HONG KONG.

The importations last year of flour, of 40 sacks to the ton of 2,000 pounds, were: California, 600,000 sacks, and Oregon, Washington, etc., 2,650,00 sacks, a total of 3,250,000 sacks. The erection of a flour mill in Hong Kong of 2,000 barrels per day capacity, with most modern equipment, was one of the industrial achievements of the year. Australian flour came to Hong Kong to some extent when the boycott was on, and, having learned the way, is ready for shipment whenever the price advances to a point enabling that country to compete.

During 1906, 483,119 tons of sugar were imported into Hong Kong, of which 75,936 tons came from the Philippine Islands and 314,673 tons from Java. This sugar was in the main refined in the three refining plants at this port. The refined sugar was sold in the north, though in competition with Java and Japan, with the effect of making the year a rather disappointing one.

FROM GROCER CORRESPONDENTS

CHATHAM.

Another grocery is in sight for North Chatham. The new edition to the ranks is R. I. Weaver, who contemplates opening a grocery in connection with his meat market, immediately on the completion of his new store. The new store is one of a fine brick block, which the Blonde Co. have had in hand for the past few months; and which, when completed, will be a handsome, up-to-date building. St. Clair St. is pretty well equipped with groceries as it is, there being already five in the one block, with a sixth only a stone's throw up street. However, Mr. Weaver possesses enterprise and youth, as well as some experience; and with a good stand, should do pretty well, despite competition.

H. G. Bishop, of Elmvale, is the new salesman in Smith & Climie's store at Thamesville. He is looking after the grocery order business.

Joseph Barassin, of Harry A. Andrew's staff, was able to be downstairs recently, and expects soon to resume his duties.

The London canning factory people are not going to build at Ridgetown this year. They say the delay is due to their inability to secure machinery. The people of the town, who came out so strongly in favor of the project, are afraid the enterprise is going to fall through.

Geo. Appleford, of Lethbridge, Alta., has arrived at Leamington with his wife and family. Mr. Appleford will enter the confectionery and restaurant business in partnership with his brother William, the new firm being known as Appleford Bros.

Wheatley people are in the throes of an interesting egg contest. Up till last week a bird from Goldsmith held the championship for the largest egg; but week before last Jos. Hodgson, of Windfall produced a ten which went it one better, the circumferences of the egg being 6½ inches and 7⅝ inches.

Robt. Keeley, the Park St. butcher, is advertising his business for sale. It is understood that Mr. Keeley is leaving for the west.

The Wallaceburg Sugar Company have succeeded in securing a large supply of raw sugar, and as a consequence, the factory recommenced operations this week. The refining experiment is reported a success.

The Bungalow, at Erieau, was opened for the season last week. It is in charge of E. J. Buzzard, the well-known Blenheim grocer. Mr. Buzzard has also purchased the store at Erieau, which he has enlarged and greatly improved. He carries a good stock of general merchandise, which will no doubt prove a great convenience to the cottagers and residents of the bar.

Lambton county council will shortly have to deal with a petition in regard to certain rural merchants who make a practice of sending a man with a wagon out through the farm districts to trade directly with the farmers. This method of doing business is hit pretty hard by a bylaw which was recently passed imposing a fee of $100. The merchants who operate the wagon routes appeared in force to present their grievances, and were armed with petitions signed by the farmers with whom they did business. One of them states that every farmer in the county council will support their oposition to the $100 fee. The merchants in the towns contend that the fee is a proper protection against the influx of Syrian and other pedlars.

The grocers are all looking cheerfully forward to the time when berries will make some movement. They are expected to come in pretty generally this week—in fact, the King Edward Grocery, which makes a specialty of early fruits and garden stuff, advertised the first home-grown strawberries on Monday. The berry crop helps the sale of a good many other things, particularly sugar; and is an all-round stimulus to business. Berries are very late this year, being between two and three weeks behind their usual season. The strawberry crop is reported excellent, though there will be not as many as in other years, the quality is said to be exceptionally good, the berries being very large. Raspberries are not so good this year in some places, but the general outlook is for a good business in berries.

Apropos of the discussion of grocers and local advertising, the local grocer man took occasion recently to glance through the advertising columns of the two city papers. The investgation revealed the fact that of all the Chatham grocers, only four were regular advertisers. Just what this signifies is a little difficult to say off hand. A great many grocers make weekly or semi-weekly calls on their habitual customers, and thus keep it in touch with their regular trade. Whether or not they disbelieve in printers' ink is hard to tell. Dealers in other lines do not, both papers enjoying a large advertising patronage. The grocery trade, however, are, as a rule, manifestly not advertisers.

Those who do advertise, however, keep everlastingly at it, in a thorough, scientific way. H. Malcolmson is probably one of the most skilful advertisers in the city, and his announcements, changed with the regularity of clockwork, are seasonable, attractive and convincing. Bradley & Sons change their ad daily—"To-day's New at Bradley's" being the catchword. John McConnell, the Park St. grocer, runs a regular column of bargains, for which the housewife has a fashion of looking. The King Edward Grocery does not use display space just now, but goes in for brief, catchy "readers."

There are some intermittent advertisers, particularly in the season just before Christmas. Nevertheless, the total space used by the retailers is less than that taken by the wholesalers and manufacturers of grocery lines.

V. J. Bosworth's new rig will shortly make its appearance on our streets. It is attractively finished in black and yellow, and is another evidence of the go-ahead William street man's prosperity and progressiveness.

Wm. Anderson, accompanied by Contractor McKenzie, was in Sarnia on Dominion day, attending the Caledonian games. The twa guid Scots were speedily recognized for what they were, and were called upon to officiate as judges of the Highland dancing, in which, by the way, another ex-Chathamite, McPherson, scored a good number of prizes. Mr. Anderson reports a fine time.

John McCorvie was in Leamington and Kingsville last week with a delegation of bowlers from the Maple City. His daughter, Miss Lily McCorvie, returned a few days ago from her studies at St. Margaret's College, Toronto, the winner of first-class honors in a long list of subjects.

The jewelers have set the example of a weekly half-holiday, taking the initiative in closing their stores Thursday afternoons during July and August. It looks, however, as if dealers in other lines had finally "passed up" the subject—at least for this season.

Geo. Zakoor, the fruit dealer, had the misfortune to run up against the market by-laws last week. He purchased some strawberries on the market shortly before 10 o'clock, and was fined $1 and costs, $2.50 in all. A short time ago another merchant met with a somewhat similar experience. The market by-law, which prohibits retailers from buying on the market before 10 o'clock, is not much favored by the merchants, and some time ago the R.M.A. lodged a protest with the city council in this regard. The council, however, failed to take any action.

E. Mains has disposed of his dairy business to N. A. McGeachy & Sons. The latter will continue the business, having now four rigs in commission.

Strawberries are in.

The strawberry season, two weeks or so overdue, is now fairly on. Everywhere the big, red berries are displayed for sale, the prices being at the time of writing as a rule 13c. per box, with 2 for 25c. Grocers report a great picking up in general business as a result of the strawberry season.

The berries this year are not so plentiful as usual; but they are large, firm and sound.

The Kent Canning Company recommenced operations on Tuesday, on strawberries brought in from the lake, and expect to run continuously for several weeks.

Tobacco Crop.

The Essex and Kent tobacco crop will, it is generally expected, be smaller this year than it has been for several seasons. The farmers are not growing tobacco, as they have been advised by the companies that the market is glutted and that it would not be advisable to produce any this year.

The land that was formerly used for tobacco has been planted pretty generally with tomatoes, and as a result there will be probably a reduction in the price of that vegetable.

In some parts of the west a small quantity of the weed will be produced; but it is expected to be of a higher grade than usually grown in Canada.

HAMILTON.

E. D. Smith, M.P., has kindly extended a cordial invitation to the delegates of the Hamilton convention their families and friends to visit his fruit farms and factories at Winona. This is a treat for all, and no doubt will be hugely enjoyed by all, as this spot is one of the sights of this, the garden of Canada. All who know E. D. Smith will tell you that anybody who has ever enjoyed his hospitality always retains very pleasant recollections of him and his better half, and are anxious for another trip.

The grocers' picnic and excursion to Niagara Falls on July 13th is booming up as the largest ever. Chairman James Main is the big punk, and what he doesn't know about running a big picnic is not worth while. The latest attraction is a big baby show, with many prizes and lots of entries. The question of judges having come up, it was decided that it would not be safe for a local men to act. Suggestions were made that Messrs. Armstrong and Seyler, of The Canadian Grocer, would be all right, or Col. John I. Davidson and Jno. Sloan. The babies are bound to have the best men the country can afford.

KINGSTON.

As I write the rain drops are falling fast. We have been looking for rain for weeks and the predictions of poor crops were discussed on the market by all interested. One farmer said horses would be sold for a song if timothy did not get a drink soon. The prospects for hay were indeed very bad, but the present rains will smooth matters and results will be changed.

The change in the weather condition means more change to jingle in the merchants' and farmers' pockets, and after all, the great healing liniment to cure financial cramps is cash—ready cash—cash on the spot. Yes, cash is king, and long may he reign.

Grant Pyke, owner of St. Lawrence fruit farm, Wolfe Island, reports a crop of the finest strawberries yet seen in Canada. He grades his fruit 1st, 2nd and 3rd, and uses colored cards—red, white and blue. His crates hold 72 boxes. The crates are all painted red. Grant Pyke is, in my mind, the king of strawberry growers, and his system is first-class.

The soldiers at the Barriefield camp were fortunate this year in escaping rain, which as a rule, makes it very uncomfortable for them, some never having slept out of doors before. Capt. Wawa had charge of the food distributing barn and was particular to see that everything was good, and 16 ounces to the pound. I think he wanted 17. Everything was O.K., however, and James Crawford, the grocer, put the profits he made on camp supplies in his vest pocket. After the camp broke up, potatoes, eggs and all farm produce dropped in price. It is wonderful what a big hole is made in stocks when a few thousand hungry men sit down three times a day for three weeks and fill up. Robt. Pollitt, storeman for Robertson, Nicolls & Co., went back to his old trade for a short time and superintended the making of bread for the soldiers, and he satisfied everyone. The bread was light, sweet and of good shape. The fires in the large arched stone ovens had a cheerful look about them. After the fires got low the pans of bread were put in and baked.

Of all the travelers that come and go no one receives a heartier welcome and hand-shake than Armstrong, of Warren Co., Toronto. I don't know whether he has studied mind-reading or not, but he seems to know just what you are low in. You know many grocers start off with I'm full up with your line; don't need anything this time. Most travelers look sad, say good-bye, grab their grips and get. Armstrong don't. If he thinks you are bilious he tells you he will be around in the morning and leaves a sample of Darjeeling for you to try for tea.

Rees Bros. expect to handle 40 cars bananas this summer. One car lately was almost a total loss—got heated. It was a hard blow, but Ed. don't stop to cry over spilt whisky. He goes on as if nothing happened. He is one of the fairest dealing men in the fruit business.

The picture of Frank D. Cockburn in the spring and export number of The Grocer was a good one. Frank is known and well-thought-of, from Kingston to the Orient. What a look of comfort he has in that picture. Yes, he is all right, like the soap he sells.

Can any one tell me if gas is a success in heating furnaces in winter, taking into consideration the work and nuisance of ashes, sifting, and dirt in handling coal. How nice it would be to turn on the gas instead of the present system. Some one who knows tell us all about it before next winter.

Say, brother grocer, going to take a few holidays in the woods where you forget all about tea and sugar, etc., or will you wait till you are run down like an eight-day clock and the doctor tells you to strike out for a health resort and watch yourself and to make your will before you go and leave your cash register to some one in case you fail to come back? Better take the holidays, I guess. It's cheaper in the end and it's a bargain.

LONDON.

The peanut and fruit vendors are not going to passively submit to being sidetracked, as proposed by the Retail Grocers' Association. To evade the new area prescribed by the city council, two of the push-cart men have taken out peddlar's licenses, their object being to sell and deliver their wares with horse and wagon on any city street, regardless of the grocers' petition, which specially referred to push-carts. One of the men said he was going to sell popcorn from a wagon, and the other expressed his intention of selling peanuts as well. It is, therefore, likely, if this plan is found to work satisfactorily, that all or most of the peanut vendors will apply for peddlars' licenses when their push-cart privileges expire. The license fee would thus be doubled, being $30, instead of $15, the amount being paid by them in the past. The men who have already paid their peddlar's license fee declare that in time they will carry quite a variety of fruits and other delicacies, as their licenses permit them to sell almost anything, and with a horse they will be able to thoroughly cover the city. The enterprising street vendors, who certainly seem to be a resourceful lot, say they are determined not to be hampered by the grocers, for whom they have developed a hearty dislike. The chaizman of the license committee of the city council, however, has gone thoroughly over the by-laws and declares that the men who have taken out peddlar's licenses have played a joke on themselves. The by-law says that peanuts, etc., shall not be sold from any basket, pushcart, wagon or other vehicle within the prescribed area, which includes all the business streets of London. The men who have the licenses for horses and wagons may now sell on streets not within the area, but nowhere else in this city. It is a pretty little game that is being played, with the odds strongly against the street vendors.

Brokers report business fair, with not much change in prices. New currants are offering, but no sales. Buyers are looking for lower prices. Advices from patrons received to-day report heavy rains, but no damage to vines, and the crop prospects are to all appearances good, every indication pointing to a large yield. Denia onions are also offering, prices being higher this season than they were last. Teas keep about the same; sugars steady and market stiff. The market for canned goods is stagnant, and the indications are that canners will have a lot left over. A local broker was offered one thousand cans a few days ago by an independent canner at 25 cents per case less than the combine price. Shelled peas are now coming into the local market, which emphasizes the impression that canners will be unable to sell all the "put up" vegetables they have in stock. Travelers report business fair during the past week.

Now we are told that signs point to a light strawberry crop, a disappointing change appearing within the last few weeks. "The bees failed to carry the pollen," says one grower. The weather early in the year was cold and this condition continued so far into the spring that the bees were prevented from appearing out of doors to do their work. Another report is that frost was the cause, the plants having been seriously damaged through the winter. Meantime the berries are coming into market and are retailing at from fifteen to eighteen cents per box.

T. A. Rowat & Co., the Dundas Street grocers, are opening up a branch store in South London, on the northeast corner of Wortley Road and Craig St. The new store will be up-to-date in every respect and in keeping with the down town establishment which is one of the most complete and attractive in London.

The committee of the Grocers' Association is in Toronto to-day making arrangements for the forthcoming excursion to that city, the date of which will be announced on the return of the committee.

Gorman, Eckert & Co. have commenced moving into their new premises in the east end. Moving operations will be conducted by slow degrees, so as to interfere as little as possible with business, and it will take probably a month before they are regularly settled in their new home. The big canning factory in connection with the new establishment is nearly completed and the machinery is now being placed in position. As soon as Gorman, Eckert & Co. move out of their old premises, Laird, Kerrigan & Co., who have purchased the place, will move in.

PETERBOROUGH.

The first half-holiday this summer was enjoyed by the clerks Thursday afternoon. Most of the stores in the city have decided to close on their own responsibility. There has been no petition and no understanding among the merchants. For the past two years the clerks always petitioned their employers for a half-holiday, and they got it. The merchants found that the scheme worked very satisfactorily and this year granted the half-holiday without any petition. The grocery stores, however, for the most part, remained open, although only a portion of the staff were working. The other half was on a holiday. On Thursday the clerks who were free put in the afternon in various ways. Some went on the steamer Otonabee to Idyll Wyld, while others went down the river in small boats, and others went driving or loafed in the park. They all thoroughly enjoyed themselves and returned to work feeling much better.

The tourist season on the Kawartha Lakes is now in full swing. On the holiday many families moved from this and other cities to the cottages on the rocky islands of the lakes, where the cool breezes and the sweet aroma of pine and cedar trees fills one with nerve, vigor and energy. The population of the Kawartha Lakes district during July and August is close on to three thoussand souls, although during the season about ten thousand people spend a week or more up there. To feed all these people is a great problem, and one would be surprised at the quantity of stuff that is consumed. To those who have never been at a healthy summer resort it would seem that fish would form a greater part of the daily menu card. At Kawarthadom the fishing is splendid, and large numbers of bass and lunge are daily taken from the waters. But fish, at this resort, is only a side line. On the table every day will be found two or three kinds of meat, spring lamb being a favorite, and all kinds of garden vegetables, fresh fruits and delicacies of all kinds.

At Stoney Lake, the most thickly populated section of the great chain, there are four or five good sized stores, including one at McCracken's, Viameda, Crow's Landing and Juniper Island, besides the stores at Young's Point, Lakefield and Burleigh Falls. These stands all have two or more persons engaged, and they are kept hustling. In addition, there are two supply boats which call at every island daily, with both groceries and fresh meat, butter, eggs, poultry, milk and garden vegetables. The wholesale grocers in the city get a very large share of the trade, and every day the steamers leaving Stoney Lake have a small cargo. Practically all of the fresh fruits are shipped from here, and the wholesale men say they would not lose that end of their trade for a god deal. It means thousands of dollars to them.

During the past few years the tourist business has shifted considerably. It was not long ago that the retail grocers of Peterboro did a big business up the lakes. The cottagers passing through, and those who lived here, usually took a heavy stock of staple groceries up with them. But now the stores on the lakes carry nearly everything, and especially the seasonable goods, and they keep the prices very reasonable, so that the city stores cannot compete with them.

Since the appearance in The Grocer of the letter on "Retail Grocers not Advertising" there has been a lot of discussion among the grocers here. Several merchants were seen by your correspondent, and he found that there were no two opinions exactly the same. One man, who has not been in business very long, was very strongly opposed to the article. He argued that grocers did not need to advertise and that they could not afford to anyway. He also expressed himself very strongly in reference to the statements that the grocers were being driven from the centre of the city and that the stores in the residential districts were doing the bulk of the trade. He thought the downtown men should take exception to that, and wanted some one to write to The Grocer about it. As a matter of fact, during the past year at least four grocery stores have gone out of business on George street, while only one has been started. In the residential section five or six new stores have been opened or the premises of old ones have been greatly enlarged and none have gone out of business. Another grocer, on George street, who has been in business for many years, agreed with the letter referred to, and frankly admitted that there was much truth in it. He has for a long time been trying to get his partner to consent to an advertising campaign, and hopes to soon get his way. He believes that there is money to be made out of it, and he has a good plan already formed. If he starts the ball rolling others will soon see where the profits come in and they will follow suit. The chief point about advertising is to first get the goods, then tell the people about it in a convincing way, but, above all things, tell the plain truth.

WOODSTOCK.

Angus Rose, a well-known local egg dealer, who annually handles hundreds of thousands of dozens, gives as his opinion that the price of eggs is almost sure to advance, in the near future. The market is not very encouraging, he says. Local prices are so high that the English market is closed to Canadian shippers, the storage houses are filled, and the gather is not yet half in. But the surest indication, he says, of a bad market is the refusal of the Montreal and Toronto houses to buy seconds. The result, he thinks, will inevitably be a tumble in the prices. "For the past few years, the British shipments have been gradually growing less," he said. "This year, so far as I have learned, not a single contract with a British firm has been received. A letter from a Scotch house curtly states that the price is too high, and that Danish eggs could be secured much cheaper. As soon as the Canadian price became anywhere near reasonable, then it is said, an offer might be considered. In consequence, Canadian eggs are being stored, but the storehouses are full now."

Mr. Rose said the buying on the local market was made more interesting by the fact of the keen and unprecedented competition of Toronto firms, which are continually buying on the local market, in large quantities, and holding the price up. A drop of a cent a dozen was recently made, however, and further drops may take place at any time. Winnipeg dealers have been threatening to ship in United States eggs, claiming that they could do this, and then undersell Canadian eggs. Little danger, though, is feared from this source, owing to the inferior quality of the eggs and the method of packing. The whole situation, however, he said, was such that concerted action should be taken by all the egg men, to relieve the congestion that now exists, and threatens to become more serious as the gathering proceeds.

A week from to-morrow, Woodstock merchants will observe the first of the weekly half-holidays they have decided to observe during the months of July and August. The holiday was not held this week, because all Monday, (Dominion day) the stores were closed. All branches have agreed to observe the holiday, though some held out for a considerable time, but gradually they succumbed to the clear reasoning and unbreakable logic of the promoters of the scheme, and affixed their names to the petitions. It is probable that programs and excursions will be arranged for some of the afternoons.

The shipping of cheese, which has not been properly cured, is considered by one cheese buyer, with whom your correspondent was talking the other day, to be one of the great dangers facing the dairy industry in Canada. Some boards in eastern Ontario have passed resolutions binding its members not to ship any cheese until it has been on the shelf curing at least two weeks, and he thought this plan should be adopted by the Woodstock cheese board. He also spoke of the necessity of iced cars for the transportation of the cheese. During this spring, western Ontario has

ORGANIZATION.

Why is it that of the thousands of grocers in the Province of Ontario less than a score assembled at the convention in Hamilton on Tuesday of the Grocers' Section of the Retail Merchants' Association? Probably eighty per cent. of the members of the Association are grocers. Evidently the grocers of Ontario are not seized of the importance of organization. Also, we believe the lack of interest in this convention to a considerable degree justifies the contention of The Canadian Grocer that the grocers should have a separate organization of their own.

The Retail Merchants' Association has done some splendid work along legislative lines, and in the wings of that success lurks its weakness. The association leans too strongly to legislation. Securing, watching, and opposing legislation is a very important feature of organized trade effort, but not the most important. There is greater gain than legislation to be obtained by trade organization. It is the betterment of trade conditions from the inside, the broadening influences of personal association, the elimination of petty local jealousies, the raising of the standard of trade ethics, the betterment of the conditions of labor by shorter hours, better methods, and the development of the spirit of brotherliness and co-operation to displace competitive meanness and suspicion. These are the greater objects of organization.

It seems to us only reasonable that the grocer should be more interested in his own trade, in the men of his own craft; that an association of grocers would appeal more strongly to the grocers as a body than does an association of all classes of retailers. The first object to be attained is organization. We are not wedded to any plan or system, but if we can secure organization we can get results without a doubt.

THE PRICE OF SALMON.

Speculation is rife among the Fraser river fishermen as to the price which will be paid by the British Columbia canners this season for sockeye salmon. Optimists by nature, the feeling among the majority is that the canners can well afford to duplicate last season's prices, which ran all the way from 24 to 40 cents a fish. The canners, however, while not committing themselves to a definite statement, have assured the fishermen that their expectations are ridiculous, and in support of this statement Mr. Anderson, manager of the St. Mungo cannery, points to the fact that a case of salmon in England is worth $1 to $1.50 less this year than in October of last season, when the market was to some extent flooded.

The question will come up for discussion at the next meeting of the canners, but it is unlikely that their decision will immediately be made public, since it is to their interest that as large a catch as possible should be made, and a number of men in various walks of life have signified their intentions of turning fishermen this year simply in order to be able to participate in the high prices which are again expected to obtain. The advertising by the canners of a reduced price from last season would have the effect of diminishing the number of fishermen, and, as a consequence, the catch of fish.

HELPED CANADIAN CHEESE.

Cheese has been a rather interesting commodity for the Old Country retailer this season. The company stores began cutting prices. The retail price dropped from 15c. to 12c., and about the middle of May, when the wholesale price was 68s. a cwt., the article was retailing at the equivalent of 60s. This was old cheese, of course, and it is now selling wholesale at 68s. to 70s.

P. B. MacNamara wrote to the Department of Trade and Commerce on May 15 about it, and his letter appears in the Weekly Report of June 17, when much of the interest has oozed out of it. He says :—

"Canadian cheese has had a splendid advertisement given to it by the low price at which it is being retailed all over England. It had been conjectured that the stocks of old cheese were more than the trade could assimilate before the arrival of new, and the principal retailers broke up their combination which everybody knows is established between them to maintain the price of cheese, butter, etc., several of the larger members working for their own hand. * * * * The only two factors that should influence the price are, supply and demand, speculation induces an artificial element which bodes no good to the honest trader. Cheese from Canada must be shipped in a riper condition this season, as the prevailing fault has been its greenness all through the past season."

END OF SUGAR CONVENTION.

The British Government has announced its intention to withdraw from the Brussels Sugar Convention, which was an undertaking on the part of the contracting powers to penalize imported sugar that was bounty fed in the country of production. The convention was signed February 1st, 1903, and took effect September 1st that year. It was to continue in force five years, and one year longer unless one of the contracting powers gave notice of withdrawal twelve months before the five years expired. The only large beet-producing country not in the arrangement is Russia. Great Britain, as the principal consuming market is essential to the compact. The reason for the withdrawal has not been given, but it is supposed the large British jam makers and confectioners are behind it. In the West Indies it is asserted that the convention is the cause of the revival of the sugar industry there, as the beet bounties were the reason for its decline. The West Indies are now the principal source of eastern Canada's supplies of raws, and the trade here will watch with interest the effect of the suspension of the convention in 1908.

CLOSE SEASON FOR OYSTERS.

Prince Edward Island, the home of the oyster industry, would be in danger of forfeiting that title were there any other competitor on the horizon.

Owing to the Government having extended the close season one month at each end, it is estimated that the quantity of oysters shipped from the island this season will be merely nominal. Under the new regulations oysters may not be taken before April 1st, and the prevalence of ice this year previous to that date was such as to prevent oyster fishing. After October 1st, the new opening date, the weather is usually too stormy to permit of extensive operations being carried on.

The extension of the close season should have the desired effect of putting the oyster beds on a stronger footing. The five months during which fishing is now permitted might almost as well have been included for this season at any rate among the other seven for all the difference it will make in the depletion of the growth. Notwithstanding the apparent severity of this measure upon the fishermen, the Government is to be congratulated upon having at last adopted the only means of preventing what would, at the present rate of consumption, eventually have resulted in the extinction of the fishing industry, second in importance in the Island Province. Lobsters have a long lead, the value in the latest statistics issued being for the year over $500,000, while oysters come second at $88,000.

ENCLOSURES IN LETTERS.

When writing letters or sending out circular letters, retailers should not forget that a two-cent stamp will carry one ounce through the mails. A neatly-arranged little booklet or folder, snappily written and, whenever possible, snappily illustrated, should invariably be enclosed in all business correspondence. The better looking the booklet, the more readers it has.

It must not be forgotten that money spent in this way is an investment sure of results, if it is properly conducted. You don't buy your general stock in a hap-hazard way—you consider well before placing an order for goods—and the same amount of business discretion should be used in buying advertising.

Booklet advertising is only useful among a certain tasteful class of people, who like to be approached in an artistic manner. The bargain sale dodger rarely appeals to this class. What they like to read in the shape of advertising literature is something which pleases their artistic sensibility. Goods dealt in by the hardwareman lend themselves readily to practical circulars to housewives. This should be continually taken advantage of and should form a part of his business plans for every month.

See your local printer and get his advice and aid in getting up some circulars in connection with your newspaper advertising.

CANADIAN MANUFACTURES.

The growth of manufacturing industry in Canada in the last five years is as remarkable as the growth in trade. The total is now $712,665,000, an increase of $231,611,000 over the total of 1901, or nearly fifty per cent. In the ten years from 1891 to 1901 the increase was thirty per cent. The increase in the former period was eleven millions a year; the increase in the latter period was nearly forty-eight millions a year.

Another noteworthy fact is that the increase is general all over Canada. British Columbia and Manitoba have more than doubled their product in the five years. Ontario leads with about half the total product, and Quebec comes next with nearly a third. Montreal is still the leading manufacturing city, with nearly a hundred millions. Toronto is a good second with $84,689,000, and is advancing relatively faster than its big rival. Many other Ontario cities and towns make a good showing. Hamilton is the third manufacturing town in the Dominion; London is fifth, and Peterboro sixth, and in many other places the product runs into millions. The general distribution of manufacturing over Ontario is shown by the fact that even with Toronto and Hamilton omitted the province would remain in the first place. But almost every part of the Dominion seems to be adapted for manufacturing, and especially may we expect a great development of industry in British Columbia.

The increase in manufacturing industry has been accompanied by a very great increase in imports under a moderate tariff. The country has been enjoying remarkable prosperity, and the people have been buying freely both imported and domestic products. While this condition exists, radical changes in the tariff are not to be expected.

ENCOURAGE TOURIST TRAVEL.

Estimating that one hundred thousand tourists visited Canada last year—and this is a conservative estimate, as more than half that number visited the Muskoka district alone—it is evident that our country offers great possibilities for development in this direction.

It can safely be assumed that each visitor spent at least $50, while some spent ten times that amount. Consider what this means, not only to the railway and boat transportation companies, but to the hardwaremen who supplied the rifles, fishing tackle, sporting goods, cutlery, builders' hardware, etc.; to the grocers who supplied the hotels and boarding houses with foodstuffs; to the dry goods and clothing merchants, who supplied the wearing apparel; to the booksellers, who supplied the magazines and other reading matter, and to other classes in the community, every one of which benefited by the exchange of money and increase in trade.

The example of the Tourist Associations of Vancouver, Victoria, St. John and other places, and the western Boards of Trade, which have encouraged tourist travel, can to advantage be followed in every section of Canada.

Merchants throughout the country should take energetic steps to support the railways in developing this tourist business. Few towns have not some summer attractions which they could make known to the public. Wherever a share of this transient business has not been had in the past, the retail merchants of the towns should get together and devise means of attracting it. The benefit to be derived from it is both direct and indirect. In the first place tourists are liberal in their purchases and they pay ready cash. They come, too, at a time when ordinary business is rather dull, so that trade from an outside source is all the more desirable. Indirectly merchants reap a great harvest from the fact that this large amount of money is left in the country. Somebody is getting it and every merchant will benefit eventually.

Much credit is due to the Grand Trunk, the Intercolonial and the Canadian Pacific railways for their success in interesting Americans in the beauty spots of Canada. They have brought much money into the country and have aided materially in its development. Organization among merchants in seconding these endeavors should be undertaken at once so that the coming summer will exceed all previous ones in the number of visitors.

BUILDING UP A CITY.

A great deal has been printed of late about enterprising cities whose merchants have raised funds for advertising to promote the growth of population and industries, but comparatively little has been said as to results. This is because the co-operative municipal advertising plan is a comparatively recent development, and in many cases has not had time for a fair trial. An interesting report, however, comes from Dallas, Texas. In seventeen months advertising has located in that city fifteen new industrial enterprises; the bank deposits have increased from eighteen to twenty-two millions, and postoffice receipts twenty-three per cent. The Dallas experiment is a marked success, and the publicity bureau is to be made a permanent institution. There is no constructive undertaking too difficult for intelligently directed advertising.

CO-OPERATION

Text of an address delivered Wednesday morning before the Retail Merchants' Convention at Hamilton by John C. Green, Secretary National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States.

Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention;

I assure you it affords me the greatest pleasure to be permitted to appear here to-day and talk to you on the necessity of organization.

As I look into your faces and know with what expectancy you have anticipated this meeting, the question comes to me as to how best can I present to you the good things that will come out of organization and to make you see them as I know them myself from my years of practical experience. That there is a great change taking place in the business world to-day we all realize. That new methods are being thought out, new conditions springing into existence, large corporations being organized for self protection, and great trusts being formed to control every situation in the world.

The retail interests have been slow to awaken to conditions as they exist. We are confronted by new conditions and problems which must be met and solved. Many of them of such magnitude as the individual cannot cope with, and can be brought to a successful issue through associated effort only.

Loyalty the Basis.

Here lies the strength and benefit of the association, but the measure of our strength and the benefit and the success of it depends entirely on the loyalty of our members.

Co-operation, gentlemen, is the keynote to-day in business of every kind. Men in all branches form themselves into bodies for the purpose of mutual protection, and where this is done, the purpose is laudable and successful.

We should not relax in our efforts to confine distribution of goods of all kinds to the retail trade, and not have it diverted into other channels to be made leaders of.

I would recommend that more determined efforts be made, that we may be more largely represented in legislative affairs by men of commercial training, and I would urge, that more persistent efforts be made towards the organization of local associations in the cities and towns.

The perfection of the idea that we are in business for a living and not to kill off our competitors, fills us with a spirit of friendship and good will towards our competitors, join hands and help one another, instead of destroying.

Should Work Together.

Those of us who have studied, and are familiar with the situation as it exists, believe that the future welfare of the retailers everywhere demand that they be thoroughly organized. That the retailers should work in conjunction with the jobbers and manufacturers. That there should be a feeling of friendliness and co-operation between these two larger interests.

Without our organization we are powerless. No matter what the influence of the individual may be, that influence is shorn of its strength when not co-operating with each other, but through our organization and our united forces we expect to be able to accomplish almost anything undertaken for the benefit of the retailer.

Every man wants to, and does, exert influence, but the concerted action of a well organized body of men, will, if wisely directed, make for the best order of influence, and attain the maximum of power.

Dominant Idea for a Decade.

Organization, in the sphere of business, has been the dominant idea for the last decade. By and through it wonderful accomplishments have been made. Many of the so-called trusts have reached the zenith of their strength and prosperity within this period, and while it is a debatable question as to whether or not some of them are against the public welfare, yet they nevertheless offer an indisputable evidence of the effect of concentrated effort and purpose.

In electing men to represent us in legislative affairs we should be satisfied that they are friendly to our interests. It is much easier to get a promise of support to any measure that is of interest to you when a candidate is seeking your support than at any other time.

We have been negligent. We have allowed men to pass laws detrimental to our interests, while we have been careless and apathetic.

All Felt Competition.

We have, no doubt, all of us felt the effects of unjust and unnecessary competition, and yet competition, to a certain extent, is the life of trade. Without it we are apt to grow selfish and arbitrary. It is a spur to urge us on to energetic application to business, and without it, I fear some of us would languish and die. Let me say right here that nine times out of ten you are your worst competitor.

Human nature is not perfect, neither are all merchants absolutely truthful, but it is a known fact that the merchant whose business methods are far from the ideal becomes a better and more reliable merchant when he has joined the association. So that through the association we expect to better our conditions along these lines.

It is possible for us by working upon broader principles and along generous and helpful lines to break down prejudice and build up friendship, without abating one whit our efforts to secure business and made profit.

At Consumers' Dictation.

For years the retailer has had practically nothing to say in regard to how he should conduct his affairs. The consumer dictating entirely his methods, never considering the cost.

Things are gradually being changed, so that now the merchant, through his organization, has begun to realize that he and not the consumer should manage his affairs. New methods are being installed, certain hours for delivery, certain days for collecting, and numerous other improvements have been brought about, all through the co-operation and exchanging of ideas of the merchants of the different associations.

It is but a short time since it was almost considered a crime to ask a man to pay his account, and more so to inquire into his credit.

We have almost outlived this condition, but unfortunately there is enough left to make it uncomfortable.

Extending Credits.

The benefits of extending credits are limited. The retail merchant, wishing to help along his honest customer, is often led into extending an unlimited amount of credit.

The very fact that he is doing this makes him more lenient with the man who is not so worthy.

The conclusion reached is that the retailer would be a great deal more assistance to the honest man if he would limit his credit.

The free granting of credit makes the consumer careless in his payments. It many times turns out to be a curse, rather than a benefit, to the person who has been thus favored by the merchant.

In the rush to increase sales how easily we forget the practical lessons that are daily brought to our notice.

Every retailer who has had an extended experience has been told by hard-up debtors that it would have been better for them both—in reputation and pocket-book—if the merchant had not been so lenient and had insisted upon prompt payment of the obligation when due.

Thus the intended assistance turns out to be a blight and the merchant receives the blame for the condition. How true!

Organization Power for Good.

We must realize that one merchant can do little towards reforming existing evils, but a united organization can accomplish much.

Our association if used rightly and as it is intended, is a power for good that cannot be over-estimated. We do not seek to cripple an unfortunate, but we do seek to protect our members from the ever present "dead beat." We do not wish to throttle legitimate competition, but we do wage merciless war against unmercantile methods engaged in for the purpose of attracting trade.

We do not ask the jobber to cease extending credit, but we do ask him to see that the credit extended is not used to cut prices and demoralize trade.

Wholesalers and Retailers.

I have always advocated the closest co-operation between wholesalers and retailers. By so doing, we strengthen our position, and working in co-operation, can accomplish much for the benefit of both.

It may mean a willingness on the part of both to give up a little of what he is pleased to call his rights. It may mean that each must recognize the existence of the other and a willingness on the part of both in buying and selling to remain in his own sphere of action.

We ourselves must do our part in this co-operation to the extent that they may feel that this co-operation is justifiable and of benefit to both.

Let us strangle the old quotation that "Competition is the life of trade," and let us place in its stead that musically sounding word, "Co-operation."

Every retail dealer in the city should co-operate with his neighbor. Every wholesale dealer should see it to his advantage to co-operate with the retail interest.

How much can be done jointly by the wholesaler and retailer to combat the evils that confront us, we little realize, but I am sure that a co-operation of these interests will form a protection and benefit to all concerned.

Public Opinion.

How often we are influenced by what other people think!

"What will other people think?" This, the most cowardly phrase in use in society, is a question which everyone is asking himself.

So great a factor has Public Opinion become, that it has set itself up as an idol, the modern juggernaut, at the feet of which kneel pride and ambition, in cringing attitudes. It is not the strong man who is affected by public opinion. It is the weak man, the man whose every act is prompted by what other people will think. He has no mind of his own. His whole life is moulded by what somebody else will think. When he speaks one knows that some influence is behind his words. He is like clay in the hands of the sculptor.

It has been said, that the ogre, Public Opinion, slays more originality and individuality than all the barbarous superstitious codes together.

We look at life through a borrowed mirror, in which we see, not our own image, but that of Public Opinion, an image of shameful hypocricy, which permeates our whole being, the very atmosphere in which we live, walk and move. Why should we be entrapped and ensnared by this false glitter of his image when, from another mirror, clear as crystal, shines another image, which, perhaps, not so splendid, is the only true image, our own opinion of ourselves.

Mind One's Own Business.

If we should pay more strict attention to our own business affairs, think less of what other merchants may be doing, use our own individuality instead of copying after someone else, many of us would be more successful men than would indicate at the present time.

Individuality, in fact, is the root of success.

The cultivation of individuality will bring out the very best that is in us, and many prosperous men would never have attained the position they have done had they not cultivated individuality. It is not conducive to the best results to follow in other's footsteps and copy other persons' methods.

The greatest monument that any man can rear for himself, or leave to mark the place that he has filled in the world, is that in his time, in the age and generation in which he lived, he made the most of his opportunities. That, considering his environment, as he was given to see the right, he did the best he could. So let it be with us.

We seek the co-operation of the manufacturer and jobber. We seek their moral influence, believing that by co-operation of all interests we shall be able to bring about conditions in the trade that will be a benefit to all concerned.

But, while we seek this co-operation from a moral standpoint, let us from a financial standpoint be independent of all other influences.

I do not advise an independence of antagonism, but an independence of co-operation, where each—manufacturer, jobber and retailer—in his own sphere, can work out the different problems and solve them to the advantage of all.

The independence we seek is that kind of independence which creates and fosters idealism, out of which springs friendship, manliness, charity, and of which the whole business fraternity is cemented into one great brotherhood.

The Watchword.

Co-operation should be our watchword, and as one of our exchanges would say:

"Organization is the vehicle of co-operation. It may be either the slow, lumbering waggon, drawn by a jaded yoke of oxen, or it may be the forty horse power automobile, moving with the swift flight of the strong pinions of the eagle. It is up to you to choose which it shall be. If you go into it with zeal and determination to make your work succeed, you will be traveling in the automobile."

The spirit of co-operation is a difficult thing to define. It is that indefinable something that encourages men to achieve higher ideals and higher planes of conducting their business. It leads them on to the earning of more dollars through the medium of their business. It makes friends of enemies. It lightens the trials and tribulations of business life.

The co-operation of its members through the association is bringing men and interests in harmonious unison as they have never been brought before. It is raising the activities of mankind to a loftier and more successful plane than has ever been known, and is destined to accomplish wonderful results.

Fraternal Units.

Through our association men are brought together in fraternal units, thus spreading that "Peace on earth, good will to men" which, by ruinous competition that goaded on man against his fellow man, in incessant economical strides, made the observance of that noble precept well night impossible.

Then let us realize that we are dependent one on the other, and put forth every effort to bring into each mind the spirit of co-operation, each giving to each that sympathy that will cement us into one great brotherhood.

Let us concentrate our energies, fight for that which we think is right, and victory will crown our efforts.

Great Humanizing Movement.

It is a satisfaction to know that through our organization we are doing our part in the great humanizing movement of the world, that movement which proclaims the universal brotherhood of man, and because of which the world grows better and the individual man feels sympathy for his fellow man and wishes to exercise it.

God has not endowed us all with the same quick-acting, far-seeing brain, and if it is your fortune to be better blessed than some other one, let it be your pleasure as well as your duty to bring him into fellowship, realizing that you can better protect your own business by taking care of his.

I glory in the power, the influence and the strength of our organization, but with that power, influence and strength comes a great responsibility.

If three or four earnest workers in an organization can accomplish so much, how much more can we accomplish as a united organization. In organization we are strong, and in our strength we can demand and receive respectful attention.

May its strength be used to promote its welfare.

May its influence be felt everywhere, and its object be attained by creating a brotherly friendship.

Then we shall have no premium giving.

Petty jealousies will be a thing unknown.

The trading stamp will be relegated to Hades.

And so it shall be with all that is detrimental and opposite to good, clean, business methods.

May the Great Ruler of the universe give us wisdom in our deliberations.

Let our minds be filled with the spirit of organization.

Let us believe that everyone working in his own independent way is doing so with an honest purpose.

Let us arise above the petty annoyonces that place themselves in our pathway.

Let us sacrifice everything for the success of our organization.

Let us be filled with the spirit of charity.

Let us be true to ourselves.

Let us, above all things, be true to our organization.

Let me throw across this platform a banner with these words, so that they may guide you in all your deliberations: "Organization, Association, Friendship, Oneness of Purpose." The retailers' organization for the retailer, dominated by him and sustained by him. Then shall we be triumphant in all we undertake.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS:

Canned Lobsters—Very firm.
Prunes—Stocks very low.
Tapioca—Advanced.
Salmon—Very firm.

Montreal, July 2, 1907.

The state of business is very satisfactory, taking into consideration the season. There is a good demand for fruits of all kinds, also quite a feeling for canned goods. The demand for canned salmon is active, in anticipation of higher figures on the new pack. On peas the demand is improving. Molasses is still selling steadily at firm prices. Hams, bacon and sugar are rather quiet. A reduction of one-quarter cent on pure lard was made. Camphor has been reduced from $2 to $1.80. American fat-back pork has been reduced in price to $21.25 and $24. Tapioca advanced one-half cent, bringing same now to 9 and 10c.

SUGAR — The demand at present is fair. The raw sugar market, while rather strong last week, shows slight reactions at present. Nominal prices prevail.

DRIED FRUITS — Latest mail reports, in valencia raisins, from Mahiques, Domenech & Co., Denia, Spain, announce the continuance of favorable weather in the raisin district, and, as the crop has now successfully gone through the critical fruiting period, it is estimated the outlook for the coming season will equal, if not surpass, that of 1905, when the total quantity reached was 27,500 tons, as against an average of 23,500 tons.

No doubt is entertained as to prices opening at very reasonable figures, but the market is not likely to rule as low as in 1905, one factor alone being the low rates of exchange now ruling as between Spanish and sterling currency.

The prune market continues strong. Since the opening there has been an advance of fully 2c. per lb. Sales have been made of Santa Clara prunes, 5¼ bag basis, f.o.b. coast. There is a very good demand for goods in stock, but goods to arrive are not nearly so brisk, although market favors buyers. Prices with the exception of prunes, remain nominal.

CANNED GOODS

TORONTO.—Consumption in all lines is heavy, and the general impression is that the carry-over this year will be very small, if any. Peas and corn are still on the market in fair quantities, and a little pumpkin is also left. Evaporated apples and gallon apples are slightly easier. Sngapore pines are in strong demand on the spot, with very low stocks and prices advancing. Sales for fall delivery have been made on a favorable basis, but yesterday's cables from Singapore declined further business under an advance of 6c per doz. French sardines have hardly any existence on the market, owing to last year's short pack. Good quality Portuguese are also scarce. The lower grades are in a strong position. The shortage in the pack of English sardines over actual orders in hand amounts to 50,000 cases, and there are no available stocks. Sales have been made for December and January, subject to price at an advance of 1½ cents over last year.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Sugar—Stiffening.
Currants—Very strong.
Canned Goods—Heavy demand.
Potatoes—Dropped again.
Strawberries—Canadians in good supply.

Toronto, July 4, 1907.

The grocery trade maintains the quiet level of last week. The improved deliveries of berries at a more reasonable price has had some effect on the sugar situation, but retailers are still hanging back, and are apparently determined not to come in until their own stocks are practically cleaned up.

An advance of 1½ cents per lb. has taken place within the last three weeks on medium grades of Japan teas. Orders placed in Japan with prices similar to the basis of last year, cannot be filled. Consequently, most Canadian importers, who are not in the habit of giving carte blanche to their correspondents abroad, will have to take poorer teas and pay more money.

The currant situation is becoming more interesting every week. A Montreal firm recently received a communication from their Patras correspondent stating that currant prices have advanced to a point level with the highest fixed rates of the Retention Co., owing to the total exhaustion of stocks on the open market. As a direct consequence of this all shippers are obliged to buy prompt goods from the above-mentioned company. They also state that large transactions have been closed lately for the continental and American markets. This year's crop of currants is expected to exceed that of last year by about 5 per cent.

TEA.—Ceylon green tea is on a basis of 2c per lb. higher than last year, but for both leaf and liquor still shows better value than Japans in the judgment of people who are not prejudiced in favor of the Ceylon product. In black teas, fine-flavored Ceylons are very scarce. The production of the gardens for the last few months has been of much inferior quality to that produced in the earlier months of the year. Prices for stand-out lots are therefore on a high basis. There seems little prospect of lower prices from present high basis for common grades. June, the month of the greatest production in Ceylon, has passed without any very great depreciation in price, and as the quantity produced from month to month will be smaller for some time with the improved quality, there can be no relief of any importance in the price of common tea until it is seen what the production of Indian during the months of August to October will effect. One of the chief factors in the present condition of tea is the increased consumption.

COFFEE.—Coffee, so far as the Brazil product is concerned, is on a low basis, and with the usual market fluctuations, is likely to remain so, the most optimistic admitting that no important advance can take place unless something unforeseen should affect the prospects of the new crop.

SUGAR.—The market shows some improvement over last week. There is increased business passing, but though prices are stiffening in other markets, they have not advanced here yet.

The Journal of Commerce, commenting upon the situation on Tuesday, said: "The sugar market was steady, and the tendency was toward a higher range of values, partly by reason of the attitude of holders, who appeared willing to keep their stocks, believing in a steady improvement. A sale of 7,500 bags Cuba centrifugals was made at 2 15-32c. c. and

f. last half July shipment, basis 95 degrees, and another of 6,500 bags molasses sugar, Cubas, at 1 13-16c., basis 87 degrees, in the same position. The offers of Saturday were repeated, and they were at 2½ and 2 9-16c. c. and f., basis 95 degrees, for Cuba centrifugals, last half of July shipment, but buyers hesitated. The lots were of small proportions, however. The London beet market was quiet. It closed at 9s. 7d. July, equal to about 4c. duty paid basis 96 degrees for Cuba centrifugals. Withdrawals in the refined market were good, and brokers received several discretionary orders, as an early advance to 5c. is expected, probably after the holiday. Refiners quote 4.90c. less 1 per cent. cash for granulated."

DRIED FRUITS—The market for prompt shipment of currants from Greece is very strong, and comparatively little fruit is available for export. Under present conditions, sales have been made to a greater or less extent in all the consuming countries for new crop for September and October shipments at quite half a cent per pound below the price for prompt shipment. Cables from Patras to-day advise market for new crop also strong, with a higher tendency, and only offers of limited quantities, good for 24 hours, are being made.

The crop of Valencia raisins, though somewhat late and subject to bad weather during the spring, promises well and an average crop is expected. Last year's crop was much below the average. Sultanas, of which there was a short crop last year, will be in much more plentiful supply during the coming season.

been fortunately situated as compared with the eastern part of the province. The rainfalls have been abundant and the pastures good, and the refreshing showers and of late the warm atmosphere, have been most favorable for growth. The result is, the make of cheese for this season is now at its flood, and every factory in the Oxford dairy district is running to its full capacity. The prices are weakening a little, and a drop is anticipated. Last week, the ruling price was eleven and a quarter cents.

That Condenser.

A decision has apparently not yet been reached as to the location of the new milk condenser for this district. Woodstock is urging favorable consideration of its claims for recognition, and hopes are entertained for the success of the negotiations. Some of the directors of the company were in the city last week, and met the municipal authorities, talked over terms and plans and inspected probable sites. They also similarly visited Tillsonburg, Listowel, St. Marys and other places which are after the industry.

Bread Delivery.

In an editorial, the Sentinel-Review protests against the prevailing method of delivering bread. It says:

"In some parts of the country there is a demand that all bread offered for sale or delivery shall be enclosed in sealed paper bags immediately after leaving the oven, as a guarantee against contamination in handling. Such a demand was bound to come, and is bound to grow. With the popularization of knowledge with reference to disease germs people's stomachs are becoming much more sensitive than they used to be, and greater precautions are demanded in the handling of food. It is quite natural that bread should come in for some attention. Vegetables may be washed, meats may be rendered harmless by cooking; but bread is usually served as it is received. When one considers the history of a loaf of bread from the time it leaves the oven till the time it reaches the table, is it any wonder that the stomach sometimes feels a little squeamish?"

THE WORST.

Rumor tells this story of a banquet held some years ago by the representatives of various periodicals. Many clever speeches were made and cheerful the occasion until a certain publisher began to enumerate certain troubles peculiar to the business. The troubles of getting good stories and good presswork were but two in a long list; and the speaker made the "hit of the evening" by closing his speech with the remark that all other troubles were as nothing compared to the trouble of getting advertising copy in before the forms close.—Star Monthly Solicitor.

FINE CONFECTIONERY STORE.

It is conceded by all successful merchants that grocery and confectionery stores in particular, should be neat and attractive outside, as well as in. The trouble has always been, to secure the desired effect at a reasonably small expense. That problem has been solved by Robert Henning, the proprietor of "The Hub," Preston, a cut of whose confectionery store is shown on this page. Being situated at the electric railway junction, where cars come in every half hour from Galt, Berlin and Hespeler, "The Hub" attracts a good deal of favorable comment from passengers. It is finished, both inside and out, with sheet metal, and, while inexpensive, this construction imparts a distinctive character that would be impossible in any other manner, except at a much greater cost.

The exterior of this building is covered with stone siding and rock-faced brick siding, with metal cornices and trimmings. It is roofed with metal Spanish tiles, which, on a pagoda-shaped roof, add greatly to the general appearance. As the exterior is all of galvanized steel it does not require to be painted.

The interior is finished with metal ceilings and walls and is equally as handsome as the exterior. The building was designed and the material manufactured by the Metal Shingle & Siding Co., Preston, Ont.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

The cheese market this week is dull and featureless. The general tone, however, is by no means weak, export demand still being sufficient to prevent stocks accumulating. The British market is in a healthy condition, stocks going into consumption as quickly as they arrive. The quality of late June Ontario cheese is reported excellent and above the average of early made stock.

Receipts last week were about on a parity with the corresponding week last year, being 103,018 boxes, as against 106,345 in 1906.

Official quotations for cheese and butter are:

Finest Creamery Butter—
Townships	20¾-21
Quebec	20¼-20½
Ontario	20
Dairy Butter—
Ontario	17½-18
Cheese—
Finest Ontario	11⅞-11½
Townships	11¼-11⅜
Quebec	11⅛

The tone of the butter market is weak and business is reported generally dull.

Following are some comparative recipts of cheese and butter for 1906 and 1907:

Butter.

Week ending June 29, 1907	1,795
Week ending June 30, 1906	32,502

From May 1, 1906	546,074

THE PROVISION SITUATION.

In keeping with the tendency of the market and the expectations of packers here prices in England last week sagged 2s. 6d. again, and this week the price of live hogs has been pressed down to $6.40, to more nearly equalize conditions. This does not nearly meet the packers' difficulty, however, and unless the Old Country market much improves or live hog prices much recede, packers will continue to export their product at a loss.

In view of the present situation figures showing the course of the Old country market are interesting. The bacon stocks (including hams) in Liverpool on May 1 totalled 24,692 boxes of bacon; imports in May, 46,165 boxes, making a total of 70,857 boxes. The 1st of June saw 18,757 boxes remaining in stock, showing a consumption of 52,100 boxes in May, equal to 11,760 boxes weekly, against 13,500 boxes weekly in May, 1906, and 15,240 boxes weekly in May, 1905. The imports for the five months from January 1 to May 31, were: 1907, 272,835 boxes; 1906, 330,203 boxes; 1905, 315,125 boxes. During May American receipts of hogs at western points totalled 1,834,000, against 1,680,000 in 1906, and 1,590,000 in 1905. In former years the June receipts ran still heavier, so that the chances for large supplies of American product on the English market appear to be good. The determining factor in the Old Country market, however, has been the large and continued heavy receipts of Danish. During May stocks of Canadian in the Old Country market were such as to enable sellers to get practically Danish prices all the month. At the moment the market is in buyers' hands. The unusual season has favored this condition and warmer weather may help to put matters in better shape for Canadian exporters.

TORONTO.

PROVISIONS—The midsummer trade is proverbially quiet, and this year is no exception to the general rule. Little meat of any sort is wanted, and the market is passive under heavy deliveries. The weakened market in the Old Country and the recent drop in Chicago has naturally affected the local situation. Stocks can be laid down in Montreal from Chicago cheaper than they can be bought in Canada, and one does not need to look further than this to account for the decline in the former city.

Hind and front quarters are lower this week, and veal is also somewhat easier.

DECREASING TEA CONSUMPTION.

To the Editor of The Canadian Grocer:

A circular recently issued in the States by a prominent grocer makes references to the price of the new crop teas and concludes by advising the retail grocer to load up with old tea to protect himself against advanced prices. For the benefit of those who have received such a circular, it is nothing more or less than a ruse, meant to excite buyers into over-stocking on tea.

At the outbreak of the Russo-Japanese war, similar circulars were issued with advice to buy freely, which resulted in many merchants over-buying and in some instances supplying their needs for many years. It is a lack of good judgment on the part of an importer, of a jobber, or a retailer, to anticipate too much his wants on tea. Aged tea rapidly deteriorates, and while the merchant thinks he is saving a cent or two, he is over-loading on old teas to save this extra profit, thereby driving a nail into his coffin. Boiled down, merchandising resolves itself into a question of supply and demand. If a grocer cultivates the taste of the consumer, and buys tea on an honest grading and cup value, he increases the demand. If a grocer buys old teas or permits himself to become panic stricken through prevarications or misrepresentations on the part of salesmen or jobbers, he is curtailing the demand and keeping in stock the supply. It does not take a wise man to appreciate the importance of this argument, but it is not until you adopt the principle of values, sold at legitimate, fixed profits, that you will reap the harvest.

The tea consumption in Canada and the United States is rapidly decreasing. Why? Because frequently we hear the comment, "I cannot get good tea at my grocer's. We like a good cup of tea at our table, but it seems a hopeless task to find the right flavor and quality, consequently, we have taken to other beverages." This is a daily story and a quick answer to the many time question of the retail grocer, "What has become of my tea trade?" Let Mr. Merchant buy teas for what they are, not how cheap or what he can save, and then sell them at their true values, not for what he can get, and let Mr. Merchant study the tastes of his customers, sell them teas of a suitable flavor, whether an Oolong, an India-Ceylon, a Japan, a gunpowder, or a Young Hyson, and he will gradually make many tea friends and eventually enjoy satisfactory and prosperous tea sales.—George Lewis, George Lewis & Co., Chicago and Yokohama.

CEREALS AND CONFECTIONERY

Favorable Outlook for Ontario Spring Wheat—Manitoba Crop Reports Conflicting — Brisk Export Enquiry for Flour — Grocers Should Handle Confectionery.

As far as can be determined, crop prospects for Ontario winter wheat are satisfactory. The spring wheat, though still late, is coming along nicely with the help of the recent heavy rains. Reports as to the Manitoba crops are conflicting, but it is certain that the prospects are not so bright as they have been represented. No matter how favorable the weather, it is now certain that the Ontario fall crop cannot exceed two-thirds or three-quarters of a full yield, and some opinions place the probable amount considerably below this. The New York markets closed 1½ higher for wheat on Tuesday, notwithstanding the break on Saturday. This looks as though Europe took little interest in the bear campaign for lower prices, but wants cash wheat and wants it quicker than she can get it, on account of the light offerings.

The flour trade is only fair, though millers declare that five times as much business is being done this year as last. Newfoundland continues to take a considerable quantity of Canadian winter wheat flour. Export enquiry is good but the millers cannot get together. The big fellows are getting all the business, some of the smaller millers being completely cleaned out.

Confectionery.

One argument advanced by a small retail grocer the other day against handling confectionery is sufficiently amusing to repeat. He said: "If I started to handle that stuff I would never get any time for my regular business." Never was there a more erroneous idea. Confectionery well displayed sells itself. The trouble to the grocer consists chiefly in keeping the show case filled with attractive goods; and the higher the class of confectionery he handles, and the more prominently it is displayed, the more often will he find the silent salesman empty and his cash register full. Think it over.

EXPRESS RATES IN THE WEST

Express Companies Schedules of Rates for Non-competing Points Differ Widely —Business Men Indignant—Investigati on by Railway Commission.

As compared with the rates charged in Eastern Canada and in the western states, the express rates charged in our western provinces are unreasonably high. Western business men have a real grievance in these excessive rates but up to the present time they have attracted little attention as people have been more interested in the more important question of freight rates. However, at the recent convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Western Canada, held in Prince Albert, this subject came up and the discussion that followed made it very plain that western business men are becoming keenly alive to the disabilities under which they suffer. H. W. Laird, of Regina, made a very strong speech on this subject and through his kindness this paper is permitted to quote herewith some very interesting figures which he has compiled. These figures are taken from the official schedules of rates issued by the express companies and they afford some very interesting comparisons.

Companies' Rates Differ.

One complaint that is made is that the express companies in the west charge different rates for non-competing points, the Canadian Northern Express Company's rates being considerably higher than those of the Dominion Express Company. As illustrating this point, the following schedule of rates is interesting and instructive:

Place	Miles from Winnipeg	Dominion	C.N.
Altona	62	.75
Burnside	63	.75
Walldon	61		1.00
Woodridge	65		1.00
Vassar	84		1.25
Holland	85	1.00
Morden	81	1.00
Swift	120		1.50
Douglas	121	1.25
Cartwright	148	1.50
Souris	150	1.50
Laurier	149		1.75
Barwick	181		2.00
Dauphin	178		2.00
Virden	180	1.75

In contrast with this, note the uniformity of rates charged in the east by the Dominion Express Co. and the Canadian Express Company to non-competing points.

Place	Miles from Toronto	Canadian Express	Dom. Express
Sarnia	177	1.00
Sharbot Lake	172		1.00
Orillia	91	.75
Norwood	94		.75
Brockville	208	1.00
Smiths Falls	209		1.00

Eastern and Western Charges.

But the principal grievance is that rates are invariably much higher in Western Canada than they are either in Eastern Canada or the United States. There would be little complaint if the scale of rates were only slightly in advance of eastern charges for there is a general disposition to be fair in these matters and it is freely recognized that conditions in the west are different from the east and probably warrant a slightly higher rate; but the following figures show a state of affairs that calls for explanations:

EASTERN CANADA

Dominion Express.

Place	Miles from Toronto	Rate
Brampton	29	.40
Guelph	48	.50
Norwood	94	.75
Ivanhoe	121	.90
Perth	197	1.00
Beaconsville	323	1.00

WESTERN CANADA

Dominion Express

Place	Miles from Winnipeg	Rate
Lasalle	18	.50
De Wit	49	.75
Darlingford	94	1.00
Treesbank	120	1.25
Birtle	193	1.75
Qu'Appelle	324	2.75

C. N. Express.

Place	Miles from Winnipeg	Rate
White Plains	21	.60
Marchand	47	.90
Berton	94	1.25
Baldur	116	1.50
Gilbert Plains	198	2.00
Mafeking	321	2.75

A comparison with the rates charged in the western states is equally interesting. Conditions in Minnesota are much the same as in Western Canada and yet the rates charged are considerably lower.

Rates in Western Canada and Western States.

Winnipeg to Birtle, 137 miles, Dom. Ex. 1.75.

Minneapolis to Cloutoub, Minn., 138 miles, G. N., 1.25.

Minneapolis to Brainerd, Minn., 138 miles, N. P., 1.25.

Winnipeg to Broadview, 264 miles, Dom. Ex., 2.58.

Winnipeg to Bruno, 264 miles, C. N., 3.25.

Minneapolis to Mapleton, N.D., 263 miles, N. P., 2.00.

Minneapolis to Durbin, N.D., 263 miles, G. N., 2.25.

Railway Commission to Investigate.

These figures indicate a real grievance which requires investigation. An Ottawa despatch the other day stated that the Railway Commission are about to commence an investigation into the question of express rates. The business men of the west welcome the announcement and hope that there will be no unnecessary delays in getting down to business. Owing to the long distances and delays in getting goods by freight, the express companies in the west handle a large amount of business that in the east they do not get. The express bills of the western business man are very heavy in the course of a year and the figures quoted certainly show that an investigation is necessary.

UP-TO-DATE CANNING.

The Napanee Canning Co., Napanee, Ont., has this year added two new buildings to their already large premises and have installed six new machines for handling peas, greatly increasing their possibilities of producing better quality. They have also installed a 75 h.p. Corliss engine.

This company have spared no expense in securing expert help, and special advantages are enjoyed by employes, the buildings being large and airy, with cement floors throughout, ensuring best sanitary conditions. The firm is represented in Montreal by Wm. Galbraith & Son, in Toronto by Kyle & Hooper, and in Winnipeg by Ashley & Lightcap.

CURRANTS.

Thos. Bell, Sons & Co. have received the following from their Patras correspondent:

"Currant prices have advanced to a point level with the highest fixed rates of the Retention Co., owing to the total exhaustion of stocks on the open market, so that, in the absence of other fruit, we and other shippers are obliged to buy prompt goods from the abovementioned company. Large transactions have been closed lately for the continental and American markets.

"New crop—All advices coming in from the currant district report that the prospective quantity this year will exceed that of 1906 by about 5 per cent., but there are no complaints heard about the Pelonosporo.'

J. K. ARMSBY CO.'S NEW CIPHER CODE.

The J. K. Armsby Co. have announced their new 1907 cipher code for delivery about August 1st. This code is now used universally by the grocery and kindred trades, canners and dried fruit packers, and is recognized as the standard code for California cured products and canned fruits, vegetables and salmon.

In publishing their new edition the J. K. Armsby Co. have deviated from the old style and have adopted an adjustable cover which permits the insertion of new and the elimination of old pages. This will obviate the necessity of new editions in the future, and, instead, revisions will be made each year and forwarded to subscribers for insertion.

ALBERT SOAPS vs. DRYSALTERS.

Court Finds in Favor of Albert Soaps —The Judgment.

The Albert Soap Company recently brought an action against Drysalters for infringement of their trade mark. This being a matter which is of general interest to all manufacturers, we print below the finding of Judge Burbidge in this case in full :

Between Albert Soaps, Limited, plaintiffs, and Drysalters, Limited, defendants.

"The action is brought by the plaintiffs, who are manufacturers of soap, to restrain the defendants, who are in the same business, from infringing certain registered trade marks that the plaintiffs own and use in connection with their business.

"The plaintiffs manufactured a soap known as "Baby's Own Soap," the defendants a soap known as "Mother's Favorite Soap." Both use in this connection labels that have been registered as trade marks and which are in general appearance very similar, although there are a number of differences. The defendants deny that the label they use is an infringement of the plaintiffs' trade mark. That issue, so far as it relates to the specific trade mark registered on the 21st day of January, 1890, and which consists of a label, shown in exhibit No. 4, I find in favor of the plaintiffs and against the defendants.

"The defendants also allege that the plaintiffs are not entitled to any relief because for several years they forebore taking action against the defendants' predecessors in the business they are carrying on, although the latter were doing the same thing that the defendants are now doing and were infringers of the plaintiffs' trade mark as the defendants are now infringing. The plaintiffs' answer to that is in substance that the interference with the rights and business by the defendants' predecessors was not considerable enough to make it worth while to take action against them ; but when it was learned that their business was about to pass into other hands, the plaintiffs gave the intended purchaser, Mr. Watson Jack, who bought and sold to the defendants, notice of the infringement and asked him when he was reorganizing the company if he would consider the changing of the offending label, so that the unscrupulous dealers would not substitute the dedendants' soap for the plaintiffs. Mr. Jack does not deny having had this notice, but replies that when he received it he was committed to the purchase of the business.

Judgment for Plaintiffs.

"The plaintiffs ask for a declaration that the acts of the defendants in placing their soap on the market with the labels at present used and in the manner at present adopted, constitute an infringement of their trade marks, and for an injunction to restrain the defendants from continuing the use of such labels in the manner mentioned.

"They do not ask for an account or for damages, and that narrows the question to be determined. With respect to the relief asked for, there has not, it seems to me, been such delay or larches on the plaintiffs' part as would justify the court in refusing such relief, and it will be granted.

"There will be, in respect to the specific trade mark hereinbefore mentioned, judgment for the plaintiffs, with costs, and the injunction asked for will be granted."

ANOTHER VETERAN GONE.

Chas. Wesley Price, late traveler for the Alberta Nursery & Seed Co., of Calgary, died very suddenly on the morning of June 2nd, at his rooms in Calgary, the immediate cause of his death being heart failure. Mr. Price was a traveler for thirty-five years and had covered in that time nearly every state in the United States and every province in Canada. In the older provinces he was better known as the representative of D. M. Ferry & Co., of Detroit and Windsor, whom he represented for fifteen years. After leaving them he was for a few years with the Steele, Briggs Seed Co., of Toronto. After leaving their employ he went west and settled in Calgary. There he was joined by W. H. Rampton in the real estate business and spent part of his time traveling for the Alberta Nursery & Seed Co.

He was a faithful, industrious and successful traveler, and possessed in a large degree the faculty of winning and keeping friends, and many all over Canada and the United States will mourn his departure.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Potatoes Take Another Unexpected Drop—Supplies Still Coming in—Lemons Slightly Easier—Canners Offering Liberal Prices for Berries.

"The unexpected always happens" is a proverb that is no respecter of persons, applying to potatoes no less than to potentates. Not a dealer on the street but thought that Delawares had found bottom, at any rate for the time being, at $1.25. Not a dealer but would have staked his last bag that Ontarios were a safe proposition at $1.15. All this was before Thursday, June 27th. On Thursday came indications that the drop was coming, and on Friday came the drop itself. It may be said that the second slump in prices was as unexpected as the first, which occurred ten days ago. The impression at that time was that the farmers had unloaded all their stocks on a market none too strong, but that when the market had recovered from the depression caused by this abnormal supply, prices would rise again to somewhere near their former level. The barns of the New Brunswick farmers, however, are not yet empty, if the way stocks are still coming in is any indication. One dealer in Toronto has five cars on his hands, which he bought, with pathetic faith, at $1.35. He is now looking for some companion in misery who will take them off his hands at $1.10. Few dealers will now touch potatoes on anything but a liberal commission basis. There is no difficulty in getting supplies. Ten cars can be secured at a moment's notice—only there are no takers.

The feeling in Verdilli lemons is a shade easier, but the price remains practically unchanged, the difference amounting to not more than 4 or 5 cents a box. The weather has been consistently favorable for this fruit and big business has been done in consequence.

It is reported that the canners are thoroughly canvassing all the strawberry growers in Ontario, and that prices ranging from 6 to 7½ cents are being offered for the entire season's yield. This looks bad for the consumer—the only individual who will be seriously affected. The jobbers would sooner handle a small crop at big prices than vice versa, and the growers naturally look upon 7 cents as a very flattering offer. It is unlikely that the home berries will be marketed at less than 8 cents this year.

The vegetable trade was spurred up a little by the holiday, but has again resumed its quiet level. The late spring has kept back all local stuff, and very seriously affected the market.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—The demand just now is good. The selling is general. The state of the market continues fair, with prices firm. Local stuff is arriving, and to a certain extent, is replacing American goods. Montreal strawberries are now on the market, and a large crop is promised. As compared with last week prices remain stationary.

FRUIT—A well-posted fruit man who has just returned from a short trip through the Niagara peninsula, says that the raspberry crop is likely to be small, the frost having killed off a great many of the new shoots. Peaches will be a fair crop.

There are a few cars of large sized navels still offering, showing that these oranges are not yet completely out of the market. Pineapples are practically finished. Watermelons are now coming in from Georgia in fine condition.

CAPE BRETON CO. AMALGAMATES.

The Atlantic Fish Company, whose headquarters are at Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, have bought the property and business of the Cape Breton Fish Co. The Atlantic people are already operating branches of their establishment at Canso, Barrington, Lockeport, La Have, Ingonish, and Bay of Islands, although the business was organized only two years ago.

The Atlantic Co. acquired some time ago the boneless fish business conducted for many years in La Have and Halifax by Black Bros. In nine months last year the company's business at Canso amounted to $120,000.

HOLIDAY LAND.

Anyone who has spent a summer in Nova Scotia, or has enjoyed even a week's holiday among its rivers and forests, will recognize with a delightful sense of reminiscence a goodly number of the scenes which illustrate "Vacation Days in Nova Scotia," a little booklet, written by Thomas Anderson and published by the Dominion Atlantic Railway. The booklet is profusely illustrated with photographs of many scenes among the murmuring pines and hemlocks of Evangeline's land. Mr. Anderson has done his work well, since from a literary, as well as an illustrative standpoint, the contents are out of the ordinary.

The jaded tourist who is looking for "fresh fields and pastures new" is recommended to obtain a copy of "Vacation Days in Nova Scotia" from the Dominion Atlantic Railway, Kentville, N.S., and to study it alike for the instruction of his mind, the betterment of his health and the fuller enjoyment of his holidays.

JAPAN TEA TRADE.

The function of exporting Japanese products is being gradually removed from the hands of foreigners in Japan, especially in respect to the tea trade. It appears that the opening of Shimizu as a special port of export was effected for the purpose of facilitating the direct exportation from that port of tea produced in Shizuoka, which furnishes 70 per cent. of the total output in Japan. This plan has proved successful, and 3,930,000 pounds of tea refired in Shizuoka was exported from that port last year.

An inspection fee is imposed by the tea merchants' guild on tea to be exported through Yokohama at the rate of 11 cents per box, but no such fee is required for the exportation from Shimizu. Under these circumstances it is anticipated that of teas hitherto exported from Yokohama, at least the Shizuoka tea will eventually cease passing through this port. The future of trade in Yokohama should not be regarded as promising, for the quantity of tea exported from Shimizu last year reached nearly 4,000,000 pounds, against 18,838,000 pounds from Yokohama, which market had commanded the situation for years.

EUROPEAN PRUNE CROP SHORT.

Latest advices on the European prune crop indicate a considerable shortage in comparison with former years. A letter from Hamburg, Germany, states that that market is looking to California to make up the deficiency in the European market, and that a considerable quantity will be required if the total is to compare favorably with that of an average season.

The letter said in part:

"This market is very closely cleaned up on old crop prunes and importers are much disturbed over the outlook so far as stocks are concerned. We do not look for more than two-thirds of a crop in Bosnia and Servia. Some of the larger interests here are already buying for import from the New York market, and cables sent to the Pacific coast bring back the advice that practically all the old prunes of desired sizes are held in New York."

Stiff Prices for Growers.

In this connection it may be noted that the unsold portion of the coming prune crop of the Santa Clara valley which remains in the hands of the growers does not exceed 7,000,000 or 8,000,000 pounds, about 25 to 30 per cent of the entire crop. Most of this stock is in the hands of firm holders, who every year are the last to sell. The growers are getting stiff prices from the packers, and it is thought that the small quantity remaining unsold is being held in the hope of an even higher market. The packers hold all the unsold old prunes. Altogether it looks like a banner year for the California fruit grower.

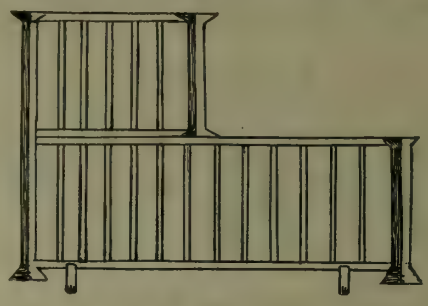
EFFECTIVE WINDOW DRESSING

An Interesting Winnipeg Display—Suggested Means for Dividing Windows Into Sections—Partitions Being Generally Adopted by Other Lines of Trade.

Why should dress goods and store clothes and boots and shirts, and collars and ties make better or more interesting window displays than foodstuffs. They don't, it's the men behind the glass who make it so. Of course one can't drape tea or canned goods or smoked bacon into folds and flounces, but they can be put forward to look very inviting. Ingenuity counts for much in dressing a grocery window. Herewith in picture is a Winnipeg sample. This is the window of J. Robinson & Co. It shows an array of Gold Standard goods that would arrest the attention of all passers. This is a window in the conception of which ingenuity, rather than artistic sense, is evidenced, and the results are certainly attractive.

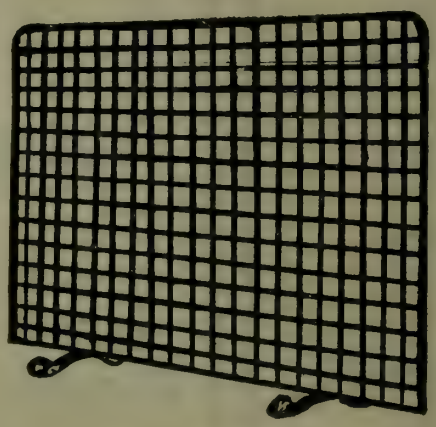


Window Partition of Wood.

Window of J. Robinson & Co., Winnipeg.

WINDOW PARTITIONS.

Movable window partitions are a device of improved window-dressing which the grocers should adopt. The movable partition has many advantages. It enables the grocer to make very effective displays of various lines of goods in the same window. That is its principal purpose. The chief fault of most grocery window displays is, that they are too much mixed up. The ordinary grocery window is fair sized, and it is difficult or inconvenient to make a display of a single line, but by using the partition two or three sufficiently large displays can be made. Very often a grocer would have time to change one section, when he would not have time to change his whole window. Changing one section at a time would keep the window looking fresh.



Metal Window Partion.

Two illustrations of partitions are here shown. These are sketched from partitions actually in use, but are intended as merely suggestive. One is of wood and looks very handsome in the window. The other is of iron. Sometimes the latter has brass trimmings and is of different shape, but these are matters of choice. For some purposes an even more effective partition than either of these is made of two sheets of plate mirror back to back. Sometimes the bar iron is used for the near wall of the window also.

NOT ALL BEER AND SKITTLES.

It is not all "beer and skittles" with the packet tea men these days.

The cost of tea itself has advanced from the point it was eight months ago fully 4c per pound, and in some grades more than this.

The price of lead with which the tea is wrapped has advanced 40 per cent. or 50 per cent., and one firm in Canada uses fourteen tons weekly.

Labels, cardboard-ends and labor have advanced fully 40 per cent., and the price of boxes 50 per cent.

A prominent packet tea man stated a few days ago that every man in the packet tea business in Canada must be losing money heavily every day, that is, if he does only a Canadian trade.

The soap people are having it pretty nearly as bad, as they are "up against" an advance on crude cotton oil of from $95 to $165 per ton.

AUSTRALIAN RAISINS.

In connection with the statement recently published in The Canadian Grocer about sultana raisins from Australia, the following from the London Produce Markets' Review is interesting:

"The sultana market, which has recently shown a tendency to advance, has been temporarily steadied by the arrival of small quantities of Australian fruit. The quantity marketed is insignificant and has been rapidly sold and distributed at good prices, but buyers are naturally asking what quantity there is to come, and operations in other kinds for home trade are very small and will probably remain so, until there is some definite information on the point. On the other hand, export business has been good and it is probable that the market can absorb any further quantity which Australia can send. Fresh shipments of Australians landed this week contain some exceptionally beautiful parcels of fruit packed in the more desirable style of boxes containing 28 pounds."

B.C. FRUIT CROP.

W. J. Brandrith, a fruit-grower of wide knowledge and experience and a government official to boot, asserts positively that the British Columbia fruit crop will be considerably behind the average, and that of cherries, plums, and other small fruits there is not more than a third of a crop.

GROCERY TRADE NEWS OF NOVA SCOTIA

(Special corrrespondencee of The Canadian Grocer.)

Halifax, N.S., July 1, 1907.

The grocery markets are quite active, and a good business is passing. Prices in several lines are advancing and with the decreasing supply of canned goods some of the retailers have put up the prices. There is no scarcity of any lines, but these retailers feel that the stocks they hold are worth more money at the present time, and they put up the price. The demand for canned goods is quite brisk, as the picnic season is now on.

The condition of the meat markets is now attracting considerable attention. Prices continue to soar upwards, and the retailers have again advanced the price, the second within three months. The new quotations went into effect on July 1st. The new figures are as follows:

	Old.	New.
Sirloin roasts	.18	.20
Sirloin steaks	.18	.20
Rib roasts	.15	.17
Steak (top round)	.15	.18
Steak (cut through)	.15	.16
Rattle ran	.12	.14
Corned beef (plate)	.10	.12
Corned beef (brisket)	.9	.10

In a circular issued to their customers the dealers say:—

"In past summers local cattle could be obtained when western beef became very high. Not so this year, as there is not enough local cattle to half supply the demand, and western beef is going across into the States on account of the shortage there caused by last winter's severe storms; hence the unprecedented advance in prices."

All the dealers have not entered the combine, some having declined to increase the prices, and in consequence the new figures may not stand very long.

The prospects for a big crop of fruit in Nova Scotia this year are very bright. The apple trees have blossomed well, and some predictions are being made that the crop will total a million barrels. All small fruit will be late this year, owing to the backward season, but a good crop is expected, as the fruit will escape the late frosts which usually cause great damage. The commission men here are looking forward to a big crop of strawberries.

The fisheries give promise of being most successful this year. Though the season was very late and the catches at first very small, there is an abundance of fishing now being taken. All along the coast good catches of spring mackerel have been made, and the prices fairly well maintained, considering the large quantities of fish placed on the market within a few days. For about a week the market was glutted with mackerel and there was a slump in prices, but during the past week there has been a sharp recovery and prices are again firm. Record quantities of fish have been shipped to the American market and during last week the local markets were almost bare. One dealer who had shipped two refrigerator cars of mackerel to Boston ordered them back before they reached their destination, the prices on the local market being much better than in the United States. One firm alone in Halifax has purchased upwards of 100,000 fresh mackerel since June came in, and a large quantity of them have been placed in cold storage.

The cod fishery also promises well, and some good catches are reported from the banks, many of the French and American bankers, having full fares. The French fleet fishing out of St. Pierre, Mig., is having better success this season than for many years. One trawler, the Imbrim, took 1,600 quintals of fish in fifteen days on the banks.

Breadstuffs and butter and eggs are unchanged.

NEW TEA COMPANY.

N. S. Croker, A. V. Boucher, A. W. Macalister, C. M. Cotton, and H. H. Brodie have been incorporated as a company under the name of The Castle Blend Tea Company. Objects: To do business as tea and coffee importers and blenders, and to buy and sell tea, coffee, cocoa, baking powder and essences. Capital, $100,000, in shares of $50 each. Headquarters at Montreal.

A permit has been issued to C. Dannacker, of Stratford, for the erection of a brick addition to his store and bakery at a cost of $900.

GROCERY TRADE NEWS OF THE PACIFIC COAST

Small Strawberry Crop—Canned Goods May Be Scarce—Canadian Imports of Rice Have Increased Largely—The Fruit Situation.

(Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.)

Vancouver, B.C., June 28, 1907.

With the very best weather for business that the province could possibly have had for the past three months, it is not surprising to learn that every line of trade is on the most prosperous footing. There are few, if any, drawbacks in the general round of commercial life and activity at the present season. In each of the coast cities and in all the mining centres up-country as well as throughout the rapidly-growing farming districts, the tone of business is healthy and progressive.

There have been some differences from other years. In the fresh fruit trade there have been no preserving fruits to market, of any consequence, and indications are that the strawberry crop will not be large enough to permit of reasonable preserving prices. The extremely small quantity of fruits offering has depressed the price of sugar, demand being low in comparison.

In northern trade, since the opening of navigation on the Yukon there has been a good deal of freight sent north, but nevertheless, the indications point to the usual delay in the purchasing of stocks for winter's supply. The northern dealers have almost got into the way of waiting till the last minute to avail themselves of the commodity rates which are allowed till August 15 each year. This year they may be badly fooled in some lines. The advices from eastern packers are that the pack of canned fruits and of canned vegetables will be extremely short. This will be a serious matter to the Yukon. From California, too, the outlook is stated to be unfavorable to any large pack of dried fruits. Here again the northern trade is greatly interested. In produce lines, never have prices continued steadily so high and stocks so low for many years. In fact, it is doubtful if ever this market found it more difficult to stock up, and especially in butter. As the Yukon depends entirely on supplies forwarded from here, the interest the dealers there should feel is obvious.

In grocery staples there have not been many changes of importance recently. The rice market has bulged till the price for fine quality Japanese rice is now $82 per ton. The importations of this staple to Canada have very greatly increased in the past year. For the first three months of this year the rice importations were almost three times the amount imported for the same three months last year. Rather oddly, the Japanese purchases of flour from Canada have in the same time gone up in even greater proportion. The action of the Japanese Government in substituting flour in a large degree for rice in the rations of the Jap army has resulted in a much greater demand for flour, and Canada has had the benefit of the increased demand.

Just when the California market was bare of raisins, a staple almost entirely supplied to this market from California, the introduction of raisins from Australia relieved the shortage. The last Australian steamer brought some liberal consignments, some of which were for wholesalers as far east as Winnipeg. The price is very much less than present California basis. The latter are now quoted at 13 and 14 cents, and very scarce. The consignment of Australian raisins sold out, while it lasted, at 8 cents per pound to the trade, and the dealers report that the quality is much better than that of the California article.

Dried fruits are selling actively, mostly for out of town trade. Prices are strong in most lines. Figs have been advanced half a cent to 6 cents per pound. What few lots are in stock have been selling at 22 and 23 cents. Prunes, from 5½ cents for 90's and 100's, to 8 cents for 40's and 50's, and 9 cents for 30's and 40's. Peaches, 15½ cents. Pears, 11½ cents.

Canned fruits are practically cleaned off this market at present, and from advices from the packers, the stocks will be very limited this fall, and prices correspondingly high. In canned vegetables stocks are still equal to demand. Prices have been advanced on peas, beans and corn, the present quotations being: Corn, $1.20; peas, $1.10 to $1.15; beans, $1.25. Green peanuts are quoted at 10 cents; roasted, at 12½ cents.

The sugar refinery this week quotes a reduction in price of sugar, the base being now $5.40. The very great slackness in preserving fruits accounts for the lowering in price of sugar at the present season. The small importation of Oriental sugar has not materially affected the market.

In produce, prices and stocks are both unsatisfactory. The supply of local butter is not nearly up to usual quantities, especially in dairy goods, little or none of which reaches the jobbing trade. The stock of creamery is always all in demand, though the creameries are turning out a good supply. Eastern butter has been very limited. Present prices: Eastern, 25 and 26 cents; local dairy, 28 cents; local creamery, 30 cents. Local fresh eggs are scarce and firm, at 30 cents. Eastern select stock is 26 cents per dozen, while straights are 24 cents.

Strawberries are still leading in the local market though the present week will see the clean-up of the bulk of the crop. Victoria has sent in large quantities, from Vancouver Island growers and Burnaby municipality, next to the city of New Westminster has been second in point of quantity. Quality has been very good all round this year. The present price is $2.50 to 3.00 per case of 24 baskets. The end of the week will see some raspberries in. The crop of this fruit promises to be the only heavy berry crop of the season. Currants are now beginning to come in and some gooseberries, at 10 cents per pound. Sweet cherries are selling at $1 to $1.25 per ten-pound box. Preserving cherries will be in next week and will likely be high.

The first car of California mixed fruits is to arrive next week. This will comprise peaches, plums, apricots and apples. There have been some shipments of peaches and plums, selling at $2.75 per box.

Oranges are at present confined to Med. Sweets and Valencies. There will be no more St. Michaels this season, though a car of late navels is expected by one dealer. Med. Sweets are $3.75 to $4.25 and Valencias, $4.75 to $5.25. Lemons, $6 and $7.

Local potatoes, old stock, are almost cleaned up and the price is anywhere up to $50 per ton. New potatoes are 5 cents per pound, and scarce. Most green vegetables are now local. Cabbage is 5 and 5½ cents per pound; cucumbers, $1.75 per dozen; cauliflower, $1 per dozen; bunch vegetables, all sorts, including beets, carrots, onions, etc., 25 cents per dozen; green peas, 7 cents per pound; lettuce, $1 and $1.25 per crate. Tomatoes, Mississippi stock, $3 per case; Victoria grown, $4 per case. Okanagan tomatoes are not yet market (open air grown), but will be in next week.

A VALUABLE BOOK.

"The Port of Hull and its Facilities for Trade," is the title of a 219 page book officially issued in the interests of the trade and commerce of Hull, England. For Canadian manufacturers who are looking for an Old Country market for their products, or for a port through which they may introduce their goods into other parts of England, this work will be found a valuable compendium of information and statistics. Even the advertisements, with which the book is filled, are in themselves of interest. One on page 62 shows a photograph of the advertiser's fish-drying establishment, the grounds of which have a capacity of spreading to dry nearly 100 tons of fish at one time.

The book is sold at two shillings and sixpence—about 60 cents—and may be obtained from the publishers, 10 Bishop Lane, Hull, at this price.

"What's in a Name?"

Of course, "the rose by any other name would smell as sweet."
A Coffee by another name might smell as sweet as

"WOOD'S COFFEES"

but it would not unless perfected like them.
Richest aroma means unchallenged superiority, and both are found in "WOOD'S."

C. & B. Jelly Powders

and Jelly Tablets should be on every grocer's shelves, for they are in universal demand at all seasons of the year, and at no time more than in the summer and fall. They are instantly dissolved in boiling water, and set rapidly. As they are practically unaffected by either heat or cold, they can be kept for almost any length of time. Other jelly powders and tablets taste insipid when compared with those made by C. & B., which possess a distinctive taste, and which are richly flavored with the purest fruit juices. The reputation of the firm will assist you to sell C. & B. jellies in preference to cheaper ones. Their quality will guarantee repeat orders from every one who tries them. Insist on your wholesaler supplying you with these jellies. If he does not stock them, have him import them for you.

Dealers find Common Sense a very good seller, for the reason that it gives general satisfaction and each customer tells others about same.

"There is nothing in it for the well-located grocer to handle cheap canned goods," remarks a New Haven grocer. "I speak from experience," he says, "because I often bought a lot of this truck as a sort of leader. It would have led me into the insolvency court if I had persisted. Canned Corn at 8c. a can may look attractive on the bargain handbill, but that's all. It is not intended to leave a good taste in the consumer's mouth, and it doesn't. It gives the grocer who sells it a reputation for handling cheap goods, and frequently it loses him a good customer. And the only possible gain is the possible temporary acquirement of a few bargain-hunting patrons."

Think this over a bit and you will be inclined to agree that cheap goods at any price are not what you want as a reputation builder.

If you handle Canadian Canners goods you will keep your old customers and make new ones.

"Aylmer," "Little Chief," "Log Cabin," "Horse-shoe," "Auto," "Kent," "Lynnvalley," "Maple Leaf," "Lion," "Thistle," "Grand River," and "White Rose" Brands are all guaranteed as to quality. They have been popular brands for over a quarter of a century.

Fruits and vegetables of these brands are canned only when at their best for table use.

There are more than a few reasons for the preference, so unanimously expressed by the women of Canada in favor of

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

Canned Fruits and Vegetables

The climate, where our products come from, is ideal for the gradual and thorough nourishment of the vegetable kingdom. Too sunny lands and sultry winds mean premature growth and quick decay and nowhere else on the globe are climatic conditions just right for the best fruits and vegetables. Then we better nature's work by eliminating all fruits and vegetables showing the least symptoms of coming taint, and, mind you, the scrutiny of our experts is microscopic in its severity.

Canada's Ideal Canning Factory.

Home of Old Homestead Brand

And there you see Canada's best canning factory—in fact, the ideal one. The ultra cleanliness of the place goes without saying. Numerous devices, making for perfection, obtain therein. Extravagant! No sir! We had simply determined to give you the concentrated goodness of fruits and vegetables in cans—a goodness so unapproachable by even the next best brand that the particular women of Canada called OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND—"Incomparable." People who want fruit and vegetable goodness condensed, order OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND. Can you supply the demand?

LIPTON'S TEAS

A writer in the Canadian Grocer says:

"Tea loses its flavor when exposed to the air and no matter what price you pay or how meritorious the tea, if you do not keep it in air-tight packages, the tea loses its virtue and its flavor."

The writer was addressing a gathering of grocers. He struck the nail on the head. The best tea in the world cannot keep its flavor unless it is protected from outside air and disagreeable aromas. The best tea in the world does keep its flavor, because it is Lipton's, and every ounce of it is packed in sealed air-tight tins.

All orders and correspondence in future should be sent to our Toronto office, 75 Front St East, where an able staff of men will give them the same attention they would receive at our principal headquarters.

The "Quality" Salt

Since "the proof of the pudding is in the eating" we think that Windsor Salt has proved up by facts, by sales, by test. It passed the "comparison" stage long ago—now other salts are proved by "Windsor".

If "other salts" prove up, 50 per cent. that means they are 50 per cent. as pure, white, crystalline as Windsor Salt.

Windsor Salt is the so-called weather gauge —the testing glass —the "prover" — the one hundred per cent salt.

"QUERY"

Some dealers have volunteered the remark that they just sell "SALADA" because of the demand.

Well, if it sells without effort would it not be good business policy to assist a greater sale by keeping it right to the front and introducing it.

There isn't a dollar invested in the grocery business that yields as good a percentage of actual protected profit without shrinkage.

Then why sell it only on demand? Yes, why, indeed ?

Correspondence solicited.

DEAR SIRS:

If you care to intrust to us the pushing of your interests in Western Canada, we can place at your command exceptional facilities and a wide and thorough knowledge of the trade in this territory.

We have been successfully prosecuting the business of general selling agents and manufacturers' representatives for many years. There is no better known house in Western Canada, or one possessing a larger or more loyal circle of clients.

Our facilities for storing and handling goods are excellent. We have three warehouses- --one each at Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton---- from which points we can readily and quickly reach all towns in this region.

We should like to receive some consignments from you, and believe you would find a connection with us very profitable.

A reply from you would be greatly appreciated.

Retail Merchants in Convention

Eighth Annual Gathering—Met in Hamilton, But Only a Few Delegates Attended—Sixty Per Cent. of the Members Are Behind With Their Fees and in Consequence a Poor Financial Statement was Presented—Those present Were Enthusiastic—Strong Appeal for Support of Organization.

Less than forty delegates assembled in Hamilton last Wednesday to attend the annual convention of the Ontario division of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada. But neither the association nor the convention is to be judged by numbers. The men assembled were for the most part men of exceptional intelligence and energy, progressive men.

A delegate blew into the closing session from Simcoe and he was pretty hot under the collar. He thought the announcement regarding the convention had been very inadequate. Arrived in Hamilton he had had to ask a dozen times before he had found any one who even knew where the convention was being held. Then it surprised him to find it was being run with open doors. He was G. Williams, a boot and shoe dealer, and can express himself fluently, very much to the point and with gingery aggressiveness. He said they had a pretty good branch of the association at Simcoe, but had been considering for a long while whether to continue with the Retail Merchants' or resolve themselves into a Board of Trade. Finally they had decided to try the Merchants another year, and he had gone out the morning before and collected twenty membership fees to put the branch in good standing. His first impression of the convention was that it did not "cut much ice," and he judged the association accordingly. His mental resolve seemed to be "The Board of Trade for mine." But when he had heard enough of the discussion to get the measure of the delegates he seemed to be satisfied that the association might do after all.

At the opening session, Adam Ballentine, grocer, and president of the Hamilton branch, took the chair, and introduced Mayor Stewart, who, in his plain, hearty way, welcomed the delegates to Hamilton. The mayor was followed by Capt. R. A. Roberston, president of the Board of Trade, who very neatly tacked on the business to the administrative welcome. President H. C. Ellis, Ottawa, then took charge of the proceedings and the convention dipped into business.

Before leaving the platform, Mr. Ballentine suggested as a subject for discussion before the convention closed, the early closing of stores on Saturday night. It would not curtail consumption by a farthing, he asserted, and laboring till midnight and after was a very poor preparation for the enjoyment of the Sabbath. It was the reason why the retail merchants of Hamilton were not present. They could not get young men as clerks so as to be able to get away from their businesses. Saturday afternoons when young men in other lines were going off to enjoy themselves, the grocery clerks were starting in on a hard day's work of 10 to 12 hours. Mr. Ballentine was very much in earnest about it.

A. L. Geen, Belleville, a druggist, president of the Dominion Board, spoke briefly, and Elisha Winters, of Boston, organizer for the Retail Merchants' Association of the United States, talked awhile on lines similar to the address to the grocers on the day before.

An American Leader.

John A, Green, secretary of the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States, arrived unexpectedly and was very heartily greeted. Mr. Green is the most prominent personality in retail organization in America. He had been expected for the grocers' meeting on Tuesday, but had been unable to get away. His address was listened to with rapt interest, and it is not too much to say it was inspiring. He is a quiet man of retiring disposition and would not go upon the platform, but spoke from the floor of the hall. He is a very effective and fluent speaker. His splendid address appeared in last week's issue of The Canadian Grocer. At its conclusion Mr. Mather, of Stirling, expressed very heartily his appreciation, and moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Green, which was carried with much enthusiasm, and it was ordered that the address be furnished The Canadian Grocer for publication.

H. C. ELLIS, Ottawa, Re-elected President

Finances in Bad Shape.

After luncheon, Treasurer M. Moyer presented his financial statement. It was very far from encouraging. The total receipts for the year amounted to $4,583, and there was a balance of $783, but the salary of neither the secretary nor the treasurer had been paid. Mr. Moyer presented very strongly many reasons why merchants should be members of the association and why they got by organization many times the value of the small annual fee. The statement was referred to a committee to be reported upon the following morning. Out of 5,233 members, Mr. Moyer said, only 2,068, less than 40 per cent., had paid their fees, leaving 3,165 unpaid. The association has now in Ontario 142 branches.

Mr. Watters, of Ottawa, complimented Mr. Moyer upon having presented the first business-like financial report the association had ever had.

Secretary Trowern did not have a report prepared, and President Ellis suggested that hereafter it would be well to have it in writing.

Resolutions.

The secretary then presented a lengthy list of resolutions for consideration.

"That whereas we have prepared by-laws licensing abd regulating pedlars and transient traders and put them into operation in a great many cities and towns throughout the province, and we have found that the act upon which they are based requires amending, that we authorize the legislative committee to prepare the necessary amendments, and that we endeavor to secure the passage of the same at the next session of the Provincial Legislature."

This resolution involved considerable discussion, the result of which was simply to demonstrate the unworkable and tangled nature of the present act. The present act had been amended along lines suggested by the association, and the opinion prevailed that what was now wanted was not more amendments, but a new act. Various delegates reported that their respective municipal solicitors had been befuddled by it. The law provides different treatment for pedlars and transient traders, and sometimes the distinction was not understood. The motion was carried.

"That whereas, there is a clause in the municipal art empowering city councils to put the early-closing bylaw into operation without the consent of the merchants we ask that this clause be repealed."

This resolution came from Ottawa and had resulted from one stage of that city's complicated struggle with the early-closing movement. Now peace reigned and President Ellis, who is from Ottawa, opposed it and it was finally withdrawn. It, however, furnished occasion for an interesting discussion of the early-closing movement. Chairman Ellis stated that the clerks in Ottawa had taken the matter up and circulated a petition on the basis of a six o'clock closing for everyone. The merchants got up a counter petition for seven o'clock. The clerks had won out with the council, it being near election time. Then the struggle turned upon the right of a merchant to withdraw his name from a petition he had signed, and the bylaw was quashed. In the meantime, however, even those opposed to early-closing had enjoyed the practice of it and they were willing to continue closing at six ordinarily and nine on Saturday. This had been confirmed by bylaw and was working out splendidly, the president stated. The question of whether or not a person who signed a petition had the right to later withdraw his name had been appealed and an authoritative decision was being sought in the courts.

Saturday Night Closing.

Adam Ballentine is deeply interested in securing an early Saturday night closing for Hamilton. Business was not, now, he said, in the shape it was a few years ago. Classifications were not so well marked. All grocers sold fruit, many sold fish and meat. It was impossible to define any class of business and an attempt to do so would make the law ineffective. He hoped for a law that would require all places of business, with the exception, perhaps, of druggists, to close at a reasonable hour, especially on Saturday night. It would be a great reform. He thought it would be well to have the whole question carefully considered by a committee.

No action was taken.

"Whereas, railway companies very frequently charge much greater weight on freight bills than the articles really weigh and that we desire this board to take the matter up and lay the same, through our Dominion Board, before the railway commissioners."

Several delegates reported experience corroborative of the stated fact of the resolution. It was carried.

The following resolutions were passed rapidly and practically without discussion:

New Tariff Fault.

That, whereas, under the new tariff regulations, a duty of 15 per cent. is charged on British packings and wrappings, and 20 per cent. on foreign; and, whereas, these wrappings and packages in most cases are almost valueless when they come here and they cost four or five times there what they are worth here; therefore, we ask this convention to instruct our Dominion Board to have some action taken in the matter.

That we request the Dominion Board to look into the registered mail laws and see that we get the same protection from the Dominion Government as we do from express companies in case of loss.

That, whereas, demurrage is charged to the coal dealers on all railway cars that are not emptied within 48 hours, therefore, we think that it is only right that railroads should be compelled to pay the same rate when they hold and detain cars laden with coal for dealers; and we desire that this board request the Dominion Board to call the attention to the Dominion Railway Commission to this matter.

That, whereas, a change is being made in the publication and sale of school books, by the Ontario Government, we, therefore, request them to have the retail price so fixed that price-cutters and departmental stores cannot use them for advertising purposes.

That, whereas, a bill was introduced in the Ontario Legislature by Mr. Gamey to amend the Assessment Act whereby all retail merchants in the Province of Ontario will be assessed on the value of the stock owned by them instead of on the business assessment as at present; and, whereas, it is proposed to exempt all stock that is not paid for and thereby go back to the old syetem, it will, therefore, in our opinion, be unfair to those who own their stock and benefit those whose stock is purchased on credit; and, whereas, the Provincial Board opposed this bill, it was laid over for further consideration.

Department for Business.

That, whereas, no provision has been made by the Dominion Government to keep a record of information to tabulate facts relative to the retail trade of the Dominion, and as the laboring and agricultural classes have well equipped departments and have large sums spent upon them each year, we consider it advisable that our association take such steps as to have provision made under the Department of Trade and Commerce so that the retail interests of Canada can be looked after as well as the above named classes.

E. D. SMITH, M.P., Winona

Mr. Mather, of Sterling, was not clear as to the usefulness of the proposition and Mr. Trowern made it clear.

That, whereas, considerable trouble has been experienced by some retail merchants in employing assistance, we, therefore, request the Provincial Board to prepare and submit to the branches a form for employes to sign that would safeguard the interests of both employer and employes.

That, whereas, the Dominion Government propose introducing legislation to regulate the sale of patent and proprietary medicines; and, whereas, we believe that a well-considered measure would be of benefit to the general public and to the trade, we are also of the opinion that any attempt to place a special tax on any preparation to pay the expense of carrying out such legislation, would be the beginning of perhaps special taxation on other lines of the retail trade; and, we, therefore, ask the Provincial Board to use every effort to oppose this unfair proposal.

That, whereas, if the present Gold and Silver Marking Act should become law it will very injuriously affect the retail jewelry trade of Canada; and, whereas, through the efforts of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada an extension of its operation was secured for eight months from July 13, 1907, we consider it absolutely necessary that every retail jeweler in Canada should assist the association in preparing proper legislation and securing the same at the next session of the Dominion House.

Against Co-operative Trading.

The following resolution was made the occasion by Treasurer Moyer of an appeal for association support. He asserted that the proposed law would demoralize the retail trade and that it was simply a plan to furnish work for promoters. Such co-operative undertakings would flourish as long as people continued to pay their money in, just as the defunct York Loan had. The resolution was passed as follows:

That, whereas, a bill was introduced at Ottawa at the last session and will likely be brought forward again at the coming session by the Hon. Mr. Monk, asking the Government to endorse co-operative societies and to give them special privileges to the detriment of retail trade; and, whereas, this measure was successfully opposed by our Dominion Board, that this meeting endorse their action and give them every possible assistance if any further attempts are made to have its provisions made law.

The evening was given over to a band concert, which was a rather novel plan of entertainment.

A Musical Evening.

The band concert proved a musical entertainment of extraordinary merit. It was tendered the delegates by eleven of the wholesale firms, Balfour, Smye & Co., Lucas, Steele & Bristol, James Turner & Co., MacPherson, Glassco & Co., W. H. Gillard & Co., the W. E. Sanford Mfg. Co., Coppley, Noyes & Randall, John Lennox & Co., Wood Vallance & Co., Buntin, Gillies & Co., and Tucketts. These firms, in a very nicely printed invitation and programme combined, requested the pleasure of the delegates' presence in the Alexandra pavilion. This is a new roller rink and one of the finest in Canada. It would comfortably accommodate a couple of thousand people. The accoustic properties of the hall are faultless. The brilliant electric lighting was augmented for decoration purposes by vari-colored Chinese lanterns and potted plants decked the gallery railing. A large motto, specially made, read, "Success to you in the great work of lifting your trade to a higher moral plane." The programme was furnished by the band of the 91st Highlanders, assisted by Miss Gertrude Stares, Geo. Allan and Edward Pearce. The band was under the baton of H. A. Stares. The programme was as follows :

National Hymn, "O Canada," by the band ; overture, "Oberon," by the band; grand selection, "Gems of Gounod," by the band ; song, "Good-bye," by Miss Gertrude Stares ; song, "Loraine, Loraine, Lorel," by George Allan ; fantasia, "Anglo American," by the band; suite, "Gipsy Girl," by the band ; song, "Angus MacDonald," by Miss Gertrude Stares ; song, "When Thou Art Near," by George Allan ; part song, "Robin Adair," by the Ninety-First Kiltie choir ; Down South, "Descriptive Piece," by the band ; overture, "William Tell," by the band.

Fred. Smye, of Balfour, Smye & Co., was charged primarily with the arrangements, but serious illness in his family prevented his taking the active part he would like to have done, and the duties were shouldered by H. C. Beckett with characteristic heartiness. The retailers of Hamilton found time to get to the concert, even if they could not attend the convention, and there was a large audience, including many ladies. The concert was greatly appreciated and every number, save the last, evoked a demand for an encore.

The Closing Session.

On Thursday morning, the closing session, the remaining resolutions were dealt with. Mr. Watters, of Ottawa, moved a pure food resolution as follows :

That the time has arrived for the Federal Government to enact and enforce a rigorous law to protect the public against impure and harmful foods and drugs, and to deal with misleading or untruthful designating names or statements of composition and to prohibit the manufacture or sale of any such articles and to prohibit the manufacture or sale of any compounds purporting to be and designed to lead the consumer to the belief that they are pure and wholesome representative articles of food or medicine and that the Government be petitioned to establish standards of quality for all spices, condiments, vinegars, baking powders, canned or preserved meats, vegetables or other foods and medicines sold under proprietary or trade names, and to otherwise enforce the intention of the Food and Drugs Act, and that this resolution be placed before the Federal Government and the whole question be dealt with by a committee of our association and the Inland Revenue Department.

The impression prevailed that the situation turned largely upon the question of standards.

Unfair Government Methods.

H. C. Beckett was present and spoke in regard to maple products, holding that the Government authorities were not acting fairly in the matter. A pure sugar syrup, maple flavored, was preferred by many people to the maple syrup. His firm had got in a shipment of maple flavored, but the labels did not bear the word "compound" in conformity with the act. They had had the word printed on separate slips and pasted across the original labels and had submitted this labeling to the Department of Inland Revenue. The officials there had approved this label. Later, officials took samples of the syrup from customers of Gillard & Co., and because of the technical infringement of the law in the labeling taxed the retailers the cost of the analyses, about $9 each, notwithstanding the fact that the department had approved the label. Gillard & Co. were asked to pay, but refused, and with a view to testing the matter, asked the department to sue for the amount. That the department did not do, but collected the fines from the retailers who paid rather than appear in court. Mr. Beckett thought it was not fair for the department to allow a big firm, that was prepared to fight, go, and collect from retailers sums for which they were not legally liable.

Mr. Beckett stated that last year the Wholesale Grocers' Association of the United States had engaged an expert for pure food work and the information gathered was at the disposal of the Retail Merchants' Association for the asking.

The motion was carried unanimously.

To Keep the Home Trade.

The following resolution, intended primarily to combat mail-order business, occasioned considerable talk :

"That our branches should make united efforts to secure all the possible trade in their respective localities and see if some means can be adopted to secure much of the business now going to mail order and other houses."

Mr. Taylor, of Hanover, the mover of the resolution, explained that people in the country often wanted something they felt was not worth going to town for and sent to the mail order house. He thought that if all the merchants in a town combined in their advertising they could collectively retain a good deal of trade that has now got away from them.

Ald. Farrar, Hamilton, said the department store campaign was largely educative. Those houses made large reductions at certain seasons of the year which gave the impression through the country that they were always low in price. But their expenses were very heavy, and he was convinced that the retail merchant who took his discounts could beat the mail order houses by good values, kind treatment, and up-to-date goods.

Secretary Trowern said they were not opposed to the catalogue house as such, but they were opposed to fraud and misrepresentation, and when the law enabled the public to deal with fraud and misrepresentation as they were dealt with in England, the mail order unfair competition would be stopped. In England if a firm made false statements on display cards about the price or quality of goods shown in the windows, anyone could call a policeman, hand him his complaint card and have the merchant appear next morning in the police court there to prove his statements correct.

Mr. Moyer spoke very strongly in favor of educating the farmer along the lines of supporting local merchants. Years ago he had undertaken work of educating farmers in regard to butter. Out of his efforts had grown the present farmers' institutes. The institute meetings were open to merchants and addresses along the lines suggested would, he believed, be productive of excellent results.

Upon motion of Messrs. Trowern and Moyer, the following resolution was passed as a substitute:

That the local branches be instructed to make an educational crusade amongst the farming community, dealing with this important matter.

Partnership Registration.

L. O. Pearson, of St. Thomas, submitted a resolution from his local branch objecting to the compulsory registration of partnerships. It was occasioned because a man looking for an easy way of getting money had laid information against a number of St. Thomas firms who, ignorant of the law, had not registered.

Ald. Farrar, of Hamilton, said merchants, of all people, should respect the law. If a man didn't know it and got into the police court, he should wake up.

The motion was withdrawn.

At this juncture E. D. Smith, M.P., Winona, the pure jam maker, was introduced, and Mr. Trowern told the delegates Mr. Smith had rendered very material assistance to the association at Ottawa. Mr. Smith said, "I will do all I can to advance legitimate and honest trade. He had invited the delegates to take a trolley trip to his farms and factories, and as he went out was heartily cheered.

Fee Remains at $2.

The rest of the session before the election of officers was given over to a discussion of the report of the committee on finance. The committee recommended that the annual fee be raised from $2 to $5. Of that amount $2 was to be remitted to the head office for general expenses and the balance was to pay for collection and go to make up the local funds. The impression prevailed that a $5 fee would kill the association and that the locals did not need as much as $3 a member. It was agreed, however, that the general fund needed $2 per member per year. It was finally decided to make the fee $2, that same to go to the central association and each branch to remain free to levy what sum seemed fit for local expenses. This also throws the onus of collecting the fees and organization work upon the local branches. It also enables any single merchant in a small place to become a member by remitting $2 to the central office.

The Officers.

When it came to the election of officers, H. C. Ellis was unanimously elected president for another year. Adam Ballentine and B. W. Zieman were nominated but withdrew in favor of the young man from Ottawa. Mr. Ellis modestly wanted to retire and give other members a chance for preferment, but when the convention would not have it so he promised to do his best, which, in view of his first year's record, was more than satisfactory.

The other officers elected were: Vice-presidents, B. W. Zieman, Adam Ballentine; treasurer, M. Moyer; secretary, A. M. Trowern; auditor, F. C. Higgins. Mr. Higgins was re-elected as second vice-president but positively declined.

Trip in the Fruit District.

The invitation of the Galt delegates to hold the next convention there was accepted and June 16, 17 and 18 fixed as the dates.

In the afternoon the delegates and their wives, as the guests of E. D. Smith, M.P., went in a private trolley car the 25 miles to Beamsville through the greatest fruit district in the Dominion, where land is held at the modest figure of $1,100 an acre. The company visited the factory of the Beamsville Preserving Co., which is one of the largest and finest in Canada. Canning of strawberries was in full swing and the grocers were immensely interested. The factory was as clean and sweet as a model kitchen. But what wonder! for everything—floor, tables, trays and kettles—are all thoroughly scoured every night. The visitors saw the entire process, from the washing of the fresh fruit in perfect condition to the final cooling of the tins in pure running water. They then visited the fine large warehouse; saw the handsome new office building under construction, and the large boarding-house for the hands just completed.

On the return journey the company stopped off at Mr. Smith's jam factory near his home at Winona. There the capacity for pure product is seven tons of jam a day and only pure goods are put up. Mr. Smith has met with splendid success in this department of his business. His northwest customers wanted to take the whole of this season's output, but he couldn't leave his trade in the east in the lurch. Each visitor took away a jar of jam as a sample. Before leaving a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mr. Smith.

VALENCIA RAISINS.

Emilio Monfort, representing Julian Monfort & Co., Gata, Spain, and Liverpool, England, is at present in Canada in his firm's interest. He was in Toronto this week making the acquaintance of the trade here through C. L. Marshall, manager of the brokerage department of the MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., Canadian representatives of Monfort & Co. Mr. Monfort stated to a representative of The Canadian Grocer that the crop of valencia raisins this year, while a little late, perhaps, today, would be up to the average in quantity and very good in quality. The opening price was about 2s. above that of last year. Before returning home Mr. Monfort will appoint a representative in New York.

S. H. Ewing & Sons, Montreal, have some low price gunpowders on which they will be pleased to submit prices and samples.

Stewart Burton has left for Regina, where he will assume the managership of Cameron & Heap, Kenora, who are establishing a new wholesale house in that city.

GROCERY NEWS FROM ATLANTIC TO PACIFIC

IN THESE COLUMNS THE GROCER IS IN TOUCH WITH THE TRADE IN EVERY PART OF CANADA.

CONTRIBUTIONS ARE INVITED FROM MERCHANTS IN SMALL PLACES OR WHERE THERE IS NOT A REGULAR CANADIAN GROCER CORRESPONDENT.

BELLEVILLE.

If there is one class of people in this beautiful City of the Bay who are happy, pleased and contented it is the grocer class, both retail and wholesale. and they have good reason to be contended, according to the statements made to your correspondent by a number of the leading members. They say that it is many years since trade was so good, and the same thing can be applied to all branches of merchandise. The reason for this is certainly seen, and is owing to the increased influx of new citizens into the city. The greatest difficulty at present is the lack of living accommodation. It is no exaggeration to say that in the whole city there are not half a dozen empty houses and the rest of these are being renovated to meet the requirements of the parties who have rented them. New dwellings are being erected in various parts of the city, and at the present rate of increase Belleville's population is likely to be doubled in a few years.

Naturally the grocers, who will always be the first visited, are taking the advantage, and who can blame them for the satisfied but tired look they are wearing ?

But the housing problem is really a serious question and one that is not to be lightly overlooked. Even the Board of Trade at its last meeting brought up for discussion, "What can be done to provide suitable homes for the many workingmen coming into the city ?" There were various theories advanced, but, of course, nothing further could be done.

It was, however, agreed that it was the duty of the monied men to get busy and invest some of their wealth in building homes suitable for workmen, as they could feel assured that Belleville was on the verge of a boom unprecedented in its history. Some of the men whom the board hoped to reach, instead of building new dwellings, bought up several properties, and by adding a few improvements, increased their rent in some cases 50 per cent. This may be regarded as sharp business, but it is not considered so by the community in general.

The coming in of the big cement works of the Lehigh Portland Cement Company is making things lively here, as many of the men employed in the erection of the plant, which will be when completed, the largest and most up-to-date of its kind in Canada, reside in this city, and many of them are newcomers, and nearly all of a very fine class of people. The works are situated about three miles east of the city, and the company recently purchased a large steamer in Montreal, which conveys the workmen and material to and from this city. At present there are about 300 men of all branches of trade employed, so this will give a slight idea of how the city is building up, and will also provide a reason why the grocer, who helps feed all these people and their families, is happy.

An important change has recently taken place, of interest to the grocery trade, especially in this district. Washburn Palmer, who for over forty years has conducted the leading grocery store in the village of Campton, three miles north of this city, the nearby neighbor to Corbyville, where the big fire recently destroyed the famous Corby distillery, has sold out his business to Mr. Story, his next door neighbor, who was also a grocer. The latter is an enterprising young man and has been a storekeeper there for some years. He will combine both stores into the one which he conducts at present. This is perhaps one of the oldest villages in Ontario and at present there are living there descendants of the first families, named Canniff, after whom the place was named. Everyone predicts success for Mr. Story.

Harry Maylor, city traveler for the Wm. Patterson Biscuit and Confectionery Company, has just purchased a handsome residence in the centre of the city. He says he is tired of paying rent. Harry is a member of the Board of Education, and don't be surprised if he is an alderman soon.

T. R. Temilliger, the ranger for this district of the William Patterson Company, who broke his ankle so severely some time ago, is once more able to be around, much to the pleasure of his many friends. In addition to his duties in the interests of his firm, he also finds time to help push along the Belleville fair, which promises to give Toronto a hard run this year.

The local canning factories began operations in this district the first week in July in real earnest. Peas are coming in fast and they promise to be a good crop, despite the poor outlook earlier in the season. They seemed to come on with a rush. This district was without a drop of rain from May 26th until June 30th—over one month—there was good reason for anxiety. From newspaper reports, almost every other part of the country was blessed with copious showers. The canners are looking forward to a good supply of peas, beans and strawberries, while corn does not look so well. Tomatoes also promise well.

The two wholesale grocery firms, Kenny, Walmsley & Co., and John Sloan & Co., report business very satisfactory.

CALGARY.

The retail clerks of this city, and more particularly the grocery clerks, have come to the conclusion that a weekly half holiday should be coming to them, and have prepared a largely signed petition which they will present to the city council asking them to pass the necessary bylaw.

Several of the merchants were prosecuted and fined under the early-closing bylaw this week for keeping open after 6 o'clock.

The trade are anxiously watching eastern tomato and fruit crop reports, as orders for canned fruits and vegetables are now being made up and the rise in British Columbia prices has naturally turned the attention of the merchants towards the east with renewed interest. The demand for these goods in a ranching and farming country such as is comprised in the Calgary district is, of course, very great.

Lots of sunshine and a sufficiency of warm rain has placed the hay and grain crops ahead of last year in spite of the cold, late spring. Fall wheat is from 24 to 36 inches high and the grass growth is luxuriant. Butter is coming in plentifully and of good quality. There is a shortage, however, in the supply of eggs, and the demand has exceeded the supply during the whole season. Farmers do not give enough attention to egg and poultry raising and there is plenty of room for big money to be made in this line.

The commercial travelers of America meet in convention here next year.

Good prizes are being offered during fair week for windows dressed with Calgary manufactured goods, and the grocers of the city are promising to eclipse all the other trades.

The export trade of flour to Japan from here is assuming very large proportions and several large orders have been filled during the past week.

KINGSTON.

Strawberries—strawberries—nice and large! What a joyful sound! No fruit so welcome, but alas, what small boxes! A great many dealers loosen them up and make more boxes. Some dealers carry a stock of pint boxes which are unlawful. Government inspection is a failure; a lot of money thrown away on inspectors who come around once a year. Just about as simple as seal inspection. American boxes hold a full imperial quart, our boxes hold a little over a pint.

When a small boy steals an orange the owner gives chase, yelling stop thief! stop thief! and others join in the race to run him down. But merchants use ways and means to receive and rob people by deliberately giving short weight and measure, changing figures on packages, making X vinegar XXX by the use of a stencil, getting manufacturers of soap and other products to make light weight goods so that they can give trading stamps or coupons. Stop thief! stop thief!

In the long run the merchant who does the right thing will win out. He gains the confidence of the people. That's the secret. The dishonest merchant loses the confidence of the people. That's why he goes to the stone wall. Sometimes inside of it, like some bank managers. Let us all try and do better, for our little systems have their day. They have their day, then cease to be.

In counting up the cash one night, the same as thousands of other merchants do, I noticed a face on one of the bills looking at me and I wondered where I had seen a similar one. Why, yes, that looks like the pickle man, Mr. McDonald, who is great on powdered horse radish. Heinz's, of course. The face was on the right-hand side of the Merchants' Bank five dollar bill, and under it was written H. Montagu Allan, who, when a small boy, used to make little boats with paper sails to carry freight across the pond.

He's now a man of noble gait,
Of steamships he is very fond,
He loads them up with precious freight,
And sails them in a larger pond.

Who owns that beautiful mansion up near Mt. Royal, fit for a king to live in? Look at the lovely garden, trees, shrubs, everything to make the journey from the go-cart to the hearse a pleasant one. Beautiful, beautiful, beyond pencil or pen description. Who lives in it? Why Allan. How did he make his money? On whisky? Not much. He made it on water, salt and fresh.

By the way, what about Kops ale and stout? That don't make you drunk and crazy, and can be sold without a license by any grocer. Will it help the temperance cause or weaken it? Question for debate. File it.

The usual bunch of grocers met on the market square and talked of things in general, and then they talked of hair. Fair-haired Jim took off his hat and so did several others and all heads were as smooth as plymouth rock eggs. The Englishman said he had tried every thing, even Hair's 'air renewer. The bald-headed druggist standing near the group said he had a good English preparation, a sovereign remedy, worth a guinea a dozen and guaranteed to cure thirteen cases out of a dozen. The Irish grocer said, "Ye had better try it on yer own crown first." This was a capital joke and the meeting broke up with three cheers for the Queue or Chinese pig tail.

William McCullough, the faithful employe of Gilbert's grocery, has severed his connection with that store. He may go west, where he will have more room to expand. It does a young man a lot of good to get away from the home circle and run up against the rough edge of western society.

No movement whatever has been made in Kingston yet regarding the half holiday during July or August. Even regular holidays, such as Dominion Day, are only half observed. Two anxious for the dollar, I guess. Our population, according to last directory, has increased 600 during the year and for a population of 22,500, we have about 125 grocery stores.

Joseph Lemmon, Montreal St., is selling off his stock and will either close up or sell out to his son. He is cutting on all his stock, which means a lot of trouble for the grocers in the neighborhood. Seems to me there are better ways of selling stock so as not to injure brother grocers. But everyone don't think alike. Joseph did a large business with farmers and was well thought of. He bought out several bankrupt stocks through the country and disposed of them. He likes variety and change.

LONDON.

The Retail Grocers' Association have won the first round in the little game with the coterie of grocers forming the Niagara Falls excursion syndicate. Last year the latter waited until the association announced the date of their excursion, then they came out with the announcement of the same date for their own picnic, the result being the holding of two excursions to the same place on the same day, but by different railroads. This year the association proved the better waiters, succeeding in tiring out the other fellows, who finally announced Wednesday, the 24th inst., as the date of their event at the Falls. This was what the association wanted, and they promptly followed by announcing Wednesday, the 17th, just one week earlier than the opposition's. Meanwhile, a committee of the association had visited Toronto and made all arrangements for their visit there, and at a meeting of the executive reports presented from all quarters were found to be most satisfactory, and the prospects are that the affair will prove the biggest ever held. Committees were appointed to look after every detail of the excursion, and no pains are being spared to ensure the convenience and enjoyment of those who patronize it. Invitations from Christie, Brown & Co., the Red Rose Tea Co., Cowan & Co., and the Sunlight Soap Co. were read, each company offering to do all in its power to entertain the grocers and their friends when they go to Toronto. It was announced that tickets for the attractions at Scarboro Beach would be given away free on the train on the morning of the excursion. The management of the beach privileges has given the grocers a thousand tickets to sell, but the executive decided to pay for the tickets out of the picnic funds and to give them away as stated. The C.P.R. train conveying the excursionists will leave London at 7 a.m. and Toronto at 8 p.m., but excursionists may return on any regular train the day following. The fare is $2.35 for adults and $1.30 for children. All the grocery stores will be closed on the 17th and open on the 24th as usual, so it is easy to see which of the two is the genuine grocers' excursion. It is likely that the syndicate will go out of the excursion business after this year.

W. T. Merrick, of Toronto, Ontario representative of Rose & Laflamme, commission merchants, Montreal, is in the city to-day calling on the trade. Mr.

Merrick's special line is Malaga fruits. He reports the crop normal and ahead of last year. During his trip through Western Ontario Mr. Merrick found business particularly good. He also notes a demand for a better quality of foreign fruits than in the past.

Berries and early vegetables are now coming in quite freely, which fact, if it does not bring good profits to the grocer, certainly keeps him busy.

INGERSOLL.

Out of the rain and frosts of a backward summer have come one of the finest crops of strawberries that this section has ever known. Large, juicy berries, all of them thoroughly ripened, are now being placed on the market in plentiful quantities. The prices have been about the same as ordinarily for early berries. First quality berries are selling at three boxes for a quarter, but occasionally four boxes are to be had at the same price. The way in which the berries have been brought to the market during the past few days has upset the calculations of all who predicted a short crop. The rains of a week ago did much to develop the fruit, for, as a rule, it is larger than a year ago, and the bright sunshine which followed has ripened them perfectly. It is the general opinion that with a continuance of the favorable weather the crop will be one of the largest in this section in years and that there will be a material reduction from present prices.

With the coming of the strawberries many pleasant functions are held. Strawberry festivals in both town and country are now the order of the day. To the housewife they also usher in a period of activity, and the grocer's thoughts turn to advertising sugar and glass jars for the preserving season.

In catering to a whimsical and exacting public the retailer is confronted with many perplexing problems. Some times it is a very easy matter for a grocer to win a new customer, and at other times it is just as easy for him to lose a customer. Probably in no other branch of the retail trade is so much tact and uniform courtesy essential as in the grocery business. The busy grocer is constantly called upon to fill rush orders and it is in this regard that serious complaints often arise which eventually result in the loss of a permanent customer. Sometimes the fault is entirely with an exacting customer, and again it it due to indifference or partiality on the part of the grocer. Here is one way in which the difficulty is frequently precipitated. The customer, very frequently the bread-winner of the home, walks into a grocery store while on his way to dinner or tea, and, as his time is limited, he wishes as prompt a service as possible. He may be followed into the store by some lady who has remained out late in making her society calls and is anxious to get her purchase and proceed homeward, or it may be someone from the country drives up to the door and they can't "possibly wait" for their order. Here is the dilemma that the grocer or his clerks are placed in. The man who entered the store first has never been given a chance to make known his wants and the grocer or his clerk will often turn to him and say, "You are not in a hurry, Mr. ——, will be with you in a moment." This is where the harm is done. The man's time is just as important, probably more so than that of the customers who have "pushed him to one side," and he cannot swallow the treatment he has received without a grimace. True, there are times when the person who feels that he has a grievance may not be as important a customer as the one who has received the preference, but the old rule, "first come, first served" should not be deviated from if general satisfaction is to be given. The person who once receives this kind of treatment is very apt to think that very little importance is attached to his or her trade, and they will leave the store with the resolve to patronize some other dealer. This is a common experience, as many merchants could testify, and it is a safe prediction that the merchant who treats all his customers with equal consideration is the one that makes permanent customers of them.

It is a matter for regret that enthusiasm seems to be wanting among the members of the Ingersoll branch of the Retail Merchants' Association. When the association was first organized many important matters were taken hold of in a businesslike manner at each regular meeting, which, as a rule, was well attended. Last week a meeting of the association was called for the transaction of important business, and strange to say, no one turned out. The warm weather of the summer months should not be allowed to put a damper on the work of the association. There are many important matters to be dealt with at this season of the year as at any other time, and furthermore, if the aims of the association are to be realized consistent and united action is necessary. The retail interests in a flourishing town like Ingersoll are too important to be overlooked or neglected in any way. The merchants should bestir themselves and make it a point to give the same attention to the meetings of the association as they do to their respective businesses during the day or to their lodge meetings. When they have done this all will share the fruits of successful work.

The merchant who advertises systematically and conscientiously is the one who is usually to the front with the largest volume of trade nowadays. No one will dispute that advertising is the greatest business-getting lever at the present time and the shrewd merchant never loses an opportunity to advertise. It may be over the telephone, with an attractive window, a conspicuous display card, or in the newspaper, but any of these ways will bring business and the merchant who does not rely on any one of them but adopts them all is invariably described as a "hustler" and business is sure to drift his way. To illustrate the force of this contention it would not be out of place to mention an instance that was brought to the notice of your correspondent a few days ago. For some time past potatoes have been fairly scarce and at one time the price jumped to $1.50 per bag. One of Ingersoll's leading stores was fortunate in getting in a large quantity of potatoes at prices which enabled them to sell them at $1 per bag. They asserted their enterprise by so stating in the papers, by a large card on samples of the potatoes at the store door and by another large card on their delivery wagon. The last mentioned card was somewhat of a departure from the many methods of advertising, but it was nevertheless effective. As the wagon visited all parts of the town the potato advertisement was brought forcibly to the notice of many who might not have been down town to see the advertisement at the store or who may have overlooked the "ad" in the papers, and as a consequence considerable new business was gathered in this simple way to the mutual satisfaction of buyer and seller.

The merchant who is sincere and enthusiastic in his business should make it a point to keep the public acquainted with his stock, and especially the fluctuations in prices. There are many legitimate methods by which he can bring new customers to his store for a trial order at least, and it may be that they will remain with him.

The egg situation here remains practically unchanged. The present prices, sixteen and seventeen cents per dozen, are almost unprecedented for this season of the year, and the consumer is naturally wondering what will be the outcome. In orther years at this time the price of eggs has been from a shilling to fifteen cents, but there has been no drop in the price this season for the past two months. The market supply is usually limited owing to the fact that the eggs are gathered up by the traveling buyers. Unless the price soon takes a drop it is safe to say that there will not be the usual amount packed for home consumption this fall.

The Board of Trade will endeavor to bring to the town a large steel plant, which, from what little information has been obtained, it is thought would give employment to about one hundred hands. The probable industry was brought to the notice of the Board of Trade by a communication from Charles L. Bailey, of Toronto, representative of the Jessup Steel Co., and who would like to see his home town expand industrially. The matter was freely discussed by the Board of Trade at a special meeting and the industrial committee will make immediate efforts to secure further information.

REGINA.

The early establishment of a spice mill in Regina is the proposal of a number of citizens of this place, and at a meeting held the other night it was decided to go ahead with the erection of buildings and installation of a plant to cost several thousand dollars.

The meeting was held in the offices of Honeyman, Haultain & Co., agents for the Canada Spice Company, and was well attended by representative citizens. After the proposition had been carefully discussed and had received general support, a formal resolution was passed committing those present to the establishment of a factory to roast and grind coffee and to manufacture spices, essences, baking powders and other lines incidental to such a business.

The trend of the discussion at the meeting was that no more opportune time than the present will ever present itself for the establishment here of such an industry. Already there are two wholesale grocery firms in the city and before many months are passed there will be at least two more established, for plans have been prepared and the sites secured. There will thus be provided a good market for the product right at the start.

The proposition is that the factory shall employ at least 20 hands and it is proposed to install the most modern machinery, all of which will be run by electric power, with separate motors for each plant. The company will apply for incorporation under the laws of the Province of Saskatchewan immediately, and will capitalize at $50,000.

Regina has been having a great deal of trouble securing proper spur tracks to wholesale warehouses, but at last a system has been outlined which will provide accommodation for some years to come. Immediately north of the present Canadian Pacific Railway yards several blocks have been set aside as the wholesale district, and there the majority of the firms are erecting their warehouses. Two rows of tracks are being run, one doing down the centre of the block to serve a warehouse owned by Thomas Wilkinson, and which was erected before the comprehensive warehouse scheme was outlined, and the other going through the lane. It is proposed that as the wholesale district grows, this scheme will be extended back through several blocks.

The city council has also contracted with the C.P.R. and J. M. Young for the construction of a warehouse spur through the eastern annex, thus providing accommodation for a couple of warehouses already in use, and more, it is expected, will be erected shortly.

The much vexed question of providing track accommodation for the H. W. Laird Company's wholesale grocery warehouse, on Dewdney street, has at last been settled by an order of the Railway Commission, although the settlement is not along the lines of that desired by the city. The Canadian Pacific was asked to lay the spur, but refused on the ground that they were not given permission to cross Dewdney St. The Canadian Northern, then, offered to build the spur, as by so doing they would gain possession of Smith street. They built the track, placing a blind end at Dewdney street.

But now the Railway Commission has upset all the plans by ordering the annulment of any former arrangement, and instructing the Canadian Pacific people to build a spur along Smith street, serving the Laird Company's warehouse and crossing Dewdney street.

As the point upon which the city and the C.P.R. disagreed was the crossing of Dewdney street, the order of the railway company is not pleasing to the corporation, although the Laird Company is satisfied, because they get track accommodation.

A new block was started in Regina the other day for R. H. Williams, proprietor of the Glasgow House. Mr. Williams, it is understood, intends moving a portion of his business to the new structure, and it is likely that the grocery trade will be brought around to new quarters.

George Mickleboro: going out of dry goods and men's furnishings and in future will handle only groceries. He has leased the front portion of his building to a banking house, and will carry on the grocery business from his Scarth street store.

F. C. Carrothers, one of the proprietors of the Star grocery and meat market, has been elected secretary of the Retail Butchers' Association, recently formed in this city.

Wholesale and retail business men in the city are pleased at recent reductions made by the city council in the price of electric current for lighting purposes.

For years the matter of lighting city stores has been one which gave a great deal of trouble, because, although admitted to be the best illuminant, the electric light was too expensive. This week, however, the city council made further sweeping reductions in the prices to be charged, and now in place of twenty cents per thousand kilowatt hours, which was the amount charged two years ago, the merchant pays only eight cents—making a considerable reduction in the monthly expense account of the store.

HAMILTON.

The great retail merchants' convention did not create any great excitement in this city, in fact, the local merchants should feel heartily ashamed of the welcome they gave. Hamilton people are always complaining about excursions and conventions going to other places. Well, when they have the opportunity to give the outsider the glad hand they simply ignore the chance presented.

Now, as to this convention. There were invitations sent out to over 400 merchants, who were right at home and were not asked to spend five cents to help entertain these very worthy delegates from the best towns in Ontario. Seven or eight grocers made up the Hamilton audience for the three days' session of the convention.

The president of the Board of Trade, who keeps a book store, made a brilliant address of welcome and then subsided. That settled his part of it, although he is a member of the Retail Merchants' Association, he made no effort to entertain his confreres. As president of the Board of Trade, a very powerful body in Hamilton affairs, he should have tried to make the delegates feel comparatively comfortable. These delegates are almost all connected with fraternal societies, and when a vote is taken for a convention town they are not likely to forget the frost they got in Hamilton, not for some time at least.

We have one of the prettiest little cities in the world, and it seems a pity that the citizens are not a little more congenial, particularly the merchants, to whom all these things should appeal, both from a monetary and as a hospitable point of view.

Those who visited the convention speak in the highest terms of the manner in which it was conducted, as well as the business transacted, and right here I would like to put in a good word for the Hamilton newspapers. They certainly deserve the thanks of the association for the many kindnesses shown. The meetings were well reported and written up, and they are to be congratulated on the spirit shown.

Mr. Armstrong, of The Grocer, also labored hard under difficult circumstances to make the convention reports very clear to the readers of the paper, and as it was so fully set up in last week's Grocer, I will refrain from making any further comments.

The grocers' picnic is the main topic in grocery circles here. It looks now as if the whole city would close up shop and make it a general holiday. The chairman is the main post and everybody is helping him out.

Grocery wagon burned. That seems funny. Hamilton street cars are often on fire, but when Peebles, Hobson & Co.'s big van burned up on the street people rubbed their eyes. It must have been a pretty hot box.

Strawberries are coming in very plentifully, but the price keeps around $2 a crate, so that canning them this year will prove expensive.

H. G. Beckett, of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild, rather surprised the Hamilton grocers. They did not know what a gifted orator we have in our midst. He certainly deserves credit for his masterly address and it is to be hoped the trade may hear him oftener.

Adam Ballentine, the president of the local Retail Merchants' Association, did nobly in trying to uphold the local welcome, but received little support from the other members.

GUELPH.

Does it pay a grocer to handle fresh fish?

Now a profitable business in fresh fish can be done and not carry a stock all week, as most fish dealers do. By taking orders beforehand and then ordering on Wednesday your fish for Friday, a nice fish trade of from 500 to 1,000 pounds a week can be handled once a week without extra help.

When the clerk goes out for his orders it doesn't take any more time to ask for a fish order, or during the week each clerk as he waits on his customers in the store can ask each one if they would like a fresh fish for Friday. The driver also can keep at it wherever he goes. Get as many standing orders as possible for Friday. We tried it last year and worked up one of the nicest fish trades in Guelph. Then one clerk can come to work at say 5 o'clock on a Friday morning with his old clothes on and put up all the orders and have them ready by seven o'clock, the driver coming with his rig at seven, and the rush is over before your ordinary trade begins. The clerk coming at 5, going home and getting breakfast and cleaning up, is on the job again at 8 o'clock. Then just as soon as the fish boxes are empty, nail your covers on and send them back to the station and your fish trade is done for the week. And you don't need to worry about the smell of fish around the store, nor be bothered with people wanting a fish at all times of the day or week and perhaps have to weigh it on the scales you weigh your tea on. A nice little business can be done in fish this way with very little expense.

Whitefish, trout and herring are all that is necessary but once in awhile a halibut or two and other sea-fish can be added, for a change. We did not lose a fish last year and we had orders from all over the city by the best people, and generally got in a few grocery orders along with the fish. The hotel trade in fish is not very satisfactory. They want them at a low price and want too much attention for the price they are willing to pay. The fish trade is not a Catholic trade altogether, as some seem to think, as more Protestant people eat fish once a week than Catholics, as it is a case of choice and a change with them. You don't require any extra ice either, as it can be arranged so that your refrigerator can go a little short Thursday by taking lots in Wednesday and Friday and using Thursday's ice for the fish. One icing is all that is required.

There are a lot of grocers who won't sell fish, but they are not a hard thing to handle during the fresh fish season. The frozen fish are certainly not so nice to handle but you don't need to carry as much in the winter as you do in summer—just enough for one day. That is the benefit of getting the orders first. Then again people come looking for fish just when you are out. They will generally take canned fish and very often give a grocery order also. Every little helps and a good clerk can easily make his own and the driver's wages for the week in one day, which means at the least, $18 per week, and you can generally figure on from 2 to 4c a pound on your fish.

This has been a good week among the grocers in Guelph. The strawberries and pineapples helped the sale of sugar and jars. Strawberries on Saturday brought from 13½c. to 15c. for choice and no large quantities. But to-day the market was glutted and good berries were sold as low as 8c a box.

Jas. Gow, the Ontario Street grocer, had a valuable horse poisoned last week. He had driven up to Penfold Bros.' hardware store, led his horse into the yard and tied it up, but by some means it got loose and walked over to a box of paris green, some of which it ate, with fatal results.

R. J. E. McCrea and Mrs. J. A. McCrea have arrived safely in Ireland, after a pleasant voyage.

Potatoes took another drop here today, $1 per bag being the price.

Walter Grindley, traveler for the R. & J. H. Simpson Company, wholesale grocers, left on Monday for Kilsyth, Scotland, on a visit to his mother and relations in the old land. He will be absent a month or six weeks.

S. E. Wiggins and wife spent Sunday and the holiday in Toronto.

Gregory Foltz has taken possession and is going to run the grocery business on the Elora Road until recently kept by his grandmother, Mrs. McNulty. There is a good opening there, and Greg. ought to do well.

The clerks are all getting in shape to start the Thursday half-holidays, this week being the first. The excursion to Hamilton promises to be a success if the weather is at all favorable. The strawberry season is about over and the grocers have reason to feel satisfied this year, as the prices were about right and no necessity for doing business for nothing. Good berries being bought at 9c. to 10c. and selling two for 25c. is more pleasant than buying at 8c. and selling at three for 21c., as is sometimes the case.

J. C. Hadden, grocer, formerly Lillie & Hadden, is out this week with a nice new painted waggon.

ST. CATHARINES.

The grocery element in St. Catharines appear to be satisfied with the way business is going as they are kept busy from the time of opening until closing, 8 o'clock a.m. and 6 o'clock p.m. Though they claim profits are small in some instances, the contrary is the case in other goods. They take the best possible way of letting the people know that they are alive and ready to serve customers. They are great advertisers and any fresh article received or some new kind of production the people soon know. So many new varieties of breakfast foods are now introduced that the general populace—who like variety—grasp at the newest, which sometimes proves the best relish, and as for displays, each merchant has his peculiar idea. One grocer will have a pyramid of canned goods, another a block of breakfast foods, and again another will have his fountain with early lettuce, radishes and other early vegetables in display. Then again, the live chap has the first grown potatoes at home to let the people know that the Canadian gardener is early with the Irish national dish. Ald. Landis Bradt was the first with the early potato. They only cost two dollars a bushel, and the old chaps, of which there is so much wasted in peeling, were worth one dollar per bushel.

The grocers have come to the conclusion that there is no reason why they should be at loggerheads about a half-holiday. June was a precarious month, but now that July has come, the stores will be closed each Wednesday afternoon. during July and August. In fact all of the stores, grocery, dry goods, hardware and tailoring establishments, will take the Wednesday afternoons of July and August to amuse and invigorate themselves.

The annual grocers' picnic falls on Wednesday, July 17th, at Victoria park, Niagara Falls, Ont., when a jolly good time is expected, as usual. Special rates for these occasions are given by the electric railway corporation and the majority of the populace go to enjoy themselves.

A number of the gardeners and fruit growers take a gloomy view of the prospects for revenue. Strawberries command from $2 to $2.25 per crate of 24 small baskets; cherries are inferior and scarce, though Thomas Beattie, of this city, says he has abundance, and of first-class quality. He shipped his to Toronto, where he expects good returns. He is one of the favored few.

The canners are somewhat alarmed about the tomato crop. The weather at planting was cold and the plants made slow progress; the weather now, though hot in day time, is chilly at night, so they are afraid the frosts will come early enough to destroy the tomatoes for canning. Peas have been in abundance for canning, but their season will soon be over and then there will be a lull for a short time.

The hay crop, in which the farmers are in the midst of gathering, will be short, except in isolated cases, such as the township of Gainsborough, where it will be more than an average one. New hay was sold on the market last Saturday at $13 to $15 per ton, reminding me that the prospect looks as though it might reach the figure next spring of what it was in 1857—from $40 to $60 per ton. Fall wheat, what little is sown, looks promising. The spring grain is very backward and looks as if the crop will be light.

Here are a few samples of prices ruling at Saturday's market: Old potatoes, $1 per bushel; new potatoes, $2 per bushel; lettuce, 2 bunches for 5c.; strawberries, per crate, $2 to $2.25; eggs, 22c. per doz.; butter, 23c. per lb.; shoats, five-weeks-old pigs, $5 to $6 per pair; beef, $9 to $10 per 100 lbs.; lamb, $6 to $8 per 100 lbs.; veal, $8 to $8.50 per 100 lbs.; beets, 30c. for dozen bunches; onions, 30c. per dozen bunches; cabbage, $1 per dozen heads; green peas, $1 per bushel; straw, $10 per load.

A new industry was recently established in the main building of the Roman—or hollow block—establishment. It came from the State of Michigan, and the proprietors did not ask for a bonus. It began operations so quietly that but few people in St. Catharines know of its existence. They manufacture springs for beds, chairs, automobiles, etc., and though few employes are engaged at present, the manufactory is humming and the work turned out appears to be excellent. The other section of the building is used for the manufacture of hollow-block, and a number of houses are in course of erection coming from these works.

The Board of Trade is becoming very much alive to the fact that frequently it is working against its own best interests by allowing a full report of meetings to be published in the local newspapers. Henceforth it will not divulge more than is politic, this being the gist of a resolution passed at the last gathering. The newspapers not infrequently are unconsciously guilty of frustrating the best efforts of the board to develop the city, for by making public the details of the advantages which St. Catharines is prepared to offer to manufacturers and others who will settle in the city, other municipalities are given the best of opportunities to underbid these inducements and extend others more inviting on the surface, but less substantially profitable underneath.

Two pleasing ceremonies took place on July 1st, when the 57th Regiment, Peterboro Rangers, were on a visit to St. Catharines. The other was the trooping of the colors by the 57th and 19th Regiments, and the raising of the flag at Shipman park, on St. Paul St., at its junction with Ontario street. The other function was at the junction of Queenston and Church streets, when the Daughters of the Empire presented the Veterans' park to the city, and a very handsome flag to the Veterans' Association. The pole and flag at Shipman's park were the donations to St. Catharines by the Sons and Daughters of England.

On July 18th the members of the Veterans' Association will join in pastimes on Queenston Heights with their comrades of the Toronto (1866) Veterans' Association.

PETERBORO.

A serious state of affairs has developed in the shipping facilities between this city and Stoney Lake points, E. F. Mason complains that he has been greatly inconvenienced and has lost business and money through the carelessness of either the Grand Trunk or the Trent Valley Navigation Co.

Last Friday morning Mr. Mason received an order for fruit and general provisions from an old customer at Boschink. He was asked to send it up at once as they had nothing in the house to eat. The order was made up and left on the noon train for Lakefield. The steamer Majestic met the train and, according to a letter received by Mr. Mason a couple of days later, the boat was not permitted to take the goods from the Lakefield station to Boschink on account of the "shipping bills or something" having been lost. The boat went off without the goods.

In the afternoon the steamer Stoney Lake went up the lakes from Lakefield, and they claimed that there were no goods at Lakefield for the party at Boschink. On July 8th a second letter was received by Mr. Mason stating that the goods had not yet arrived and that nothing was known of their whereabouts unless they were still sitting in Lakefield. If so, the fruit is spoiled and Mr. Mason may lose the trade of his customer, who has been with him for so long.

This is a serious matter, not only for Mr. Mason, but for every grocer in the city. If the G.T.R., or the Trent Valley Navigation Co. do not intend to give a better service than this, or if there is any intention to favor the Lakefield or the lake stores against the Peterboro merchants, who have always done a fair business in this way, the Retail Merchants' Association should investigate.

A movement is on foot among some of the grocers to have a grocers' picnic on the Civic holiday. Since the grocery stores do not close on half holidays during the summer, this idea should meet with general approval. In many cities the grocers hold very successful outings of this kind, and they are joined by all the other business men. The idea proposed is to ask the dry goods and other merchants to co-operate and have one big day on which every merchant and clerk in the city would have a jolly time. There are many very pretty spots around Peterboro where such an event could be pulled off very successfully.

At the council meeting on Monday night the trustees of the Nicholls estate offered to donate to the city for public library purposes a very handsome building on Simcoe street. The building has a 48-foot frontage and depth of 109 feet, and three storeys high. It is in the very heart of the city and will require very little remodelling to make it a most creditable asset to the city. For years a public library has been needed, and it is very gratifying indeed to the citizens generally to know that they did not have to appeal to Mr. Carnegie, as so many towns and cities have done. The late Mrs. Nicholls left a very large estate in trust for the benefit of the city, and already a hospital, a Y.M.C.A. building, and several beautiful parks have been donated, as well as many very handsome gifts to churches, Sunday schools and other religious causes, and also to charitable institutions. The city council accepted the offer and will start at once to fit and furnish the building for a public library.

NEWFOUNDLAND NOTES.

J. Edens, the Duckworth Street merchant, received a large shipment of new goods by S.S. Annapolis, consisting of New York turkeys, Gonda cheese, Edam cheese, and other delicacies, which he is advertising at special prices. Messrs. Job Bros. & Co. have just received per S.S. Bernicia 5,000 tons best quality salt for the fisheries. This firm is also advertising the sale of No. 1 canned salmon, which is put up under their special brand.

T. T. Cartwright, of the E. W. Gillett Co., Toronto, and J. A. Dolan, secretary-treasurer of Lynch Bros. & Dolan Co., Sydney, Nova Scotia, are doing the west coast in the yacht Pauline. From letters received, both are getting good business. Lynch Bros. & Dolan Co. manufacture ninety varieties of biscuits.

T. & M. Winter have just received a large shipment of "Five Roses" flour for which they are agents in this colony.

C. D. Chetwynd is representing Harvey & Co. on the west coast of Newfoundland, superintending the shipping of fish to the Mediterranean.

Capt. Spencer, of Fortune, is buying fish for N. & M. Smith, of Halifax, on the west coast, making his headquarters at Rose Blanche.

R. & T. Moulton have merged their two businesses into one at Rose Blanche which is managed by Bert Moulton, nephew of the two principals. This firm does a large business.

R. Moulton, M.H.A., of Burgeo, is now in St. John's looking after his many interests.

A. G. Morton, of Burgeo, has just returned home after a business and pleasure trip to England, France, Spain and Italy. He looks well after his trip, which he enjoyed very much, except being carried to Quebec on the C.P.R. steamer, when they promised to land him at North Sydney.

Herring are reported very plentiful along the west coast. The price of dry codfish is very high for so early in the season.

Quite a number of Portuguese vessels are fishing on the Grand Banks. Last year there were two or three, and they had good loads, which no doubt accounts for the large increase this year.

James Keating, of Channel, is shipping a lot of fresh salmon this year to Boston.

OFF TO BUFFALO.

Toronto Retail Grocers Will Take Excursion on July 17.

The Retail Grocers' Association of Toronto will hold their annual outing holiday on Wednesday next, July 17. This year the destination is Buffalo via Niagara Falls, and the party will leave Toronto at 7.30, 9, and 11 a.m., taking the boat to Niagara Falls, and the Michigan Central thence to the Bison City. Last year the crowd was 1,000 strong, but this time no such limitations are placed on the attendance.

It is not expected that the 7.30 boat will be filled to overflowingf 11 o'clock is a more popular hour, and it is a fairly safe prophecy to say that the 11 o'clock boat will be the one most universally patronized. There will be great doings on board. Guessing contests will be hotly contested and prizes given for the successful competitors. There will be seven clear hours in Buffalo and there will be a good time for everybody in the shape of tally-ho drives and "seeing the sights." Buffalo can't show Toronto such a great deal in the way of amusing itself, but it's fine for a change, and the committee have fixed things up so that no one will have any complaints to make when the day is over and everybody comes back tired but happy.

The president of the Retail Grocers' Association is R. B. Snow. F. Thorn, vice-president; Davy Bell, secretary; D. McLean, treasurer. The committee is as follows: J. F. Bond, D. Panter, R. VanLoon, Thomas Clark, F. W. Johnson.

NEW WHOLESALE GROCERY FIRM

Bergeron, Whissell & Company is the name of a new wholesale grocery firm with headquarters at 335a Craig street, Montreal. The new firm is the outcome of the withdrawal from business of N. Quintal & Fils, and is composed of A. Bergeron, W. C. Whissell and J. O. Dandur, all gentlemen of high standing and many years employment in the Quintal Fils firm, and well and favorably known by the customers of the old firm and the business community generally.

OPENING VANCOUVER BRANCH.

The Stimpson Computing Scale Co. have opened another branch in the west, this time at 351 Homer street, Vancouver, where a full stock of Stimpson scales will be carried. Dealers are learning now to appreciate the great savings effected by the use of accurate computing scales, and one result has been to increase very greatly the sales of the Stimpson Computing Scale Co.

GET ORGANIZED.

The retail grocer will never come into his own in Canada except through organization. The trade must stand together if it is to rise in its own and the public's estimation. There are grocers' associations scattered throughout the country, and these local organizations are invaluable, but their influence is as nothing to what it would be if they were all welded together in one strong national association.

The Retail Merchants' Association has done splendid work in influencing legislation in the interest of the retailer, but it has not met the necessities of the grocery trade's case. John A. Green, secretary of the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States, delivered a splendid address before the Hamilton convention last week. Every grocer should read that address. It appeared in full in last week's issue.

Mr. Green said: "Nine times out of ten we are our own worst competitor." This is a condition of affairs which organization and co-operation would tend to remedy.

"We're only just beginning to feel our oats," declared Mr. Green. "Just beginning to know we have some standing.

"Through co-operation much better things are in store for the retailer, providing he retains his manhood and preserves his self-respect."

"Loyalty to God means loyalty to association; loyalty to home means loyalty to association."

Mr. Green himself is a large retail grocer in Cleveland, but his heart is in this work for the grocers of America. The Canadian trade has not an organization leader yet. In the meantime, let the local associations go on increasing.

GROCERS' DAY OFF.

In Ontario the coming Wednesday will be the grocers' day off. The London grocers go to Toronto, where they will renew their youth amidst the excitement and hilarity of Scarboro park. The Toronto grocers go to Buffalo, where they will quietly look things over. But the big event is the annual migration of the population from Hamilton and Brantford to Niagara Falls park. This movement of the multitude is superintended by the grocers. The Hamilton members chartered ninety cars, half Grand Trunk and half T.H. & B. They expect 6,000 people. From Brantford at least 2,000 are looked for. This multitude the grocers will feed and they expect to have more than 12 baskets over. The Hamilton association has secured two bands, the 91st Highlanders, and a new organization, known as Rubens'. They have provided a fine list of games, three clowns, step dancing, and a baby show, for which the judges are the mayors of Hamilton, Brantford and Niagara Falls. Wednesday will be a big day of fun in the grocery trade. Here's an appeal for good weather.

PROFITS IN PORK.

The value of the shares of the Wm. Davies Co., Toronto, was raised in connection with a suit in the courts at Toronto last week and some interesting evidence was adduced. A statement showing the dividends paid by the company for 14 years was submitted as follows:

1893	65 per cent.
1894	34 per cent.
1895	44 per cent.
1896	45 per cent.
1897	100 per cent.
1898	120 per cent.
1899	82 per cent.
1900	60 per cent.
1901	27½ per cent.
1902	27½ per cent.
1903	15 per cent.
1904	30 per cent.
1905	41 per cent.
1906	25 per cent.

This looks as if pork packing in Canada had been profitable of late. The company are the largest exporters of Canadian bacon to Great Britain, but they have in addition a very large business in their retail stores in Ontario. They have thirty-two retail meat and provision stores in Toronto alone, and the statement has been credited to the president of the company that in one year when the export business made a loss a dividend was paid out of the profits of the retail stores alone. The question suggested is, do the large profits indicated in the table, an average of over 50 per cent. for 14 years, come from the export or retail business.

NO TAPIOCA.

Tapioca has disappeared from the Canadian market. It seems strange that this can be said of such a standard household article, and, of course, there are a few pounds scattered among the retailers, but a wholesale house wanting to buy it to-day simply can't, and probably won't be able to get it until a month hence, when new arrivals may be expected.

In this connection it is interesting that imitation tapioca has appeared on the English market. The Produce Markets Review says of it:

"There is being offered in London a substitute for seed and medium pearl tapioca. We have examined the samples against genuine medium pearl and seed pearl tapioca, and though the difference in manufacture is apparent, the imitation is highly successful. To the best of our belief, the commodity in question is imported from Germany, and as the product doubtless consists principally of vegetable flours (probably from potatoes), the trade will recognize how serious their position would be with the authorities should these commodities find their way into grocers' shops under the designation of sago and tapioca."

The endeavor to imitate tapioca is a result of the advance in the price of the real commodity in recent years. Tapioca is one of the most speculative articles of commerce. The price got so low that it did not pay for the growing and production fell off. Tapioca costs now about three times what it did a few years ago.

With hay at $15 a ton and oats hovering around 60 cents a bushel, the man who can afford to keep a horse is rapidly coming to be looked upon as a bloated aristocrat.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—
Canned Salmon—Market excited.
Prune Market—Favors buyers.
Canned Fruits—Going higher.

Montreal, July 11, 1907.

While the month of June was not up to expectations, trade up to the present writing is picking up again, and this, in a way, offsets the poor returns of last month. The demand for articles of luxury continues as before. Collections just now are fair. The continued scarcity of canned lobsters tends to raise prices. Canned salmon is in excellent request, with prices firm. Imported sardines, while also to the fore, are very scarce. The demand for all other lines of canned fish is only fair. Brazil nuts advanced ½c over last week's figures, while Marbot nuts went ½c lower.

SYRUPS AND MOLASSES.—The demand for syrups is again picking up. Molasses, as previously stated, continues brisk. The quality of the crop is much better than the preceding season and this accounts largely for the improved demand experienced throughout Canada up to the present time. Further, retailers report a much larger consumption.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.—A good demand for California raisins and currants has been experienced throughout the week. Prunes are doing well with prices actually below primary markets. This is due to the fact that there are still fair stocks, owing to the warm weather conditions, and many holders are somewhat anxious. The prune situation just now favors the buyer. Stocks of figs are considerably reduced. There is, in fact, very little doing, with all other lines neglected. Nominal prices prevail.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.—Rice mills advanced prices 10 cents per hundred pounds for contracts from July 1 to Dec. 31. This advance went into effect last week. This is sure to affect retail prices later. The mills state in their circulars to the trade that prices now ruling are lower than the value on the foreign market, and that they may be obliged to further advance prices within a few weeks. The demand is fair, with staple prices.

The demand for tapioca is fair, but stocks are extremely light and there will be none to be had in large quantities before end of September, when the prices may be a little lower than those now ruling. At present nominal prices prevail. Cables this week from Singapore quote firm prices for July-August shipments, but a shade less would be accepted for July-September, this meaning arrival here of course only about the end of the year.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL.—There is a good demand for tomatoes, corn and peas, with demand only fair on all other lines. Prices are very firm. In canned fruits there is quite a feeling for all lines. Stocks are very low, with prices steady.

TORONTO.—Canned vegetables are going into consumption as rapidly now as a month ago, and while no one is fearing a shortage, a very small carryover is looked for. Prospects for the coming crop cannot yet be definitely estimated, but there are reports of shortage in the plants. Peas, it is reported by the Canadian Canners, will be a short crop. Of corn, nothing is yet known. Stocks of canned fruits have got into very small compass and crops will not be very heavy this year. Peaches are added to the list of scarce articles.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS:—
Sugar—10c. lower.
Beans—Firmer.
Tapioca—All done.
Canned Goods—Going fast.

Toronto, July 11, 1907.

The grocery trade is satisfied with the volume of business moving. Things are as active as in June, or more so. The volume of trade in June was not as large as a year ago, but the profits, it is alleged, were larger, and that is the chief end of business.

Sugar gyrated most unexpectedly on Tuesday and some of the wholesale trade had reason to resent it. Canned goods are still in active request, and peaches have been added to the list of scarce fruits, while tomatoes continue to move freely. Pearl tapioca has become a negative quantity. There is said to be not a pound obtainable in Canada. The prune situation is stronger than ever. Currant prices are firm. Good crops of raisins, currants and figs are promised. Teas continue very firm. Collections are satisfactory.

TEA — Since the opening of the market in Calcutta for new season Indian teas, prices of lowest grades have advanced, on strong demand, from a farthing to ½d. per lb., and the market, both in Calcutta and Ceylon is well sustained for all descriptions. There is nothing new in the situation in Japan since the reported advance of about 1½c. a lb. on medium grades, and practically no business is being done with Canada, values not being attractive in teas intended for the counter at 25c. The history of Japan in the past few years tends to show that Canadian grocers could make larger profits and supply better values to their customers if they would cultivate a trade in Japans at 30c. or 35c. instead of adhering tenaciously to 25c. as the retail price, when good teas cannot be sold profitably at that money.

COFFEE — No important advices are forthcoming regarding the new crop of Santos and Rio coffee, and the market is very quiet. Willett and Gray say:

"The final out-turn of the 1906-1907 Rio and Santos crops together shows 19,654,000 bags, which is equal to an increase over the last crop there of 9,427,000 bags. The increase in the world's visible supplies, however, is just about 6,800,000 bags, the largest ever experienced in a single year. But the figures show that during the past year the world consumed about 13,000,000 bags Rio and Santos coffee, and this in a year when the tendency has been so bearish that all merchants in the interior of the United States and Europe have restricted their purchases to a minimum.

"While the surplus stock of coffee resulting from the 1906-1907 crops is about 7,000,000 bags, the Government of Sao Paulo is taking care of 8,000,000 bags, and of the balance of the surplus, as compared with this time last year, 2,000,000 bags still remain in Brazil (at the seaports). The quantity available to the trade in consuming countries is about 3,000,000 bags less than this time last year."

SUGAR — Last Friday the Federal refinery, New York, reduced the price of refined sugar 10c. This was quite unexpected, but on Tuesday the other refiners followed suit and the Canadian refiners fell into line. On Wednesday, however, the New York refiners put the price up again, and the trade here are wondering what the next move will be on this side. If prices do not rise again immediately to the old price it will be, the trade think, because the refiners fear competition of Scotch beet. Several Toronto wholesalers turned buyers just before the drop, which shows it was not expected. Retail buying is not yet heavy.

The feature of the raw market is the weakness in European beet. This is rather mystifying because thus far this season the price of beet has kept much above the Cuban parity, and now the Cuban campaign is over. At the opening of last week beet was quoted at 9s. 9d., equal to 3.87½ New York, for 96 degrees test. Monday of this week it had receded to 9s. 4½d., equal to 2.61 New York basis, 96 degrees. A decline to 9s. 3d. would be regarded as extreme. The course of the market during the next few days will be watched with interest.

DRIED FRUITS — Currants are strong, both for spot and future deliveries. There is a good crop of valencia raisins; that is to say, it will be about normal, which means considerably in excess of last year. Low prices are not expected at the early part of the season, because the new crop will come upon a very bare market with high prices established for old fruit.

The change in the Canadian duty on figs is in favor of the finest grades against the commonest, so that fine quality figs this year will show better value than anything that could be offered under the previous tariff.

The prune situation is stronger than ever.

Wall Papers

Wall Paper Situation Very Encouraging — Canadian Manufacturers Making Big Efforts for 1908.

Urged to greater efforts by the success of last year's designs, the wall paper manufacturers have developed patterns for the 1908 trade which promise exceptionally well. The beginning of June will see many travelers on the road with the new lines. It is almost impossible to enter into a discussion on the new offerings at this date, but another month will unfold the whole range. In anticipation of a greater business even than the present season's, Canadian manufacturers are putting themselves in readiness to meet the utmost demands.

The staple cheap lines do not show any great changes for the coming season. There are the usual number of new patterns, and some good designs rather out of the usual will be shown.

A few years ago mostly all wall papers were imported into Canada. Now, Canadian manufacturers are able to supply goods which in many cases far outdistance imported lines at the same price.

"What a fine, tall fellow your eldest son has grown!"

"Yes, worse luck."

"How's that? I should have thought you would be proud of him. He's only fourteen, isn't he?"

"Yes, but I do object to having his trousers cut down to fit me!"

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

The cheese market is about on an even keel. There seems to be an easier tendency to prices, but large buyers look for the market to retain about its present position, fluctuating within narrow limits for some weeks to come. Last year's record level of prices seems in a fair way to being maintained on the average. Thus far less cheese has been made this year than last. Receipts at Montreal from May 1 to July 6, amounted to 578,411 boxes, and for the same period last year 652,-937 boxes. But 1907 is about a fortnight behind, and last week's figures show a pace that will soon put the seasons abreast. Receipts last week were 112,843 boxes, against 106,863 the same week of last year.

Exports, however, are considerably under those of a year ago. Last week the exports from Montreal totalled 89,-842 boxes, against 89,538 boxes the week before and 108,681 boxes the corresponding week a year ago. Total shipments from Montreal May 1 were 520,356 boxes, against 649,615 last year.

Butter is comparatively much farther behind in regard to production than cheese, and it is generally accepted that the raw product is more than ever being diverted cheeseward. The receipts of butter at Montreal last week totalled 24,208 packages, against 29,324 a year ago, and the total from May 1 was 132,-509 packages, compared with 204,632 packages last year. The difference in exports is much greater still. The exports from Montreal last week totalled 4,465 packages, against 18,222 the same week in 1906. But the exports the week before last were only 1,779 packages. The total exports from May 1 were only 8,037 packages, as compared with 98,-124 packages last year. The butter market in Canada is firm; supplies of dairy are decreasing and the hot weather has driven the creameries to making solids. Demand also continues active.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

The provision market is again on the up-turn. The Old Country market advanced 1s 6d towards the end of last week That represents about 15c in live hogs. The price of live hogs is still nominally $6.40 as last week, but in reality it is $6.45 and $6.50. Deliveries last week were not over 23,000 and this week are even less. The Old Country now shows the Canadian packer. Quotations for best are about 60s and present cost is 59s 3d to 59s 6d. The improved weather conditions are largely responsible for the better tone of the market, aided by an outlook for somewhat smaller Danish deliveries. While Danish deliveries have kept up, 35,000 to 40,000 weekly, the harvest is approaching and fodder is scarce and high. The latter condition has occasioned some disposition on the part of the Danes to hold their hogs till they get the new crop. While the shortage of grain may decrease their deliveries temporarily, the Danes like the hog business, and they promise an even larger production next year, sufficient, they say, to give deliveries of 50,000 weekly. The consumptive capacity of the Old Country is not increasing at that rate and the increase, if it comes, means simply the displacement to about that extent of some other bacon, Canadian, Irish or American.

Canadian export is now running about normal, say 3,600 boxes weekly.

Domestic trade is very brisk and stocks are in hand to an extent that seems to justify the packers in looking for better prices before the summer is past. The decline of prices in Chicago has made it difficult for Canadian houses to hold their trade in the Northwest, but there is still considerable business in that direction.

The Journal of Commerce on Monday, reviewing the American market, said: "The past week has not witnessed anything of importance in the way of change or activity in hog products. Receipts of hogs early in the week were heavy, especially at points outside of Chicago. The packers supported the market for products, after running in the shorts, as there was no one else to hold it, under accumulating stocks, which showed a pretty good increase for the month. Later in the week receipts turned lighter and then prices of options sagged off, and trading became extremely dull, as packers seemed to withdraw their support as soon as the market would hold itself. Cash trade has been duller even than futures, and prices have weakened more than on options, as there has been increased pressure to sell, with less demand than the previous week. The home trade seem to take little stock in higher prices and seem more inclined to anticipate lower, while the packers own the stocks and have got to hold prices up for their own protection, promising a dull, dragging market for the balance of the summer."

Stocks of lard in Chicago increased during June from 93,060 to 144,138 tierces.

PROVISION MARKETS

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—The demand for lard is quiet, especially for compound. Hams just now, while not neglected, are only in fair demand. For bacon the demand is improving. The market at the present time is only in a medium state, with prices holding their own.

BUTTER—Prices of butter remain the same as week previous. Those paid at the boards varied from 20¼c. to 20⅞c., the latter price being paid for fancy export stocks. So far the demand from England has been very light and the quantity exported is much less than in former seasons. Not much change is looked for in the market at present.

CHEESE—The cheese market remains practically unchanged. The prices at the various boards last Saturday were about the same as previous week. The quotations from England this week are slightly in advance of those ruling seven days earlier. The general feeling among the trade is that higher prices need not be looked for for some time owing to the large quantities of this product on the market and also the lack of confidence the English buyer has in taking over large stocks.

HONEY—It is rather early as yet to state what this year's crop will be. This will be known in the course of two or three weeks. There is considerable old stock on hand and this being the case, the prices of new stuff are expected to be lower than the previous season, unless there is any scarcity. The demand at present is normal.

BUTTER—There is a rather slight tone with slightly advanced prices this week. Dairy supplies are increasing since the milk is going more to the creameries, and the creameries are making solids rather than prints. The quality of butter this season has been markedly better than in previous years. The delay in the arrival of hot weather has made what is classed as "bakers'" scarce, but it is expected there will be enough of it from this on.

CEREALS AND CONFECTIONERY

Grain markets were largely in the hands of the bulls, with wheat as a leader last week, but towards the close, better weather conditions in the States caused a slight reaction. This continued Monday and the Chicago wheat market lost about 2c. On Tuesday, however, the tide turned again chiefly on account of unfavorable weather reports from Europe, where the outlook is very unpromising. Then it was thought, too, that the better conditions in America had been more than discounted by the recession.

An English grain expert says that the indications for the European crop point to a total not exceeding 200,000,000 quarters (a quarter represents eight American bushels), and for the non-European crop 190,000,000 quarters. Ideal weather conditions from now to harvest may add 5,000,000 to 10,000,000 quarters to the total, but on the other hand unfavorable conditions could easily reduce the total by fully as much.

Flour is still in very light demand, but prices are firm and too high for export, though there is a good deal of foreign enquiry.

Confectionery.

Pretty nearly every progressive grocery store in Canada carries fine lines of confectionery and the experience of all of them is that it pays. This should be sufficient encouragement for those who are not making a specialty in this line to do so. Like everything else that is to be specialized, it must be well displayed, both in the window and in the shop. An up-to-date silent salesman is almost a necessity. This and some judicious salesmanship and a bright grocer could sell confectionery in a candy factory.

STOCKS OF TEA.

The statistics of the tea market warrant the belief that the present high market will continue for sometime longer.

The total amount of stock of tea in bond in London on the 31st of May, 1907, was 72,050,834 pounds. Last year it was, 74,634,386 pounds. The previous year it was, 82,035,235 pounds, thus showing a continued decline in the stocks in the world's tea market, and this in the face af an ever increasing market.

TEA CONSUMPTION INCREASING.

To the Editor of The Canadian Grocer:

I see a most extraordinary letter in your issue of the 4th, signed by George Lewis of George Lewis & Co., Chicago and Yokohama. Much of his advice is good, but when he states that the consumption of tea in Canada and the United States is rapidly decreasing, surely he doesn't know what he is talking about. This gentleman ought to consult the statistics of imports for the last ten years in both of these countries before rushing into print with such a statement. Possibly, as he is apparently only interested in the Japan tea business, and the consumption of Japans is declining, he jumps to the conclusion that all sorts are. Japan tea is destined to move off the face of the earth just like China Congous have, but teas such as we are putting in the "Salada" packages are making headway in all parts of the United States and Canada.

CORRESPONDENCE

CHATHAM.

Joseph Barassin, of Harry A. Andrew's grocery staff, was able to be down to the store recently, and hopes to resume his duties this week.

The executors of the estate of the late S. J. Johnson, of Amherstburg, are offering his grocery and fruit business for sale. The business is an old established one.

The Hawkin Milling Co., Limited, of Wallaceburg, recently held a shareholders' meeting, at which a permanent organization was effected. Wallaceburg merchants are largely interested. Mayor Stonehouse, J. W. Husband, A. J. Hawken, Miss F. L. Hawken, and W. M. Drader were elected directors and bylaws were passed. A directors' meeting will be held this week, when officers will be elected. A site has been selected, and building operations will be rapidly proceeded with.

Another transient trader case was up in the police court last week. The offender, Benjamin Brodie, dealt in house furnishings, carpets, linoleums, rugs, silverware, and a long list of kindred household articles, which he sold on the instalment plan, the goods being manufactured out of the city. Brodie didn't take out any license—hence the prosecution. The crown held that the defendant was a transient trader or peddler and, in default of paying a license, was liable under the civic bylaw. The defence contended that the license—$100 per year—was prohibitory, and the bylaw therefore an unjust one.

Magistrate Houston reserved judgment for a week, asking counsel for both parties to send in written argument. He stated that the case rested on the point as to whether or not the cost of the license was prohibitory.

Incidently, Peter Mitgis, the Greek peanut vendor, recently asked the city council for an exclusive license. Some time ago Peter requested the council to advance the license from $15 to $100 for push cart vendors. He now complains that he is being held up by fellow countrymen who threaten to take out lisenses also. He claims that he has bought off several of these already, and that they persist in coming. Another case of King Ethelred and the Danes, presumably. The council could do nothing for Mr. Mitgis, however.

Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, July 2nd or 3rd, a heavy frost visited this section. The exact extent of the damage done cannot be definitely stated. The crops which chiefly suffered were corn, beans, tomatoes, tobacco and potatoes. The bean crop was the chief sufferer.

So far as can be learned the frost was pretty well confined to Kent. Essex appears not to have been affected to any great extent. Vegetable and fruit growers along River Detroit and Lake St. Clair know of no damage, nor do correspondence in the southern part of Essex mention it.

Through Dover and Chatham township, north and west of Chatham city, the frost was particularly heavy. Along the Dover water front and directly along the river, reports indicate that no great damage was done—in fact, the proximity of water seems to have exerted a favorable influence. For some distance south of Chatham, through Raleigh and adjoining townships there was also considerable damage. South of the Ridge the frost was not so severe, and little damage has been reported. Tomatoes have suffered much. Wm. Anderson, a farmer near Botany, lost 5,000 tomato plants, and he was not the only sufferer. Tobacco seems also to have been considerably nipped throughout the county.

Five per cent. of the corn is reported killed outright, and 25 per cent. has been injured. Oats and barley are said to have suffered little, and wheat appears to have been unhurt. Farmers will, it is declared, get 100 per cent. more wheat than they expected six weeks ago.

J. F. Eby, president of the Eby, Blain Co., Toronto, has returned from a two weeks' fishing trip to Trent Bridge. A 14-lb. lunge, with an 8-lb. rod, and an hour's good playing is a sample of the sport enjoyed.

Lemons Firmer and May Go Higher—Melons a Hard Proposition for the Fruitman This Year—Last Car of Florida Pines.

Lemons have taken a turn upward, but the market is unlikely to be seriously affected yet awhile, unless the thermometer suddenly rises several degrees. At present the feeling is very firm, and dealers are preparing for a rising market and advising their customers to that effect.

Melons are not in very plentiful supply. This is not because there is any shortage in the crop, but because the price at which they must be sold in this market to net the dealer his profit is so high as to be almost prohibitive. Melons are a hard proposition for the fruit dealer this year. The duty, which formerly was about 25 per cent. on the value of the consignment, has now been raised to 3 cents on every melon that crosses the border. This makes the fruit a luxury by the time it is laid down here, for the duty is the same, no matter whether it is a large water melon or a small-sized cantaloupe. This change in the tariff was made ostensibly in the interest of the Canadian grower, who claimed that his rights were being infringed upon, and his market stolen under his nose. As a matter of fact, there is quite a break between the end of the American crop and beginning of the Canadian, and the Canadian grower is not affected much one way or the other.

What will probably be the last full car of Florida pines arrived this week. The pineapple crop has not been satisfactory, either from Florida or Cuba. The general sizes have ben small, and partly as a result of this, the demand has been curtailed in comparison with other years.

Dealers are experiencing great difficulty in getting a sufficient quantity of good tomatoes to meet the demand, which continues unchanged. It looks as though stocks are getting cleaned up.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—Market at present writing is firm, with very small offerings, owing to the scarcity of choice fruits. Next week, however, is expected to bring forward more liberal shipments. The demand for all fruits is better than ever. Cocoanuts advanced.

FRESH AND FROZEN FISH—Salmon is now plentiful and price is lowest of the season. These fish are in excellent condition, coming direct from the gulf each day. Mackerel are scarce, in fact, none are being taken now, as the fish have moved off the coast. Haddock and cod are in full supply, but brook trout are practically out of the market, as the continued warm weather, throughout the past week, has curtailed the fishing. Halibut is firm with prices nominal.

Demand for haddies has fallen off, owing to the warm weather. Stocks are in fine condition in lines of boneless and prepared fish.

Demand for salted and pickled fish is good. Quite a feeling has been experienced for Labrador salmon and sea trout in barrels and half barrels. All other kinds are now neglected. A few changes in price took place as follows:

FRUIT—This is the weather for fruit, and Ontario is beginning to respond to the call. The local berries are now arriving in full supply and most of the stock is of fine quality. Some cherries are coming in, and indications point to a good crop of this fruit from Ontario. With continued hot weather, Verdilli lemons are expected to jump forward. They are somewhat firmer this week

VEGETABLES—Potatoes have not taken the rise that the dealers were anticipating. Stocks still continue to arrive but less plentifully, and it is thought that Delewares are about all in. NO CARRY OVER.

Canned Goods Will Be Cleaned Up—An Unusual Situation.

One of the members of the National Wholesale Grocers' Association, in conversation with several other wholesale grocers in the lobby of the auditorium annex at Chicago, during the course of the convention, said in regard to canned goods :

"For the first time in many years there is no carry-over in peas, beans, asparagus, berries, lobsters and apples, with the chances favoring a complete cleanup of salmon and tomatoes. This is a most unusual situation. Even canned corn is in much better position than jobbers anticipated a few months ago. The retail trade has a better assortment of canned goods than the jobbers, and although there is a temporary scarcity of some articles in first hands, no trouble has been met by retailers in meeting the demands of consumers, who, when an article is scarce and high in price, have a fashion of abandoning its use, or else economizing to an exceptionable degree. It is this fact that speculators and the engineers of corners fail to take into consideration, and which fact explains their losses.

"The natural economies of the consuming public, so far as the grocery business is concerned, have not been shown to any appreciable extent as yet. In point of fact, there has been no marked falling off in general demand for the staple articles. We are short of goods, both canned and fresh, and even though prices are high, consumers must have them.

"The past year has demonstrated the fact that this country requires a production of 8,600,000 cases of tomatoes to cover actual requirements ; 4,500,000 cases of peas ; 3,200,000 cases of salmon, and at least 9,000,000 cases of corn. With the exception of the latter article there is now no carry-over of these staple articles. The stock of fruits being exhausted, and crop indications being unfavorable, it is impossible to pack enough to meet the demand. The outlook is that during the early part of 1908 there will be a greater scarcity of canned goods than now exists. I make the prophecy that next spring we will see a much greater depletion than now exists.

"I believe, however, that even with the unprecedented conditions that now exist in most of the staple commodities, the grocers watch credits, to avoid over stock, to act conservatively and keep out of new ventures and go on feeding 84,000,000 with good appetites, without embarrassment of any sort."

BEAN SITUATION IN KENT.

A few days ago the outlook for the bean crop in Kent was most promising. A harvest of over 1,000,000 bushels was expected from this and adjacent counties. The heavy frost of July 2nd has considerably nipped these expectations. At the present writing it is impossible to speak absolutely regarding the damage. The reports at first received from the territory adjacent to Chatham were brief and explicit enough.

"It's finished the beans," was the word everywhere.

Later reports are more favorable.

So far as can be learned, the situation is about like this. Twenty-five per cent. of the entire bean crop has been destroyed. In a great many fields the beans are entirely killed, and the farmers are pulling them up. In other sections, the crop is injured anywhere from 10 to 50 per cent. Unconfirmed reports have been received to the effect that the crop is badly nipped in the vicinity of Highgate and along the line of the Pere Marquette ; but nothing definite has been heard as to this. South of the Ridge, which is a great bean-growing district, reports state that the frost was not so severe. A report from Thamesville and adjacent territory is to the effect that beans in that vicinity will now be only half a crop. There was a large acreage and they looked most promising.

Many farmers are reported to be replanting their beans. Whether or not this move will be successful depends largely on the weather. If there is enough rain in the next few days to bring them up, and if the frost holds off till late in the fall, those who replant may harvest a fair crop. If, however, the dry weather continues another ten days, the late planting will be a failure. Anyway, smaller beans may be looked for from the replanted crops.

In view of the shortening of the crop as a result of the frost, an effort seems to be in progress to corner the bean crop. Local dealers are reported to be buying back from the eastern men, and there is every indication that the report is correct. It has been stated that in all probability beans this year will soar to $2 per bushel, and this prophecy may not be far wrong.

Freight Handlers' Strike for Higher Wages—Fish Prospects Bright—North Sydney Potato Dealers Looking to Maine for Supplies.

Halifax, July 8.

Business has suffered very severely and merchants have been greatly handicapped as a result of the railway freight handlers' strike last week. Over one hundred cars of freight were in the railway yards waiting to be unloaded, and the sheds are filled with goods.

After the strike had been in progress two days and as there were no signs of an early settlement, the Board of Trade met and passed a resolution, copies of which were forwarded to the railway authorities, urging that the men be granted the increase, pending the decision of the conciliation board, which they suggested, should settle the dispute. Several of the merchants who had goods to ship on urgent orders, sent them across to Dartmouth by water, and shipped from the station on the opposite side of the harbor. One dealer shipped over a hundred barrels of sugar in this way.

End of the Strike.

The fruit dealers experienced great difficulty in getting possession of their shipments, and early in the week they suffered considerable loss, as orders from outside points for fruit for the holiday could not be sent forward, owing to the strike. The men returned to work on Saturday, having agreed to accept a settlement of the wage question by a board of conciliation.

The Produce Markets.

Potatoes — New American potatoes have arrived on the market. The quality is very good, but the price is high, $1.50 per bushel.

It is expected that the old potatoes now on the market will take a drop in price.

BUTTER—The decline in the price of butter continues, but very slowly. Dairy tubs range from 21c. to 22c., and creamery boxes from 23c. to 24c.

EGGS—There is only a light demand for eggs, which are now quoted at 17c. It is reported that eggs can be bought on Prince Edward Island for 14½c.

BEANS—Telegrams received here state that the bean crop in Chatham and Ridgetown, Ont., have been damaged by frost, and that all offers have been withdrawn.

FISH—Emile Poirier, mayor of St. Pierre, Miq., was a visitor to Halifax last week. He says the French fleet is making good catches this season, and that the outlook in the colony is very bright. Prices rule high, as much as 25 francs, ($4.75), being obtained for green fish per quintal.

The run of spring mackerel is about over on the Nova Scotia coast, and the shore fishermen have had a prosperous season. One Halifax dealer purchased over one hundred thousand fresh mackerel, and he shipped over half of them to the American market. The venture proved a losing one, as the price in Boston dropped before the fish reached the market, and it is stated that he lost $2,500 as a result.

Buying American Potatoes.

As a result of the scarcity of potatoes, and the almost prohibitive price asked by the dealers in Prince Edward Island, North Sydney merchants last week wired for a large shipment of potatoes from Maine. It is said potatoes in Maine are sold at such a figure that they can be shipped to North Sydney and after paying twenty cents duty, and about eighteen cents per bushel freight, the merchants can sell them at a much lower rate than that asked by the dealers at the wharves at North Sydney. The action of the dealers or farmers in P. E. Island in placing such prices on potatoes and other farm products has caused dealers in the Sydneys to make enquiries in New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and even Quebec, as well as Maine, as to the possibility of purchasing farm products. The result has been that next year shipments to Cape Breton, from P. E. Island, will fall much short of those made during the past few years.

Death of Old Retailer.

Philip B. Hire, who formerly conducted a large retail grocery business in Halifax, died in Boston last week, aged 62 years. ,When in Halifax he was considered to be one of the best men in the business, being thoroughly conversant with all the branches of the trade.

* * *

The first commercial traveler's license taken out under the new Liquor License Act, in Halifax, was issued last week to D. O. Roblin, of Toronto, through the firm's representative, H. McCroden.

A SOUTHAMPTON STORE AND ITS ENERGETIC OWNER

The gentleman who has taken up such a debonnair pose behind the counter of the interior shown in the accompanying cut is B. A. Belyea, who owns and personally conducts a flourishing general store business at Southampton. Mr. Belyea has been busy on the same old stand for thirty-seven years, and his store has naturally become one of the landmarks of the town.

B. A. Belyea, in His Store at Southampton.

During the summer months Mr. Belyea is to and fro from daylight to dark, looking after customers, superintending every last detail of method and arrangement and generally leaving his clerks little opportunity to discuss the races or wonder how near it is to closing time.

He has been burnt out twice. These misfortunes, following hard on one another, might have had the effect of driving out of business a man less full of optimism and courage. The effect on Mr. Belyea was to make him build a better store each time.

He is possessed in a rare degree of that invaluable faculty of retaining a youthful spirit in the midst of middle-aged cares. He never worries, and as a result, never seems to grow older. There isn't a detail of store management or window dressing upon which he is unable to talk intelligently and instructively, and what he preaches he puts into practise in his own business. His windows are always among the best dressed in town.

Gifted with the sunniest of smiles and the warmest hand-shake that ever gladdened a traveler's heart, it is little wonder that Mr. Belyea is looked upon by all the boys as a personal friend. Whether an order is forthcoming or not, he knows how to make a man leave his store feeling better than when he entered it. If he has a personal enemy, that gentleman, feeling, probably, that it would be the height of indelicacy to set himself up as the one exception to the rule, has so far kept in the background.

THE OLD RELIABLE

ROYAL

BAKING POWDER

Absolutely Pure

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

(Though many imitations)

All grocers should carry a full stock of ROYAL BAKING POWDER. It always gives the greatest satisfaction to customers, and in the end yields the larger profit to the dealer.

There may come a time when it will be utter nonsense for a Grocer to stock cigars. But—it is absolutely necessary for a Grocer to pay attention—strict attention—to his cigar trade to-day. Since competition compels you to stock cigars shouldn't you stock the best your customers can afford to buy? You make no mistake when you carry because they are the best cigars ever sold at the price. That fact would make little difference to you if the smokers of Canada were not aware of it. But they know that fifteen cents would fail to buy a cigar as good as Pharaoh and they buy it for ten; while they know and acknowledge my five-cent Pebble to be peerless and easily superior to most ten.

N. B.—The Payne Plan of doing business says more for the sterling quality of my Cigars than all the words we could print. Do you know that plan?

J. BRUCE PAYNE, Limited, GRANBY, QUEBEC

Mr. Grocer! There's profit in a brand of tobacco half as popular as T. & B. and of course it does pay to stock Canada's first favorite amongst all pipe tobaccos.

T. & B.

is something more than the best pipe tobacco to you. It will build up a paying trade just as sure as fate, because the man who pays for groceries just about decides where these groceries shall be bought.

T. & B. sells more than Tobacco.

FOOD STUFF NEWS AND MARKETS ON THE PACIFIC COAST

(Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer)

Vancouver, B.C., July 4, 1907.

Sockeye salmon the chief variety of this famous B.C. fish, are now in season on the Fraser River, though there is not so much of a run as in the north. Reports from Skeena River and Rivers Inlet, where the sockeye begins to run much earlier than further south, show that a fair catch is being made, the average being 30 to the boat. The northern canneries are, of course, busy packing the salmon. On the Fraser the canneries have not prepared for a big pack, this being one of the smallest of the off years. It is almost settled that 25 cents per fish will be the price paid this season on the Fraser, though no conferences between canners and fishermen have been held. The run lasts through July and August.

Though there has been no extreme activity in business circles this year, the statement of bank clearings for Vancouver for the six months ending June 30 shows a very healthy growth. The increase over the first six months of last year is more than fifty per cent. The figures for June, while just under the largest monthly record of clearings, show a gain of 52 per cent. over June, 1906. The total for the month of June, just ended, is $15,578,149; for the six months of the half year the total clearings are $85,950,808.

There will be two fruit canning establishments in the Okanagan Valley this year, both new concerns, practically, and each erected in a centre where a large supply of material is available, with growing prospects for the coming years. The first is now completed at Peachland, by R. J. Hogg, who last year conducted a small experimental plant at which he put up quite a large quantity of peaches and other Peachland fruit. This year his venture is on a much larger scale and will be on a commercial basis. The other cannery is being erected at Kelowna, another point on the lake and one of the most favorably situated in that it has such a large territory immediately tributary to it. Fraser Bros. and Whitehead are erecting a large two-storey frame building to be used for this purpose. They will first put up tomatoes, of which large quantities are grown at Kelowna and vicinity. The brand will be "Kelowna" and an attractive label has been chosen. It is expected that over 50,000 cases will be put up, including some peaches plums, etc. though the bulk of the pack will be tomatoes. This Kelowna concern is going out after business and expects to compete with the eastern packers.

Leading butchers and wholesale meat dealers announce a reduction in prices of fresh meat. The retail prices of meat were advanced last March because the stocks all came from the range of Alberta at that time and owing to the severe winter the stock had to be taken up and stall-fed for the market. Now that the season has advanced, the grass-fed stock from the ranges of the interior of British Columbia are coming on to the market, and at prices which allow a reduction of retail charges.

Fruit from local sources is still a scarce article on the markets of the coast cities. Strawberries are still handled in a limited way. They are quoted up to $3 and $3.25 this week. Raspberries have only just begun to come in, the rain of the past two days having held them back. The price has hardly been set yet, though it will open about $2.50 per crate for 24 lbs.

Preserving cherries are in, but the demand far exceeds possible supply. The price is quoted at 8 cents per pound. Local sweet cherries are getting scarcer, though still selling at 10 cents per pound. Australian apples are off the market, and no fresh stock from California is yet in, though expected soon. Oranges are unchanged from last quotations.

Tomatoes have begun to come in from local sources as well as the Mississippi stock, which has been received for some time. The price of local tomatoes is now $4 per crate. Local new potatoes are 3½ and 4 cents per pound. Old potatoes are still selling around $50 per ton. Rhubarb is down to 2 and 2½ cents; cucumbers are selling at $1.50 per dozen.

BUSINESS MEN IN MUNICIPAL LIFE

No. 22.

Geo. A. Gillespie.

Geo. A. Gillespie is a member of the firm of White & Gillespie, Peterborough, who for the past five years have been doing a very large grocery and provision business. He is on of the brightest and most universally liked business men in the country, and he could have almost any civic position in the city he wished.

Mr. Gillespie is now vice-president of the Board of Trade, having refused the office of president, as this is his third year on the board. He is one of the hardest working directors in the agricultural society; he is a member of the cheese board and is one of the largest buyers on the board, and he is a member of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association.

Besides groceries, White & Gillespie handle cheese factory and creamery supplies. Mr. Gillespie takes charge of this end entirely and covers a very large district. He was for twelve years previous to joining Mr. White, a cheese and butter maker, and he thoroughly understands the needs of the dairymen. As a result he is selling a lot of machinery to the different factories, and this year installed an entire new plant in several cases. He is well-qnown to nearly every farmer for many miles around, and is the means of adding greatly to the grocery end of the business, which is managed by Mr. White.

Mr. Gillespie is taking a very keen interest in everything that is in the interests of the farmer, especially the dairy farmer. At the present time he is booming cow testing associations and cool curing rooms, the effect of this being that the production of cheese and butter has been materially increased and the quality now is the very best.

Up to the present time Mr. Gillespie may be said to have had a brilliant career. He has touched nothing of which he has not made a success—he has met few men of whom he has failed to make close personal friends. For a young man—he is still five years on the right side of 40—his life has been one of remarkable usefulness to his fellow citizens. The energy and fine intelligence which he has brought to bear upon the work of the various boards and societies with which he is connected is being fully recognized by the citizens of Peterborough, and there are not many young men whose futures are as ploblematical than that of Mr. Gillespie.

If the coming years confirm the promise of the past, Mr. Gillespie is destined to carve his name deep on the roll of Peterborough's citizenship. His place will be among the men who have wrought to have their city better than they found it, and who in the doing have been industrious in her interests, honest in their own, and have left an abiding memory in the hearts of their fellow citizens.

THE SIMPLE DIET.

A gathering of great doctors, under the presidency of the Lord Mayor, urged upon a fashionably dressed audience at the Mansion House, London, England, a few days ago, the advisability of a simple diet for the rich and poor. So far as the rich were concerned the 214 different kinds of soup and 530 ways of dressing a chicken were referred to scornfully, while in the case of the poor their unintentionally extravagant choice of improper food was exampled by showing that they sometimes spent sevenpence for food, the equivalent of which could be bough for fourpence.

Sir James Chrichton-Browne deplored the disuse of oatmeal in England, asserting that a small plate of porridge was equal in proteid value to two thick slices of a four-pound loaf.

The meeting was to a great extent the apotheosis of whole meal bread. A great number of whole wheat preparations were exhibited. Everybody loaded it with praise.

Other foods boomed by the learned speakers comprised lentils, cheap dripping, treacle and herring, the last being described as being splendidly nutritious. Colonial meat was approved, but white bread received few good words, while eggs, from an economic viewpoint, were declared to be extravagant, costing far more than they were worth.

A NEW AGENCY.

Maclure & Langley, the well-known manufacturers agents, of Toronto and Montreal, have been appointed representatives for Canada for Sutcliffe & Bingham, of Manchester, England, manufacturers of the celebrated Kkovah jellies and other uroducts. It is the intention of Maclure & Langley to carry a well assorted stock of these goods in both Toronto and Montreal warehouses, and all orders will receive very best attention. Hitherto Surcliffe & Bingham have maintained an agency of their own in Canada, but the placing of the goods in the hands of an enterprising Canadian firm like Maclure & Langley has been considered advisable. Maclure & Langley have taken possession of Sutcliffe & Bingham's former warehouse at 30 William street, Montreal, where they will have larger facilities for carrying on their increased business.

Business Management

By HOWARD R. WELLINGTON.

The Evolution of Bookkeeping Methods.

From the earliest times those engaged in "barter" or trade have found it necessary to keep a record of their transactions for reference, especially so in the case of transactions not carried out on a cash basis. The ancients used to cut their entries in stone tablets which served the purpose of books, a crude way, and one which would not suit a few of our modern book-keepers, who are in the habit of making mistakes that require correction.

Single Entry.

Single entry book-keeping was used largely for a number of years, and is in use by a large number of concerns to-day; but the necessity of obtaining more practical information in reference to the cost of running a business and the profit of trading, has forced the adoption of the more modern double entry methods. The distinguishing feature of single entry book-keeping is that only personal accounts are kept in the ledger. This system of book-keeping contemplates only such a record, or the filing of only such documents, as will enable the proprietor to determine at any time the assets and liabilities of his business. For this purpose the practice is to journalize and post personal accounts only. Cash receipts and payments are entered in the cash book, and bills receivable and payable in the bill book. Since no accounts showing gains or losses are kept in single entry, it follows that an itemized statement of the gains and losses of the business cannot be obtained, hence the development of the double entry methods.

The net gain or net loss of the business can be determined, however, in the following manner: First, ascertain the present worth by finding the difference between the assets and liabilities, and then compare it with the investment. If the present worth is greater than the investment the difference shows a net gain; if less, a net loss.

Double Entry.

The object of modern double entry book-keeping is to determine, at any time, the true condition of a business.

The underlying principle of double entry is, of course, that every debit must have a corresponding credit entry. The general rule in making entries may be clearly stated as follows: *Debit whatever costs value or receives value, and credit what produces value or parts with value. If this rule is observed the book-keeper need never go astray in making an entry of any nature. The principal books used in double entry are as follows:

The day book, which comprises records of sales and purchases.

The cash book, which records cash and bank transactions.

The bill book, which records all bills receivable and bills payable.

The journal, which records now-a-days transactions which cannot be conveniently recorded elsewhere, adjusting entries, etc.

The ledger, which contains the final results gathered together and posted from all the other books into the various accounts.

Sales Records.

Notwithstanding the great advance made in recent years in the science and practice of accounts, it is only to be expected that in some quarters antiquated and clumsy methods will yet be found, which are dear to the merchant's heart. A book-keeper for a retail dry goods store once complained of the overwhelming amount of work he was called upon to perform. This work had largely to do with recording credit sales. The sales tickets were made out in duplicate by the salesman, the original copy of which was handed to the customer, the duplicate sheet being given over to the book-keeper to record. From these sales tickets a day book was written up by copying item by item in detail, and from the day book each item was carefully copied into a sales ledger, this being considered necessary in order to provide each customer with a detailed statement of the purchases made during the month. Naturally the next step would be to copy each item again on the monthly statement which was presented to the customer in detail on the first of each month.

Stop and think a minute! Suppose there are five hundred accounts on the books of this merchant and each customer buys from three to four times a month, each sales item being recorded four times in detail, think of the time wasted in re-copying such items. Perhaps such an illustration is unusual in the actual course of business, but there is no doubt that a great amount of thought and system could be intelligently applied to our records. A system for recording sales to the best advantage, and with the best results, will be illustrated in a subsequent issue

The Cash Book.

The cash book with a number of columns is the most popular in use to-day. Special columns on the debit side for "bank," "cash sales," "bills receivable discounted," or any other suitable heading may be arranged. On the credit side in addition to the usual column for the bank account, the expense accounts may be sub-divided under any number of headings, such as postage, stationery, expense, freight and duty, etc., the totals of all these columns being posted at the end of the month.

The main feature to bear in mind in dealing with a cash book is that it is simply a ledger accouunt, the items on the debit side being posted to the credit of some other representative account, and the items on the credit side being posted to the debit of the respective accounts named.

The youth was an applicant for a place in a big firm, where his principal duty would be to ward off by evasive answers the nuisances who daily haunt the place.

"Where have you been employd?" queried the manager.

"Here and there," responded the applicant airily.

"Humph! Doing what?"

"Oh! this and that," was the guarded reply.

"You'll do," said the manager admiringly; and the youth now occupies a desk near the inquiry window of the other office and dispenses peculiarly indefinite answers with liberality to all comers.

$800 FINE AND A YEAR IN JAIL

If a man fails in business and it be proved that, for five years before his failure, he has not kept proper books, he is liable to a fine of $800.00 and one year in jail.

It is almost better to keep your books right than pay a fine and go down for a year, isn't it?

* * * * * *

Business Systems will enable you to keep your books right—Business Systems mean proper bookkeeping.

Business Systems allow nothing to be forgotten, and mean mechanical perfection in bookkeeping.

Business Systems being proper bookkeeping, actually prevent failures—show a man where anything is going wrong in his business and enable him to prevent it.

* * * * *

We would like to give you details of all this and tell you how we can apply Business Systems to your business.

It will only cost you one cent for a post card to know more.

The Mountain Climbers' Club

Have a rule that no expedition is stronger than its weakest member.

If the latter succumbs to fatigue, all are halted, and time lost.

In the race for business, if one department languishes, and does not keep up with the rest, money is lost.

But those who start out with

"WOOD'S COFFEES"

find Strength and Vigor for company, and reach the heights of success.

REAL LUCCA OIL

is the only oil any epicure will use—or any self-respecting grocer stock. Nowadays a large proportion of the so-called Salad and Lucca Oils are made principally from cotton seed oil, but the C. & B. Lucca Oil is absolutely guaranteed to be pure and to be made only from the finest olives. For salads of all sorts it is without an equal, and as it gives the wholesaler just as good a profit as lower grade salad oils, there is no possible excuse for his refusing to carry it in stock. It is unsurpassed for its keeping qualities and your customers will appreciate this fact. Place an order with your wholesaler at once. Insist on his giving you what you and your customers want. If he does not stock it, have him import it for you.

BRADSTREET'S

Capital and Surplus, $1,500,000. Offices Throughout the Civilized World
Executive Offices: Nos. 346 and 348 Broadway, New York City, U.S.A.

THE BRADSTREET COMPANY gathers information that reflects the financial condition and the controlling circumstances of every seeker of mercantile credit. Its business may be defined as of the merchants, by the merchants, for the merchants. In procuring, verifying and promulgating information no effort is spared, and no reasonable expense considered too great, that the results may justify its claims as an authority on all matters affecting commercial affairs and mercantile credit. Its offices and connections have been steadily extended, and it furnishes information concerning mercantile persons throughout the civilized world.

"There is nothing in it for the well-located grocer to handle cheap canned goods," remarks a New Haven grocer. "I speak from experience," he says, "because I often bought a lot of this truck as a sort of leader. It would have led me into the insolvency court if I had persisted. Canned Corn at 8c. a can may look attractive on the bargain handbill, but that's all. It is not intended to leave a good taste in the consumer's mouth, and it doesn't. It gives the grocer who sells it a reputation for handling cheap goods, and frequently it loses him a good customer. And the only possible gain is the possible temporary acquirement of a few bargain-hunting patrons."

Think this over a bit and you will be inclined to agree that cheap goods at any price are not what you want as a reputation builder.

If you handle Canadian Canners goods you will keep your old customers and make new ones.

"Aylmer," "Little Chief," "Log Cabin," "Horse-shoe," "Auto," "Kent," "Lynnvalley," "Maple Leaf," "Lion," "Thistle," "Grand River," and "White Rose" Brands are all guaranteed as to quality. They have been popular brands for over a quarter of a century.

Fruits and vegetables of these brands are canned only when at their best for table use.

The Wants of Women——Study Them

MR. GROCER! You may invest more money in your business; you may advertise the best lines of staple groceries on earth; you may know your trade from beginning to end; but—unless you know and study the wants of women—your business acumen will avail you nothing in the struggle for commercial supremacy. Women, consciously or no, dictate the policy of the business world, and no merchant is great or powerful enough to ignore their decision. Now, sir! since these facts are indisputable, and since the women of Canada have almost unanimously declared that of Canned Goods is peerless—beyond compare—surely you owe it to yourself to stock and talk the brand which clinches both reputation and profit. No brand of Canned Goods on the market can do more for you than Old Homestead. That much we are positive about. But the particular and economical housewives of Canada are just as positive that is so much superior to the next best brand of Canned Goods that there is no comparison. And there are strong reasons for their belief. All the goodness of succulent fruit and fresh vegetables is retained in Old Homestead Brand. The name stands for surety of purity and that palate pleasing, appetizing flavor which has made the brand famous.

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

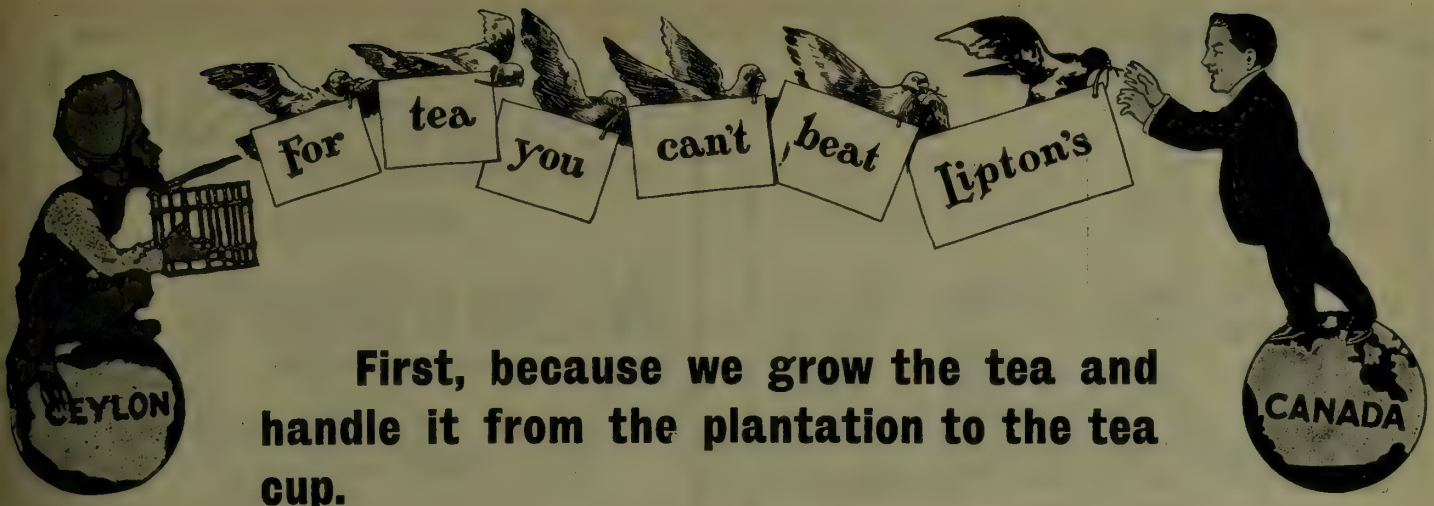
PICTON, ONTARIO



First, because we grow the tea and handle it from the plantation to the tea cup.

Second, because our blending experts are the most skilled in the world and have studied our tea problems for years.

Third, because the striking flavor is blended into the tea and kept there until the consumer uses it. This is done by packing in sealed, air-tight tins, into which the atmosphere cannot penetrate.

This single feature of flavor-preservation is a Lipton standard others have endeavored to copy. It insures perfect tea in every can. The loss of flavor common to teas exposed to the air in open chests is entirely done away with.

If you have had complaints on tea because the flavor has been weakened by exposure, you may be sure of giving satisfaction by selling

TO MANUFACTURERS AND SHIPPERS

DEAR SIRS:

If you care to intrust to us the pushing of your interests in Western Canada, we can place at your command exceptional facilities and a wide and thorough knowledge of the trade in this territory.

We have been successfully prosecuting the business of general selling agents and manufacturers' representatives for many years. There is no better known house in Western Canada, or one possessing a larger or more loyal circle of clients.

Our facilities for storing and handling goods are excellent. We have three warehouses----one each at Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton---- from which points we can readily and quickly reach all towns in this region.

We should like to receive some consignments from you, and believe you would find a connection with us very profitable.

A reply from you would be greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,

NICHOLSON & BAIN,

Are You "Salada" Wise? Or Otherwise

"Imagination will carry one a long way, sometimes."

For Example

Some dealers, "Not you, of course," imagine that Bulk Teas are more profitable to handle than "SALADA." This is a delusion that can easily be dispelled by a short study of the facts.

Bulk Teas cost the locking up of capital on investment,

Entailing expense of insurance, deterioration in quality, loss on weight, waste and other shrinkages.

Your estimated profit is visionary, not actual.

Then again the buying of bulk Teas by you is a precarious occupation at the best.

For "to be perfectly candid," what do you know about Tea characters and Tea values anyway?

What can you know?

Therefore, what possible opportunity have you of pleasing your customers in competition with men who are devoting their whole lives, thought and capital to the study of Tea, and Tea alone, and who have made a marked success of their enterprise.

"SALADA" costs not one dollar on investment.

As it can be bought to equal advantage in single case lots, "Freight Prepaid," as in larger quantities, and is readily disposed of at a good actual protected profit within the time limit for payment.

And an absolute knowledge that every individual sale has given your customers unbounded satisfaction.

Don't trifle with your clients' Goodwill. The best of everything will alone suffice to hold their trade and cement their friendship nowadays.

THE BEST IN TEA IS "SALADA."

Grocery Clerks' Pure Food Show

Retail Grocery Clerks Inaugurate Exhibition at Montreal—Large Attendance and Fine Enthusiasm Shown in the Number of Booths—The Stadium Only Just Large Enough to Accommodate the Crowds of Visitors—Descriptions and Photographs of Some of the Most Prominent of the Booths.

Montreal will soon become famous for its Pure Food Shows. Two very successful events of this nature have taken place there in less than six months. Inspired by the magnificent success which attended the exhibition held in the Arena under the auspices of the Retail Merchants' Association, a second one was arranged for, under the auspices of the retail grocery clerks, and this was held at the Stadium, from the 1st to the 13th of July. The time of year was not considered by exhibitors to be a good one, and this doubtless militated to some extent against the quantity of the exhibits, but quality was not lacking and a number of representative firms excelled themselves in an effort to produce neat and attractive booths.

J. OLIER L'EVESQUE
On the Committee of the Pure Food Show Exhibition.

ALBERT LACROIX
President Grocery Clerks' Association and Member of Pure Food Show Committee.

J. B. E. POIRIER
Treasurer of the Association and on the Pure Food Show Committee.

MAX CARTER
Secretary Montreal Grocery Clerk's Association.

J. OMER DIONNE
Secretary of the Pure Food Show Exhibition.

A departure from the plan followed by the first exhibition, was made by the introduction of vaudeville performances, which took place each evening during the exhibition and added variety to the programme. Whether this procedure is strictly orthodox in the conduct of a successful grocery exhibition is open to opinion, but it certainly had the effect of drawing big crowds, and this was, of course, the end desired.

A Large Attendance.

During the thirteen days of the fair the attendance was all that could be wished for, especially in the evening, but the large rink was invariably well filled. It is estimated from 15,000 to 20,000 people attended the fair. On the whole, the attendance was considered very satisfactory by the committee which had the management of the exhibition, and the exhibitors were also quite satisfied on this score.

J. A. JACOB
On the Committee of the Pure Food Show Exhibition.

Many lines hitherto unknown were introduced to the consumer, while goods which have been on the market for years were once more brought prominently before the public eye. In this way much new trade was created. The goods shown will be in even greater demand than ever. The manufacturer, as well as the retail grocer, will reap the benefit, as goods that will successfully withstand the searching examination of a pure food show are most likely to be satisfactory as far as purity is concerned.

The Stadium, one of Montreal's largest rinks, was just large enough to comfortably accommodate the large crowds that flocked to the exhibition. The Stadium is located in the northern part of Montreal, corner Duluth and St. Hubert streets.

The manner in which the booths were laid out was artistic. A central row of booths extended the length of the rink, with large Union Jack at one end and the vaudeville theatre at the other. Around the sides were stands of uniform size.

The Lighter Side.

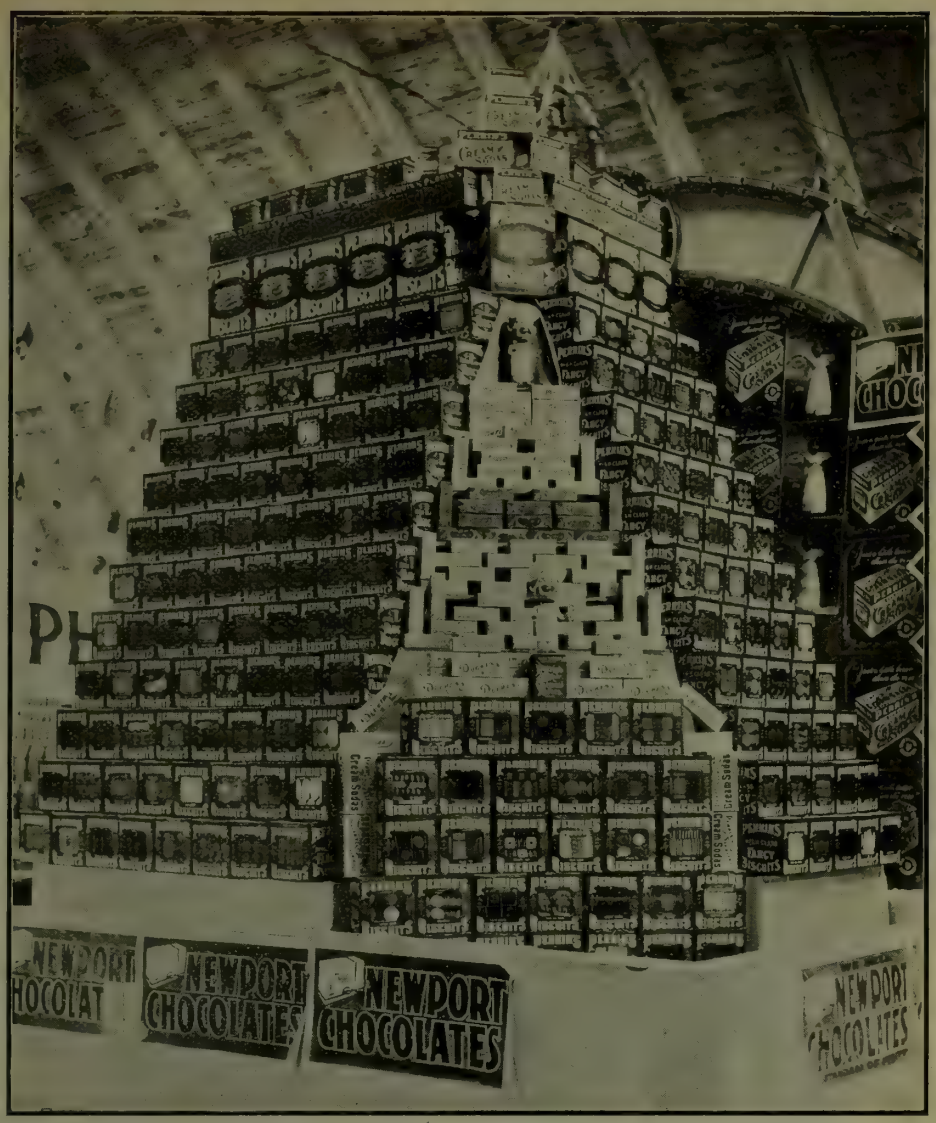
Amusement was supplied in the form of a general programme of vaudeville turns and illustrated songs, many of which were of exceptional merit. A large stage was built at the eastern end of the rink and as the crowds grew larger and the exhibition progressed, the programme was doubled, and included a varied vaudeville performance.

Colonial Fluid Beef and Specialty Co.

The Colonial Fluid Beef & Specialty Co. had an exhibit of interest. This company, which was organized in 1901, has gradually attained to an enviable standard of excellence.

Through its wise and progressive management it has in a few years placed on a sound footing a system of manufacturing several specialties, selected with discrimination and prepared by experts, with a view to rapidly creating an interest in commercial and consuming circles.

Besides the "Red Cross Fluid Beef," the "Culinary Extracts" and the "Colonial Jelly Powders," two other wholesome specialties which have already created a favorable impression in Canadian households are the wonderful "O. K." show blacking, and the "Colonial Stove Polish," both equally popular because they are both labor saving and economical to the user; moreover, they give results. The "OK" shoe blacking is coming to be classed amongst the staple goods because it is unique in value and quality. "Colonial Stove Polish" is of jet black which does not fade or change.



Montreal Grocery Clerks' Food Show—Perrin's Biscuits and Confectionery.

Any success which has come to the Colonial Fluid Beef & Specialty Co. has been won on the merit of their goods. The rapid growth and extension of its business is directly due to the push, energy and pluck of its progressive management. This company won first prize for the finest arranged booth in the exhibition.

Montreal Grocery Clerks' Food Show—Colonial Beef and Specialty Co.

Perrin's Biscuits.

The name of D. S. Perrin & Co. is month by month becoming more prominent in the eyes of the public, as a firm who manufacture biscuits and confectionery hard to beat. This firm had a very tasty exhibit of their many lines, occupying a booth in the central part of the rink. One of the features, outside of its good qualities, was the attractive manner in which the goods were displayed. A large number of their 300 odd varieties of biscuits were on exhibition, special prominence being given to their standard seller, Sterling cream sodas. Newport chocolates and packages of five o'clock tea were also given a heavy showing. The exhibit is deserving of particular mention for its striking and neat arrangement.

Comte Coffees.

With characteristic enterprise A. Comte & Cie were well to the fore with a great display of their various lines of coffee. The exhibit was located in a very busy section, being southeast of the main entrance down the centre row. This booth, throughout the exhibition, lived up to the highest standard, with two demonstrators hard at work answering questions, and by visible proof establishing the quality of the Comte coffees.

The Comte firm specialize in coffees and they offer to the trade some very fine lines for the prices they quote.

The success at this booth was mainly due to the successful way in which they handled the public. The merits of St. Marc, La Creole and Java Mocha coffees were successfully shown. On alternate evenings the coffee was given away in the form of ice cream soda, which, by the way, makes a very refreshing drink, and besides this, the different lines were sampled by the public to their heart's content.

The booth was attractively decorated with red, white and blue bunting, and at the top of the booth, red, white and blue lights were prominent, giving it a very pretty appearance. This booth, by the way, took the second prize.

Comte & Co. are building up an enviable reputation for the splendid quality of their coffees, and trade is in its wake.

Montreal Grocery Clerks' Food Show—August Comte, Coffees.

Montreal Grocery Clerks' Food Show—Molsons' Ale, Porter, Etc.

Molsons' Lines.

First you tasted Molsons' India pale ale, and if you had not previously been acquainted with the Molson taste you would wonder at there being anything so pleasing and refreshing in the drink line.

The booth was built in the form of a pyramid of bottles and the decorative effect was supplied by the various lines put up by this firm, capped by several large shields, representing facsimiles of their handsome labels. The booth was situated in the northeastern part of the rink and showed first-class taste in construction. This firm have a very large trade, their porter, India pale ale, etc., being noted for its excellent quality.

Eker's Brewery.

Though not attempting to make anything in the shape of an exhibit at the food fair, Ekers' Brewery, manufacturers of the well-known brand of pale ale which bears that name, also the renowned Bohemian lager, did some good advertising for their products at the exhibition. At the back of their booth was exhibited a large facsimile of their pale ale label, whilst below, illuminated with special electric lights, was the label of the Bohemian lager. Barrels of these refreshing beverages were kept on hand and a liberal supply dispensed in the way of samples to the thirsty ones who visited the exhibition on the hot July evenings.

The Canadian Brewing Company followed the same plan on the opposite side of the Stadium, illustrating their labels and demonstrating their goods to the satisfaction of all connoisieurs.

Laporte, Martin & Co., Limited.

As will be seen from the accompanying photograph, the booth in which Laporte, Martin & Co. displayed their goods was dressed in a very attractive manner. Outside of this, however, quality predominated. Such lines as Hiawatha mineral water, on view on the north side of the booth, certainly compare favorably with anything of their kind on the market. This water is sold in the standard size bottles, and can be secured in either still natural water or aerated. Many other lines, of which this firm are agents, were also to the fore, including malt extract, Mitchell's Scotch whisky, and Sir Thos. Lipton's tea.

Montreal Grocery Clerks' Food Show—Laporte, Martin & Co.

Leon Fontanel & Cie.

At the west end of the building, in a prominent central stand was located a fine display of the high-class lines of which Leon Fontanel & Cie. are agents. No one who tasted the dainty biscuits handed out at the booth, went away without being convinced that this line was as good as anything on the market. Pernot biscuits, for which the firm are Canadian agents, were awarded Grand Prix at Hanoi in 1902, and again in 1904 captured the same honor at St. Louis. In the year 1906 they were judged beyond competition in Milan and Marseilles. In Liege, too, in 1905, they were again out of reach of competition.

Attractive literature was handed out to the many visitors at the booth, explaining facts about all their other lines on exhibition, notably a fine display of French wines.

C. A. Chouillou & Cie.

A tasty exhibit was that of the product of C. A. Chouillou & Co. This firm are Canadian agents for Lessive Phoenix washing powder. The booth was in a prominent location, being situated in the middle of the centre row. The decoration was of red, white and blue bunting. Samples of Lessive Phoenix washing powder were cheerfully given out by the demonstrators. Chouillou & Co. have a good thing in Lessive Phenix, and know how to push it along.

Charles Gurd & Co.

A splendid exhibit of aerated waters was made by this firm at the extreme end of the centre row. Here were shown the various lines manufactured. Among the leading varieties might be mentioned ginger ale, Caledonia mineral water, cider, ginger beer, and, in fact, all of the well-known lines which this firm manufacture.

The exhibit was in the form of two pyramids, the decorative effects being supplied by the goods on display.

The committee which had the management of the exhibition were: Albert Lacroix, president; O. Dionne, secretary; J. B. E. Poirier, treasurer; A. Quesnelle, Jos. Levesque.

Lambert's Syrup.

At the present day Dr. J. O. Lambert's syrup is well known, still it was given another large boost of publicity at the food fair just concluded. The firm had a nice display on the southern side of the rink. Besides small bottles of the syrup, with circulars explaining to the public the merits of the article were given out by the demonstrators, and as a result, owing to the good qualities of the remedy, Dr. Lambert may rest assured that he has made many new friends by his demonstration at the food show. The syrup is very highly spoken of for coughs, colds and all lung affections.

Montreal Grocery Clerks' Food Show—Leon Fontanel & Co.

Joseph Lamoureux & Cie.

A very artistic booth was that occupied by Joseph Lamoureux & Cie. It was situated on the north side of the rink and was arranged in a manner which showed the time and labor spent upon it. A few of the most prominently displayed lines were, Kings brand tomato catsup, King and Eagle brand jams. Other lines of jam were also on exhibition. Samples of the jams were given out on biscuits to the public and proved a successful way of demonstrating the lines. Taken altogether, this firm should be pleased with the show in general. In addition to the goods exhibited, the firm manufacture a splendid line of pickles, which have a large sale.

GROCERY NEWS FROM ATLANTIC TO PACIFIC

IN THESE COLUMNS THE GROCER IS IN TOUCH WITH THE TRADE IN EVERY PART OF CANADA.

CONTRIBUTIONS ARE INVITED FROM MERCHANTS IN SMALL PLACES OR WHERE THERE IS NOT A REGULAR CANADIAN GROCER CORRESPONDENT.

PETERBOROUGH.

Many of the local merchants are complaining bitterly about the treatment they receive at the hands of the Canadian Express Company and the Grand Trunk Railway. The greatest kick is about the service to Lakefield, and both the companies are included. So high are the charges, that the merchants have invented several schemes for beating the express and railway people. One man, who sends a great deal of stuff up for summer residents at Stoney Lake, does all his parcels up in one big bundle, and has the purchaser, who usually goes up on the same train, have it checked. Each passenger is entitled to carry over 200 pounds of baggage, and the company is held responsible for the handling and delivery of the goods. Before this the people used to put their own stuff on the train and take it off again, but the transportation people put all the parcels they could in the express car and charged for carrying them. Now the railway has to handle the stuff for nothing and look after it as well.

The merchants generally are anxiously looking forward to the time when the street railway extends its lines to the lake, or the Dominion Express Co. gets a connection with the lake. The street railway will build a line to Lakefield as soon as they can cross the river, and they are waiting for the city to build a new bridge at Hunter street.

The only grocer in the city who is taking the Thursday half-holiday is Jas. R. Bell, secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association. He closed his store the first Thursday in July at one o'clock, and will give his clerks a rest during the balance of the season.

A week ago W. J. McCallum sold his large and prosperous restaurant business to McEwen Spence, formerly of the Homewood Sanatorium staff at Guelph. Mr. Spence is now in full charge and is doing a good business. Mr. McCallum was in business here for sixteen years and worked up a very large trade and made many friends. He has retired, and will reside on Gilmour street.

The fruit dealers report a very large trade this season, especially in foreign fruits. The local strawberry crop was very small, and only once did they sell at three boxes for a quarter. Two for a quarter was the ruling price. Bananas, oranges and imported plums, pears and peaches are selling well.

Many of the grocers are taking a keen interest in window display this season. S. A. Oke and R. A. Dutton, two large wholesale and retail fruit dealers, frequently have very attractive displays of fruit. E. F. Mason's three grocery stores usually look well and the majority of the other grocers are paying more attention to this branch of their business. None of them, however, have engaged a window dresser and store decorator, but if they continue their present up-to-date methods it will come to that before long.

Montreal Grocery Clerks' Food Show—Gurd's Aerated Waters.

GALT.

Galt, July 16.

The grocery business in Galt is exceedingly brisk at present, owing largely to the berry season being at its height. The crop in this district has been very large this year, but at no time has the supply been equal to the demand. The price reached was never lower than ten cents per box, and at this figure the supply was inadequate. Owing to the late spring, the season did not last as long as usual, and when the berries did arrive, the demand was almost unprecedented. The grocers report an immense sale of sugar, and state that the sale of that commodity has been much larger than in previous years.

California peaches, pears, plums, and other small fruits are coming in in large quantities and find a ready sale at very fancy prices.

The raspberry crop is said not to be exceptionally large, but whether or not the producers are spreading the report for the purpose of keeping up prices is not known, but it is strongly suspected that such is the case.

The continued warm weather has resulted in a big demand for lemons, and many merchants are complaining that they cannot receive their shipments fast enough.

It now appears that the Hawkers and Peddlers Bylaw, which has been passed in so many Ontario towns and cities, is illegal. Two cases of appeal which were heard in the Division Court against judgments of magistrates in Beamsville and Galt were allowed and the conviction quashed. The quashing of the conviction necessarily means that the bylaw is invalid, and that towns in which they were in force are now open to the traveling gentry.

Messrs. T. L. Rutherford and F. L. Hamilton, president and secretary, respectively, of the Galt Retail Merchants' Association, who prosecuted the transient trader who was fined in Galt, but whose appeal was subsequently allowed, were interviewed by your representative.

"Yes," said Mr. Rutherford, "it appears that the bylaw is invalid." The facts of the case are that the bylaw approved of by the Ontario Legislature contains a section stating that the penalty for an infraction of the bylaw shall be a fine or imprisonment for six months. The judge in the Toronto court held that the town council had exceeded its authority, in that a Dominion Act states that no town or city council has power to impose a penalty exceeding twenty-one days imprisonment. Mr. Rutherford was asked what action the association in Galt would take and he replied that the council would be petitioned to amend the bylaw in accordance with the recent decision handed out at Toronto. "We anticipate no difficulty in having the bylaw amended as we require," he concluded.

The dry goods clerks held a very enjoyable picnic at Victoria Park, Berlin, on Thursday afternoon. A number of grocery clerks attended and were heartily entertained by their brothers-in-arms.

The clerks in Galt are endeavoring to have the Main Street merchants close their stores from three to six o'clock on Wednesday afternoon, Aug. 6, being the first day of the Old Boys' Reunion, in order to give them an opportunity of witnessing the Eastern League baseball game between Toronto and Buffalo, which will be played here on that date.

* * *

"We will be glad, indeed," said a Main Street merchant to-day, "when the fruit season is over. While it is true that it is profitable to us, it is certainly the cause of a lot of worry and trouble. Spoiled fruit, delayed shipments, etc., are no small matter."

Montreal Grocery Clerks' Food Show—Joseph Lamoureux, Jams, Pickles, Etc.

prices. The wholesale reduction, however, was speedily taken advantage of by one grocery firm last week. They advertised special prices in sugar and for the week only offered it at $4.85 per hundred. It being the commencement of the preserving season, many took advantage of the price, and a thriving trade was done, not only in the sugar, but in glass jars, fruits, and in fact the entire line of groceries.

Strawberries last week did much to swell the trade of the grocers. The demand for them was very keen and the merchant who was fortunate enough to arrange ahead for a large quantity did a good stroke of business. The general price last week was three boxes for a quarter, but this week the supply seems to be more limited and they are now selling at ten cents a box, straight. It is thought that this week will about see the finish of the crop. The weather has been ideal for ripening the berries and the season in this vicinity will be shorter than usual.

Local grocers report that they have difficulty in obtaining cherries. Of the small fruits, none are more popular than cherries and none are more scarce in this section. Practically all that are to be had are brought in and the price is usually higher than the average person feels that he can afford. Not many years ago a considerable quantity of cherries was grown in this county, but the black knot wrought havoc with the cherry trees, until at the present time there is scarcely any of the home-grown fruit to be had.

The merchants of the town should be benefited to a great extent by reason of the arrangement which the Ingersoll Telephone Company has made with the Burgessville and Harrietsville Companies. The local company has made connections with these two lines, which will give their subscribers the oppor-

Montreal Grocery Clerks' Food Show—Dr. Lambert's Patent Medicines.

INGERSOLL.

Although the wholesale price of sugar has dropped ten cents per hundred, there is practically no difference in the retail tunity of talking to about four hundred farmers in the two districts mentioned. The telephone is now indispensable in business, and the advantage of being able to reach such prosperous agricultural districts by 'phone will be readily apparent.

Butter, which has been somewhat scarce since early spring, is now coming in more freely, and the prices have dropped. Creamery of guaranteed quality is to be had at twenty-five cents per pound, while another brand, much in favor, is selling at twenty-eight cents per pound.

The merchants are always interested in the industrial development of a town or city and at the present time the merchants here, as well as the citizens generally, are wondering if Ingersoll will be the location of a large American firm who have in contemplation the establishment of a branch factory. If this town is selected many benefits should accrue to the merchants. The firm in question are manufacturers of articles of steel and of course skilled labor would be employed and high wages paid. As noted in last week's Grocer, the Board of Trade is dealing with the matter. Representatives of the company, accompanied by Charles L. Bailey, of Toronto, have been here and they expressed themselves as being well pleased with the sites they were shown, as well as with the town in general.

WOODSTOCK.

The first Wednesday half-holiday of the season was observed by local business men last Wednesday, and will be continued during the months of July and August. Most of the merchants closed up and went fishing or penicking or holidaying in some other way, and likewise their clerks. The grocery stores all closed. It is a fact worth noting, that grocers are usually in line in any movement of this kind. They realize the benefits of a weekly half-holiday, and are broad-minded enough to see the advantages to themselves and their employes of knocking off work occasionally. No financial loss is thereby occasioned, for what a person does not buy one time he will another, at least in the grocery line. The drygoodsmen did not close, with the exception of Ald. T. A. Forman, who shut up his store, and advertised a special sale of twenty per cent. discount on all goods, for the three hours of Wednesday morning, from nine to twelve. He deserved to attract a large trade, and succeeded.

The hay crop is being gathered in this week, and the sweet smell of freshly cut clover prevails in the Oxford district. The crop, according to reports from all sections of the county, is quite up to the average. It picked up wonderfully after the cold and backward weather of the early spring.

The strawberry season, which is just closing, has been a good one, fully up to, if not above, the average of other years. Immense quantities of the luscious fruit were brought to the Woodstock market and to local stores from all sections of the county, and all found a ready sale. The quality this year was exceptionally good, the berries being large and fine.

GUELPH.

Guelph, July 16.

Last Saturday was not a good business day in Guelph, the farmers being busy getting in their hay and also on account of the A.O.U.W. excursion to Toronto and the Falls, which took a large number of citizens away. The market was comparatively deserted by 11 o'clock.

Potatoes were scarce on the market, but for all that, several of the wholesale dealers have plenty yet, in fact they have all lost considerable money on the last cars brought in. They are only asking 85c. a bag, for a pretty fair sample at that. The new potatoes sell fairly well at 50c. a peck. H. Walker & Son brought in a car of new ones that were fine samples. The first Hamilton and Guelph potatoes were on the market here Tuesday, and sold at 50c. a basket. The first raspberries arrived Tuesday and are selling from 15c. to 17c. a box. Strawberries still continue to be the best paying of the small fruits, good stock selling wholesale at 10c. a box, and retailing at 15c. or 2 for 25c. But it seems funny to me to see one grocer paying a dealer $3 for a crate of berries and others buying the same berries from the same man and only paying $2.25 a crate. Is it the fault of the grocers or the wholesaler or our system of buying? I think it is the grocers' own fault because one is afraid of another and does his business on the quiet. The dealer is just as foxy and thinks "I got so-and-so from the other fellow" and raises his price nearly every time. Sometimes he is caught, but not often.

Mr. Alex. Thompson, the popular traveler for Bean & Westlake, Woodstock, is taking a week's holidays here this week.

Mr. A. M. McLaren, grocer, has just installed in his store an up-to-date National cash register. It is a beauty.

One of our local dealers, in his hurry to get his berries home from the market on Saturday morning early, left his profit on a crate or two on the street car track. No one seemed to have nerve enough to go and pick them up, so they were soon scattered under the horses' feet.

The first half-holiday was not a success as far as the clerks were concerned. The rain prevented the excursion to Hamilton from being a success, and it hardly paid expenses. But we may have better luck next time, boys!

This is circus day, and although the circus is not supposed to be an A1 aggregation, the farmers are beginning to come in to see the elephant, and the grocers will be able to sell a few more peanuts and buns.

HAMILTON.

Hamilton, July 17.

The strawberry season has closed in this burg, and it was short and sweet. The high price put the fruit beyond the figure where ordinary people could buy it for preserving. The average price was from $2.25 to $2.50 a crate of 24 boxes, the jam and canning factories setting the pace at a higher figure than ever before, so the possibilities are that our grocery friends will have to pay a fancy price for canned berries when they go on sale. The first raspberries are in and were quoted at 20c. a box. They are also a very poor crop in this vicinity; in fact, the outlook is for all fruit to be scarce and dear, with the possible exception of peaches, which now give promise of a large crop. Georgia watermelons are selling freely. Imported tomatoes this year have been very poor and very little money has been made out of them by the grocery trader. Foreign fruits and vegetables are becoming quite an item with the grocers here and it would not be a bad idea if they were to make an effort to get control of the business, and arrange in some way to prevent the Italians and Greeks from peddling from door to door. The public might be educated along the lines of cleanliness and fair dealing; as the conditions that surround these foreigners are simply disgusting—huddled together in droves in small tenement houses—subsisting on black bread and beer, they do not make desirable citizens. During the hot summer weather consumers of foreign fruits should be a little more careful of the source of supply. These Italians seem to fall into the fruit business like the Hebrew into the rag and bone line.

Some time ago the question of the weight of a bag of potatoes was mentioned in your paper, and I see the question was brought up at the Retail Merchants' convention. Why not ask the readers of your paper to send in their opinions and let the Government set a standard for the whole country?

Mr. E. Hazell, of Hazell & Dawson, who has undergone an operation for appendicitis, has fully recovered and is back at the old stand, with his old smile.

Grocers throughout the city will be pained to hear of the sudden illness of Mr. James Price, the popular city traveler for Lucas, Steele & Bristol, and hope that he may soon be around again, as we cannot spare Jimmy yet.

NEW BRUNSWICK.

Edward M. Ganong, a leading grocer of St. Stephen, who has been in failing health for some months and had recentbeen receiving treatment at Saranac Lake, died at that place on Sunday, June 30. He was a native of King's County.

John B. Robinson, who was a prominent merchant in St. Stephen for many years, but had retired from active business some years ago, also passed away on Sunday.

The value of exports to the United States through the port of St. John for the quarter ending June 30, 1907, was $766,224.24, as compared with $633,139.64 for the corresponding period last year, showing a gain of $133,084.60 for 1907. The exports of wood pulp and American lumber are larger this season than ever before.

VICTORIA, B.C.

Everything is in full swing for the annual merchants' picnic. The committee report good progress. All merchants are assisting, and from present appearances this will be the largest affair of its kind ever held in the city. Previous years, last year excepted, the different trades have each held a picnic of their own, but now the merchants all join together and make one grand day of it, which seems to be more satisfactory all round. This of course is quite a big undertaking, but with good men on the committee the event is carried along very successfully.

The picnic will be held this time on July 25th, at Langford Plains. Last year the great attraction was a tombola list of over 300 prizes. This proved a great attraction, for everyone who bought a ticket had a chance in the tombola, even if they did not attend the picnic, so by this means a number of persons were induced to purchase tickets who otherwise would not have done so and as this is the way the committee derive their revenue it is a point of importance. A substantial prize is always offered for the one selling the greatest number of tickets previous to the day of the picnic.

Grocers here all report business exceptionally brisk and also that experienced help is very scarce.

The grocers' exchange is taking up the question of the wholesalers supplying hotels and restaurants and retail trade. This is a live issue here and will probably create some friction. It has always been the custom here for the wholesale houses to supply the hotels, etc., not only in large quantities, but also with little trivial orders, a package of this, and a couple of tins of that, and so on. Now, even to the uninterested observer, this surely does not seem fair, and even the majority of the wholesalers claim that they don't want this class of business, and would be glad of an excuse to stop it, but they want one and all to fall in line.

Geo. E. Munro, who for some years has conducted a fruit and commission business, has sold out to Patterson Bros.

One of the most interesting events among the grocers of this city at the present time is the liquor question. A number of the leading grocers hold a bottle license and for years have conducted a grocery and liquor business together. For some time past there has been a movement on foot to either do away with the license or compel the grocers to conduct their liquor business entirely separate from the grocery department. It seems that this measure has passed the city council and will be enforced in the near future. This is causing considerable agitation among the grocers, and just what the outcome will be it is hard to prophesy.

Butter has advanced in price again, and fresh creamery is retailing at 40c per pound. The season has been so dry and farmers find feed very scarce, and many predict still higher prices on all farm produce.

* * *

Sugar has dropped 25c per 100 pounds within the last two weeks. Competition is the cause of this. Some Scotch and China sugars have been brought in and as the British Columbia Refinery is determined to keep all outsiders away from here, in all probability we will see still lower prices.

LONDON.

The retail grocery stores of London will be closed all day to-morrow, according to announcement, but if the programme mapped out for Toronto to-morrow is carried out to the letter, it is doubtful if they will open again for the rest of the week. The local wholesalers have some surprises in store for the excursionists en route and on arrival in Toronto, and the big food providers of the Queen City have prepared a lot of enjoyment for the Londoners which it would be impossible for any ordinary man to take in in one day. Something must give way or either the Toronto hosts must call off some of the feasting and sightseeing or the Forest City men must make up their minds for a time such as they never before experienced. The demand for excursion tickets is great and the indications are that the crowd will be a record one.

Little is heard of the Niagara Falls excursion. Bills announcing the event are out and as the Falls is always a popular spot, there is no reason why the event should not be a success. But it will not be the "Grocers' Excursion."

While this picnic at the Falls is being carried out on the 24th inst., numbers of the Retail Grocers' Association will have an opportunity of witnessing a baseball match at Springbgnk between the grocers and their clerks, which will take place during the afternoon. President Happy Ranahan will hand out curves and other delicacies on behalf of the grocers, and Andy Crawford, of Scandrett Bros.' will officiate in a similar capacity for the clerks. During the afternoon a 100-yard dash for the championship of the grocery trade will be run between Tom Longboat McCormick and Dick Wood. Betting shows the latter to be a slight favorite, although Mac is talking many of the sports his way.

Retailers report business very good. Sugars are unsettled, and the demand is much lighter than desired. This is accounted for by the fact that berries keep high in price. Currants continue firm, with prospects of lower prices in the near future. Meanwhile wholesalers are buying from hand to mouth. The rice market is rising and firm. The prospects for valencia raisings are good. As the delivery of the new fruit is two months off, brokers are endeavoring to clear off last year's goods. Lower qualities of teas are advancing and fine grades are firm.

The grocery travelers of London, like those of Toronto, Hamilton, Brantford, and other Ontario cities, will have their annual vacation a week earlier than in former years. This year they will all come in from the road at the beginning of the last week of July and remain in for two weeks. The setting apart of a stated time for the holidays of all grocery travelers was certainly a good idea.

BELLEVILLE.

Out of the ten aldermen composing this city's council no less than three are prominent grocers, and with regard to their ability it is only necessary to state that each one of them is this year honored with the chairmanship of important committees. First there is Alderman William Panter, eldest son of John Panter, who has conducted a grocery business here longer than any other man in the city, and that is nearly half a century. He has not missed a day from business through sickness or any other cause in years. Alderman Panter is chairman of the public works committee, one of the most important in the council. He has been a member of the council for many years, although practically a young man yet, and he is seldom elected lower than second man on the poll. He will be mayor before long.

Next in order comes Alderman Alfred McCrodan, who conducts one of the largest and most successful grocery businesses in the city, on the corner of Front street and Victoria avenue. He is the popular chairman of the fire committee and is a great favorite with the fire laddies. He does a big city and country trade. He is a young man, not over 38 years of age, and has been an alderman for several years, but says this year will be his last, as his business needs all his attention.

Last but not least comes Alderman A. G. Vermilyea, who has for over a quarter of a century conducted a thriving grocery on West Bridge street. He is chairman of the waterworks committee and finds time to look after his department with ability. This doughty alderman is, incidentally, the owner of a handsome driving horse and is an enthusiastic horseman.

From the above it will be seen that the citizens, who elect the aldermen, have much confidence in the ability of the grocer fraternity. Is there another council of ten men that can produce three up-to-date grocers? How about you, Kingston?

This week saw the last of the strawberries for this city, and taken altogether the crop was not nearly as large as was expected. The berries were good but the price never went below 10 cents per box, and then they were sold by the crate. The average price was two boxes for 25 cents. Cherries are an immense crop and they are being preserved in large quantities, instead of strawberries. They sold at three boxes for 25 cents.

The Belleville Fruit & Vinegar Works, a new concern which began business about a year ago, have converted thousands of boxes of strawberries and cherries into jam and jelly and employ a large number of hands. Bert Frederick is manager of the company, which is composed entirely of local men, and he predicts good prospects for the season.

Large quantities of early peas are coming into the local canning factories and the crop could hardly be better, the recent copious showers coming just in time to save the situation. The late peas are also looking well, and corn is coming along all right. This is the home of the celebrated Queen brand of canned fruit and vegetables.

One prominent grocer imported several hundred boxes of strawberries from St. Catharines, which, he says, he secured cheaper than he could here.

All the grocers report business good and are delighted with the outlook.

White & Co., of Toronto, disposed of a carload of bananas here one day last week to the different merchants, the consignment being in charge of John McVeen.

Charles Cherry, traveler for Todhunter & Mitchell, coffees and spices, was a caller on the trade Monday of this week.

Market prices here the past week were —Fresh eggs, 16 to 17c.; dairy butter, 25 to 27c.; potatoes sell at $1.40 to $1.50 per bag.

STRATFORD.

The strawberry season is about ended, and at present very few boxes are offered for sale by the grocers. During the last couple of weeks the grocers have all been rushed with strawberry trade and now the supply comes far from meeting the demand. The crop in this vicinity has been well up to the standard but fell short of the output of last year and the season has been somewhat short.

Stratford grocers believe in displaying their goods and in dressing attractive windows. A very pretty and unique advertisement window appears at the Barnsdale Trading Co.'s store, "The Hub," this week. "Good Fishing" is the title of the scene and an angler appears on the banks of a miniature river fishing for the finny tribe. The grass grows green and the trees give the whole window a pleasing effect. A large number of salmon cans form the background and the attention of the passers-by and the customers is directed to this product by the numerous display signs.

W. J. Norfolk also has an attractive window. Mr. Norfolk advertises his store as the "largest and brightest, cleanest and best," and certainly his new store is a credit to the city. A miniature suspension bridge is shown in his large window. Many pedestrians are walking, while others are riding to "Norfolk's store."

The market here was largely attended on Saturday last. Eggs keep up to the old price of 17 cents per dozen. Butter sold generally at 20 cents per pound. Chickens seemed more plentiful than usual, without diminution in price, the lowest asked being 45 cents each, while the price ran up to 65 cents. Lettuce, onions, radishes and beets brought the regular price of five cents per bunch. Green peas sold at 30 cents per peck in the pod, 15c per quart shelled. Cabbage, home grown, brought 8c to 15c per head.

Potatoes are rather scarce and housewives are awaiting the arrival of new potatoes. Tomatoes are a scarcity as yet.

The first of the weekly half holidays during July and August commenced on Wednesday of last week, but unfortunately the grocers did not close. The following stores were shut down, viz.. Dry goods, boot and shoe, butchers, stationery, furniture and novelty stores. The poor grocer clerk is left to sweat away in the hot afternoon. The reason for this, it is understood, lies in the fact that the majority of grocers want to close up shop and give their clerks a needed rest, but others do not, and the minority rules the majority. The merchants seem to be too anxious for the almighty dollar.

LINDSAY.

One of the features of the Lindsay trade is the great demand for cereals, such as shredded wheat, Quaker rice, wheat berries, etc.

A. L. Campbell has greatly improved the appearance of his store by having the front nicely painted.

When entering W. E. Baker's store one is greatly taken up in the appearance of it. To say it is neat is putting it mildly. A good deal of credit is due to the energetic clerk, Frank Scott, who has been with Mr. Baker for some time.

New potatoes are being sold at 50c. peck, and are in good demand. Lindsay's wholesale firm, W. B. Sparling & Co., are doing a large business these days, receiving two carloads of sugar this last week.

A. Primeau recently had a very tasty window of Jacob's biscuits, which he imports direct.

HOW THE CREDIT SYSTEM SENT A GROCER BACK TO THE FARM

I lost my savings doing charity work. I do not think I am by nature any more charitably inclined than many another man, yet at one time in my life I was philanthropic to the tune of one thousand dollars, writes a correspondent of the Saturday Evening Post.

I farmed successfully for several years; the seasons were good and, as I lived but a few miles from a good-sized city, I disposed of all I raised at figures that netted me money. This money I placed in a bank in the city, adding to it as I could until I had saved one thousand dollars.

Then I did as many another young man has done. I thought I would like to try city life for a while, so quit farming and went to town. I soon got a good position in a grocery store.

I had been there quite a while and was doing nicely, when I conceived the idea that a store of my own would be a fine thing. I had learned, or thought I had, at least, the ins and outs of the business from the cellar to the front door, and, as I had the money, I could see no reason why I should not have a store of my own.

So I began to lay my plans to that end. I went to the bank and drew out my thousand dollars. It was paid to me all in twenty-dollar gold pieces. Very beautiful they looked, but as they were going to bring to me an increase of thirty, fifty, or, perhaps, a hundredfold, I need not hesitate to use them.

I then rented a building, paying $33 a month for it. I must have a good location or I would not get trade, and, as good locations demanded high rentals in that city, I had to pay it. Then I put in a stock of groceries. It took several hundred of that thousand dollars to stock up, get scales, showcases and so forth.

When I had everything in readiness I threw open my doors. Customers came, and for a while everything was lovely. But it wasn't long before they "had forgotten their purses—wouldn't I trust them until next time?" or "Pay-day comes in a couple of weeks—could I wait until then?" Others were sick or out of work, "but if I would let them have the groceries I would surely get my pay."

And so I trusted them and continued to trust them. Their reasons were so plausible and their promises so promising that I felt I would get my pay in time, and so it went on. My customers were getting the delicacies of the season, and myself and family were living on the simplest food my store afforded in order to have money to pay my rent and keep up my stock.

The money I had saved out of the thousand dollars with which to do business went into the store little by little. Then I had to order from the wholesale grocers on thirty, sixty and ninety days' time—hoping to collect enough to meet their bills when due.

At the end of thirteen months I came to a point where I could hold out no longer. Unable to collect what was due me, I sold my stock that I had on hand for what I could get and applied that money to the wholesalers' bills. When I locked the door and turned the key over to the owner, I still owed the wholesale grocers two hundred and eighty-five dollars. I then went to work at nine dollars a week and lived on next to nothing until I had those bills all paid.

All I have to show now for my thousand dollars and a year's work is a bunch of receipted bills. Yes, I have also the satisfaction of knowing that I have helped quite a number of my fellow beings to some of the good things of life, but, as I am not a Salvation Army barracks nor any other charitable institution, I do not suppose my name will be handed down to posterity as a public benefactor.

I am not running a grocery store now, I'm farming.

METHOD FOR PERSONAL ACCOUNTS

To the Editor Canadian Grocer:

I have read with interest your article on "Business Management," and am glad to note that others along the same lines are likely to follow. There may be hundreds of your readers to whom an article such as the following would be of use.

I am representing a wholesale grocery house and receive money and have expenses on their account, and as secretary-treasurer of a club I have other moneys passing through my hands in addition to my ordinary personal expenditure. I should very much appreciate an article in The Canadian Grocer, as I believe numbers of your other readers would too, explaining how to keep simple, yet adequate, account of this money. Perhaps some of your readers would send in their own methods for the benefit of others.

If you know of a book along these lines I should be glad to know of it.

GROCERY TRADE NEWS AND MARKETS ON THE PACIFIC COAST

(Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer)

Vanvouver, B.C., July 10.

This year the salmon run both in northern waters and on the Fraser, is not to be counted on. The run on the Fraser will not be large, while in northern waters, the Indians, who are the principal fishers for the canneries there, have this year so much money from various sources, that they decline to fish. It can hardly be called a strike, as the Indians have simply not turned up to enter the fishing. They have all been logging while prices for logs were high, and the Metlakatlahs have been paid off by the Grand Trunk Pacific, which has bought their reservation close to Prince Rupert, the coast terminal of the new railway. Were it not for the shortage in fishermen, the northern pack would be a fair average.

Two small consignments of canned salmon were brought to port this week by the steamers Capilano and Lapwing. The former brought some 2,400 cases of last season's sockeye pack, and also 600 cases of this season's pack of spring salmon, from Bella Coola. The Lapwing's cargo was from the Eagle Harbor cannery. It comprised 1,300 cases. The catch of halibut in northern British Columbia waters is still good, the New England Fishing Co.'s steamer Kingfisher this week bringing a cargo of 210,000 lbs. Several independent vessels are operating in halibut this season, their catches being taken to the Columbia Cold Storage plant at New Westminster, for freezing and shipment. Part of the catch is shipped to the Old Country in cold storage.

If terminal rates are given the city of Spokane with regard to the new line of railway, the V.V. & E., being built into the Similkameen by Jas. J. Hill, some there are who say that the bulk of the trade of that rich mining and agricultural district will go to the Washington city. The Great Northern has direct lines running to Oroville, Wash., just at the international boundary. This point is also on the direct line to Princeton, the heart of the Similkameen, and but fifty miles away. The road being built into the Similkameen had to be run partly on the American side, owing to the mountainous character of the country and the fact that the only way in was to follow the valley.

Of course, the present plans of the V. V. & E., and in fact the chief grounds for granting their charter provide for direct communication with the coast cities of British Columbia by a direct line crossing Hope Mountains from Similkameen into the Fraser valley and thence down the south side of the river, past Chilliwack to connect with present lines in the coast part of the valley. After reaching the Fraser valley via Hope pass, the distance to Vancouver is less than one hundred miles. Work on the coast section is being pushed by the V.V. & E. people all this season. It is expected by next year the line will be nearly completed through.

Weather conditions have been favorable to growing crops in the Fraser valley, where haying is now in full swing. Rains a fortnight ago brought the hay on very rapidly, otherwise a very light crop, comparatively, would have been saved. Roots and vegetables are also magnificent this year and such varieties of fruit as are now maturing promise big yields. It is no extravagant statement to say that the cherry crop is the biggest ever in the Fraser valley. The fruit, both sweet cherries and preserving varieties, is now being marketed in large quantities. Strawberries are nearly over, while raspberries, loganberries, currants and gooseberries are in plentiful supply also.

From the Okanagan and Kootenay come very favorable reports of the condition of the fruit crops, which promise a record for quantity. In the Okanagan the cherry crop was very large, though the early part of the season was not favorable. In all districts of the upper country, many young orchards are coming into bearing, largely increasing the field from which supplies will be shipped to the big demand market of the prairie provinces.

A new field for export of British Columbia fruits is promised in New Zealand. A. W. Despard, who went to New Zealand to display the Canadian exhabits at the ,Christchurch exhibition, declares that there will be a big demand for fruit there. Mr. Despard, who has just returned, says that lively interest was displayed by the leading merchants in all the trade centres. As British Columbia fruits will be in at the off season for New Zealand fruits, the market is bound to be much extended. And from the reports of the official named, it is likely that the New Zealand merchants will seek for shipments to them this season from British Columbia.

In groceries, features of variation are few. Sugar has dropped another fifteen cents, making a total drop in two weeks of a quarter, which is large for this season. Present prices to the trade are: Granulated, 5¼c.; extra C., 4.65; fancy yellow, $4.50; yellow, $4.40; dark yellow, $4.30. Peanuts are scarce and dear, trade quotations being 12c. and 12½c. Condensed milk for northern trade is very scarce. Canned fruits are not yet quoted to the wholesale trade here from the Canadian Canners' Co., not even strawberries being given out yet. There are no California canned fruits in the market and dried fruits are extremely scarce. Demand is, of course, lighter at this season.

This is the season for much trade in supplies for camping and outing parties, as well as for prospecting and fishing camp trade. Business is therefore very brisk with the wholesale grocery trade all round.

In produce no changes are reported. Local butter, both dairy and creamery, continue in small compass, while any supplies coming forward from the Northwest are in small lots, from some of the Government creameries in Alberta. Price of local dairy is up to 30c., while creamery is sold to the trade at the same price. Eastern creamery is 27c. and 28c. Fresh eggs, local, are 28c.; eastern stock, 25c. Cheese is 15c. and 15½c.; bacon 19c.; hams 17c. and 18½c.; lard 13c. and 13½c.

The supplies of new potatoes from local sources have begun to come in freely, meeting all demands, and effectually knocking out the high prices obtaining for two months past for the tubers. The old stock is out of the market. The prices quoted are 2½ and 3c. per lb. for new stock, with a falling market, as larger supplies are maturing and being marketed. The quality is excellent this year, and the crop on the lands of the lower Fraser valley will be enormous, as the season has been very favorable.

In other vegetables nothing new has been reported since last week. All stocks except dry onions are plentiful and prices as quoted last. Dry onions are at this season imported from California and are in very small supply. The price is high, being 5½c. to the trade.

California fruits are being badly knocked out by extremely rigorous fruit inspection by provincial officials. It is alleged by some dealers that this is done deliberately, to keep the market bare of all but local production. These dealers argue, that even if fruits brought in were so much affected with parasites as alleged by inspectors, the fact that these fruits are for consumption, not for coming in touch with orchards, should have some weight. According to published statements of the provincial fruit inspector himself, over half the importations from California so far this season have been condemned.

This week strawberries have dwindled to small supply, the price being $3 to the trade; raspberries are plentiful, and are quoted at $2.50 per case; logan berries sell at $3. Local cherries are 8 and 10c. per lb., and plentiful. A car of mixed California fruits arrived a few days ago. Peaches and plums sold at $2.50 per case; early apples, Alexandria variety, were included in the importation and sold at $3.50 per box of 40 lbs.

Lemons have advanced another dollar, to $7.50 per case. A car of late navel oranges is quoted at $3.25 to $4.75. Valencias are $4.75 to $5.25.

W. J. Ross, grocer, of Houghton, Sask., has sold to Geo. McCullough.

MONSTER GROCERS' DEMONSTRATION.

A large section of the grocery trade of western Ontario picnicked Wednesday at Toronto, Niagara Falls and Buffalo. Because of pressure upon our space this week reports of these outings have had to be held over till the next issue. But seeing that so many of the grocers have, by accident, taken their annual outing on the same day to different places, it has been suggested that this commotion in the trade be made unanimous and that next year a monster grocers' picnic and demonstration be held at some suitable and convenient place, which will attract the trade from all over Ontario. Such a gathering could, by a little co-operation, be made very interesting and enjoyable. The Canadian Grocer would like to have the views of grocers all over the province on this proposal, and especially the views of those who shared the burden and heat of the day in Wednesday's operations.

PUSH IN GROCERIES.

A whole lot of grocers are telling every fellow that comes in how little money there is in groceries just now. Can hardly make ends meet. Trusts are putting prices away out of sight. Mail order houses are taking away all the good local trade. Customers that are left will not pay their debts. Competitor across the street is adopting unfair tactics to get customers that have been dealing with him for twenty years, and so on. Sometimes there is room for a reasonable amount of complaint under one or more of the above heads but nine times out of ten the whole discontent and grumbling is caused by lack of push. High prices, keen competition, mail order houses, are all but natural developments of modern times in business, and must be met along up-to-date lines. It is impossible to successfully do business to-day along exactly the same lines it was done on twenty years ago. New ideas, which are the product of other men's brains and experience, must be taken up when they are worth it. Profiting by the mistakes and experience of others is, after all, only another kind of push. In business to-day it is the aggressive grocer that wins the trade and makes money; the one who runs along quietly in the old rut makes a living and finds things dull. The greater the push, the greater the returns. It does not pay to grumble over the inevitable. The best way is to meet it. You can beat the mail order houses by going about it in the right way; high prices may be overcome in that good customers never ask the impossible, and do not expect the grocer to sell goods at a loss; the trusts in Canada are in their infancy and are not yet causing anybody much trouble. So it is all along the line. If one wants to complain there is a whole list of things to bring up, but, on the other hand, if a person looks upon the optimistic side of business and gets right down to hard work —pushing—it is surprising how good business becomes.

POLITICS AND BUSINESS.

Brantford has set an example to all other constituencies in Canada. At present it is represented in the House of Commons by W. F. Cockshutt, one of the cleanest and most useful men in the House. The Liberals have just nominated Lloyd Harris, another man of similar stamp. Brantford is thus assured of having a thoroughly good man in the House, no matter which side wins. This is in line with the policy constantly advocated for years in The MacLean newspapers. Let the business men in every part of Canada take a hand in the party nominations and use their efforts to get the kind of men who can be depended upon to represent them honestly, intelligently and aggressively.

There are rumors that the Liberals will bring out John Bain, now in the service of Hon. Mr. Sifton, but for many years the real power behind the throne in the Customs Departments and MacKenzie King, Deputy Minister of Labor. Both men have shown themselves thoroughly capable, and if they can be induced to enter public life, they will be a great acquisition to the House. There are any number of equally good men in the Conservative party, both young and old, who have made their mark in life. It is now up to the Conservatives to bring forward men of that stamp who will give us clean politics and a well-governed and progressive country.

MISUSING A FOOD LAW.

The grocery and foodstuff trade in the United States is busy studying the new Pure Food Law. Strange, isn't it, that some men are already turning it illegally to gain. One ingenious way is to advertise the manufacturer's guarantee as the Government's sign-manual of purity. The law assumes that the retailer is responsible for the goods he sells. The guarantee plan, a device borrowed from Canada's Pure Food Law, provides a way by which a manufacturer may assume responsibility for his own goods, which is eminently proper. A guarantee may be attached to a bill of lading [illegible] particular shipment of goods or a manufacturer may issue a blanket guarantee covering goods specified which he may file with the Department of Agriculture at Washington and to which for identification the department assigns a serial number. This serial number some dishonest dealers have advertised as the Government stamp.

A study of the law in connection with the guaranty regulations makes it apparent that the intention is to provide a means whereby the manufacturer can assume responsibility under the law for the character of the goods manufactured by him, after they have passed out of his possession into the hands of the person who purchased them from him. In no case is a guarantee a good defence, unless it be from the person who sold the goods to the person offering the guarantee as a defence.

In order to simplify the procedure, the department volunteers to act as custodian of the guaranty, which is an offer on the part of tne manufacturer to free dealers, re-selling his goods, from responsibility under the law for possible misbranding or adulteration. In order that the guarantor may convey this intention on his part to purchasers of his goods, a serial number is assigned to such a guarantor, and by placing this number on his goods he fixes his responsibility.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS:

Sugar—Heavy demand.

Beans—Market excited.

Montreal, July 19.

A fine volume of business is being put through in the grocery trade at present, and if it remain stationery throughout the remaining weeks of the month, it will fully compensate for the shortcomings of the month of June. There is quite a heavy demand experienced for sugar. The western bean market is excited owing to prices having scored a sharp advance of 20c. per bushel. The trade here, taken all around, is in a healthy condition, owing to the fine appearance of the crops all through the province. Collections continue good. Retailers report satisfactory business in all lines.

SUGAR.—Sugar, since the decline of 10c per 100 lbs., has developed quite a heavy demand. Most merchants are finding prices to their taste, and are now buying in large quantities. There has been a slight improvement since last week in the sugar situation on the primary market, and present quotations are reported firm.

BEANS — The local bean situation has developed a much stronger feeling, in sympathy with advices from the west. Prices have advanced 20c. per bushel and holders are now asking $1.60 and $1.65, the reason stated for these advances was that on the 3rd inst. the crop was frost bitten and the continued hot weather up to the present has also greatly retarded Nature's healing. A few warm rains were necessary.

This price advance will not affect the trade to any extent for some time, as stocks are in fine condition and any quantity of beans may still be bought at old figures.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS:

Sugar—In fair demand. Raws slightly firmer.

White Beans—Higher.

Canned Goods—Moving well.

Gem Jars—Higher.

Toronto, July 18, 1907.

The wholesale movement of groceries at this centre is very satisfactory for the season of the year, and collections are such as to occasion no unfavorable comment; indeed, the reports of the credit men are that payments are being met very satisfactorily.

Canned goods are the feature of trade at the moment. Fruits are pretty well cleared up but stocks of vegetables are dwindling under a heavy consumptive demand. Sugar is just in fair demand. The fruit season is still backward and preserving has scarcely begun. The comparatively light movement of sugar made June business bulk smaller than last year's, but profits, the wholesalers say, were better. Sugar prices remain unchanged, but the raw market shows a firmer tendency. There is still some demand for prunes, possibly the buying being in anticipation of much higher prices for new fruit. Spot stocks of currants and raisins are limited and lower quotations have been set aside. White beans are higher again. Inquiries for tapioca are still active, but no hidden stocks have come to light.

TEA — The week's cables indicate an advance in the price of low grade teas, which are the lines most in demand for this market at present. Mail advices, dated July 4, state:

"Last month's London statistics cannot be considered altogether satisfactory, for clearances show a falling off on last year of nearly four million pounds, while the fact that the shortage in stocks has been reduced to nine millions seems to indicate that supply is once more gradually approaching demand. Notwithstanding these figures, the market this week has taken a more active turn, especially for the lower useful descriptions, owing to the possibility of small receipts in the near future, resulting from the advices of light shipments from both India and Ceylon, coupled with the unsatisfactory reports of June outturns in the former country."

The memorandum on the "Production of Tea in India," issued by the Commercial Intelligence Department at Calcutta, forms interesting reading. The producing area in 1906 showed an increase of 2,705 acres—529,995 compared with 527,290—but the total manufactured was no less than 19½ millions in excess of the 1905 figures. Extensions during the last few years have been very small, and although the more prosperous conditions lately prevailing have no doubt resulted in some slight addition to the area under tea, the efforts of planters have largely been directed to improvements in the cultivation of bushes already in bearing, rather than to the opening out of new lands for which there may be difficulty later on in procuring an adequate labor force.

COFFEE — The market shows no marked variations and the situation continues about unchanged. Willett & Gray, to explain the phenomenal Brazil crop, state:

"It is interesting to point out that reliable authority gives the true reason for the enormous production of coffee in Sao Paulo last season. Mr. Latiff, manager of the San Paulo Coffee Estates, during a recent visitor to London, has explained that the yield was quite exceptional, as on some estates 300 arrobas were gathered per 1,000 trees, while the average has never been higher yet than 100 arrobas per 1,000 trees. On the scale of 300 arrobas per 1,000 trees, this means a yield of 4½ kilos, or about 10 pounds, for each tree, or, in other words, three times the amount of average production. Mr. Latiff has also given his assurance that there is no truth whatever in the statement that the Government planting prohibition can be evaded, and, furthermore, he is certain that the result of this Government prohibition to plant new estates will be clearly shown in the future."

SUGAR — The consumptive demand for refined sugar is light for the time of year. Retailers are buying from hand to mouth. One reason for the dull sugar markets is the tightness of money, which has greatly curtailed speculation. This is noticeable both in the New York raw market and in the purchasing of refined by retail merchants. Prices of refined here continue unchanged. Last week the raw market continued very quiet with a slight decline. Sales at New York were, however, sufficient to relieve the market from sugars pressing upon it, and the week opened with a rather firmer tone, but prices about steady. New York refiners will want 200,000 tons before the 2nd of December, of either Javas or European. In Cuba the total production to July 1st, of present crop, was 1,392,376 tons, and the total stock in the island on that date was 239,151 tons, against 1,108,997 tons and 249,544 tons respectively a year ago. There are now no centrals grinding, against 6 still working at this time last year. Prevailing conditions favor the growing crop.

The world's visible supply of sugar shows a decrease of 318,657 tons from last year.

DRIED FRUITS — There is a fair movement of prunes, which is unusual at this season. Some retailers seem to be buying a few because of the likelihood of much higher prices for new crop. Spot stocks of currants are very small. While the new crop fruit will be a little late, arriving here about the first week in October, prices are likely to be lower than at present, so that merchants are exercising wisdom in holding off. Locally prices have firmed up ½c. from our former low price and 7¾c. seems to be low price now. Valencia raisins continue in fair demand and they also are in small compass on spot. Raisin prices, too, are somewhat higher.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, July 18, 1907.)

Exhibition week always brings a great many grocers and general store men to the city, and nearly all the travelers are in the city to welcome out-of-town customers. For that reason this is a slack week in the wholesale trade.

Values are steady in most lines, the only important quotable change being a decline of 10c. in sugars.

Our Factory now boasts the most up-to-date equipment for making Catsup in Canada. We also have one of the best Catsup Cooks on the continent.

Last fall we bought tons and tons of the finest Rose Tomatoes. These have been washed, scalded, peeled and seeded, then have gone through the process of making them into Ozo Brand Tomato Catsup. Nothing of the delicious flavor of the ripe tomato has been taken away, and our chef's blending of the spices and condiments has given it an appetizing piquancy that cannot be equalled.

Put up in large 14-oz. screw-top bottle with an exceptionally pretty label, it makes one of the most attractive packages ever put on the market. We guarantee its purity, and the absolute cleanliness of our factory and methods makes its wholesomeness beyond dispute.

EFFECTIVE WINDOW DRESSING

More About the Use of Adjustable Window Partitions—Can be Cheaply Made —A Striking Tea Window by an Old Friend.

In a recent issue an article in this department dealt briefly with window partitions. That was not the last word on the subject by any means. Illustrations were given of two adjustable partitions in use in Toronto. One was of iron and the other, scarcely less expensive, in wood. Many would think both too costly, but any grocer can make for himself a division of light lattice work, or a window frame with a lattice of tape would be very effective. Of course, the best partition would be two sheets of mirror glass, back to back, because the mirror gives the appearance of a greatly enlarged display. We would like to see the partition idea taken up by some grocers and have pictures of their windows when they try it. Modern window dressing in other lines forbids the mixing up of different articles. With few exceptions the grocery window is a medley. System and separation would improve things.

A TEA WINDOW.

The accompanying illustration shows a tea window, presented by A. Hagmeier, Hespeler. It was dressed by Gordon Hagmeier. This is not the first of Mr. Hagmeier's window creations to appear in The Grocer. He has been a prize winner on several occasions. All his windows give evidence of originality and artistic conception in design and execution. This display, without the scroll on the screen which makes the background, would look bare. It is an illustration of the effectiveness of little things, in window dressing or elsewhere.

WINDOW DRESSING AS A SCIENCE

We have received a copy of the "Art and Science of Window Dressing," edited by S. W. Roth, the publisher of The Retailers' Journal. This book contains 46 pages, 25 of which are devoted to three-quarter page photographs of out-of-the-ordinary windows and booths, with descriptions as to how they were constructed, what they cost, the attention they attracted and other details.

The book is compiled by Mr. Roth, and we presume the letter-press is mainly from his pen. Most of it is creditable stuff and deserves the serious study of anyone interested in this important branch of the retail grocery business.

One feature of the book which we like especially is a half-page on "Trick Windows," condemning the eccentric and extravagant in window dressing, and pointing out that the expert window trimmer is not the one who relies upon some "dime museum effect" to draw business, but he who builds his window honestly, and whose display, when finished, reflects careful study of balance and harmony upon the man who produced it.

The cost of the book is $2, and it may be obtained upon remittance of this sum from S. W. Roth, Chicago, Ill.

NATAL DAY WINDOW.

Dillon Bros., Halifax, bring their window dressing up-to-date. June 21 was Natal Day in the Atlantic capital and this firm put in a special window display to be in keeping with the popular sentiment.

In the bottom of the window was cut grass with jellies, fancy biscuits, lunch tongues, cut Roquefort cheese and biscuit, etc.

In the background were syrups, olives, jelly, fruit in glass, with a background of apple blossoms, spruce trees, and different kinds of leaves.

The window was dressed by Chas. B. Marsden, who is doing excellent work for the firm along this line.

A. Hagmeier's Window, Hespeler.

A CAMPING WINDOW.

R. Rinker, Kincardine, had a unique show window that attracted considerable attention, last week. The floor was covered with green sod, and in the back of the window a small tent, with door open to the front, displayed inside table and chairs. On another chair outside lay pipe and tobacco. Fishing tackle was to be seen at one end, and at the other an old-fashioned pot was suspended on poles, with some potatoes peeled for dinner. Over the grass was strewn samples of canned and bottled goods generally used by campers, and a neat card read: "Let us supply your picnic wants."

The whole made an advertisement quite in keeping with Mr. Rinker's usual up-to-date methods.

SOCKEYES LESS PLENTIFUL.

Sockeye salmon on the Fraser these years is but a memory of the "good old days" when the lordly fish were running in such great shoals in the season, that they were often hooked from the banks of the river with a walking stick. The pioneers of the salmon canning industry are fast passing into memory also. On Friday occurred the interment of the late Alex. Ewen, of New Westminster, president of the British Columbia Packers' Association, and virtually the dean of pioneers in the industry. Mr. Ewen, whose death occurred on Monday, the 8th instant, has attained the age of 78 years and up to recent months had been measurably vigorous and active, taking the same interest in his business affairs as ever. Over thirty years ago Mr. Ewen erected his first salmon cannery, and while perhaps one other was begun and operated in the same season, none were earlier in the field, from which the veteran never retired, preserving his large holdings even after the majority of the individual cannerymen had merged their plants in the British Columbia Packers, the association floated some years ago through Aemilius Jarvis.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

The cheese market has continued pretty steady, without any remarkable price fluctuations. There is perhaps a slightly easier tone than a week ago, but it is not marked. Weekly receipts at Montreal are now running ahead of last year, but the total for the season is still far behind. For the week ending July 13 the receipts were 117,230 boxes, compared with 112,080 boxes for the corresponding week last year. The receipts from the opening of the season to date were 695,641 boxes, against 767,017 last year. This shows a shortage for the season thus far compared with last year, of 71,376 boxes.

The butter market continues firm, despite the very limited export demand. Domestic demand is active and the season has not yet overcome its late start. Wholesalers have only lately had an opportunity to accumulate winter stores and these future requirements have been quite equal to the absorption of all receipts thus far in excess of immediate consumption. Receipts at Montreal last week totalled 21,143 packages, as against 35,447 packages, a decrease of 14,304. Evidently the discrepancy for the season as compared with last, when the make was considerably short of normal, is increasing. Total receipts from May to date were 153,652 packages and for the same period last year 240,079, showing a falling off this year of 86,427 packages, or over 35 per cent. decline from last year's figures.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

Live hog prices continue upward borne upon the hope of better weather and higher prices in England. Last week the English market improved about 6d., and Canadian agents are asking a shilling advance. Prices of live hogs opened last week at $6.40 and went to $6.60. Packers sent out prices at $6.55 f.o.b. country points for this week, but soon found that as high as $6.75 was being paid and in order to get their share everyone had to meet that price. Deliveries are light, not over 23,000 last week for Canada. The weather in the Old Country has been very unpropitious. A Canadian agent, writing recently, said he was still lighting fires night and morning and wearing a top coat. There was snow in the north of England only a little while ago. During July and August, it is largely the seaside resort demand that gives the impetus to bacon consumption in Gregt Britain. This year that is largely lacking. There is, however, a fair demand, and the market is just now in the sellers' favor. Danish deliveries are somewhat less than they were. The total was 33,000 last week, which is 3,000 to 5,000 less than a little while ago. American shipments are about normal, but a little irregular. Last week they were 2,000 less than normal. This week cable advices indicate shipments of 4,500 more than normal.

At home the provision market is showing signs of a slightly easier tendency. This began in lard, which is always subject to the market movements in Chicago, and there prices are easy. There is a good, fair demand for smoked meats, but nothing unusual and prices are about steady, though with a slightly easier tendency, as stated. The advance in raw product tends to harden prices and packers talk of an early advance.

. ARMOUR TO BUILD IN FRANCE.

It is credibly reported that J. Ogden Armour and other packers have completed their plans for the establishment of a large packing house in France. In spite of vigorous denials on the part of Armour and his associates, and although no Chicago name appears in the transaction, which has lately been closed at Bonneuil, for the purchase of a large acreage on which a packing house is to be erected, it is generally admitted that the source of financial supply is the Chicago crowd.

The plans for the packing house at Bonneuil have been submitted for approval to the municipal council, and it is reported that at Havre and Bordeaux two other plants will be built.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—The demand for American pork is active. Lard is only fair in both compound and pure. There is a good demand for hams and bacon. Sorting orders are good. Quite a few changes in the price column took place within the last week.

BUTTER—The make of dairy butter at present is light, but is sufficient for the local demand. The market for creamery is reported to be ¼c. to ½c. lower. The quantity offering is large and as there is practically none being exported there are large stocks in the hands of local dealers.

The local butter market just now is easy in tone with quotations unchanged.

CHEESE—There has been an easier feeling experienced since the board meeting last Saturday. Cheese continues to be made in large quantities. The quantity exported is sufficient to meet the ing made to cover cost of construction quantities in the hands of the local exporters owing to the fact that the importers are not anxious to speculate at present prices. The cable quotations are 54s. to 55s.

EGGS—A fair trade continues to be done in small lots for local consumption. The demand from outside sources for round lots is somewhat limited. The market is weak, owing to the continued free supply and the poor quality of the eggs arriving. Buying, at the present writing, in the country, is 13½c. to 14½c. f.o.b.

HONEY—The market is quiet, with demand and prices easy. It is rather early yet to make any statement as to the quantity expected to be produced. White clover, extracted tins, are off the market until new supply.

TORONTO.

PROVISIONS — Trade is very active in some lines, especially smoked backs and hams. Here and there, there is a little talk of weakness, but it is only in unseasonable lines, such as long clear, which is ½c. lower, and lard, which is under the influence of the American market. The advance in the Old Country, followed by an advance in the price of live hogs here, has eliminated the easier tendency. Trade on the whole is about what it was a year ago. Prices are, if anything, a little lower on an average.

BUTTER — The market continues with a firm tone, with prices steady and practically unchanged. In view of the fact that there is little export call for butter the firmness of the market is somewhat surprising. Less butter is probably being made than last year, domestic consumption is heavy, and the season is still a fortnight behind, so that dealers here have only begun to accumulate winter stocks.

BUSINESS MEN IN MUNICIPAL LIFE

No. 23.

William Binning, Treasurer Board of Trade, Lumsden, Sask.

William Binning, treasurer of the Board of Trade of Lumsden, Sask., is a type of the progressive business man who has grown up with the west and has taken his part in the municipal life of the town or village in which his lot has been cast. To write the history of many a western town is to tell the business story of a public-spirited business man, and the history of Lumsden, Sask. could not be written without extended reference to the part played by the subject of this sketch.

Mr. Binning came to Western Canada from London, Eng., in 1894, and settled in Lumsden when it was a very small hamlet. First impressions were not very favorable, but Mr. Binning started a grocery store on a small capital and in the years that have passed has, in spite of transportation difficulties and other drawbacks which have somewhat retarded the growth of the town, built up a good business.

From the first Mr. Binning has taken an active part in the public life of the town and has served in many capacities.

Lumsden's municipal history consists in a long effort to obtain proper streets, roads, bridges, etc., and in all this Mr. Binning has borne his part, a business man giving his time to the affairs of the municipality. At the present time he is treasurer of the Board of Trade and still very active in promoting the business interests of the town.

CEREALS AND CONFECTIONERY

Wheat Market Had a Weak Spasm but Flour Prices Still Hold—Renewal of Export Business—Home Trade Buying From Hand to Mouth.

The wheat market continued strong last week to the end, but on Monday developed a weakness. Fears of a telegraphers' strike in the States and better Northwestern crop news caused heavy selling. By Tuesday the weakness had about spent itself and the market turned firmer. Flour prices for domestic demand have remained steady, but for export some slight concessions have been made, English buyers also yielding somewhat. The buying for Canadian account is on a hand-to-mouth basis, as is usual at this season. Cereal business is not too brisk, though some millers report a good seasonable demand.

Confectionery.

Readers of this column may be getting tired of hearing the grocers continually urged to handle confectionery. But there are still some unregenerate retailers without the fold, and it is the shepherd's business to go after them until he gets them. All wise grocers stock confectionery, and they don't give it a back place in the store, either. The grocer who sets out to handle confectionery in the right way gets a silent salesman to start with, and fills it up with high-class confectionery as the second move. Success comes easily after that. Try it, and if you don't succeed we shall be surprised.

MONTREAL.

FLOUR—Prices continue steady with demand fair. Export trade with some firms is good, with others quiet. The local trade is fair, considering the season. Nominal prices prevail.

FLOUR—Prices continue unchanged, despite the easier tone to the wheat market. Domestic buying has again begun, but at this season of the year it is a purely hand-to-mouth business. Millers report a demand from the east especially. Export business has begun again too, English buyers having come up somewhat and Canadian millers having made some concession.

CORRESPONDENCE

CHATHAM.

After an illness extending over seven weeks, Joseph Barassin was able this week to resume his duties at Harry A. Andrew's grocery. His many friends are glad to see Mr. Barassin out again.

Chas. Burnie, of Malcolmson's grocery staff, is spending his holidays in Detroit.

Blenheim has just scored what it claims to be a record, in the shape of a monster rhubarb stalk and leaf grown in the garden of Mrs. Jos. Stokes. The leaf was twelve feet in circumference, and the stalk was [illegible] hes long and nearly an inch and a half in diameter.

John McCorvie is spending the week in London, where he is taking part in the big bowling tournament. While in the Forest City he is the guest of his sister, Mrs. McVicar.

The strawberry season here is pretty well ended. Last week's rain served to prolong it a little, but the supply of berries offered on Saturday, nevertheless, showed a noticeable falling off. Owing to the shortness of the supply, the extremely low prices of some former years were not repeated this year; in fact, three boxes for 25c. was about the lowest retail price quoted.

The raspberry crop is as yet an uncertain quantity. The canes are in many places reported dead; evidently killed by the cold of last winter. The prospects are that the crop will be a small one. Raspberries are usually in by this time in July, but thus far none have appeared.

Incidentally, the heavy rain last week proved a godsend to the farmers, and the latter are once more jubilant. The rain will help largely to bring on the beans where the latter were replanted, following on the recent heavy frost.

There was a big crowd in the city last Friday, the occasion being the annual celebration of the Orangemen from Essex, Kent, Lambton and parts of Middlesex and Elgin, together with large contingents from Detroit and Port Huron. The crowd must have numbered between 5,000 and 7,000 people.

As usual with celebrations and circuses, the day did not materially assist the grocery business. People came in to celebrate, rather than to buy. Hotels and lunch-counters did a thriving business, as did the ice cream and refreshment parlors, and many grocers report having benefitted indirectly through orders from hotels and boarding houses, while the day is also reported to have helped along in quite a few small lines.

The crowd, though large, was quite orderly, and amply deserved Mayor Stone's congratulations on this point. The parade in the afternoon was probably the largest ever seen in Chatham, and the merchants along the route decorated liberally for the occasion.

The market tower clock has been duly installed. It commenced to mark the passing of the hours at about 5 o'clock Saturday afternoon. The clock, which is illuminated at night, is quite an addition to King street. It is equipped with an automatic striking apparatus to tell the hours.

The clock, in all its glory, will be a lasting monument to Chairman Potter of the property committee, to whom its erection, as well as the remodelling and beautification of the old market front are both very largely due. Ald. Potter has shown, during his three years in municipal life, a marked faculty for "sticking at it," and the market clock is one of the permanent results.

As a result of Ald. Potter's efforts, it looks as if the electric lighting system here will continue under municipal ownership. The plans for a new gas engine plant have been approved by the Ontario Municipal and Railway Board, and the council at their next meeting will undoubtedly give the by-law its final reading. Ald. Potter is naturally elated at the successful outcome of his efforts for the maintenance of municipal ownership, in which he is a firm believer.

North Chatham has secured the Wolverine Brass Company, the latest addition to the Maple City's industries. The concern will locate on St. Clair street, and as a result the merchants in that vicinity are looking forward to a boom in business. The location was decided on last week, and building operations will be commenced at once, the factory to be completed by Nov. 20th.

The St. Clair street merchants certainly deserve this consolation prize. Since the middle of last January business in their vicinity has been hampered by the continual blocking of the street, for a variety of reasons. First, there was the repairing and strengthening of Aberdeen bridge, and later the paving of the bridge approaches and St. Clair street. The latter work is not yet complete. It was anticipated that the pavement would be completed and the street opened for traffic this week, but a break in the water main, due, apparently, to electrolysis, has just occasioned a further delay. The blocking of the street has a tendency to divert country trade, temporarily at least, to other channels, and the kicks registered by the merchants of this vicinity have been strong and vigorous.

KINGSTON.

Crowds brought to a city by any attraction means a lot to that city by way of advertising it. Grocers get the lion's share, leaving out the hotels, of course, where people are taken inn.

People must eat or die, and when they come on a holiday they are given the best to be had, even if the aunt or uncle they are visiting has to go on tick for it. Oh, that word tick! How many grocers it has stopped in the race for business. When will they learn that cash business is the best?

Ninety-nine out of a hundred will tell you that the wholesaler who sells wholesale only and does not retail and interfere with his customers' customers is the one they should support. On the other hand, 99 per cent. of the wholesalers will tell you that the retailer who jobs and tries to do a wholesale business is making an awful mistake and sooner or later will be an incurable case of financial pneumonia. He should look after family trade, and keep pure goods. The man who jobs must carry all sorts of cheap mixtures and compounds.

To obtain a good, first-class family trade you must do a cash business. Then, Mr. Grocer, do it now. Give up your mixing and give pure foods to your patrons instead.

Talking about clerks, the thoughtful, painstaking kind is in the minority. The young man who wants to be a good clerk and afterwards a good business man, must be able to discern and grasp opportunities of improving himself all the time and not try to take up too many distractions outside of business. Recreation is necessary, but there is a limit.

In the Old Country the clerk used to work in a hard school. He was taught to rise early in the mornings and not to be too anxious about closing hour. To cut up the large sheets of paper into suitable sizes. To open up the boxes carefully and nail the lids on again so they could be disposed of and turned into money. To sell old goods first and not to put new goods in front of them. To wear clean aprons, look tidy and pleasant, and wait on customers well and make them feel he is glad to see them and have them come back again. A good clerk is a good asset, and Canada has the material. With better prices and less cutting we can give them as good wages as Uncle Sam and keep them at home.

Attempts have been made by coffee roasters and grinders of Canada to put up goods to compete and win against American houses, but they seem to fail, like Sir Thomas with his yachts. Why is it? The quality of goods, or lack of advertising?

"Yes," said Jim the Grocer, "the advance in tea is going to make it hard for the package tea men to put up a good 25c. line."

The coupon business is fast fading away, and the sooner the better. It creates a lot of annoyance.

Kingston is to have a Made in Canada exhibition for the benefit of the hospital.

Capt. Sharp has again resumed his duties as head clerk in Crawford's grocery store. The captain is an all round athlete, a practical joker and public entertainer. He often appears at concerts and always puts his audience in good humor.

Arthur Bryant, clerk for Gilbert Ostler, of Plevna, died suddenly of heart failure, while bathing in the lake. Arthur managed one of Gilbert's stores in Kingston at one time and was popular and well thought of. His sudden death has cast a gloom among the grocery element here, and his parents are heart broken.

Albert Hebert, of the firm of Hudon Hebert & Co., Ltd., Montreal, is still traveling on his European trip. He writes that he is enjoying the vacation immensely. When last heard from he was at Berlin, Germany.

J. A. Stephenson, Arthur, has refitted his store for the fall trade. Mr. Stephenson has done remarkably well since he took over the business from his father and is to be complimented. He has many admirers in his town and his likeableness is reflected in his business.

Lemon Market Firmer in Tone—Warm Weather Has Strengthened the Situation—Last Arrivals of Florida Pineapples—Canadian Berries.

The lemon market, while remaining nominally at last week's prices, is actually considerably firmer in tone. The demand is becoming more active, and if the present hot weather continues, a forward movement is practically a certainty. Receipts are disposed of in short order and although there is no lack of stocks, most of the fruit men are busy keeping up with orders. The demand for verdillis this season so far compares favorably with that of last year, and the situation at present is stronger than it was at the corresponding period a year ago. If sales are maintained at their present rate it is probable that this season's total will show an appreciable increase over 1906.

Two cars of Florida pineapples are being handled this week by one of the largest wholesalers, and the sale of these will practically end the pineapple season. From hardly any standpoint can it be said to have been satisfactory. The fruit has been of poor size, of only medium quality, and the demand has naturally lessened under these drawbacks.

Canadian berries are now narrowing down to a few districts and two weeks more at the outside will see the whole crop gathered and marketed. The yield has been a small one, but the berries have been of a size and quality well up to the average.

Business for the week has been excellent in all lines of fruit, fair for Canadian and imported vegetables and quiet in fish.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS.—Green fruits are in good demand but continue very scarce. This in part explains the high prices experienced. As far as can be seen there is no prospect of relief. Just now the demand is general. Domestic strawberries are very fine, although not any too plentiful. They are quoted at 9c to 12c per qt. The lemon crop has been light and high prices rule. Oranges, California grape fruit, declined within the past week from $5 to $3.50 to $4. New southern apples are beginning to make an appearance, as are also Australian lines.

VEGETABLES.—The situation at present in all lines of vegetables is good with demand principally in favor of new potatoes, cabbages and cucumbers. Florida tomatoes are off the market and Jerseys, the next line to arrive, are fully one month late. They are not expected here till 1st of August. Domestic stuff, to a great extent, is now replacing American goods. Jersey sweet potatoes and mushrooms are also not to be had. New domestic cabbage is now quoted at 50c to 75c, with a lower tendency. Many prices have declined since those last issued, owing to the fact that domestic stuff is now on the market.

FISH.—Among fresh fish, salmon are becoming scarce and price has again advanced. The catch up to the present is short compared with last year. Halibut continue plentiful, also cod and haddock. Brook trout are scarce, while lake trout and whitefish are in only fair supply. Pike and dore or pickerel are scarce, with prices high and firm.

Smoked herring in small boxes are in good demand now, but haddock and other smoked fish are neglected, owing to warm weather. Boneless and prepared fish, in most cases, are in plentiful supply.

As haying season is now in full swing, there is a fair quantity of Labrador salmon and sea trout moving in the country parts, but all other kinds are uncalled for.

TORONTO.

FRUITS.—Lemons are again firmer, with prospects, if the warm weather continues, of an early rise. Canadian cherries are beginning to arrive more plentifully, but the prices are too high to admit of much business passing. Late valencia oranges are showing up better each carload and dealers declare the stock to be unusually fine. Bananas, which have been high at seaboard throughout the season, show a tendency to decline, and the demand continues as brisk as ever. It is probable, however, that with the heavier arrival of the Canadian small fruits, both the inquiry and the price will ease off somewhat.

VEGETABLES.—Canadian tomatoes are expected to be on the market shortly, the hot weather having arrived at the right time to force the growth along. A heavy crop is anticipated. Egyptian onions are still quoted but the stocks held by dealers do not collectively amount to much. Cauliflower is expected to go lower almost immediately. A car of Canadian new potatoes arrived on the market early in the week, but the stock was not attractive and did not meet with much favor from buyers.

FRUIT GROWERS' DIRECTORY.

The first annual directory of the Niagara District Fruit Growers has been issued by the Niagara District Fruit Growers' Directory Company, of St. Catharines. It is published in the interests of the fruit growing and handling industry and includes the names of the leading commission houses and wholesale and retail merchants handling fruit in Ontario. Practically all the fruit growers of the Niagara Peninsula are listed, the few exceptions consisting, according to the publishers' preface, of those "who wish to be considered extensive growers and who, for obvious reasons, declined having their 'extent' published."

The directory should be of inestimable value to all who are in any way interested in the fruit growing industry, and a copy may be obtained by applying to the publishers.

$16 per case is being paid for lobsters, at St. John, and the market continues very firm.

Latest reports from St. John's, Newfoundland, state that the shore fishermen are making good catches. One trap at Cape Broyle took 100 quintals at one haul.

The first car of Elberta peaches was received by White & Co. this week. The stock was good, and brought $3.50 per crate.

PERSONALS.

P. J. Cuddy, traveler for the Montreal Packing Co., Montreal, has left for the Maritime Provinces, where he will remain for two weeks on business.

James Ireland, general merchant, Durham, is anticipating a trip to Montreal in the Masonic interest in the near future. He's sure of a good time and as a close observer will have some interesting incidents to relate.

J. W. Irvine, Clinton, is expecting to leave for the west on Aug. 1st. He intends to be gone a month visiting his son, the dentist, at Calgary, and another son who is accountant with a large manufacturing firm in Moose Jaw.

J. W. Shields, formerly of Grand Valley, has opened a general store in Elora. He has fixed the place up in first-class shape and it is a credit alike to himself and the town. He has started in the right way to build up a big trade.

R. E. A. Stinson, general merchant, Moorefield, gave out he would attend the Orange demonstration in Arthur. Mr. Stinson has a reputation for wit. "I'm anxious to have Stinson's opinion and description of the gathering," remarked a traveler, "it will be comical."

Mr. Green, of the Anglo-American Direct Tea Co., Toronto, was in Montreal this week interviewing the wholesale trade, along with their agent there, Alex. Hendery.

J. S. Ireland, Mount Forest, last week killed two birds with one stone by taking a bowling team to London. Besides enjoying himself on the green he improved the opportunity to do some seasonable buying. The bowlers went out in full regalia and had a good time.

Gilbert McKechnie, of M. G. & J. McKechnie, Durham, is looking forward to a trip west on business. Mr. McKechnie is secretary-treasurer of the Portland Cement Co., Durham, and his work has been heavy enough of late to tell upon his health. It is hoped he will return from the west feeling quite himself again.

Geo. Ballantyne, traveler for Melagama tea, is under way again after laying up to repair an injured leg. He made the mistake of geting into a rig behind a kicking horse, and when the animal began his performance, Mr. Ballantyne attempted a hasty exit, tripped and fell, cutting a deep gash from knee to ankle on a sharp part of the buggy. He kept on for a week, but finally had to rest up.

THE LATE MARTIN F. NIERMEYER

The many friends of Martin F. Niermeyer, known almost universally in the trade as Mr. Martin, of G. F. Sutton, Sons & Co., London, England, will regret to learn of his sudden death at Saskatoon, after a few hours' illness. Mr. Martin had made a number of successful trips from east to west in Canada, solely in the interests of Messrs. Sutton's and a year or two ago made a trip around the world, visiting China, Japan, India, South Africa, Australia, and New Zealand. Besides being a most successful traveler and a keen business man, he was an accomplished linguist, and he received renewed proofs of the popularity of his firm's goods, by his success on the tour which was so shortly to end in Canada,.

A successor to Mr. Martin will be appointed as quickly as possible, and the firm's customers will be duly advised.

To Mrs. Martin we tender our sympathies.

TEA IMPORTS.

The importation of tea into the United States via Canada in the calendar year 1906 amounted to 2,301,201 pounds, valued at $548,290. This was admitted free of duty, as there is at present no customs charge on American tea imports. Canada has the following customs regulations for this article: "Tea and green coffee imported direct from the country of growth and production and tea and green coffee purchased in bond in the United Kingdom, free;" from other countries, including the United States, 10 per cent. duty is imposed. Under this tariff restriction the shipments of tea from the United States to Canada in the fiscal year 1906 amounted to only 78,564 pounds, valued at $18,522. The foregoing facts are furnished by the Bureau of Manufactures.

MARITIME WHOLESALERS AT ST. JOHN, N.B.

Maritime Wholesale Grocers' Association in Convention — Largest Attendance on Record—Sugar Dropped 20 Cents in Four Weeks — Crop Prospects.

(Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.)

St. John, N.B., July 15.

The annual meeting of the Maritime Wholesale Grocers' Association was held Wednesday morning, July 10, in the Board of Trade rooms here. The attendance was the largest in the association's history, indicating an increased interest in the organization. A good deal of routine business was transacted.

All the grocers reported that the present year was the most prosperous in their experience, far exceeding that of previous years. The markets had been most favorable, and the outlook was extremely bright. The price committee did good work in the past year, arranging fixed prices on canned corn, tomatoes, peaches and strawberries, gelatine and brooms.

The business session was concluded after one o'clock. Officers were elected as follows:

W. C. Cross, St. John, president.

H. G. Bauld, Halifax, 1st vice-president.

W. H. Aitken, Charlottetown, 2nd vice-president.

Price Committee—W. C. Cross, G. E. Barbour, C. H. Peters, St. John; M. Dwyer, Halifax; E. T. Higgs, Charlottetown.

The delegates in attendance at the meeting were:

Halifax—R. M. Symonds, Henry G. Bauld, John E. Hills, Arthur C. Pike.

New Glasgow—Robert Murray.

Yarmouth—R. W. Brown, J. L. Lovitt, F. C. Kenney, J. A. Kirk.

Amherst—D. A. Morrison.

Truro—Albert S. Black.

In the afternoon the visiting delegates were treated to a sail on the St. John River on the steamer Champlain as the guests of the St. John members of the organization. They went half way up the Belleisle, and a beautiful sail was enjoyed. Dinner was served on board.

The visitors were delighted with the trip, and on motion of E. T. Higgs, of Charlottetown, seconded by H. G. Bauld, of Halifax, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered the St. John members who furnished the excursion and entertainment. The visitors left for their homes in the evening.

Sugar.

A decline of twenty cents in the price of all grades of refined sugars has taken place in the last four weeks. On June 18, a drop of 10 cents was announced, and a further decline was reported on July 9 of a like amount. This is considered very unusual, coming, as it does, on the eve of the "preserving season." Local wholesalers are at a loss to account for the drop, except that some of the refiners wish to unload some of their stock. There has been no change in the quotations of the raw material. The drop in price is hardly sufficient to affect the consumer.

Crops.

John Macaulay, of Lower Millstream, Kings County, was in the city last week. He says that crop prospects have very materially improved in the country within the last fifteen days. Up to that time things looked pretty blue, but now everything points to at least an average year. Hay will be about the same as usual, he said, and all kinds of grain and potatoes promise excellent yields. Owing to the lateness of vegetation this spring, nothing has been killed by the late frosts, and berries and fruits are quite up to the average.

Geo. H. Campbell, Red Rose Tea.
He always looks happy, because that's the way he feels Meats.

The wholesale price of the best quality of western beef is now 9 to 10c. a pound. Butchers' beef is quoted at 8½ to 10c., and country beef 7 to 9c. Mutton is also easier, at 8 to 10c. Lamb is getting quite plentiful, but as yet the price is unchanged. The only quotations are by the carcase, $3 to $5.

Butter.

Butter has fallen off in price in the produce market, rolls selling at 19 to 21c., and tubs 18 to 20c. Old potatoes will soon be off the market and what stock is left is offering for from $1.80 to $2 a barrel, a decline of from 20 to 25c. since last week.

Potatoes.

According to all reports, the potato crop this year will be very large, much greater than heretofore, as the demand for potatoes from this province is becoming greater every year. In Carleton, York, Victoria and Westmoreland counties a much larger area has been sown than in former years, and the farmers predict that the present year will be by far the most successful ever experienced. Dozens of big potato warehouses have been built for storing the crop and the shipments from New Brunswick to Upper Canada and the West Indies will be the greatest ever.

In the grocery and provision line cheese has eased off a little, while beans have advanced owing to discouraging crop reports.

The reports from cheese and butter factories throughout Kings county are more encouraging now than at any time since the spring opened. The recent rains have helped the pasturage materially and the flow of milk is increasing. The gain means much for the business interests of the county.

The explosion of a lamp in the cellar was responsible for a fire in Robertson & Co.'s grocery store, on Main street, on Thursday evening last, that did about $1,000 damage. Insurance to the extent of $2,000 was carried.

* * *

Stanley Howell and J. V. Kierstead, two of T. H. Estabrooks' travelers, in company with Walter Rollinson, of London, England, pride themselves with holding the Kings county record of trout fishing. During Tuesday and part of Wednesday of last week they caught over 200 of the speckled beauties at Jack's Lake, varying in weight from one-half pound to one and three-quarters. They also saw two moose, a bear, wildcat and fox, but owing to the present restriction of the game laws they were left unmolested.

A MONTH'S PLAY.

George Campbell, Toronto manager for T. H. Estabrooks, and chief pusher of Red Rose tea in Ontario, is taking a holiday. The accompanying striking likeness shows his start. He always was a hustler. This trip he is headed for his old home in Hartland, N.B., whither his wife preceded him a little while ago. Hartland is on the St. John River and is in Mr. Campbell's estimation the choicest spot without the pearly gates. He will spend a day en route with Walter Gaden, the Red Rose tea man in Montreal. The week of Aug. 5 will be occupied by the Red Rose annual reunion in St. John and Mr. and Mrs. Campbell will return to Toronto about Aug. 14.

During Mr. Campbell's absence, Walter Harrison of the St. John office, Mr. Estabrooks' secretary, will superintend the work in Toronto. Mr. Harrison has been there before and is a favorite with the staff.

WHERE HAS THE TEA TRADE GONE TO?

To the Editor Canadian Grocer:

Replying to the comments subscribed by a correspondent of The Canadian Grocer regarding the letter of the writer, which appeared in your valued paper under date of July 4th, I fear that the gentleman who inspired this criticism jumped at conclusions without verified data. He makes caustic remarks about my references to the "decreasing tea consumption in the United States and Canada," and uses rather extreme language in his exceptions thereto. He says that the writer should consult statistics of imports in both Canada and the United States before rushing into print with such a statement, and, therefore, I take pleasure in giving the following statistical facts, which prove my statement and which can be verified by referring to the Custom House reports of either country.

The increased population in both countries has been most rapid (within the last ten years) and the import of teas to-day would necessarily have to show much larger quantities to equalize the per capita consumption of 1897, but notwithstanding, however, the import of China teas into the United States in 1904 totalled 53,146,080 lbs.; in 1905, 42,938,984 lbs.; in 1906, 37,466,689 lbs., thus showing a decrease in China teas in three years of 15,679,391 pounds.

The importation from Japan in 1904 totalled 42,711,127 lbs.; in 1905, 41,823,115 lbs.; in 1906, 37,806,414 lbs., showing a decrease in Japan tea during the same period of 4,904,713 lbs.

The importation of India and Ceylon teas in 1904 was 7,674,663 lbs.; in 1905, 7,813,564 lbs.; in 1906, 7,340,106 lbs., showing a decrease in India and Ceylon teas during the same period of 334,557 lbs. You will notice that in 1905 there was an increase over 1904 in the importation of India and Ceylon tea, when a decrease followed in 1906 which carried the number of pounds imported in 1906 below the importation of 1904.

The total importations from other Asiatic countries in 1904 was 450,923 lbs.; in 1905, 658,076 lbs.; in 1906, 456,731 lbs. The total imports from the United Kingdom, Canada, and sundry other countries to the United States in 1904 shows a total of 8,915,224 lbs.; in 1905, 9,472,860 lbs.; in 1906, 10,551,810 lbs., an increase of 1,636,586 lbs. The grand total of all teas imported into the United States less tea exported therefrom in 1904 totalled 109,614,993 lbs.; in 1905, 101,937,084 lbs.; in 1906, 92,561,498 lbs.

In these days of extraordinary prosperity, in this period of strenuous commercialism, many firms are striving to introduce package teas, but notwithstanding, the grand total decrease in the United States importations of tea within three years was 17,053,495 lbs.

Now, a word about Canada. It may interest you to know that the imports of India and Ceylon teas in 1905 totalled 18,312,396 lbs.; in 1906, the India and Ceylon imports totalled 20,447,304 lbs., showing an increase of 2,134,908 lbs.

The total import from China, Japan, and other countries into Canada in 1905 was 8,001,846 lbs.; in 1906, 5,185,323 lbs., showing a decrease of 2,816,523 lbs. The exports from Canada to the United States, Great Britain, Newfoundland and other countries in 1905 totalled 1,921,841 lbs. and in 1906, 2,387,358 lbs., leaving a net import into Canada in 1905 of 24,392,401 lbs., and in 1906, 23,245,269 lbs., showing a decrease between 1905 and 1906 in Canadian imports of 1,147,132 lbs.

The census and statistic department of the Canadian Government has figured the population in Canada up to April 1st, 1907, at 6,504,900, which shows an increase of 1,133,586 inhabitants, during the last six years, which should be accounted for in the per capita consumption of tea.

The Canadian consumption of Japan and China teas show a decrease during the same period of 2,816,523 lbs., whereas the India and Ceylon teas show an increase of 2,134,908 lbs., thus leaving a deficit of 681,615 lbs.

TAKE YOUR TIME.

Don't leave your advertisement writing until the last minute. An ad that is dashed off without thought is almost invariably a pretty poor ad. Take your time to it and write something that means something.

Roberston & Co., grocers, of St. John, N.B., have suffered loss by fire. Some insurance was carried.

CIGAR GOODNESS

Some grocers overlook that point - although there isn't a grocer in Canada who can afford to do so. The quality of your goods originates more trade than almost anything else, while it is absolutely certain that quality goods can alone retain trade. You must cater to the tastes of your customers, and—judging by the orders arriving from grocers in all parts of Canada—the cigars must be mighty popular. There are reasons for their popularity.

Pharaoh is a carefully made cigar—I personally select and supervise the maturing of every leaf of tobacco used in my factory—and easily worth fifteen cents but retails for ten.

Pebble is the five-cent head liner. Smokers marvel at its goodness and some grocers sell it for ten.

N. B.—The Payne Plan of doing business says more for the sterling quality of my cigars than all the words we could print. Do you know that plan ?

J. BRUCE PAYNE, Limited, GRANBY, QUEBEC

Good Business

The kind of business that pays depends largely on the brands of tobacco you carry. There was a time when tobacco had little to do with the grocery business; but that's so long ago that we do not remember it. There's a multitude of men sitting in smoking jackets and here's about the way Mr. Smoker talks: "You might make it a point to order your groceries at Smith's. Smith carries a good stock of the best tobacco placed on the market to-day. The Grocer who is wise enough to appreciate tobacco quality and its influence is wise enough to appreciate quality in every article he sells. Go to Smith's and, by-the-way, you might bring a couple of packages marked T. & B. with you." Enough said for the shrewd grocer to think over.

T. & B.

T. & B. Tobacco sells more than Tobacco.

THE GROCER, THE FARMER, AND THE CITY BUYER.

The Guelph correspondent of The Canadian Grocer, recently, after writing of the efforts of Toronto wholesale buyers with farmers in the Guelph market on a Saturday morning, continues :

Now what I can't understand is why these Toronto buyers can't come in and say on Friday night : "I will give you so much for your surplus stock on Monday morning," and then stay off the market and let the grocers go ahead and get what trade they can out of the farmers on a Saturday. Why I remember when the boss would come along on Saturday morning and say : "Boys, so much for eggs and butter to-day in trade; no cash," while to-day I venture to say not one grocer in Guelph can say to a first-class butter maker : "You must trade it out." He simply cannot do it. Why, to-day in Guelph the farmers to my own knowledge don't trade half of their produce out, in fact, the best butter makers won't. But why? Just because the grocer hands out the cash and his next-door neighbor has something special for Saturday, and the next, &c., and the farmer's wife is a good buyer as well as a good seller.

There is no use kicking individually, but get together. If we have to pay the cash let us fight him on Toronto market or some other together, and in a short time the Toronto buyers will be out of our way on a Saturday.

BUILDING UP TRADE IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

T. A. Macnab, the head of T. A. Macnab & Co., manufacturers' agents and commission merchants, St. John's, Newfoundland, was formerly with Mathewson's Sons, Montreal. For some eight years he was their sole representative in the city of Montreal and left them three years ago to go to St. Johns to look after the agency part of the business of W. A. Munn. On the first of the present year Mr. Macnab took over this part of the business on his own account.

The offices of the firm are in the Cabot Building and are centrally situated. The accounting work is under the management of E. M. Macnab, who was some ten years accountant with Chas. Gurd & Co., Montreal.

The following are some of the Canadian firms represented by the firm : The Canadian Salt Co., Windsor; the F. F. Dalley Co., Hamilton; the Edwardsburg Starch Co.; MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co.: Truro Condensed Milk Co.; the Walter M. Lowney Co. Besides these Canadian houses they also represent a number of American and continental firms. They are also exporters of Newfoundland products and their aim is to ship only the first qualities.

CONDENSED INFORMATION.

"15 minutes with Edmonton, for the busy man of the 20th century," is the title of a handy folder, issued by the Publicity Department of the Edmonton Board of Trade. The remarkable amount of condensed information contained in this folder is well worth more than a quarter of an hour's study, but anyone who only dips into it for this amount of time cannot fail to learn many facts about the Alberta capital, of which he was formerly ignorgnt. Among other information is given 70 "Facts about Edmonton," 19 buildings, institutions, etc., which Edmonton "will have in the near future," 27 different kinds of factories wanted, fifty-two different occupations, reliable representatives of which can always be sure of securing good positions in Edmonton, "Facts for Farmers," and 13 things "To Remember" about the city for men who are thinking of locating there. A fine colored panoramic view of the city as it stands to-day is shown, maps of Alberta, of the Edmonton and Peace River districts are given, and a number of fine photographs representative of the best scenery of the country, are reproduced.

Especially attractive is a sheet of "Photographs of Peace River Scenes," reproducing with admirable fidelity a comprehensive selection of the rivers, wheat fields, ranches, homesteads, and farms that together contribute to the attraction of the Peace River district. A copy of this folder, with any other information desired, may be had on application to the secretary of the Edmonton Board of Trade.

GROCERY TRADE NEWS OF NOVA SCOTIA

(Special Correspondence of Canadian Grocer.)

Halifax, N.S., July 15.

The grocery markets are quite active, and there is a good demand for some lines. With berries coming in the demand for sugar increases, and will likely continue for some time. Pork and lard are a little easier, but beans have been advanced 25c. per bushel. Beef packers have not been offering any quotations for the past fortnight, owing to the scarcity of cattle and the fight in Chicago between the packers and the cattle dealers. Seeded raisins are now selling at 13c., an advance of 1c. per pound since last week. All dried fruit is becoming rather scarce. The wheat market is very strong, and oats and corn are very strong. The receipts are improving some and it is thought that the highest prices have been reached. Bran is more plentiful and the stocks are equal to the demand. Middlings are as scarce now as at any time during the winter.

Strawberries are now coming in very plentiful and the price has dropped rapidly. During the latter part of last week berries retailed at 25c. per box. Early this week a big shipment of Canadian berries arrived, followed by a lot of American, and then the Nova Scotia berries commenced to pour in. The price dropped to 18c., and as the Nova Scotia berries were arriving at the rate of 200 and 300 crates daily, the price continued its downward tendency until three boxes could be purchased for a quarter. The local berries are of very fine quality and they forced all the others off the market.

Butter and Eggs.—There is a good demand for the former, but for the latter it is light. The receipts of both are fully up to the average. There is considerable choice dairy butter coming on the market now and this helps to relieve the demand for creamery, the sales of which have been very heavy during the past season, though the price was high. All the creameries were taxed to their utmost and the change is most welcome. Good dairy butter in small tubs can now be purchased for 23c. Creamery is holding firm at 25c. to 26c. Eggs appear to be plentiful, with the price steady at 17c. for Nova Scotia.

The steamer Boston, which arrived here on Friday last from Jamaica, landed 950 tons of cargo, which included sugar, cocoanuts, honey and bananas. The schooner Burleigh, which arrived during the latter part of the week, landed 276 puncheons, 41 tierces, and 36 barrels of molasses. The cargo was from Barbadoes.

Bauld Bros., one of the oldest and most reliable wholesale grocery firms in Halifax, has been re-organized as a joint stock company and will in future be known as Bauld Bros., Limited. The transfer has just been completed and the new firm will carry on the business on a more extensive sale. The officers of the new company are: President, Henry G. Bauld; directors, W. C. Bauld, A. M. Bauld; treasurer, Hugh Johnstone; secretary, John L. Wilson. No change will be made in the staff or the management of the new company.

The name of Bauld has always been associated with courtesy to customers, prompt and fair dealing and the officers of the new company are determined to keep up this reputation. Besides the main house in Halifax, this firm has two outside branches, one at Sydney, and the other at Springhill. The new company's growing trade throughout the province made it necessary for them to establish warehouses at these points and complete establishments are maintained there. Altogether upwards of forty people are employed by the company.

ALEX. McWILLIE

The firm carries a very extensive stock and makes a specialty of fancy goods. It is claimed that the firm handles more fancy goods than any other east of Montreal.

Ex-Ald. John F. Ryan, who conducted grocery stores on Argyle and Pleasant streets for a number of years, has disposed of his stock at auction. Mr. Ryan has been appointed to the staff of the Inland Revenue Department at Halifax.

All the wholesale grocery establishments in this city close at one o'clock on Saturday afternoon, and also several other lines of business. Recently the employes of several establishments endeavored to have the retail stores close on Saturday afternoon and evening, but the movement was not very favorably received. The merchants would not entertain such a proposal while Saturday remains "pay day."

ALEX. MACWILLIE'S NEW SPHERE

Heinz Co.'s World Traveler Goes to MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co.

Alex. MacWillie has given up his position as world organizer with the H. J. Heinz Co., to become United States manager for the MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co. Mr. MacWillie is much more than a salesman. He has introduced the "57 Varieties" into many foreign countries in a way that has spelled success from the start. For instance, on his latest trip round the world, and it was one of many such, he gave a dinner of Heinz goods to the royal princes of Siam, the oldest ruling family in the world.

Mr. MacWillie is a remarkable man. He came off the farm with his brother, both young men, and started a retail grocery store on King street, Toronto. Some time later, when the Confederation Life Insurance Co. erected the largest and finest building in the city, MacWillie Bros. rented a large section of the ground floor with frontage on Yonge and Richmond streets, and proceeded to put the retail grocery business in Toronto on a new footing. They had the most attractive foodstuff store in Canada. They organized a systematic delivery system. They made the distribution of groceries an art. But the new venture fell upon hard times; Toronto suffered years of grinding depression. The venture was several years too soon. The business was wound up, and Mr. MacWillie's health failed. He went to the States and engaged as salesman with the Heinz Co. A remarkable thing about Mr. MacWillie is his self-confidence. He would not work on anything but a commission basis, and he was going to Atlantic City, where, before his time, no Heinz salesman had been able to pay expenses. He was still an invalid, but within a couple of years his income was greater than that of the manager of his district. That was but the beginning of his success with the "57 Varieties."

Mr. MacWillie evidently thinks there is for him a larger future handling in the United States (with an eighty million market to develop) MacLaren's Imperial cheese and Maconochie's goods for which the MacLaren Co. are the American agents. Mr. MacWillie may rest assured that the grocery trade in Canada will watch his career with interest and wish him all kinds of success.

ENCLOSE SLIPS IN PARCELS.

An Illinois hardware dealer runs a small ad in two local daily papers, changing his copy every day. From each ad he has one of the papers reprint a lot of slips on good paper. These are placed on counters in the store and wrapped up in every package that leaves the store. This is a very cheap and effective way of advertising. The slips cost only for the paper and presswork, as the composition is already paid for in the ad.

Value Wins the Day

A low price or a pretty label may attract some of your customers some of the time, but in such cases your profit is fickle, your trade fleeting. The problem of how to attract all of your customers all of the time is solved so far as pickles are concerned by selling the greatest combination of quality and value—

Maconochie's Pickles

Your customers will ask for them again, the surest indication that dollar-for-dollar value goes with every bottle.

Why not co-operate with us and push the sale of Maconochie's lines? If you do so, save the bottle wrappers and compete for one of the nine cash prizes to be awarded November 30th. Ask your jobber for our goods, or write for particulars of competition to the Canadian agents,

There is a refreshing and strengthening sensation as well as exhilaration brought about by a cup of that marks this as the ideal selection for the goblet of ice. It cannot be beaten. In fragrance, taste, roundness of tone, it reveals a wealth of excellence unrivalled.

We ask the grocer to bear these points in mind when inquiries are made.

C. & B. Olives

are the finest Spanish olives obtainable. That means they are the best olives brought into Canada, for there are no better olives grown than those grown in Spain, and C. & B secure the very choicest pick of the harvest every season through their expert olive buyers, who do nothing except scour the markets for the firm. C. & B. olives are much larger than ordinary olives. They are crisper and have a distinctive flavor, found in neither Italian nor lower grade Spanish olives. They are packed with the utmost care and look well on your shelves. Try the experiment of putting them there. They will not stay long. They cost more than ordinary olives but are far cheaper in reality when their quality, and the satisfaction they give your customers, is considered. Insist on your jobber giving you what you and your customers want. If he does not stock C. & B. olives, have him import them for you.

Reputation and Profit

The wise grocer is just as anxious to secure a high reputation as he is to make money. Since both are essential to lasting success it is evidently short sighted policy to stock an inferior brand of canned goods. You clinch both reputation and profit by stocking the housewife's favorite, the far famed because that brand is simply a revelation of sterling goodness through and through. Some competitors wonder because we don't claim more in our advertising, but we prefer to let Old Homestead Brand prove our claims.

Let your customers decide for us. If you never carried Old Homestead Brand let's ship you a trial order and we're willing to stand by the decision of your customers.

There's just another interesting reason for stocking

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

a cash reason—there's more profit, direct and indirect, in handling Old Homestead Brand of canned goods than any other most grocers know about.

Yes, you clinch both reputation and profit by stocking Old Homestead Brand.

REPEAT ORDERS ARE ONE THING "BUT" when these are accompanied by unsolicited and entirely voluntary remarks, such as the following, their value is increased tenfold.

These are actual quotations from letters received during the past few days, and we receive hundreds of such.

"Please repeat our last order. "Salada" is getting to be a great seller with us."

"Ship us at once 60 lbs. of Black and the same of Green. We are surely helping you to swell your splendid increases."

"Send us another case of "Salada" as before. We are gradually discarding loose teas altogether, as we find more satisfaction this way."

"A Pleased Customer is the Best Advertiser"

The "Quality" Salt

Since "the proof of the pudding is in the eating" we think that Windsor Salt has proved up by facts, by sales, by test. It passed the "comparison" stage long ago—now other salts are proved by "Windsor".

If "other salts" prove up, 50 per cent. that means they are 50 per cent. as pure, white, crystalline as Windsor Salt.

Windsor Salt is the so-called weather gauge —the testing glass —the "prover" — the one hundred per cent salt.

WHOLESALE COMMISSION MERCHANTS AND BROKERS.

Winnipeg, June 27th, 1907.

TO MANUFACTURERS AND SHIPPERS

DEAR SIRS:

If you care to intrust to us the pushing of your interests in Western Canada, we can place at your command exceptional facilities and a wide and thorough knowledge of the trade in this territory.

We have been successfully prosecuting the business of general selling agents and manufacturers' representatives for many years. There is no better known house in Western Canada, or one possessing a larger or more loyal circle of clients.

Our facilities for storing and handling goods are excellent. We have three warehouses----one each at Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton---- from which points we can readily and quickly reach all towns in this region.

We should like to receive some consignments from you, and believe you would find a connection with us very profitable.

A reply from you would be greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,

NICHOLSON & BAIN,

"THE FAIRBANK PLAN"

LOOK INTO IT

and see just what "The Fairbank Plan" is. While we spend hundreds of thousands of dollars every year advertising the six great Fairbank specialties:

Gold Dust Washing Powder
Fairy Soap, Copco Soap
Fairbank's Glycerine-Tar Soap
Fairbank's Scouring Soap
Fairbank's Sanitary Soap

and educating the public regarding them; and while we intend to continue doing this, we realize fully that advertising alone has not accomplished the splendid results we have enjoyed in the sale of these goods, but that "the man behind the counter" has been an important factor in extending and increasing our trade. It was the realization of this fact that gave birth to "The Fairbank Plan," as a method of rewarding the retail clerks for their earnest co-operation in selling these goods and, consequently, a portion of our immense advertising appropriation is now set aside for the recognition of the dealer and his clerks.

"The Fairbank Plan" is an absolutely fair method of rewarding the clerk in direct proportion to the interest displayed in pushing the six specialties, as each package of these goods is couponed in such a manner that the coupon can be easily removed before the goods pass into the hands of the consumer. For these coupons we offer many valuable articles.

If you will send for an illustrated premium list of "The Fairbank Plan" it will convince you that this is no cheap trading-stamp scheme.

Many Grocers Make Holiday in Ontario

Mighty Delegation of Retailers from London Visit the Queen City—Toronto Grocers Hit Buffalo with a Loud Clang—Hamilton and Brantford Combine to Show Niagara Falls Where the Good Grocers Come From — Magnificent Weather Favored the Holiday—Everybody had a Good Time.

The terrible catastrophe which visited London on the night of July 16, and in which eight of her citizens lost their lives, detracted considerably from the numbers of those who would otherwise have been present at the annual excursion of the Retail Grocers' Association of London, and saddened many of those who actually did take part in the expedition. It was thought that well over 1,000 people would be present; at least 200 of the expected number were unable to leave the city, either on account of the death or injury of some relative or friend, or because they were momentarily expecting news of a similar nature from the workers at the wrecked building. London has added another to her terrible list of accidents, and one the memory of which can never be effaced.

Out for a Good Time.

Notwithstanding the gloom shed over the city by the grim list of casualties, the 700 or 800 people who stepped off the C.P.R. train at Toronto at 10.30 on Wednesday morning last, were cheerful and enthusiastic and evidently intended to enjoy themselves. The train, which was to have left London at 7 a.m., was a few minutes late in starting, owing to some trifling delay occasioned by Ed. Ryan, who insisted that the bar car had been omitted and went up the track to look for it. He was brought back just in time to be included in the expedition, but it was a long while before his friends could quiet him.

But don't imagine for a minute that everybody caught the train as easy as it sounds.

"What's the matter?" gasped Frank Smythe to Bob. Ross, with 300 yards to go, and all sails set. "Are you training for a race?" "No danger of it," breathed Frank, with difficulty, "I'm racing for a train."

Wholesalers' Hospitality.

It did not require a second glance at the party to see that everyone had agreed upon the motto for the day. It was carved on their faces in letters an inch deep, and read something like this: "We are out for a good time and mean to get it."

This attitude of determined optimism was further emphasized by the appearance among some of the male members of the party of a blue ticket, supplied by Todhunter, Mitchell & Co., tied with red ribbon, the reverse side of which read as follows:

I AM OUT

FOR A GOOD TIME.

When I can't stand, tie this to my button-hole, steal my pocket book, sponge my clothes, and

CART ME HOME.

Name .....

Residence .....

Keep this out of the papers and tell my wife it was an old stomach trouble.

To prevent any misapprehension as to the future behavior of the wearers of these temperance tags, it may be said at once that the instructions did not have to be carried out any oftener than might have been expected under the circumstances.

One of the circumstances was the free bar-car hooked to the engine, wherein was gratuitously dispensed every method of liquidation known to man, besides about 15 new ones which were invented on the spot to meet special emergencies.

There was lots of noise made on that train before it reached its destination, and the major part of it was contributed by the exuberance of the juvenile members. With a determination to make themselves heard that nothing could either justify or check, they beat the tin drums distributed among them by the McCormick Biscuit Co., and so successful were their efforts that they eventually drove their distracted fathers to the very top of the train, whence, so rumor whispers, they were some time in returning.

London Grocers in Todhunter, Mitchell's Coach.

They All Liked it.

When the train reached Toronto, the grocers were met on the platform by representatives from Todhunter, Mitchell & Co., Cowan's, Sunlight Soap, Red Rose Tea, Salada Tea, Christie, Brown & Co., and the Pure Gold Co. Todhunter, Mitchell & Co. and the Pure Gold Co. had each sent about forty invitations to the London grocers to take advantage of the exceptional opportunity which they were offering to see Toronto by means of the electrically-driven Imperial Coaches. When the ride was over, the Todhunter & Mitchell party lunched at the King Edward, while those in charge of the Pure Gold Company were escorted to the St. Charles restaurant, where a satisfying spread had been prepared for them.

HARRY RANAHAN
President London Retail Grocers' Association.

THOMAS SHAW
Vice-President London R.G.A.

Right here it should be said that all of the above mentioned firms left no stone unturned to give the visitors nothing but the most pleasant remembrances to take back to London, and every member of the excursion benefitted, directly or indirectly, from their generosity.

C. E. Moyle, sales manager, E. W. Gillett Co., was also at the station on arrival of the train extending the glad hand of welcome.

Why Not a Universal Picnic?

About nine o'clock the party assembled at Scarboro Beach park, several hundred free entrance tickets having been distributed among them on the train. It would be hard to say which of the various attractions at the park proved most popular, because they were all crowded all the time. The children, of course, would find the problem an easy one to solve. Most of their afternoon was spent hilariously on the "bumps," and it was a treat to watch them at it. Whoever it was that invented this form of amusement was blessed with a pretty clear insight into the mind of a child. They never seemed to tire of it, and many had to be forcibly removed by their parents when the time came to go.

And which of them all enjoyed the day most? The husbands, the wives, or the youngsters? Well it is a moot question and not worth quarreling over. The kids say they never had such a time. The mothers say that the "bumps" relieved them of all responsibility, and that they were able to enjoy themselves to the limit in consequence, and the fathers declare that Toronto is the finest place ever for a picnic, and that they never knew before that so much enjoyment could be crammed into one day.

Excursion Well Patronized.

An expedition such as this, which was a big success from start to finish, sets one to wondering whether next year it would not be feasible to gather the members of every Retail Grocers' Association in Ontario together for one or two days, and to hold a vast mass picnic, the like of which should never have been seen in Canada. It would emphasize the bond which should exist between all the Retail Grocers' Associations, and would in addition, give the members of each body an opportunity to exchange opinions on management and organization. We should be glad to hear what the retailers think of this suggestion, and invite criticism of every sort from every quarter.

Credit to Whom Credit is Due.

The following are the officials of the association and committee of the excursion:

President—Harry Ranahan.
Vice-President—Thomas Shaw.
2nd Vice-President—W. Mullins.
Treasurer—Ed. J. Ryan.
Secretary—Cyril Hays.
Committee — R. A. Ross, Frank Smythe, Gordon Drake, C. H. Lee and Frank Paul.

The Coaching Party.

One of the greatest treats enjoyed by a number of London grocers was their entertainment by Todhunter, Mitchell & Co. This company had arranged with Treasurer E. J. Ryan to tag about thirty of the visitors with a unique blue shipping tag tied to the lapel (described elsewhere). The party was met on arrival of the train by A. M. Piper and R. D. Wanless, of the Todhunter, Mitchell Co., and escorted to one of the Imperial electric coaches. A halt was made in front of Todhunter, Mitchell & Co.'s offices on Front, near Yonge, where three rousing cheers and a tiger were given for Mr. Mitchell. Three cheers were also given for The Canadian Grocer, whose offices are directly across the way. The drive, which occupied about two hours, was one greatly enjoyed by the visitors all of whom were loud in their praises of Todhunter, Mitchell & Co. for this unexpected treat. At the conclusion of the drive the party were entertained in the American dining room of the King Edward. After luncheon the members separated to seek enjoyment and diversion in shopping, sight-seeing, the Island, and Scarboro Beach Park. Before the party left with their fellow excursionists, Messrs. Piper, Wanless and MacCabe, of Todhunter, Mitchell & Co., gave then a hearty bon voyage. A pleasant little souvenir in the shape of a specially prepared package of eating chocolate, was handed to every member of the excursion. This package bore the inscription, "With Compliments of Todhunter, Mitchell & Co.," and "We hope you had a good time. Come again." Several members of the Todhunter, Mitchell & Co. party expressed to The Grocer their thorough appreciation of the kindness and hospitality extended to them by their hosts, and on behalf of themselves and family wished The Grocer publicly to express their thanks. As The Grocer representative was honored with an invitation to join the party in their outing, these thanks are hereby extended for all.

Heard on the Coach.

That Garfield McCormick, of A. McCormick & Son was voted the best looking grocer on the train. That box of cigars will be cherished by the winner.

That E. J. Ryan is the whole tip. "Where's Ryan," was the constant call. He's a hustler and an out-and-out genial fellow. Shake!

That W. Mullins, Tom Shaw, Bob Ross and Jim Haskett are a quartette hard to beat. Their songs were much appreciated on the way up. Did they sing going home?

That Charley Maher and James Dean were somewhat lost. There wasn't anything to weigh, and they missed the hay racks.

That Gordon Drake and Tom McCormick had no opportunity to repeat their hurdy-gurdy performance of July 1st. Too bad, and they are so musical, too.

That for real, painstaking workers, Frank Smythe, Gordon Drake and R. A. Ross carry away the honors as premier committee men. Engaged for 1908!

That A. M. Piper made an ideal host, particularly as regards looking after the comforts of the wives and sweethearts of the party was concerned.

That R. D. Wanless' smile was a winner and those Benedict cigars of his much appreciated.

That D. S. Perrin & Co. and the McCormick Biscuit and Confectionery Co.'s beautiful souvenir samples of confections were highly appreciated by all the excursionists.

That Thos. R. MacCabe, accountant for Todhunter, Mitchell & Co., had the time of his life, "and so say all of us."

That Sidney M. Screaton, managing director of the Lea Pickling and Preserving Co., Simcoe, met a lot of his old London friends and was one of them. The pleasant smiles and hearty handshakes which greeted him said everything good.

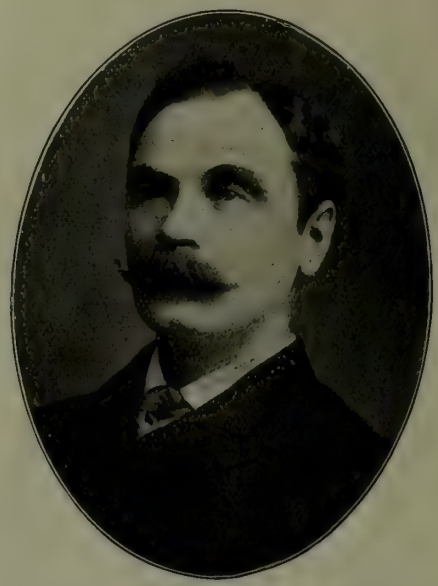
That Secretary Hayes was much in demand and active in making everything go off well.

That N. McLeod would rather sell groceries than go shopping in Eaton's. He knows how to do the first but won't ever do the other again.

That "David Harum" J. N. McLeod knows how to make good cigars but that he should advertise them in The Grocer. Here's hoping!

That Clem. Garvey took a day off with his host of customers and that the oldest-youngest grocery traveler in London was entitled to a holiday.

That Harry Ranahan, the president, knows how to get up an outing and get the right men into line with him.



A. M. PIPER, Todhunter, Mitchell & Co.
Who with Bert Wanless, of the same firm, showed Toronto to a coach full of London Grocers.

That R. J. Donaghy had a real good time in the right spirit.

That W. T. Mullins said he couldn't do without The Canadian Grocer. He's up-to-date, sure.

That A. S. Gormaly traveled all the way from Windsor to be with his friends. For once he didn't talk Salada Tea.

That E. J. Ecclestone was looking after his friends with Comfort-able ideas. He also came in off his ground to try and make things pleasant for the London grocers.

That Sid. Screaton was the champion shot at the Scarboro Beach galleries and that the "chutes" were all right.

That the Laughing Gallery is a libel on the good looks of London grocers.

That the Imperial Coach guide should improve his history and get his facts right. However, he's young and may improve.

That everybody had a royally good time.

PICNIC POINTERS.

It was London let loose.

Comfort Soap distributed unlimited buttons to the crowd.

Cowan's cocoa extended a general invitation to visit their factory.

D. S. Perrin gave boxes of fancy biscuits and confectionery to everyone he could see.

T. B. Escott, one of London's leading wholesale grocers, presented everyone on the train with a handsome fan.

A. McCormick & Sons, one of the leading retail grocery stores in London, distributed fans with a lavish hand.

Todhunter & Mitchell have put another feather in their cap, and there is nothing in London now which they may not have.

The Sunlight Soap people had a representative on the train issuing invitations to visit their factory when in Toronto.

Bob. Ross and Frank Smythe are the boys to put up the drinks. Rumor has it that they are no snails at putting them down, either.

All the wholesale grocers of London sent representatives to the excursion. Walter Hungerford, of the A. M. Smith Co., was well to the fore.

The McCormick wholesale biscuit people gave out several hundred boxes of biscuits, and in addition presented every grocer's wife with a one-pound tin of their best fancy.

C. Maker, the market clerk, and Jim Dean, the gentleman who superintends the weigh-scales in the London market, were both presented with complimentary tickets by the association. Everybody likes them.

Said Harry Ranahan: "Our visit could not have been made more pleasant for us by our friends among the wholesalers and others. They laid themselves out to make us enjoy ourselves, and they succeeded."

Dick Woods wasn't allowed to miss anything at the Beach. Harry Ranahan and company put him through everything in sight. He crawfished at the Third Degree and said he had never been treated so cruelly in his life. No flowers, by request.

Shaw T. Nishimura cabled his Canadian office the following message on Monday of this week: "Tea crop is estimated at much below normal. Market advanced."

THE BIGGEST OF THEM ALL

Hamilton and Brantford Grocers' Picnic at Niagara Falls Was Attended by Over 8,000 People—How They Enjoyed it.

It's something to be the biggest ever. The picnic of Hamilton and Brantford grocers at Niagara Falls Wednesday of last week was the largest gathering of its kind ever held in Canada. Eight thousand was a conservative estimate of the number congregated in Queen Victoria Park within earshot of the mighty cataract and under the auspices of the grocers of the two cities.

Two special trains carried the Hamilton contingent, and three trains ran out of Brantford. The day in the park was given over entirely to amusement and the respective committees were at very considerable pains to provide entertainment. The principal feature, of course, was the games. A large area was roped off for the contests, and the spectators stood ten deep all the way around. The 91st Highlander's band gave a concert during the afternoon. There was a Rube band, half a dozen of the Highlanders masquerading as Rubes, with a roving commission to create music and amusement throughout the park. Still another feature was a pair of tambourinists, one a burnt cork artist, who entertained large audiences.

WM. SMYE
President of the Hamilton R.M.A.

Flow of Tea and Coffee.

The associations furnished free tea and coffee, and the most arduous work of the day fell to A. G. Bain, who had charge of this department, and his noble band of volunteers who served the drinkables. If there had been a prize offered for the man who filled the most pails it must have gone to Adam Ballentine, of Hamilton, who was indefatigable in his efforts to make the park a land flowing with tea and coffee. The associations own a splendid equipment for this purpose, eight furnaces and boilers, the latter big square affairs with faucets attached. Eighty pounds of coffee and 60 pounds of tea were brought along in the stores and there was none to spare. The furnaces were set up the day before in one of the open pavilions, and most of the day the pavilion was the scene of greatest activity. Each family was provided with a small pail in which to carry coffee or tea. Last year these pails were provided by the associations. This year some manufacturers were found willing, not only to contribute the pails, but to fill them with biscuits. Weston, of Toronto, furnished 3,000 and E. W. Ewing, Hamilton, 1,500. And just to show how greedy and ungracious some people are and the troubles that fall to the picnic managers, Bay Hill found one man (thank goodness! not a grocer) with 28 of these pails. He would not give over in response to Bay's oratory, so Bay backed his appeal by calling in a couple of park policemen to assist.

Downpour of Rain.

The pleasure of the day was marred by a heavy shower about three o'clock. The rain fell in torrents for half an hour, and it was a bedraggled multiture the sun came out to dry.

In the morning there was a baseball match, Hamilton vs. Brantford, and they put up some pretty presentable ball. Brantford won out on a score of 8 to 5. The teams were:

Hamilton:—Lewis, Semmens, Hobson, Williamson, Brown, W. Cann, Burkholder, Donovan, Cummings. Brantford:—Croome, McCallum, Taylor, Burns, Campbell, Foulds, Copeland, Woodley, Cale.

Donald Barton was umpire, and there were no kicks coming.

The games went off splendidly in the afternoon with a moist intermission for the rain.

They were put through expeditiously, too. The centre of activity was John Forth, of Hamilton. He was chairman of the Hamilton Games Committee, and he kept the record of the winners. He had a long blotter, with each event, as set forth in the printed programmes, pasted in. The winners were brought to him; their names were entered, and he had a little red pad and handed each competitor an order for his prize.

Hamilton vs. Brantford Fat Ladies' Race.

The Baby Show.

The first event was the baby show on the band stand. There were 40 entrees of hopefuls under 15 months, and the judges, the mayors of Hamilton, Brantford and Niagara Falls, had their troubles. We'll draw a veil over the feelings of the mothers who didn't win: beaten, but unconvinced. The winners were: 1st, Caroline Montgomery, Brantford, 5 months old; 2nd, Herbert William George Fuller, Hamilton, 9 months old; 3rd, Harold Martin, Brantford, 7 months; 4th, Hughie McHugh, Brantford, 11 months. Brantford, it will be noticed, took three of the four prizes.

Of the other 19 events, those open only to grocers or their employes, resulted as follows:

Association Race, 100 yds—1st, J. Clendenning; 2ind, M. Semmens; 3rd, A. Hobson.

Great Tunnel Race, 100 yds, open to employes—1st, L. Brown; 2nd, W. Cornell; 3rd, B. Cornell.

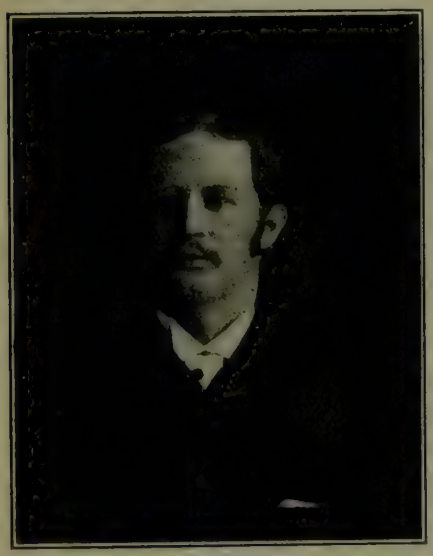
Three-legged Race—1st, Carey and Carey; 2nd, Brown and Brown; 3rd, Roache and Lucas.

One of the most exciting events was a chicken catching contest. Three guinea hens were let loose before about 40 girls under 16, and there was a great scramble for a few minutes.

Boys under 15 were allowed to enter the chase for a small porker. The programme remarked: "This is the race where 'everybody works but father'." On the contrary, father ran, too, and was just about as interested as the boys.

A Heavy Matter.

The fat ladies' race also created a good deal of excitement. Four ponderous matrons tore up the turf for 50 yeards, and the one President J. Burns, of Brantford, was waiting for carried him clean off his feet, but you bet he hung on and landed all right. The other officers of the Brantford Association are: S. Sudaby, vice-president; N. Willetts, secretary; A. V. Vanstone, treasurer.



R. B. SNOW
President Toronto Retail Grocers' Association.

The games committee consisted of John Forth, chairman; M. Semmens, secretary; H. P. Boyd, treasurer. Both associations felt greatly indebted to Donald Barton, of the Hamilton Y.M.C.A., who, as in former years, acted as official starter, and to Bobby Kerr, the champlon runner, who was official judge. Both men did much to make the games a success and did their work with great heartiness.

Mr. Moore, of Comfort soap, put on a race for ladies. There were 20 or more entrees, and much excitement.

Pratt & Co., and R. McRay & Co., gave away a great number of balloons and fans, both of which were much appreciated. The Morton Soap Co. provided handsome badges with buttons—red for Hamilton and blue for Brantford. Everyone was decorated.

It was a great picnic, splendidly managed.

TORONTO GROCERS GO TO BUFFALO

Retail Grocers' Association Held Their Annual Outing on July 17—Great Doings in the Bison City—A Few Persona ls.

The Retail Grocers' Association of Toronto held their annual excursion to Buffalo on Wednesday of last week. The tickets were good on any of the big Niagara boats, but most of the excursionists took passage on the splendid steamer Cayuga, the latest addition to the trans-Ontario fleet. There were other excursions aboard, making up a large company. The voyage was not enlivened, as last year, by guessing and pie-eating contests. P. McIntosh & Son held a guessing contest by ballot on the number of passengers aboard, the prizes for which were some cases of breakfast cereals. The committee evidently thought the excursion sufficient in itself. The weather was perfect. The lake was like a pond all day. A choice of objective was given, Buffalo or Niagara Falls, and the large majority made it Buffalo. They disembarked at Niagara-on-the-Lake and crowded a long Michigan Central train awaiting them there. This meant an early arrival in the Bison City, about 11 o'clock, and seven hours before they must needs return to catch the last homeward boat.

Whatever managing was necessary in such a go-as-you-please affair, Davie Bell was there to do. He carried a large, handsome handbag, in which he kept the responsibility of office. He wore his usual smile. Somehow that smile of Mr. Bell's never does grow rusty. It's always as fresh and voluntary as a June morning. It's almost certain that considerable of his success in the grocery business rests on that smile.

A Good Pair.

Mr. VanLoon's graceful genuflection made the whole excursion look polite. VanLoon is the right bower of the association all right. His side partner in perigrination from deck to deck was usually Ben Panter. Now Ben can no more make a graceful bow than he can help making good baking powder. So they struck a nice average, helped to gather up the ballots in the guessing contest, and gave Davey Bell all the help he wanted.

Mr. Bond was on hand to lend all necessary assistance, but as no emergency call was rung in, he quickly resorted to euchre.

The favorite lay-out for this innocent frivolity was in the smoking room on the upper deck. A brace of friends on opposite benches, with a chair in the centre for table, was a common arrangement.

Pretty nearly everyone of any account aboard wore a red badge, setting forth that they were on the Retail Grocers' excursion, and the large button, with which the badges were fastened, bore the imprint of the Davidson, Hay Co. This little decorative effect was seen to by C. Newman, S. E. Qua, "Goat" Blackburn and Ralph Robinson, under the able supervision of Capt. Adams.

Big Alex. Hutcheson, who has put it all over Canada with Taylor's soap, was aboard, and there was no mistaking it, for he suffused geniality wherever he went.

J. J. Fee, the wholesale provision merchant, wouldn't miss a grocers' outing for a car of eggs, and whether it be making motion music at the annual at-home or admiring the lake breezes on the off-to-Buffalo trip, he's the best pleased man in any company.

DAVEY BELL
Secretary Toronto Retail Grocers' Association.

Two Tea Totalers.

Fred Rose and Chas. Pott were along, and just their presence reminded everybody that "Red Rose tea is good tea." R. Maxwell, W. Collins and F. W. Heyes, of Perkins, Ince & Co., Wm. McFarren, Queen street, and Mr. Fay, of E. K. Scolery & Co., made up a party that held together throughout the day and arrived home in good order on the early evening boat.

James Langskill, whose sombre smile illuminates the fruit market, was a grocer again for a day. He was a mighty good grocer when he was at it, but how good he was Wednesday is no part of this story.

Fred Brown, who is a genial and enterprising young man, despite his beauty, circulated in the room and stead of Ed. Hawes, who is now touring Europe. Other wholesale representatives present were: T. Grant, of the Eby, Blain Co.; "Jack" Wright, of the MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co.; Arthur Scott, of Scott Bros.; Chas. Kimpeton, F. B. Mason, Deacon Owen and G. H. Gausby, of Warren Bros., the latter of whom had his daughter with him for the first time. Just a few of the grocers present were Wm. Dallimore, J. A. Farewell, A. E. Manning, D. Radcliffe, H. G. Macdonell, I. Irving and J. M. Cork.

E. W. GILLETT CO. PICNIC.

Last week was a picnic week for the grocers and grocery interests. Besides the Toronto Retail Grocers' Association's excursion to Buffalo, the Hamilton and Brantford Grocers' Excursion to the Falls, and the London Retail Grocers' Excursion to Toronto on Wednesday last, E. W. Gillett & Co. held their annual picnic at Lorne Park on Friday, 19th inst. The offices and factory were closed up and everybody attended, with their wives and families. Some two hundred employes and their friends were conveyed by special train at 9 a.m. to the park where sports and games commenced at 11 o'clock. A long list of interesting events, such as baseball, tug-of-war, and races, were gone through with. An interesting feature of the picnic, and one not on the programme, was the presentation by Geo. H. Macfarlane, assistant general manager, on behalf of the employes, of a very handsome traveling outfit to Wm. Dobie, president. Mr. Macfarlane's well expressed sentiments of the employes' esteem of Mr. Dobie were cheered by all present. The event was a complete surprise to Mr. Dobie, and his thanks were doubly heartfelt. Refreshments were served by the Harry Webb Co. and music by D'Alesandro's Italian orchestra. The day was an ideal one for a picnic and everyone enjoyed himself. A feature of the outing was the treat furnished the employes by President Mr. Dobie, who gave all of them a spin in his automobile. The run through the park and out was a happy one for all. Assistant Manager G. H. Macfarlane, Treasurer J. R. Kirkpatrick and Secretary Hepburn, as well as Sales Manager C. E. Moyle and Supt. A. P. Craig, were all assiduously engaged in seeing their various duties carried out with promptness and to the satisfaction of all. The run into the city at six o'clock ended one of the best picnics ever held by this company.

Chaput, Fils & Cie receive next week a car load of imported lager, containing only 2 per cent. alcohol. It is described as particularly saleable, and those wishing a cooling summer beverage, practically temperance in character, will find that this meets all expectations.

MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY NOW ASSURED

Experience has shown that it is impossible during the summer months to get a satisfactory attendance of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada at a convention in Winnipeg, although a large attendance can always be secured at the annual meeting in February. Accordingly, the executive decided this year to dispense with the regular semi-annual meeting and instead to hold a full executive meeting to dispose of all business that has come up during the last six months. Accordingly a full executive meeting was held in Winnipeg on the 16th in the secretary's office, President W. G. MacLaren, of Souris, being in the chair.

The most important business that came up for consideration was contained in the report of the mutual fire insurance committee, appointed last February. It will be remembered that the proposition to organize a strong Mutual Fire Insurance Co. to carry the risks of the retail merchants of the western provinces occupied the attention of the annual meeting last February and that a strong committee was appointed to look into the matter. This proposition has been a hardy annual at the conventions ever since the association was formed and there are many doubting Thomases in the trade who have had very little faith in the plan ever going through. However, the committee now on the job have proved themselves very capable and they have gone to work in a businesslike way. Mr. Ledoux, the assistant organizer, has been out in the country for some three or four months conducting the organization work of the association in the country districts and he has been able to secure applications from the trade for fire insurance amounting in the aggregate to more than $300,000. With applications for this large amount already secured, there is every reason to believe that a mutual company can easily be placed upon a substantial footing.

Legal Conditions.

R. White, of the legal firm of Hanneson & White, attended the meeting last week by special request, and answered many enquiries put to him by members of the executive as to the steps which it is necessary to take in order to form a Mutual Fire Insurance Company. He explained that the regulations call for a cash deposit of $5,000 with the Government, but he added that the payment of the actual cash might be avoided by having the secretary give bonds for the amount and paying the amount of the bonds from the insurance premiums as soon as they are received.

The executive and the members of the insurance committee were very much encouraged by the report and the explanations of Mr. White, and it was unanimously decided to proceed to organize a Mutual Fire Insurance Company for the benefit of the members of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada. Mr. White was instructed to prepare a prospectus and a copy of this prospectus will be mailed to each member of the association who has applied for insurance. He was also instructed to secure incorporation papers as soon as possible. From this it can be seen that the long looked for Mutual Fire Insurance Company will very soon be a reality and the saving in insurance premiums to the members of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada will undoubtedly amount to a very large sum each year.

The collection of small debts and the improvements necessary in the legal machinery for this purpose have occupied the attention of the association for some time. Mr. White was instructed by the executive to print a bill along the lines suggested at the convention last February and this bill will be introduced at the next session of the Manitoba Legislature.

The secretary gave a verbal report of the work of the association since the annual meeting in February, and was able to show that the finances are now in a flourishing condition. It will be remembered that last February the financial condition of the association occasioned the convention no little anxiety but during the last few months there has been a marked improvement, many new members having joined the association and a large proportion of the outstanding dues having been collected. At his own request Mr. Coulson was instructed to prepare an itemized statement for the information of the convention next February.

The work of Mr. Ledoux, as an assistant organizer in the country, was favorably commented upon. He has secured some 300 new members for the association during the last three or four months and has done effective work in organizing local sections in the various towns. The enterprise of the grocers' section of the association in conducting the Pure Food Show in Winnipeg met with the approval of the executive. The secretary was commended for the publication of the association hard book, which has recently been sent to all the members.

CHEESE AND BUTTER FIRM ASSIGNS.

The firm of D. A. McPherson Produce Co., Montreal, exporters of butter and cheese, has gone into liquidation, under the Winding-up Order Act. The petition was presented by A. Chase Casgrain, of McGibbon, Casgrain, Mitchell & Co., on behalf of Stephen J. LeHuray, accountant. Mr. LeHuray's claim is based on a note for $42,600, which was transferred to him by the Sovereign Bank of Canada.

Although a statement of the assets and liabilities had not yet been filed at the insolvency department of the Supreme Court, at the time of going to press, it is understood that Mr. LeHuray is practically the only creditor.

The D. A. McPherson Produce Co. was organized about two years ago, the chief members being Thos. Ryan and Barclay McPherson. D. A. McPherson, the founder of the firm, who began business in Montreal some twenty years ago, fell from the deck of a Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co. steamer and was drowned. His death caused the company's affairs to be reorganized.

The firm, upon which a demand of assignment has been made, was particularly well known in the eastern townships, doing a large business with the farmers in that section. They also had a large connection in the Lake St. John district.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—

Sugar—Firm.

Raspberries—First arrivals.

Japan Teas—Advanced.

Montreal, July 25. 1907.

Business was fair throughout the week. There are lower prices quoted on imported herrings in tins, also in Grenople walnuts. Some lines of pure olive oil have also declined. Very little of old crop Japan teas remain on the market at present. New crop is sure to be higher. Advices from shippers is to the effect that the new crop will be fully 10 per cent. higher on arrival. Raspberries are now beginning to arrive and are quoted at $1.50 a pail.

There is a fair demand for all lines, but no special features to the market.

SUGAR—The sugar market is firm, with an exceptionally good demand. Advices from the primary market are that the general tone is improving. Price quotations are unchanged.

TEA—Latest cable reports from the Japan tea market states that teas such as were imported last year, for direct shipment to Montreal, at 18c., cannot be obtained under 20c. this season, and further, that tea offered at 16½c. to 17½c. now was sold last year for 14½c. to 15½c.

In first hands or wholesale trade there is very little old crop Japan teas on the market, these being pretty well cleaned out owing to the high prices of new crop teas. For present delivery none of the English houses are quoting Japan teas under 20c. Tea sold at 16½ and 17½c. is only for shipment during September. There is a fair demand for other lines.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—There are still fair stocks of canned vegetables on the market, but demand is only fair, with the exception of corn, tomatoes and peas.

In canned fruits, stocks are depleted. There is a fair demand for goods still procurable.

TORONTO—All canned goods are going into heavy consumption, most lines of fruit being almost impossible to procure. There are a few stocks of vegetables still held, but at the present demand these will scarcely last till the new supply.

Most dealers anticipate a complete clean-up for this season.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Sugar—Raws, firmer.

Canned Goods—Heavy consumption.

Dried Fruits—Australian raisins expected.

Raspberries—Small crop.

Poultry—Spring stuff in demand.

Toronto, July 25, 1907.

Everyone in the wholesale grocery trade, in Toronto at least, is thoroughly satisfied with last week's business, and collections, especially from country points, were unusually good. The wholesalers are becoming more careful of their accounts every year, with the result that many of them are now practically immune from demands for credit extension and carry only a class of retailers who are able to make prompt settlement in the slack as well as the busy season.

Canned goods were again the feature of the week's business. As the weeks go by, prophesy becomes easier, and it is now a fairly safe statement to say that the carry-over this year will amount to very little, if, indeed, there is any at all. Stocks of fruit are in very narrow compass, and all vegetables are rapidly getting cleaned up.

There is a good demand for all the lower-priced teas, 25c. blends and the like, and the market is strengthening under the heavy consumption. With regard to the official record of the tea trade for the past half-year, a recent London advice says:

"The most striking feature of the official record of the past half-year's trading is the manner in which home consumption has been maintained in the face of the high level of values ruling. Whether this would have been the case had the prices of the cheaper canisters been raised to the general public is a matter for conjecture, but it would seem at any rate that the action of the wholesalers in continuing to supply tea to the retail trade at a very small profit has been largely responsible for the satisfactory progress of deliveries. There is no doubt, however, that as regards re-exports, business has been prejudicially affected by the quotation for common, especially with countries other than Russia, where demand has been surprisingly strong for British growths, although the buying of Ceylons for that market has been to a great extent transferred from London to Colombo.

The tone has again been active throughout the auctions, the lower medium broken Pekoes being perhaps in most request, at about ¼d. per lb. advance on late rates, while the best liquoring sorts appear to have met with more attention. Present indications point to the level of prices being maintained during the next few weeks, for previous reports of short Indian crops have been fully confirmed by mail advices."

TEA — The market is quiet, the greatest activity being exhibited in the lower grades. There is not much enquiry, however, and prices remain firm. Mail advices from London, dated July 10th, say:

"The tea market in June remained very quiet; offerings consisting mostly of end-of-the-season invoices of Indian tea, and as arrivals from Ceylon were of less attractive quality, buyers were inclined to limit their purchases to the supply of their immediate wants. Some early arrivals of new season's Indian teas were also catalogued, but as is usually the case with first pickings, they were more attractive in leaf than in liquor, and cannot be regarded as giving any reliable indication of the quality of the coming crop."

COFFEE — There is no special feature to the market, the situation remaining about as last week. Willet & Gray, New York, report that:

"The most important feature in connection with coffee of late is the continued very cold weather throughout the State of Sao Paulo. The very low temperatures have ruled for about two weeks, preceded and accompanied by cold rains, which have done considerable damage to both the quantity and quality of this crop, besides being of serious consequence to the flowering of the next crop. The importance of these matters is having some weight in the steadier markets of the past few days."

With regard to the rumors that have been circulating of late to the effect that the Rothschilds have been making themselves a power in Brazil, they say:

"The publication of reports that the Bankers Rothschilds are exercising a controlling influence in Brazil is done either out of ignorance or bias. The Federal Government of Brazil holds free gold deposits in London of about £7,000,000, and the Government neither receives nor accepts any advice or dictation when in the market for a loan of £3,000,000. Nor would any banker offer an indignity of such a nature to a country whose exports reach £55,000,000 in value in a year.

"Nor is it at all feasible that the Federal Government of Brazil would try to dictate to the leading state (Sao Paulo is a state, not a province) of the Union, which state exports about $50 per capita, against an average of about $20 per capita for the United States. From the start, the coffee world as well as many newspapers have tried hard to belittle Brazil and her coffee relief policy, publishing widespread stories of financial weakness and so forth. They began this tirade in January, when the Government had bought only 2,000,000 bags, and have kept it up ever since. Meanwhile, the Government operations have extended to 8,000,000 bags, which they control, and which are to be kept out of the market, and now the Government has a much larger amount of money at their disposal than when the purchases were only 2,000,000 bags. These facts in themselves are proofs of the strength of the Government, and ought to set at rest all adverse discussions of the Government policy and position.

"The crops will decide the future value of coffee, and if the crops in Sao Paulo turn out as small as those which followed the previous record crop, 1901-1902, the Government will have little trouble in liquidating their holdings satisfactorily."

The world's visible supply of coffee, in bags, was, on July 1st of this year, 16,399,954, a decrease of 151,754 from the same date a month ago, and an increase of 5,286,198 over the visible supply on July 1st, 1906.

SUGAR — The demand for fine sugar is active. More sugar is going into consumption than a week ago, but the increase is not sufficiently great to cause any likelihood of a raise. Refiners, who two weeks ago were as busy as they have been all year, are now not called upon to exert themselves so strenuously. Crops in the West Indies are about exhausted, and holders there, realizing this, are not making any concessions. Willett & Gray say of raws:

"The weather conditions in Europe were the prevailing important feature of the week.

"These have had a decidedly unfavorable effect on the growing beet crops.

"All countries report crops backward. As a result, we have a change in the raw sugar market values everywhere. Beet sugar advanced from the low point of the downward reaction, 9s. 5½d. to 9s. 9d. at the close. Cane sugar in Europe also advanced 1½d. for Javas.

"European values were reflected here in decidedly firmer and strong market tone and tendency without material advance in established quotations.

"At the close, however, it is difficult to make purchases of Cuba centrifugals without a notable advance in price.

"The business of the week has been done at basis of 3.835c. per lb. for spot centrifugals up to 3.86c. per lb. for July shipment, and at 2.15-32c. c. and f. 95 deg. test, equal to 3.86c. landed 95 deg. test for August shipment.

"It has become evident in view of the whole situation at home and abroad, that 4c. per lb. for 96 deg. test centrifugals, is the objective point which is likely to be reached for the sales of a good part of the remainder of the Cuba crop still on hand.

"The visible Cuba crop is 1,398,000 tons, of which 195,000 tons remain in stock and can secure the improving prices on the unsold portion.

"Java sugar sellers have advanced prices to 10s. 6d. for cargoes afloat c. and f. 96 deg. basis, equal to 4.02c. landed.

"July-August shipments are held at 10s. 3d. to 10s. 4½d. c. and f., and August-September at 10s. 1½d.

"There is considerable uncertainty as to the quantity of Java sugar which has been secured by our refiners. No actual sales to refiners are reported here this week, although there is a suspicion of some business having been done privately.

"The Java planters have disposed of nearly all the sugar available for the July and August shipments, the major portion of which is understood to be held in second hands for sale to the refiners of America or Europe.

"Quite a rapid decrease is noticeable in the stocks of Cuba and the U.S. during the past few weeks, which is suggestive and in confirmation of the expectation of continued improvement in prices."

DRIED FRUITS — The most reliable reports obtainable state that the California prune crop will not exceed 60 per cent. of a full yield. It is said that there have been some enquiries on orders for export to Europe, which would indicate that the European crop is also short. Reliable advices, however, are difficult to obtain regularly, but from the action of the packers in offering to take all that the California growers can give them on a basis of 5 cents leaves no doubt as to the scarcity of the crop.

The next few weeks should see the arrival on the market of some Australian raisins, which in appearance and taste are quite similar to the Valencia.

Winnipeg's Greatest Pure Food Show

Splendid Display of the Food Manufactures of the Canadian West—Eastern Producers Also Represented by Many Beautiful Booths—Many Evidences of Rapid Development of the Great Grain Country—Descriptions of the More Attractive Displays—Record Event of its Kind in Western Canada.

It is not the language of fulsome eulogy but the simple statement of a plain truth to say that Winnipeg's first pure food show, held in the Auditorium Rink during the first two weeks in July, was an unqualified success. The interest grew with each succeeding day and the attendance last Saturday night at the close of the exhibition broke all previous records. Being the first exhibition of its kind ever held in Western Canada the show was undoubtedly an experiment involving the expenditure of a large amount of money; but in the hands of a capable committee, loyally supported by enthusiastic exhibitors, a big success was scored and already a large number of those who exhibited this year have reserved space in the second exhibition to be held a year hence.

Attendance Large.

In spite of hot weather, fully 20,000 people attended the show and of these more than 15,000 were housewives who were after information—and samples. The exhibitors had a splendid opportunity to demonstrate the merits of their goods to people who had paid an admission fee to see and learn and hence were interested in what the people in charge of the various booths had to show them. It was no idle, sightseeing crowd, but a great throng of serious people who attended the show because they wanted to learn something.

Enthusiastic Endorsements.

Saturday night of last week saw the exhibitors well satisfied with the results obtained. Nearly all followed the plan of selling their goods through the city grocers. Customers were asked to sign an order form calling for various lines of goods to be delivered by their own grocer and to be paid for when delivered. Grocers were grateful for a long list of profitable orders and the exhibitors were able in this way to introduce their goods to stores which formerly did not handle them.

"We are more than satisfied with the direct results of our exhibit, to say nothing of the moral effect," said the manager of one Winnipeg firm to The Canadian Grocer. "We now have our goods in every store in Winnipeg, but two. We have demonstrated to those grocers who were not handling our goods that there is a demand for them. We have turned in the actual orders to them and the results are mutually gratifying."

"Yes, the show has done us a world of good," said L. J. Clark, representative of Wood's coffees, etc., to The Canadian Grocer, in reply to a question. "We have sold a big pile of goods through the grocers and we have had a splendid chance to introduce our goods to the consuming public. You know yourself what a crowd we have had at our booth."

"Well satisfied. Have booked a big pile of orders through the grocers, and have introduced the 57 varieties to crowds of people," said Mr. Gordon, advertising manager for the Heinz goods, to The Canadian Grocer.

"No complaint at all. Glad that we exhibited," said Mr. Nash, of E. D. Marceau & Co. "People liked our tea and thousands of cups were served."

"The show is a big success and I am well satisfied," said A. E. Carson, Canadian manager of Lipton's teas.

"We have sold our entire display several times over," said Mr. Musham, of Holbrooks Ltd. "We are very well satisfied indeed."

"No complaint at the Gold Standard booth," said Wm. Mackay, manager of the Codville-Georgeson Co.'s factory. "We have sold a lot of goods through the retail trade as a result and have demonstrated that the Gold Standard lines can hold their own with any of their competitors. Personally, I am more than satisfied."

"A big success. I am well satisfied," said Mr. Wharton, of Lowney's.

Other exhibitors expressed themselves to The Canadian Grocer in similar language and there was practical unanimity among the exhibitors as to the success of the show.

W. A. COULSON
The Tireless and Energetic Secretary to Whom the Success of the Winnipeg Food Show was Mainly Due.

The Busy Committee.

The committee of the Retail Merchants Association of Western Canada, who were in charge of the show, deserve great credit for their effective work. E. B. Nixon, the chairman of the committee, was indefatigable in his efforts and was always on hand to give assistance and direction to the exhibitors and to straighten out any little difficulties. W. G. McLaren, of Souris, the president of the western association, was unfortunately unable to attend until near the close of the exhibition, but he did valuable work in connection with the preliminary organization of the show. On the shoulders of Secretary Coulson, of course, fell the big burden of work, but his shoulders were broad enough for the load and his smile cheery in spite of all the inevitable little difficulties. He was tireless in his efforts and always on hand to direct the progress of the exhibition. To him the success of the show is mainly due.

Where the Exhibition was Held.

The exhibition was held in the Auditorium Rink, the largest and most suitable building for the purpose in the city of Winnipeg. It was gaily decorated with flags and bunting and every afternoon and evening sweet music was rendered by a brass band. The band music was the only outside attraction offered, it being felt by the management that to provide anything in the nature of a vaudeville entertainment to distract the attention of the people would be unfair to the exhibitors.

The Canadian Grocer.

The Canadian Grocer booth was the popular meeting place for the trade and many wholesale commercial travelers and retailers paid The Canadian Grocer a call. All the MacLean trade papers were on exhibition there and copies of The Canadian Grocer were distributed among exhibitors who, being away from home, missed getting their copies in the regular way.

Gold Standard Goods.

Gold Standard goods made many new friends at the Winnipeg Pure Food Show, and the throngs of Winnipeg people were delighted to be able to prove to their satisfaction that a local firm, the Codville-Georgeson Co., is turning out teas, coffees, extracts, spices and a host of similar lines which can safely and favorably be compared with the output of any factory in any country.

The Gold Standard booth was undoubtedly one of the most popular at the show, and the two demonstrators, Mrs. Helm and Mrs. Hine, and their assistants rarely had an idle minute. Tea and coffee were served to visitors every afternoon and evening, and thousands of generous sized samples of Gold Standard baking powder were given away every day. Goods were sold on order to city grocers, and as a result many a Winnipeg grocer had a nice list of profitable orders turned in to him to fill.

The Codville-Georgeson Co. insist upon absolute purity in their goods, and their factory in Winnipeg is a model of what a factory should be. It is because of the purity and excellence of their goods that the Codville-Georgeson Co. continue to advertise the Gold Standard line as being "guaranteed the best."

E. D. Marceau Co. Limited.

The E. D. Marceau Co. of Montreal figured prominently in the show with an attractive exhibit of "Condor" brand teas, coffees, and baking powders, and "Madame Huot's" coffee. This booth was located on the centre of the east aisle and was one of the busiest in the show. Tea and coffee were served to hundreds of visitors every day and many new friends for these brands were made from day to day.

R. Nash, of Montreal, who was in charge of the exhibit, is recognized by the grocery trade of Canada to be one of the leading tea authorities of the Dominion as he has had a long experience in both the English and Canadian markets. Visitors to the show were given many valuable pointers from a tea expert as to the proper mode of preparing tea and coffee and the importance of insisting upon absolute purity in purchasing these lines.

E. D. Marceau Co. do a large trade in all parts of Canada in teas, coffees, spices, and baking powder. Both package and bulk goods are carried by this house and as they are direct importers and have their buying done by experts, they are always able to offer the trade particularly good values. A high standard of quality is always insisted upon and the reputation of this firm's lines is a very valuable asset. The E. D. Marceau goods have had a large sale in the west for many years, but it is safe to predict that the popularity of the "Condor" and "Madame Huot" brands will be much greater in future because of the demonstrations at the Winnipeg Pure Food Show.

Golden West Soap.

Golden West soap has been taking Canada's golden west by storm and the "Golden West" booth at the food show attracted the attention of thousands of visitors and did much to increase the popularity and spread abroad the name and fame of the Standard Soap Co.'s products. The booth made a fine showing. Backed and surmounted by a huge cake of soap eight feet long and three feet six inches across the base, in imitation of the regulation cake of Golden West laundry soap, the booth was filled with an imposing array of the Golden West cartons, packages of soap powder, tar soaps, washing soda, lye, powdered ammonia, bottled ammonia, and polishing soap, while in one corner a circular formation built up of cakes of toilet soap, transparent and of different colors, was lighted from the inside by an electric light which shone through the soap in parti-colored rays and with a most pleasing effect. At the opposite end of the booth stood a Chinaman with fan in one hand and paddle in the other, looking the impassive Asiatic to the life as he skilfully dabbled in a tub of white, frothy lather set before him and fanned himself casually from time to time. Behind the expert in laundry operations was a placard bearing the inscription "Lather made with Golden West soap in hard water," and this fetching combination caught the eye of the crowds of Winnipeg housewives who visited the pure food show and who knew, only too well, how reluctant is the ordinary soap to make lather in water drawn from the alkali strata of the Manitoba prairie.

Information was cheerfully furnished at the Golden West booth to those who asked and those who were sufficiently curious to ask about the business of the Standard Soap Company were given a complete surprise when told that this company, now well known to be doing an enormous business throughout the whole of Western Canada, was formed only twenty-one months ago. Under the direction of its officers, President P. Burns, General Manager F. T. Weir, Sales Manager T. Herron, and with the hearty co-operation of the large number of Alberta and Saskatchewan merchants who have stock in this busy enterprise of the Canadian Northwest, the company that makes the Golden West soaps and soap products has advanced by leaps and bounds in a manner at once so almost instantaneous, and yet so firmly and solidly, that, from what was within the period of two short years but an idea in the brain of a resourceful man, the Standard is all that its name implies and has increased its business so fast that work is now in progress which will double the producing capacity of the Calgary plant, a move made necessary by the favor which the company's goods have found in the markets of Western Canada.

The Standard Company now have a very large output and the golden opinions won for the Standard products are the result of honest and skilled workmanship coupled with energetic effort on the part of the officers of the corporation and the salesmen selected by these officers to represent the company in the different sections over which the operations of the Golden West management have so rapidly spread, together with advertising truly remarkable for its unique features and admirable for the results obtained.

Fifty-seven Varieties.

A pure food show without an exhibit of the famous "Fifty-seven Varieties" would surely be incomplete and, as can be seen from the accompanying cut, the Heinz exhibit at the Winnipeg show was one of the finest there. It was handsomely and substantially built and it is the intention of the management to retain it in Winnipeg as a permanent fixture. It was moved last week from the Pure Food Show to the Winnipeg Industrial, where it will be left until next year.

Thousands of visitors called at the Heinz exhibit; in fact it would be quite within the mark to say that 99 out of every 100 attending the show stopped to sample some of the 57 varieties and as a result many orders were booked for delivery through Winnipeg firms.

Winnipeg Pure Food Show—Heinz 57 Varieties.

The H. J. Heinz Co. now have 15 factories distributed throughout the United States, Canada, England and Spain, their main factory being located, of course, in Pittsburg. Branch houses and agencies are maintained in all the leading commercial centres of the world. The factories employ over 4,000 people and a force of 500 traveling salesmen are on the road all the time, pushing the sales. Over 30,000 acres of land are devoted to the cultivation of vegetables for the Heinz factories, and the assistance of 40,000 people is required in order to harvest the crop. The company have 67 pickle-salting houses, located in parts of the United States and Canada best adapted to the growing of the vegetables required. The Heinz Co. have their own glass works and last year more than $14,000,000 glass bottles were blown in their own factory. These were far from being sufficient and others had to be bought.

These figures give some idea of the magnitude of the Heinz interests. The company have too much at stake to risk putting inferior goods on the market. Their absolute guarantee stands behind every package of Heinz goods.

Up to the present the H. J. Heinz Co. have had no representation in Winnipeg, although their goods have been sold extensively throughout the west. The Codville-Georgeson Co. will handle their products now and western grocers can obtain their supplies of Heinz products promptly from them.

Wagstaffe's.

The throngs who frequent the corridors of a pure food show are invariably looking for some toothsome morsels to tickle the palate, and the Winnipeg people were the same as all others in this respect. It naturally followed, therefore, that the Wagstaffe booth was one of the most popular in the whole show, for at this booth there were served dainty samples of the Wagstaffe jams, marmalades and sealed fruits. The attractive looking bottles in which the Wagstaffe lines are contained and the many evidences of the standard of purity insisted upon in the manufacture of these goods, won for the Wagstaffe line a sure place in the interest of the Winnipeg people.

The Wagstaffe goods are well established in England, and are already in use in Canada, from Halifax to Vancouver, although it is only some eighteen months since they were first introduced to the Canadian people. The intelligent advertising of the Wagstaffe management, and the absolute purity and high quality of the Wagstaffe goods have been responsible for a speedy success which is almost without precedent in the Canadian market. The new season's pack is practically sold now, and dealers desiring a stock would be well advised in placing their orders right away.

The Canadian headquarters of Wagstaffe, Ltd., is in Hamilton, Ont. Western dealers should place their orders through Dingle & Stewart, of Winnipeg, the western agents of this firm, thus ensuring prompt delivery.

It is the simple truth to say that the Wagstaffe goods captivated the Winnipeg people who attended the Pure Food Show, and the sales in the Manitoba capital are sure to show a big increase.

Winnipeg Pure Food Show—Wagstaffe's Jams and Preserves.

Royal Crown Co.

Winnipeg's big soap company, the Royal Crown, had two handsome booths on opposite sides of the east aisle, one being devoted to the display of the company's products and the other to the many premiums given to the users of the Royal Crown lines. For every six Royal Crown soap wrappers brought to the Royal Crown booth during the progress of the exhibition, the company's representatives gave in exchange a piano coupon on which the customer wrote her name and address. These ballots were put in a box and one was drawn on Saturday night at the close of the show. The person whose name was drawn was the lucky winner of a fine Morris piano which was on exhibition during the show.

Winnipeg people are proud of the Royal Crown Co.'s phenomenal progress in recent years and they have every reason to be. Over 200 kinds of toilet soaps are manufactured by this firm. Witch Hazel is the leader among these and it is used by the C.P.R. from Liverpool to Japan on all its steamers and cars and in its big string of palatial hotels. It is also used by the Canadian Northern Railway, by the Ontario and Richelieu Navigation Co., and the Ontario and Rainy River Navigation Co.

The Royal Crown Co.'s laundry soaps are sold in nearly every store in Western Canada. These include the following brands: Royal Crown, Peerless, Ivory, Linen, Electric, and Naptha. A full line of washing sodas and sal sodas are also manufactured by this firm. Tar soaps and "Levita," a soap for mechanics, are also meeting with an immense sale.

Witch Hazel shaving soap is something comparatively new, but it is safe to predict that it will yet capture a big part of the Canadian market. It is put up in stick form in a handsome box and also in cakes and bars for barbers' use. The well established reputation of the Witch Hazel toilet soaps will no doubt be of great assistance in pushing the sale af this new shaving soap.

A full line of perfumes, Florida water, and toilet waters of all kinds, was on exhibition. Particular attention was directed to the Viona shampoo, manufactured by this company.

During the progress of the show the demonstrators gave away thousands of Teddy bears, Swastika pins, samples of Witch Hazel toilet soap, and booklets of all kinds.

"Royal Crown" Premium Booth.

Unique Fish Display.

One of the features of the show was the exhibit of the Winnipeg Fish Co. and it is unfortunate that the accompanying cut does not show it at its best. This is not the fault of the photographer or the engraver, but is due to the frolicsome antics of a big sturgeon fish weighing more than 120 pounds.

At the opening of the show the Winnipeg Fish Co.'s exhibit consisted of a large aquarium in which several large live fish, including the big sturgeon before mentioned, were swimming about. The exhibit attracted a great deal of attention, as the collection included some very handsome lake trout, whitefish, red horse, black bass, pickerel, catfish, goldeyes and other fish caught in the west and as the booth was very brightly illuminated at night the effect was pleasing indeed. The Winnipeg Fish Company went to considerable expense to prepare this exhibit and during the opening days of the show their efforts were well rewarded.

"Royal Crown" Soap Exhibit.

Unfortunately the big sturgeon grew frolicsome, not being accustomed to so much attention, and one afternoon during the first week of the show a powerful swish of its tail broke the glass and flooded the aisle. Thereafter the exhibit consisted of dead fish on ice and it was the second exhibit that was photographed for The Canadian Grocer.

The Winnipeg Fish Co. have a large refrigerating plant in Winnipeg and have every facility for supplying the trade promptly with all kinds of fresh fish in season.

Lipton's Teas, Coffees, etc.

Lipton's teas and coffees were served daily to hundreds of visitors. The Lipton tea room, being situated at the entrance, in a large room ordinarily used as the vestibule to the rink, could not fail to attract the attention of the visitor and its tempting coolness made it the Mecca of the great majority of those attending the show. Tea was served afternoon and evening by courteous attendants and there were also on exhibition Lipton's coffee, jams and general provisions. The accompanying cut shows the general arrangement.

Lipton products are known the world over and as the name stands for high quality the Lipton teas and coffees and provisions meet with a favorable reception wherever placed on sale. The Lipton industry is now one of the largest in the world and the marvellous business success of Sir Thomas Lipton has been due in no small measure to his strict insistence upon the maintenance of high quality and absolute purity in all stages of manufacture.

Recently a Canadian branch has been opened in Toronto and Mr. Carson, the manager from Toronto, was in attendance during the first week of the exhibition. J. J. E. Collier, the western manager, was the man in charge. It will be strange if the sale of Lipton products is not greatly increased in the west as a result of this show.

Lowney's.

Few shows of the kind are ever held without an exhibit of Lowney's cocoa, chocolate, and other preparations. The name Lowney is so intimately connected with chocolate and cocoa preparations that wherever it is seen it suggests a host of good things to eat and drink, delightful to the taste and wholesome as well. Purity has always been the Lowney watchword and the hosts of visitors to the Lowney booth were given practical demonstration of this fact.

The Lowney Co. have set a high standard and in the making of their products nothing is used but pure cane sugar, the choicest cocoa beans, and the finest of fruits and flavorings. The violet and rose flavors are made from the flowers themselves, the peppermint and wintergreen from the leaves of the plants, and so on throughout the entire list. Lowney's cocoa consists of the choicest cocoa beans ground to the fineness of flour. It contains no ground cocoa shells, flour, starch, dyes, alkalis, or other adulterants. It is a strictly high grade cocoa, the best that it is possible for a manufacturer to make from the best ingredients obtainable.

During the show this firm sold to the public a handsome cook book containing 1,308 recipes, of which only 73 call for cocoa or chocolate. It is a complete cook book prepared by Maria Willett Howard, an experienced and successful teacher of cooking.

The exhibit was in charge of Stanley Wharton, the western representative of the Walter Lowney Co. of Canada, assisted by J. Adams. Miss H. G. Vance, the company's expert cocoa demonstrator, presided at the cocoa counter.

Winnipeg Pure Food Show—Lowney's Chocolates.

Winnipeg Pure Food Show—Wood's Coffees.

Wood's Coffees.

Thomas Wood & Co., of Boston and Montreal, had an attractive display of their teas and coffees, which were served free to thousands of visitors during the progress of the show. Their business comprises the importation and sale of teas and coffees and it now extends over the entire United States and Canada. Five years ago they established a branch house in Montreal and their Canadian business has been a success from the start. In great measure this has been due to their system of co-operating with the grocers in the introduction and sale of their high grade lines. They appoint exclusive agents in the various trade centres and support their efforts with aggressive and common sense advertising methods. Their agents are protected as no competitors can buy the Wood lines and as the goods are strictly high class they net the trade a nice substantial profit. Many grocers devote too much of their energy to the lines that are sold at a small margin of profit to the neglect of the money-making trade in high class lines of package teas and coffees. Thomas Wood & Co. invite correspondence with grocers who are anxious to push profitable lines.

E. J. Clark, the western representative of Thos. Wood & Co. was a busy man during the show explaining to the throngs of visitors the standard of absolute purity which is insisted upon by this firm in the manufacture of their products and, as a result of his efforts, hosts of new friends were made for Wood's Boston coffees and Wood's pure teas.

Wheat City Flour Mills Co.

The largest booth in the show was devoted to a display of the flour manufactured by the Wheat City Flour Mills Co., of Brandon, Man. This is the firm formerly known as the Alexander Milling Co. and its products are recognized all over Canada as deserving of recognition for their purity and excellence.

Brandon has been known as the "Wheat City" since the early days of the west because it is situated in one of the most fertile and productive wheat growing districts in the world. No better wheat is grown anywhere than is produced in the Brandon district and it is in the "Wheat City" that the Wheat City Flour Mills Co. has its mill and buys its wheat. The best wheat grown in the district is used in the manufacture of the "Premier Hungarian," "White Rose," and "Royal Patent" brands and the milling plant being thoroughly up-to-date it is small wonder that expert analysis has found such an unusually large proportion of glutinous matter.

The exhibit was tastefully arranged, and, being situated at the entrance, made a substantial and imposing display. L. Maclachlan, who was in charge of the display, found his time well occupied in demonstrating to the many visitors the superiority of the company's products and in handing out miniature bags of White Rose flour neatly wrapped in tissue paper.

Wheat City flour is now being used all over Canada. The C.P.R. use it exclusively in the Royal Alexandra Hotel in Winnipeg and the endorsations of the C.P.R. hotel management speaks volumes for the quality of the flour.

Winnipeg Pure Food Show—Wheat City Flour Mills Co.

Grocers can obtain supplies direct from the company's agents, as mentioned each week in the advertisement of this firm in this paper.

McCormick's Biscuits.

McCormick's biscuits and confectionery have a sure hold on the Canadian trade from the Atlantic to the Pacific, but as a result of the exhibit at the Winnipeg Pure Food Show many new friends were made for these lines in the Manitoba capital. As can be seen from the accompanying illustration, the McCormick exhibit was without doubt one of the most attractive in the whole show, the display of biscuits and confectionery being arranged to good advantage.

The central feature of the display was, of course, the McCormick line of Jersey cream sodas. These sodas are celebrated from the Atlantic to the Pacific because of excellencies all their own. Being packed in tin boxes, they retain their freshness a long time and they are always crisp and pleasant to the taste.

Hundreds of visitors daily stopped to sample the McCormick line of hard sweet biscuits, served by capable demonstrators, who explained to all those interested the absolute standard of purity insisted upon by the manufacturers. Not only do the McCormick Mfg. Co. insist upon an absolute standard of purity, they insist also upon a uniform standard of excellence. No package is allowed to leave the factory until it has satisfied every requirement. It is this uniform excellence that makes the McCormick line so desirable for a dealer to handle.

But biscuits do not constitute the whole of the McCormick line; confectionery is a very important part of the output. The same standard of purity and high quality are insisted upon in the manufacture of confectionery as in the manufacture of biscuits. This accounts for the high place won by the McCormick high-grade chocolates.

London, Ont., is the home of the McCormick Mfg. Co., but in the west they are represented by Dingle & Stewart, of Winnipeg, to whom all orders from the western provinces should be sent.

The Nugget Polish Co.

Though not, strictly speaking, a pure food, yet quite in keeping with a groceries exhibition and providing a pleasant variety from the majority of booths with good things to eat, was the exhibit of the Nugget Polish Company, Limited, which occupied a prominent position in the centre aisle. This firm, whose head office is in Toronto, had on exhibition a very neat display of their splendid English shoe polish, and although introduced into this country a little over a year, has already taken a prominent place by reason of its excellent quality. The booth was in charge of A. R. Kent, Canadian sales manager, who was kept busy demonstrating the quality of the goods, especially in regard to its proof against water. Shoes shined with Nugget polish form the proverbial "duck's back," upon which no water can stay. A basin of water on the front of the booth proved this to the satisfaction of all visitors. A lad in neat khaki uniform was also in attendance upon a chair where free shines were provided for everybody who wished to avail themselves of the opportunity.

The Nugget polish, in addition to being waterproof, does not rub off and will not even soil a clean towel, proving conclusively how valuable it is to anyone who wishes to avoid soiling clothes. The polish is being retailed at 10 cents per tin and the grocers who visited the exhibition were convinced of the advisability of adding it to their stock, especially in view of the fact that it can be kept in stock without fear of its drying up and becoming worthless; neither will it freeze. The firm also manufacture a harness polish and a furniture polish in paste form, the latter retailing at 10 cents.

Holbrooks Limited.

For several months past, Holbrooks Ltd. have been conducting an extensive demonstrating campaign and it is their intention to cover all the Canadian trade centres in this way. A large staff of demonstrators are now at work in Western Canada but perhaps nowhere have this firm done more effective work than at the Winnipeg Pure Food Show, where their handsome booth was the popular meeting place for so many visitors. Samples of their Worcester sauce and pickles were served to hundreds of people every day and approving comments were many and enthusiastic.

Holbrooks Ltd. claim to have the largest sale of Worcester sauce in the world and they are making a determined effort now to capture the Canadian trade. In their English factory they use the largest vat in the world, a vat three times larger than the great vat on exhibition at Heidelburg. This vat contains sufficient to fill over 2,500,000 bottles and as it is only one of many vats in use at the factory some slight idea may be gained from this statement of the enormous output of Holbrook's Worcestershire sauce.

Visitors to the show were anxious to learn about pure foods and the demonstrators were careful to point out the dangers from adulterations. The name "Worcestershire Sauce" covers many injurious concoctions sold at a low price but the manufacturers of Holbrook's sauce stand behind their goods and absolutely guarantee their purity. As one result of the exhibit at the Winnipeg Pure Food Show the Winnipeg ladies are now fully alive to the dangers of using Worcestershire sauces of doubtful quality.

The Canadian headquarters of Holbrooks Limited are in Toronto, H. Gilbert Nobbs being manager. Brack & Kirkland, 218 Princess Street, Winnipeg, are the western agents for this firm. The exhibit was in charge of H. Musham, an expert window dresser. Window dressing, by the way, is a department to which Holbrooks Ltd. are paying particular attention, and many attractive displays have been arranged by them in Canadian stores.

The Dyson Co.

At the booth of The Dyson Company it was plainly demonstrated that Winnipeg need yield the palm of quality to no other city in the world in the manufacture of pickles and baking powder. It is the simple truth to say that the exhibit afforded an eye opener to many visitors to the show, and helped to confirm many a Winnipeger in his belief that his city can manufacture goods of as high quality as any in the world.

The booth was situated at the west side of the building, and was the first on the west aisle to attract the attention of the visitor. Containing many luxuries and necessities dear to the housewife's heart, displayed in attractive form, it was a popular booth with the ladies, and the samples of sweet "Red Cross' pickles served to the visitors did much to increase the popularity of the brand.

The "Red Cross" line includes baking powder, flavoring extracts, coffees, spices, pickles, catsups, sauce and vinegars. The pickle business of this firm has grown so rapidly that they have found it impossible to obtain a sufficient supply of vegetables from the market gardeners, and they have therefore found it necessary to secure land of their own for the purpose. Five hundred acres of land have accordingly been bought near Lower Fort Garry, and this year some 50 acres of cucumbers are under cultivation, and under ordinary circumstances about 15,000 bushels of this vegetable will be grown on the company's own land.

The Dyson Co. have a separate vinegar plant which has at present a capacity of 1,000 proof gallons per day. This vinegar is manufactured from pure alcohol under the supervision of the Dominion Government in the only bonded factory in Manitoba.

Brack & Kirkland.

As will be seen from the accompanying cut, this firm, exhibiting Todhunter, Mitchell & Co.'s coffees and spices, had a very prettily decorated booth where coffee was served to large numbers of visitors daily.

Both Messrs. Branck and Kirkland are well known to the trade, the former having been connected with Todhunter, Mitchell & Co. for some 25 years.

Brack & Kirkland, as mentioned elsewhere, are also western representatives for Holbrooks, Limited, and the success that has attended their efforts is clearly seen when the phenomenal sale which these goods have already had in western territory is taken into consideration.

H. S. Kirkland was in attendance most of the time and was fully occupied in superintending the demonstrations of Todhunter, Mitchell & Company's coffees to the large and appreciative crowds.

Purity Flour.

Purity flour, the flour that "makes more bread and better bread," was shown in a handsome booth near the entrance. The material that is the principal ingredient of the staff of life is the most important element in nearly every variety of pure food and every housewife interested in the food problem was interested in the Purity flour booth and the explanations given as to the absolute purity of all "Purity" flour.

Winnipeggers are proud of the big mill across the river in St. Boniface in which so much of the Purity flour is made. This company also have mills in Goderich, Ont., and Brandon, Man., and the largest is in St. Boniface. This mill is one of the best equipped in the world and represents the highest triumph of the miller's art. It has a capacity of 5,000 barrels per day; the Goderich mill has a capacity of 1,800 barrels, and the Brandon mill 400 barrels, making 7,200 in all.

Not all of this output bears the "Purity" brand; only such of it as is absolutely the finest product possible. Yet, known to the world as the product of the "Purity" mills and inferior only to the "Purity" patents, are a number of brands which are of very high quality. These, in order of fineness, are: "Five Stars," "Buffalo," "Medallion," "Three Stars." "Choice Bakers'," "Maitland," and "Huron;" and any one of them is good enough for a housewife's satisfaction and a wheat food consumer's blessing.

These, and many other interesting facts about "Purity" brands were explained to many visitors during the show. Thousands of picture post cards, showing the big mill, were distributed and it is safe to say that "Purity" flour made many new friends during the progress of the show.

Winnipeg Pure Food Show—Purity Flour.

Co. and The Canadian Grocer. Probably no other exhibitor so carefully followed out the idea which is supposed to be the cause d'etre of pure food shows. J. H. Morrow, advertising manager of the company, was in charge of the exhibit and he was thoroughly capable of explaining in lucid and interesting fashion the many dangers which lurk in adulterated spices. In glass jars and tubes were shown many samples of compounds which are used to adulterate cheap spices and the many visitors to the booth were warned of the consequences which surely follow the consumption of impure spices. Samples of pure and adulterated cassia and cinnamon were shown side by side in glass tubes and it was clearly demonstrated that while the difference can easily be detected by the sense of smell, there is little apparent difference in the appearance. It was impressed upon all visitors, trade and general public alike, that the only safety lies in purchasing the package goods of a reliable manufacturer, and in this connection attention was drawn to the sign prominently displayed to the effect that "Of the many thousand packages of Blue Ribbon goods sold every year, not a single one has ever been found adulterated. See Government bulletins."

The display was a spacious and attractive one, as may be seen from the accompanying illustration. The "Blue Ribbon" line of teas, coffees, spices and extracts were tastefully displayed and the decorations were harmonious and pleasing to the eye. An interesting feature was a large chart showing that the raw material for the manufacture of Blue Ribbon products is gathered from every corner of the world.

Manitoba Canning Company.

The Manitoba Canning Co., of Grande Pointe, Man., had an attractive exhibit of canned meats and westerners were pleased and interested to see that such a large variety of high class canned meats were prepared within a few miles of Winnipeg. Roast beef, corned beef, lunch tongue, boneless chicken, etc., were among the varieties of canned delicacies served to the throngs of visitors to the booth.

The Manitoba Canning Co. has not been very long organized, but its products have already obtained a strong hold upon the trade and consuming public. The most scrupulous cleanliness is insisted upon at every stage of manufacture, and when a year ago so much was said about the unsanitary conditions prevailing in canning factories across the line the Manitoba Canning Co. management were able to demonstrate to the Government inspectors that everything was as it should be in the factory at Grande Pointe.

Nicholson & Bain are the distributors to the wholesale trade and retailers can obtain supplies from any wholesale house.

Maple Tree Producers' Association.

One of the most popular booths in the whole show was that of the Maple Tree Producers' Association of Waterloo, Que., in charge of S. E. Bradley. Western people are large consumers of maple syrup and maple products of all kinds, but they have often been imposed upon by spurious products which have only a very slight maple flavor. Adulteration of maple products has been so prevalent that it has often been very difficult for dealers to be sure that they were getting the genuine article. To protect the public and to safeguard their own interests, some of the largest maple syrup producers in the Eastern Townships formed not long ago the Maple Tree Producers' Association and they absolutely guarantee the perfect purity of every can of their "Pride of Canada" maple syrup and sugars. The association is composed of reliable business men and maple sugar makers and they will not under any circumstances allow or permit the adulteration of maple syrup or maple sugar.

Baker's Cocoa.

Walter Baker's cocoa was to the fore as usual, cocoa being dispensed to hosts of visitors by cocoa maids neatly and tastefully dressed in the costume of 1700, and according to the well known design, as shown in all the Baker advertising. Baker's cocoa is made in a large factory and under the most sanitary conditions. Absolute purity is insisted upon in all stages of preparation and the Walter Baker Co. can safely guarantee every tin of cocoa that leaves their factory.

Stimpson Computing Scales.

Scales are scarcely pure food, but they are a necessary part of the equipment of the grocer who dispenses pure food and hence the Stimpson Computing Scale Co. were entitled to a place among the pure food exhibits. The profits of the grocer would be larger if he did not throw away so much in overweights, and the computing scale, like the cash register, is designed to stop the small leakages that are responsible for so many losses. Among the various computing scales on the market the Stimpson scales occupy a foremost place and W. J. Butt of Winnipeg the western manager of the Stimpson scales, is placing a large number of these scales in the up-to-date stores of Western Canada.

Lucerna Chocolate.

Lucerna chocolate made many new friends during the progress of the show, thousands of samples of this delicious Swiss milk chocolate being distributed. The Dominion agents for Lucerna chocolate are John Bearns, Ltd., 14 Bank of Hamilton Building, Winnipeg. Dingle & Stewart, Winnipeg, are selling agents in the west.

Winnipeg Pure Food Show—Manitoba Canning Co.

Mr. Ledoux Talks.

W. Ledoux, assistant organizer of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada, returned to Winnipeg last Saturday from an extended trip throughout the west. He called at The Canadian Grocer booth at the Pure Food Show.

"Our membership is growing very rapidly," said Mr. Ledoux, in response to a question by The Canadian Grocer man. "We have added at least 300 new members during the last four months, and we have formed strong local boards at many points."

"Yes, I find the dealers very much in sympathy with the association," he continued. "I have covered a good part of Saskatchewan and part of Manitoba during the last four months, and I have met with a splendid reception in every town I have visited,"

Here and There with the Pure Food People.

A. E. Carson, Canadian manager of Lipton's teas, was in Winnipeg this month attending the Pure Food Show. Before the close of the show he went west to Calgary on business.

H. Gilbert Nobbs, Canadian manager of Holbrooks, has recovered from his recent illness. He went west from Winnipeg last week on a business trip to the Pacific coast.

Wm. Georgeson, of Winnipeg, who is retiring from the Codville-Georgeson Co., has bought the Codville-Smith Co. business in Calgary. Mr. Smith is retiring from the firm and the business will now be carried on under the name of Georgeson Co., Ltd.

J. C. Dietrich, of Shurly & Dietrich, Galt, Ont., was in Winnipeg last week on business and went west to the coast after a few days' stay. Because of his many good qualities Mr. Dietrich is familiarly known among the boys on the road as the "Prince." He visited the MacLean Publishing Co. booths at the Pure Food Show during his stay in Winnipeg, and there held a pleasant reception for his friends in the trade.

Other Exhibits.

Foley, Lock & Larson, of Winnipeg, had a large and attractive exhibit of "Lock Brand Ever Fresh" biscuits, made in Winnipeg, and succeeded in demonstrating to the crowds of visitors that Winnipeg can produce biscuits and confectionery in competition with the world.

St. George's Baking Powder was attractively displayed and made many friends.

Christie, Brown & Co. had a large booth devoted to their big line of biscuits. It was situated in the east aisle.

Price's Baking Powder was on exhibition and its good points were well brought out by expert demonstrators.

Boyd's bread was displayed in a large booth at the entrance, fashioned in the shape of Fort Garry gate.

The Crescent Creamery, of Winnipeg, attractively displayed their brands of creamery butter and pointed out the safety of having butter sold in sealed packages.

INDIAN TEA CROP.

For the season ending March 31, 1907, the London Times says that it is now practically certain that the yield of tea from all districts of India amounted to about 237,000,000 pounds, compared with 221,000,000 pounds in 1905. A deduction from the total available for export has to be made on account of what is retained for local trade and consumption—variously estimated to be between 5,000,000 and 7,000,000 pounds—but, allowing for this, there will remain about 231,000,000 pounds, of which 52,000,000 have been taken by the colonies and foreign countries, leaving 179,000,000 pounds for the United Kingdom. For the corresponding period in 1905-6 the total received in the United Kingdom was about 174,000,000 pounds, and the quantity shipped elsewhere from India about 42,000,000 pounds. Though not a specially fine crop, the quality has proved to be equal to, and in some districts superior to, the general average of former years, notwithstanding the large increase in the yield.

Another Opinion.

Consul-General Michael, of Calcutta, reports that the total quantity of tea shipped from India during the year ended March 31, 1907, amounted to 232,386,944 pounds, an increase of 18,623,440 pounds over the preceding year. The increase in shipments to Australia and New Zealand amounted to 2,000,000 pounds, while the United Kingdom increased its purchases by 9,000,000 pounds more than in 1906. The shipments to America fell off about 2,000,000 pounds. The total quantity of tea shipped from Calcutta and Chittagong to the United Kingdom during the month of April was 429,261 pounds, a decrease of 135 214 pounds compared with the corresponding month of 1906.

WHY HE GOES THERE.

C. L. Marshall, Toronto sales manager for the MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., has quit work for a couple of weeks, and may be found any morning on the banks of streams in the vicinity of Burleigh Falls, devising new schemes for luring the elusive trout from his native element.

It seemed destined to remain forever a mystery why Mr. Marshall always centred his holiday affections on this particular spot, until one day he revealed the secret. "I go to Burleigh Falls," he said, " primarily because I know of no other place where I can acquire such a keen appetite, and secondarily because there I can satisfy it to repletion with Panyan pickles."

OLD CHEESE AT 16C. A POUND.

Henry Wright, president of the MacLaren Imperial Cheese Co., has just returned from Detroit, after making an inspection of the company's business in the States, the entire management of which was lately taken over by Alex. MacWillie.

While Mr. Wright was in Detroit several hundred boxes of old cheese were sold by the Detroit sales department at the record high price of 16c. a pound. This is a new high water mark and one which will take a lot of beating.

A WELL-EARNED REST.

C. H. Roosmale-Cocq, Toronto manager for Blue Ribbon tea, has shaken the dust of the city from his feet and left for Montreal and the east on his summer holidays. We wish him a good time and lots of it.

NEWFOUNDLAND NOTES.

N. Morey & Co. have received a cargo of 3,500 tons Cadiz salt.

Edwin Murray is advertising fresh arrivals of P.E.I. potatoes.

R. Wright & Son are special agents for Graham's French coffee.

Henry Blair is holding a special sale. Mr. Blair carries a fine line of goods.

T. A. MacNab & Co. are selling agents for Windsor table salt for the colony.

R. Fennell has recently received a large consignment of Canadian butter.

Mrs. S. K. Bell, proprietress of the Crosbie Hotel, has left for P.E.I. to visit relatives.

Geo. M. Barr is shipping large quantities of fish this year direct from the west coast to Oporto.

Buffalo flour is a good seller in this market. J. W. O'Dea & Co. are wholesale agents for this brand.

J. J. St. John is advertising a large sale of currants at popular prices, which is moving them off quickly.

J. Hunt, commission merchant, does a large business on the west coast and is very popular with the trade.

T. T. Cartwright, representing Magic baking powder, is still on the west coast. He is expected in St. John's shortly.

Rothwell & Bowering are advertising a large stock of Canadian butter and cheese. This firm report a large business to date.

Provisions are very high in price. Pork to-day is selling much cheaper on the spot than to arrive. Molasses is also firm.

C. P. Eagan has always on hand a fine line of new vegetables from the States. Mr. Eagan has worked up a large business.

T. J. Edens receives large shipments of new vegetables by each steamer. He also gets large shipments of fresh salmon from the west.

Thos. Smyth & Co., wholesale grocers, receive large shipments of oranges and bananas by each arriving steamer. This company are making a specialty of tea.

Canned lobsters are higher than they have ever been. Packers are getting from $15 to $16 per case of 4 dozen, this being the highest price ever paid in this country.

T. & M. Winter have just received a large order for Mont Bernard tobacco. This is one of the largest selling tobaccos in the colony, and the above-mentioned firm are exclusive agents for it.

Competition for cured codfish is very great and almost all the big St. John's' houses have schooners out buying fish. This competition makes the prices good and the fishermen are reaping the benefit.

The fishermen report about an ordinary catch to date in the north, but in the west the catch has been very poor and prices are exceptionally high. Those best posted say there is bound to be a drop shortly.

ENFORCING PURE FOOD LAW.

The full enforcement of the American National Pure Food Law is now about to be carried out and Canadian foodstuff men will watch the results with interest.

Authoritative officers in the Department of Agriculture who have no connection with the Bureau of Chemistry, which is charged with the enforcement of the law, assert positively that the public attitude as to the rigid enforcement of the food law and the support that is coming in from the best class of manufacturers has been such that there can be no hesitation in the full application of the law to all classes of products. They give the strongest assurances that every means will be resorted to under the law in giving the widest effect to it. The chief reliance will be the corps of inspectors now about to go into the field. It is realized, of course, that the crucial period in the history of the law will come when adulterations begin to be detected through the work of the inspectors and when the ground is cleared for the institution of suits against those who are found to be knowingly violating the provisions of the act. When work of this sort is begun it will be positively ascertained just how far public opinion will support the new system of food law administration.

ADOPT THE CASH SYSTEM.

The adoption of new policies means a great deal to the business man and to the commercial world. It means a great deal because it always involves the interests of an individual, of a corporation, of a community, or of all combined.

Of all men, perhaps, the merchant is the last to commit his fortunes to any innovation or change. That which makes him so conservative is some imaginary element of uncertainty which looms up large and terrible before his eyes and blinds them to seeing any good results which may possibly emanate from the change of policy. In a number of cases, especially in rural districts where the conservative spirit is most in evidence, the merchant would rather put up with commercial conditions as they are, however unsatisfactory they may be, than risk the consequences of the adoption of some new principle calculated to do him a great benefit.

How long will it take the merchant to see the folly of such unreasonable conservatism, and the wonderful possibilities in that which is new? What can we expect from a worn-out axle but collapse? or what can we expect from a worn-out and obsolete system of credit but failure to make profits?

All sorts of flimsy excuses are given by merchants for not adopting a strictly cash system in their business, but none of these excuses have any weight because they are not founded on solid facts and absolute truth. True, it is hard, for instance in a town of 5,000 inhabitants for one grocer to start asking for cash and refusing credit when all the other merchants are giving credit for periods of one month, or three months, or six months. But that difficulty is only apparent and not real. That merchant who is trying to establish his business on a legitimate and the only profitable basis is the one who will win out, and the others who are giving credit will eventually lose foothold and slip back. At first the people may go from merchant number one to those who will give them credit, but not for long. Customers are sensible to reason and they will soon show their respect and confidence in number one's integrity by coming back to him and bringing others with them

THE PERCENTAGE OF PROFIT.

A discussion on the methods of figuring the margin of profit has recently been going on in some American papers. One writer, in asking the question: "What per cent. profit would I make if I bought an article for $10 and sold it for $20?" was given the answer: "One hundred per cent."

Answers of this kind are given in most arithmetics used in public schools, but no more misleading answer could be given, as it leads the prospective business man to think of the percentage of profit in an entirely false manner. As a matter of fact, the profit on the above transaction was only 50 per cent.

Another writer asks the question: "If a man buys a horse for $50 and sells him for $75, what percentage of profit does he make?" Answer: "50 per cent."

Suppose a man contemplated the sale of a horse on the basis of the above transaction. A broker approaches him and offers to conduct the negotiation on the basis of a commission of 33 1-3 per cent. Now, the owner of the horse, having a profit of 50 per cent. in sight, agrees to this, and the broker, having completed the transaction, renders a bill as follows:

Sold, one horse, at	$75
Commission, 33 1-3 per cent.	25
Due seller	$50

The seller's books would show a profit of 50 per cent., entirely eaten up by the commission of 33 1-3 per cent. Not good figuring, is it? Yet this is the way some small merchants figure, which fact doubtless accounts for them remaining small.

The following table, given in an article by Fred. C. Lariviere, a Montreal wholesaler, in Hardware and Metal of Jan. 19, 1907, will be found valuable where merchants wish to figure on a certain percentage of profits:

To make 16 2-3 per cent. profit add 20 per cent. to the cost.

To make 20 per cent. profit add 25 per cent. to the cost.

To make 25 per cent. profit add 33 1-3 per cent. to the cost.

To make 33 1-3 per cent. profit add 50 per cent. to the cost.

To make 50 per cent. profit add 100 per cent. to the cost.

The only way a merchant can make 100 per cent. is to get something for nothing and sell it for something.

CHATHAM.

The Hawken Milling Co., Limited, of Wallaceburg, want a name for their brand of flour. Said name must not be in use, or ever used as a name for flour by any other person or miller, and must be received on or before the 31st day of August, 1907, by the company, who will appoint judges to make the selection. To the person submitting the winning name they will give a bag of the flour.

The St. Clair street pavement has at last been finished, and the business men are pluming themselves on the up-to-date appearance of the street. It is now the widest paved street in the city.

Five years ago a few enterprising agriculturists in the vicinity of Leamington commenced the shipment of early vegetables to satisfy the markets of Toronto, Montreal and other places. They found the demand for their produce quite brisk, and so the shipments increased year by year, until this season it is estimated that as many as seventy-five cars of this early produce have left Leamington. Lettuce, cabbages, tomatoes and melons are grown quite extensively for the city markets. Much of this shipping is done by the Erie Fruit Co., a farmers' co-operative concern with fifteen members. Besides the Ontario market, the demand from the west is beginning to be felt.

Last Saturday Chatham had another big gathering, being the annual picnic held by the employes of the Buffalo division of the Pere Marquette Railway. There was a big crowd in the city for the day, and the employes put on a good programme of sports, in addition to which there were speeches and band music. This is the third year that the Pere Marquette people have held their picnic in Chatham, which, together with the recent C.O.F. convention and L.O.L. celebration shows the growing favor with which the Maple City is regarded as a place for an outing.

Wallaceburg is to have a big demonstration in the near future, the occasion being the firemen's gathering on August 5, 6 and 7. The I.O.O.F. and the business men of the Sugar City have signified their intention of decorating, and a gala day is promised.

John Peters, for several years in charge of the grocery department of T. B. Shillington & Co., Blenheim, left last week for Hamilton, where he has gone into the grocery business in partnership with his nephew, Eric Bounsall, also a former resident of Blenheim. The firm have purchased a good stand and stock on Barton street, near the implement works. Prior to the departure of Mr. Peters his brethern of the I.O.O.F. honored him with a complimentary banquet. Mr. Peters has held practically all the offices in the gift of the local lodge, and his colleagues took occasion to gather in large numbers for the purpose of spending a pleasant evening, and wishing him a fitting god-speed.

Chas. Jeffery's grocery at Blenheim was recently visited by fire, the conflagration originating in the meat room in the rear of the cellar. The fire smouldered for some time before being discovered, but when found it was soon extinguished, the damage being chiefly from smoke and water. Had it not been for the prompt work of the fire fighters, one of the best business blocks in Blenheim would likely have been destroyed.

A settlement was arrived at between the insurance inspectors and Mr. Jeffery in record time, the figure agreed upon being $350.

The scarcity of small fruit is having a certain discouraging effect upon business here just at present. Strawberries gave out last week, the final offerings appearing about Wednesday. Raspberries are hard to procure. A few of the first appeared on the market last Saturday. Gooseberries and black currants will be a short crop from all appearances, though red currants are coming in fairly well. Usually there are plenty of these fruits in by this time of year. Raspberries are largely winter killed. Late frosts and lack of rain at the proper season also exerted a detrimental effect. Cherries are scarce. The average farmer doesn't feel like picking a small crop, preferring to leave them to the birds. The amount of work involved in picking a bushel or so of cherries is such that the farmers won't bother with them.

Owing to this scarcity, the grocery trade are looking forward to a good business in canned fruits, unless the prices are outrageously high.

Miss Lily Bosworth, daughter of J. V. Bosworth, left last week on a trip to New York.

Wilfrid McCorvie, of John McCorvie & Son, left on Monday morning, accompanied by P. K. Morley, on a trip to Jamestown exhibition. They will also visit Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington, New York and other points of interest en route.

Duncan Morrison, of John McCorvie & Son's staff, is confined to St. Joseph's hospital, suffering from typhoid fever.

INGERSOLL.

All the local grocers report a very brisk trade thus far this month. The fruit season is always a busy time with the grocers, and this, coupled with the warm weather of the past couple of weeks, during which the housewife refrained from doing only the necessary work, materially swelled their receipts. There has been a big demand for glass jars and sugar, as well as for canned goods of all kinds. This week will likely see the end of the strawberries. They are still coming in, but in limited quantities, and the price has jumped to a much higher mark, while the berries are much inferior to those of the early part of the season. The dealers are agreed that the quality of the strawberries was about of the usual standard, but they were not as plentiful as last season. This is, no doubt, due to the cold weather during the time the berries were maturing. The quantity preserved will be far short of that of other years, which will mean an increased demand for other fruits. At the present time the strawberries are selling at two boxes for a quarter. The prices here never dropped as low as those of previous years, the major portion of the sales being made at ten cents a box or three boxes for a quarter.

The small fruits are now coming in. Red currants promise to be plentiful and the red and black berries will also be a good crop. The currants are now selling at seven cents a box, and the berries at fifteen cents a box, with the quantities very limited, but it is expected a much larger supply will be marketed before the end of the week.

Cherries are arriving in larger quantities and the demand continues brisk. The red ones are selling at $1.25 and the black ones from $1.50 to $2 per basket. The main difficulty with the grocers is for them to fill their orders, as cherries are one of the most popular fruits offered here.

The prospects for a good tomato crop in this section is still a very debatable question. The frost of about three weeks ago is said to have damaged the early plants to no small extent, but many state that the early plants are thriving and give promise of a good crop.

As far as can be learned, the prospects have never been better in this section for a big crop of potatoes. The vines are well advanced, strong and healthy looking, and from their appearance the crop will be one of the best in years.

Thursday was observed as a holiday, it being the occasion of the excursion of the Sunday Schools of the town, which was run to Pore Stanley. The holiday was proclaimed by Mayor Coleridge, and the grocers closed their doors and went with the young people to the lakeside on pleasure bent.

During the past few weeks many deputations have visited Ingersoll to inspect the factory of the St. Charles Condensing Co. As previously noted, a number of towns are making strong bids for the factory which the company intends establishing in western Ontario, as they are fully aware of the importance of the one here. The factory is a means of bringing the farmers from a radius of several miles to town every morning, and this fact means that the grocers and other places of business are benefited.

Chase & Sanborn's New Warehouse and Factory

9 and 11 St. Helen Street, Montreal

CHASE & SANBORN'S NEW QUARTERS.

We are pleased to have the privilege of presenting to our readers in this issue a view of Chase & Sanborn's new building. Practically every grocer in Canada is acquainted with this old established coffee house, and know that they have been located for the past twenty-five years at Nos. 431 to 435 St. Paul street, Montreal. Their new premises include Nos. 9 and 11 St. Helen street, just two blocks west of the old store, and within fifty yards of the Board of Trade building, and consequently in the heart of the wholesale district of the metropolis. The phenomenal development in business is the cause of this change to larger and more commodious premises.

The new building has six floors, each 50 by 100 feet, with provision for an extra story when necessity demands. The front portion of each floor, with the exception of the office on the ground floor, is reserved for manufacturing purposes, the rear being the warehouse section. This part faces on a courtyard, thus giving excellent shipping facilities and light to the rear portion of the building, which is a handsome, substantial structure, with the front of Montreal grey stone, and the sides and rear of pressed brick.

The factory part of this mammoth establishment is indeed interesting, but to give all details would require too much space.

The plant when completed will have a capacity of 18,000 lbs. daily. The old steam plant has been discarded, and electric power is used throughout the whole building, each machine being connected to a separate motor. The manufacturing process commences on the top floor and the coffee passes by gravitation to roasters, cleaning machines, milling machines, and automatic weighing machines, until it reaches the shipping department on the ground floor ready for transportation to all parts of the Dominion.

A visit by any grocer to this splendid establishment will be time well spent, and a cordial welcome can always be depended upon by anyone visiting the firm in their new home. As one of the firm expresses it, "We want all our old friends to come and see us, and the new ones, too."

TRANSIENT TRADERS' ACT.

Interesting Decision by Magistrate Houston in Chatham.

Important in its bearings on transient trader legislation was the decision handed down in Chatham last week by Magistrate Houston in the case of Rex v. Brody. This was an action brought by the city against a young man named Benjamin Brody, who refused to pay the transient traders' license. The evidence was all taken some time ago, when Magistrate Houston asked the prosecuting attorney and the counsel for the defence to hand in written argument on the subject. This Messrs. Lewis and Stanworth did, and the court, after considering same, handed down judgment dismissing the action without costs. Mr. Houston's judgment comprises a little better than five typewritten pages, wherein he gives his reasons for dismissing the case.

The magistrate points out that according to the evidence taken there was no doubt at all that the object of the council in passing Bylaw No. 111 was to protect the retail merchant and make the granting of a license prohibitory, or exclusive to one man. This was done indirectly with the same effect as if it had been done directly. Further on the judge says:

"This Bylaw No. 111 was passed on the 19th day of March, 1907, and not one single license has been taken out under it, and no person has endeavored to take out a license under it. One man only has offered to eake a license —Peter Mitgisa—nd only on condition that he obtain ehe exclusive right. That being the case, it is beyond doubt in my mind that the bylaw is such ehat the general public or people in the business of hawkers or peddlers will not take out a license, if more than one be granted, and that I find on the evidence was the intention when passing the bylaw. Under the bylaw in force at the time the bylaw complained of was passed, the defendant in this case, as he did not use the push cart or horse or waggon, but carried his rugs, would have been entitled to a license on the payment of $10. Under this bylaw he would be obliged to pay $100, and the only evidence I have is that a person in that business could not afford to pay that amount. This is uncontradicted."

May Appeal.

Subsequent to the delivery of this judgment, Mayor Stone was asked if the city would appeal the case.

"I cannot say," was the reply; His Worship adding that he would consult with Chairman Austin of the finance committee.

Members of the council are by no means satisfied with the decision. One alderman indignantly denied that the bylaw had been framed with the object of giving the peanut vendor, Mitgis, an exclusive license.

The city fathers want their bylaw enforced. The magistrate takes the view that, had he convicted Brody, and the latter appealing, secured reversal of the decision, the city would have been compelled to pay costs.

This is the third decision of the kind which Magistrate Houston has handed out on the transient trader question.

KINGSTON.

Many changes are expected in Kingston in the near future—smelting works, cement block and brick works, etc. McKelvey & Birch will soon occupy their new store. The fire played awful havoc with the old one, but it will soon be forgotten. Their new premises will be a storey higher. R. J. McKelvey, the son of one of the firm, is in ill health and his medical advisers have sent him off to a summer resort to get back what he lost of flesh and blood. Verily, business behind the counter is an arduous life.

The Bellevillian correspondent is blowing about having three grocers representing that city as aldermen. That's good; I wish it had nine grocers, then the place would go ahead like Kingston. Order, please; I've got the floor. Then Belleville would have good sidewalks and the girls would have smaller feet. Don't get angry; this is nothing new, for everybody knows a girl of seventeen in Belleville takes a No. 7 shoe, and then it pinches. Kingston has a good, live council, but, like all cities, it has several wooden aldermen, fit only to sit with an air of pomp and do nothing but yawn and raise objections. Our mayor is Jack Mowat, nephew of our late beloved premier, and brother of Herb. M. Mowat, president of the Toronto Reform Association.

Kingston has produced more great men to the square foot than any other city. Look at Sir John A. Macdonald, once premier of the Dominion of Canada; Sir Richard Cartwright, Johnston, of Belleville. Yes, Canada would not be what it is if it hadn't been for Kingston's talent.

James Shaw, who once traveled for W. G. Craig & Co., is here on a short vacation. He is located in New Brunswick, N.Y., where he is manager of Woodworth & Co,'s 5c. and 10c. store. He likes the business and could not be induced to go back to the grocery trade.

Andrew Shaw is visiting the scenes of his childhood. He learned the dry goods business here years ago with his cousin, Felix Shaw, who was proprietor of the Glasgow Warehouse. Andrew went to Cornwall and opened up a cash grocery, known as Shaw Bros. Then he moved to Ottawa, where he ran a grocery for a year or so. Selling out a good business he accepted the position of manager of one of Charleston's 5c. and 10c. stores at Ottawa, which position he gave up some time ago to open up a 5c. and 10c. store on his own account in Hull, Que. He is well pleased with this move. Business is good and prospects bright for the future.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

The export movement in cheese is still far behind that of last year. The biggest week so far this year was that ending July 13th, when shipments from Montreal amounted to 94,586 boxes, and from Quebec 14,689, making a total of 109,275 boxes. Last week (ending July 20th) again fell behind, the figures being 94,286 boxes from Montreal. During the corresponding week of last year 81,258 boxes were shipped.

The export figures for butter show up no better, when compared with those of last year, than do the cheese exports. Shipments for week ending July 13th amounted to 3,300 packages, as against 4,465 packages for the week previous to that, and 19,640 packages for the corresponding period last year. For week ending July 20th, the quantity increased to 4,632 packages. Total shipments of butter since May 1st are only 15,369 packages, compared with 137,043 packages for the same period a year ago.

The cheese markets have been quiet, dull, weak and slow in tone throughout the week, the hot weather having a depressing effect on sales. On many of the boards there was a marked disparity displayed towards the end of the week between the offerings for colored and white, the former being in good demand. This is probably to be accounted for by short selling, and is not likely to continue long. Prices in the country were tending downward at the close of last week.

In butter the city markets have been weak, in sympathy with lower prices in the country. Little business has been done, and the tone in Montreal was no firmer at latest reports.

Receipts of cheese for week ending July 20th were 110,841 boxes, compared with 107,363 for the corresponding period last year. From May 20th, 1907, they have been 806,482, as against 872,380 from May 21st, 1906.

Receipts of butter for week ending July 20th were 26,055 packages, and for the same week a year ago 31,065. From May 20th, 1907, the receipts were 179,707, and from May 21st, 1906, 271,144.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

A steady advance in the price of live hogs has been the feature of the provision market for the last week. On Thursday of last week live hogs declined 5 cents in the Chicago market, the receipts being in excess of expectations. Friday, however, in the face of further speculative trading and active buying on the part of the packers, the market developed a firmer tone. Average receipts for the week were about 20,000, except Tuesday, when these figures were more than doubled. On Saturday the receipts at all western points exceeded those of a year ago by 10,000.

The New York Journal of Commerce, reviewing the situation, says:

"There have been but slight changes in hog products for the week past and the trading has been extremely slow, with the volume limited and wholly by professional operators, and prices slightly better. The undertone at the close of the week found the brokers have been buying, which was credited to the packers, while the selling has been scattered. The receipts of hogs have been fairly large, in fact larger than a year ago, and the live hog market firm and prices generally higher. The stocks were also said to show some accumulations for the month."

Hogs are quoted here $6.65 to $6.75 f.o.b. country points, the forward movement being due partly to keen competition among the packers and partly to the possibility of a higher market in the Old Country. There are rumors, however, to the effect that the English market is fearful of a decline. The Old Country market at present appears firm and active for No. 1 selections, and the reverse for fat and heavy selections. Canadian shipments of bacon to the Old Country were 1,800 boxes for week ending July 20th.

The local situation is firm with all smoked meats going heavily into consumption. Lard, which developed an easier tendency earlier in the week, has firmed up again, and now exhibits no prospect of a decline.

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS — At present writing provision market is steady. There is a fair demand for American pork. Compound lard is somewhat neglected. Pure lard is still fair. There continues to be a good demand for hams and bacon and a large volume of business is passing at firm prices.

PROVISIONS — Trade is on a fairly quiet level, with the exception of smoked meats and hams, which are going into heavy consumption. Live hogs, in street lots, are a quarter dearer than last week, due to the advance in the Old Country, with which the local market has risen in sympathy.

is wise to stock up. Some believe in buying just what you need from day to day. You escape insurance premiums, loss of interest and get your discounts. Should a fire occur, can you prove your claim? A pretty hard job, for not one grocer out of twenty keeps his books so he can tell what his present stock is worth. Take stock, open up a merchandise account, and keep your cash straight. If you can't, get some one who can, or a cash register, for if a fire takes place, the man who is so smooth and pleasant in getting you to take out a policy will tell you he has nothing to say. It is between you and the inspector, who is no respecter of persons.

If 100 business men would form a union and each put $100 a year in the bank against possible loss by fire, what would their capital be at 3 per cent. in ten years, should no fatality take place? Cities should adopt municipal insurance and get out of debt. Cities are millions in debt. Insurance companies are millions to the good.

We never know from where we sit,
How soon our riches may take a flit.

LONDON.

An important business change was completed this morning, when Norman McLeod, of the Cash Bargain Store, King street, purchased the business of H. Backus, corner of Adelaide and Dundas streets, which was formerly conducted by Mr. McLeod. The latter gentleman will put one of his sons in to run the business.

Small fruits are coming in very slowly. Raspberries made their first appearance in the stores on Saturday, selling at twenty cents a box. Cherries bring fifteen cents per quart, and are hard to get. With such a scarcity and high prices, it is little wonder that the demand for sugar customary at this season is entirely absent.

An idea of the importance of London as a grocery centre may be gained from the fact that there are in this city nine wholesale houses and 182 retail stores. Besides these, there are seven brokers who handle groceries, while five firms are engaged solely in the wholesale tea business and five in the retail.

The Canadian Packing Company are now fully installed in their new premises on Dundas street, formerly the New York store. The place is well adapted to the growing needs of the company's retail trade, as it runs from Dundas street clear through to the market square. The company's big factory in the east end of ehe city is kept constantly running at full capacity, and their shipping business is something enormous.

GUELPH.

Last week was a good business week here, even if the farmers were busy. The fruit was a little scarce, strawberries being still the main feature. Cherries made their first good showing and sold from $1 to $1.25 a basket. Raspberries were a little higher, 16c. to 18c. a box. Butter and eggs were also scarce. A nice lot of new cabbage was sold at 75c. a dozen.

The butchers report spring lambs as being very scarce, and the price almost prohibitive, from 18c. to 25c. for choice cuts.

On Tuesday, the fruit market was cleared before six o'clock in the morning, only two loads being offered, and were picked up quickly. The strawberries are done, but the raspberries were a choice sample and sold from 15c. to 16c. by the crate. While everybody was looking for cherries, the supply was very limited, and $1.20 was easily obeained, which is really more than they are worth, for we can hardly get more than $1.25 retail and sell many. A nice lot of berries brought 75c. a basket.

CEREALS AND CONFECTIONERY

Heavy Selling in Chicago Wheat Market Continues—Flour Trade Quiet, With Export Business Increasing — A Successful Retailer's Remarks.

Heavy selling in the Chicago market has been the feature of the wheat situation for the past week. Especially was this the case in the early part of the week, when rumors of a telegraphers' strike and more favorable reports of weather conditions in the Northwest were the direct causes. Values suffered a further decline under the actions of the bears later in the week, and though a half-hearted effort was made to advance prices, and seemed, for a time, to promise success, the market sagged off and closed with prices at a low ebb. Towards the end of the week a firmer tone was manifested, and the market resumed a normal level.

Flour prices are steady, with increased export business reported. A fair portion of the latter is maintained upon a mutual concession basis, English buyers being slower than Canadian in lowering quotations. There is little business of any account passing in cereals, the demand remaining about as last week.

Confectionery.

"It's almost pathetic to observe the way in which some grocers are losing money these days," said a prominent retailer the other day. "When I say 'losing money'," he went on, "of course I don't mean that they are necessarily showing a balance on the debit side of their cash books. What I do mean is that many grocers, by refusing to handle confectionery, are every day losing money that would come to them of itself as soon as they started handling this very profitable line. I've been in business for thirty years myself, and I have sold confectionery for twenty of them. I give it a prominent place in my store, and honestly believe that, were I to drop it now, I should lose a large number of customers." If this man has found confectionery profitable, is there any reason why you shouldn't go and do likewise. It's worth a trial anyway.

LUTHER BURBANK'S LATEST.

In a car of California fruit received by White & Co., Toronto, a few days ago, was a small package containing about a dozen plums. These were a sample of Luther Burbank's latest addition to the fruit world, and strengthen that gentleman's claim to the title of "The Fruit Wizard." The plums are deep red in color, and about the size of a small hen's egg. The flavor is very delicate, and can best be described as a mixture of peach and plum, the former predominating. The fruit is very tender and full of juice.

It will probably be two years or more before these plums can be produced in sufficient quantity to place on the market, but they have already created something of a sensation in Mr. Burbank's country and all the fruit men who have seen them here are enthusiastic over their possibilities.

TRADE AND FOOD STUFF NEWS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.

St. John, N.B., July 22.

There was but little change in market prices during the past week. Green vegetables are beginning to come in, but are still quite high. Eggs and butter remain firm, and meats vary little in price. Lemons are rated $1 a box higher, and varieties of fruits have advanced somewhat. Pressed hay in car lots has dropped $1 a ton, and will scarcely go higher again this season. Fish of all kinds are quite plentiful and the prices steady.

Indications point to a slump in the butter market. Exports to Great Britain show a great falling off from last year, and it is probable that as a result the price locally will drop considerably.

Although little or no change is predicted in the price of beef, particularly the higher grades, there is some indication that there will be a decline in the figures on other meats. Vegetables, especially potatoes, will be cheaper, and fruits will, from present indications, be fairly plentiful.

The fishing trade, as a whole, at this port, is not up to the standard. The line fishing for cod and pollock along the Bay of Fundy coast is, however, better than it was this time last season. Gaspereaux fishing was not as good as last season, and was away below the average yearly catch. Gaspereaux sell for $5.10 per barrel, salted. Some lots have been sent away to the West Indies. The salmon fishing, although not finished, is not as good as it was last year at the same time, but this last week there was some improvement and it is expected that this season's catch will be about the average. They sell now for 12 and 13 cents a pound. The shipment to the United States is not so large as it was last year, but the local markets have been taking more salmon on account of the high price of meat. The shad fishing was a failure altogether, but it may be that the catch of fall shad will partially make up for this.

The stringency in the money market is now affecting St. John, as well as other business centres. The various banking houses here have raised the discount rate from six to seven per cent., and it is thought the rate may go still higher.

Strawberries have been quite plentiful this year. The lowest quotation last week was six cents, wholesale, for good seock. It is probable that the tendency from now on will be for higher prices.

The town of Hartland, Carleton county, was visited by a very disastrous fire early on Monday morning, July 15. Nearly the entire business section of the town was wiped out, the loss being estimated at about $100,000, with insurance of less than $20,000.

One of the worst features of the affair is that the fire was evidently of incendiary origin and the business men of the town have offered a reward for evidence that will bring the guilty party to justice. An investigation will be held. Among the properties destroyed were two large stores owned and occupied by Keith & Plummer. They had the largest general store in Hartland and one of the largest in the county. Their loss alone will be well up to $50,000. Some of the other properties burned were: Fruit store occupied by Miss Janet McMullin, Horace Nixon's general store, J. T. G. Carr's warehouses, in which G. W. Breen had a large stock of groceries.

The burned buildings were all of wood. Keith & Plummer will rebuild at once.

N. W. Eveleigh & Co., of Sussex, have purchased the property now used as a tinware factory, from H. H. Dryden, Limited, and will take formal possession in about three or four months. They will fit the property up for a boot and shoe and clothing business, and utilize the whole of their present premises for their grocery department.

The death occurred at Fredericton, on Friday, July 19, of Charles Afl Tupper, a highly respected resident and, until about a year ago, a very successful grocer. Last year he sold out his grocery business and went west, returning recently. He was 61 years of age and was a son of the late Rev. James Tupper, a well known Baptist clergyman and cousin of Sir Chas. Tupper. He is survived by his wife, one son, Dr. Tilley S. Tupper, of Clareholm, Alberta, and two daughters, Mrs. Geo. Hozen and Mrs. T. A. McVey, both of Fredericton. The funeral was held on Sunday.

According to present arrangements, the C. P. R. Atlantic steamships will again make St. John their winter port and, as last year, Halifax will be utilized only as a port of call to embark and disembark the mails. The first steamship, the Empress of Ireland, will sail from here on November 15.

The people of St. Stephen and St. George and, in fact, all along the line of the New Brunswick Southern Railway, are rejoicing in the announcement that the road is to be repaired in a thorough manner. The line has been in need of a thorough overhauling for some years.

The contract for building the new cold storage warehouse has been awarded to P. Mooney & Sons, and the work is going ahead rapidly.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Lemon Market Higher With Indications of a Further Rise — Verdelli Pack Heavy—Poor Outlook for Canadian Raspberries—Canners Busy.

Toronto, July 23rd.

Market conditions are not greatly changed from last week. Business in all lines of seasonable fruit continues good, and there is an increasing demand for all home grown vegetables. Fish, usually a factor of very little account in the market at this time of year, is showing fair activity, but fresh stock is every year becoming increasingly difficult to obtain, and the demand is always of a fluctuating character.

The lemon market has exhibited great activity throughout the week, and prices are again on a firmer basis, with every prospect of a further rise if the present hot weather holds. Present prices for Verdilles are about on a parity with those ruling at the same time last year. California lemons touched $7 before the season was out. The Verdilli crop compares very favorably with that of last year, some growers claiming that it is considerably heavier.

The last sale of Verdellis last year was made during the first fortnight of August. Stocks held in Toronto at present are not heavy. 3,000 or 4,000 boxes would probably cover them all.

Latest information from the central fruit growing districts of Ontario indicate that not more than a half crop of raspberries can be looked for, and that the canners are snapping up with avidity all the stock they can get hold of on a basis of 7 to 8 cents. It is not likely that the berries will sell much below 10 cents at any time this season. About 25 per cent. of the crop has now been gathered.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS—While demand for green fruits is to the fore, most lines continue very scarce. Raspberries are now starting to arrive and are quoted at $1.50 pail. Strawberries, with a few exceptions, are finished. Pineapples are off the market, as are Jamaica oranges, Nominal prices prevail.

VEGETABLES — The feeling for vegetables just now is only fair. High prices still continue to rule and a scarcity of a few lines is noticeable. New domestic turnips are now on the market and are quoted at 35c. dozen. Quotations on green beans and Boston lettuce dropped slightly, while the price of new potatoes advanced from $3.50 to $4.

FISH — In fresh fish lines haddock and cod are still plentiful. Prices continue low. Salmon season is rapidly drawing to an end. As a result, prices are expected to experience a further advance next week. Lake fish, including trout, whitefish, dore and pike, are in fair supply only. Brook trout are scarce. Weather has been so warm that demand for haddics and other smoked fish is slow. A fair movement of Labrador salmon and sea trout is noticeable, but demand for other kinds is very quiet.

TORONTO.

FRUITS — This week will see the end of the strawberry crop. Raspberries are taking their place already, but it is estimated that the crop will be short probably 50 per cent., and the canners are working had to get as much of this as possible. They are offering up to 8 cents a box. Ontario cherries, about 25 per cent. of which are now gathered, are showing good quality. VEGETABLES — Ontario new potatoes are coming to hand in small quantities, but the quality is not yet such as to offer much inducement to buyers. Delawares are practically at an end, the last car having been received in the city on the 18th. GROCERY TRADE NEWS OF NOVA SCOTIA

(Special Correspondence of Canadian Grocer.)

Halifax, N.S., July 22.

The grocery trade is a little quiet at present. There is a good demand for fruit and the market is fairly well supplied. Bananas are not as plentiful as in past seasons, but there is sufficient to supply the demand. Good stock is selling for 25c. and 30c. per dozen. Good pineapples are very scarce, and seedless oranges are now off the market. During the past week the receipts of Nova Scotia strawberries have been very heavy, over 1,500 crates having arrived. The price held very firm at 10c. per box for the best stock. The demand has been exceptionally good, and it is not expected that the price will go below the above figures.

Trade in canned goods is quiet, as new beans, peas and tomatoes are now on the market. The warm weather has resulted in bringing about a good demand for syrups, lime juice, etc. Sugar is selling freely, but the price has not changed.

The butter situation is satisfactory. The receipts are fully up to the average, and good dairy butter can be bought from 20c. to 22c. for small tubs. Creamery prints are quoted at 24c. to 26c. Eggs are plentiful at 17c. to 18c. The demand is light.

The fish markets, also, are on the quiet side. The arrivals have been much smaller than usual, owing to the unfavorable weather for curing, and the market is practically bare of good fish. Owing to the shortness of supply prices are very firm, and the demand is poor, probably on this account. The big lobster workers of Cape Breton say that this season's catch will be much smaller than that of last year, and probably 40 per cent. less than the previous year. Owing to the prevalence of ice on the coast last spring, the Government has extended the lobster fishing season, to the Cape Breton fishermen, from July 16 to August 10.

With the warm weather at hand the demand for beef has fallen off considerably, chickens, lamb and veal taking its place. The price of beef is unchanged, and lamb is high, fore quarters selling at 18c. Chickens are small yet, but sell for 75c. and $1 per pair.

* * *

H. C. Ballem, has purchased the Sydney business of H. Rattenbury, dealers in Prince Edward Island produce, and will conduct the same, under the firm name of H. C. Ballem & Co. Direct importation is made of P. E. Island vegetables, fruit, hay and dairy products. The firm has a well-stocked store in the Whitney block, on the Esplanade, and vessels discharge cargo at the firm's own wharf.

* * *

A. W. Donly, Canada's commercial agent in Mexico, arrived in the city last week, and on Friday he addressed the Board of Trade. President Bell presided, and there was a large number of business men present. Mr. Donly told of trade conditions in Mexico, and enumerated the articles which might profitably be shipped from Canada to Mexico.

At present, he said, Canadians do not go out after the trade of Mexico or any other foreign country because the demand from the Canadian market now was so large.

The present era of prosperity in Canada would not last for ever and now was a good time to prepare for adverse times by establishing trade connections with Mexico, which would afford a market for any over-production of Canadian factories.

Coffee, tropical fruits, tobacco and sisal grass are the chief articles which might be imported from Mexico.

Mexican coffee is the best on the market. If the transportation facilities were better a good trade could be worked up in tropical fruits, as Mexico has the fruit and Canada the market.

Mexican tobacco is far superior to that from Cuba. $30,000,000 worth of sisal grass, or fibre for binder twine, was imported into the United States last year.

He suggested that all persons who wish to form trade connections with Mexico to visit the country and examine conditions for himself. He also suggested judicious advertising companies.

It is absolutely necessary to have a capable personal agent in the country. Personal canvass is a necessity in introducing new lines of goods. In all shipments to Mexico greatest care should be exercised in making proper declarations and sending all necessary paper. Failure to do this causes infinite trouble to both shipper and consignee.

Winnipeg Industrial Exhibition

An Educational and Financial Success—An Exhibition Fairly Representative of the Resources and Products of the Great West—Winnipeg Industrial Bureau Deserves Credit—Majority of Winnipeg Manufacturers Took Advantage of Getting Close to the Public—Comments on Some of the Booths.

Winnipeg's Industrial Exhibition held this year from July 13th to 20th scored another success. The attendance from city and country was large, the weather favorable throughout, and the exhibits were many and varied. The management wore satisfied smiles on the closing day, due to the state of the exchequer and the many compliments passed on the success of the big fair.

The Winnipeg Fair is the big fair in western Canada, and as such its exhibits are supposed to be representative of the great country upon which it is able to draw for support. Unfortunately, it is necessary to hold the exhibition early in the summer before the harvest, and, therefore, it is not possible to have an adequate showing of the varied agricultural resources of a great farming country. In other years the manufacturers' buildings have been filled with the exhibits of eastern firms while the Winnipeg manufacturers have neglected the fair almost entirely. This year, while the number of outside exhibitors was about the same as usual, there was a big increase in the number of western firms exhibiting, and the fair was, therefore, much more representative of the resources and products of the west than in previous years. In great measure this was due to the efforts of the Winnipeg Industrial Bureau. Secretary Roland went to considerable trouble in assisting the exhibition management to secure the exhibits of Winnipeg firms and, as a result, the Winnipeg manufacturers were better represented than ever before. Several leading firms whose exhibits might have been looked for, neglected this opportunity of advertising their manufactures, but, as a whole, the "Made in Winnipeg" section presented a very favorable appearance.

Kops' Ale and Stout.

W. L. Mackenzie & Co., of Winnipeg, who are agents in the west for the sale of Kops' ale and stout (non-alcoholic), had a very interesting exhibit. Kops' ales are meeting with a good reception from those who want a good non-alcoholic drink of superior quality. It is made in one of the largest breweries in the world. Many new friends for this drink were made as a result of the exhibit at the fair.

"Meat of Wheat."

"Meat of Wheat," the breakfast food manufactured by the Western Cereal Co., of Winnipeg, had a good exhibit. This firm are now putting their goods in a new package which has a much better appearance than the old. It would be hard, though, to improve the food itself, as it is made from the best hard wheat grown in the Canadian west.

Gold Standard Goods.

One of the most important of the exhibits in the "Made in Winnipeg" section was that of the Gold Standard lines, manufactured in Winnipeg by the Codville-Georgeson Co. All western grocers are acquainted with the Gold Standard goods, comprising baking powder, coffee, essences, spices and a great variety of similar goods. The exhibit at the fair was large and handsome, the central feature being a big revolving wheel, to which were attached many Gold Standard packages. Across the front was a large sign: "Gold Standard Goods, Made in Winnipeg and Guaranteed the Best."

Stock Foods.

Two stock foods were exhibited side by side, the Hackney and the Carnebac, and each was a centre of attraction for crowds of farmers each day. Each of these firms turns out a reliable line of stock and poultry foods, which they sell through the trade.

J. T. Griffin & Co.

The Griffin products were well to the front and were introduced to many newcomers in the west by a very attractive exhibit. The full line of Griffin hams, sausages, cured meats, lard, etc., were on exhibition, and visitors to the booth were invited to visit the company's plant across Louise bridge. Many took advantage of the invitation, and were shown an up-to-date plant, with a capacity of more than 1,000 hogs per day.

Stimpson Computing Scale Co.

W. J. Butt, Winnipeg manager of the Stimpson Computing Scale Co., had an interesting exhibit of Stimpson scales. The principal feature of the exhibit was a showing of three new automatic springless scales. The leader is the new No. 70, with a capacity of 100 pounds. This is an unusually large capacity for a computing scale and this feature commended it to many interested dealers who visited the exhibition.

Purity Flour.

Immediately in the rear of the Stimpson Scale exhibit the Western Canada Flour Mills Co. had an attractive display of Purity flour. This firm have a tremendous output in their three mills at Winnipeg, Goderich and Brandon, but their products are well known for their purity and high standard of quality and there is no trouble in disposing of the big output.

Computing Scale Co. of Canada.

An interesting exhibit of the Dayton moneyweight scales was made by the Computing Scale Co., of Canada, and many visiting dealers stopped to learn the why and the how of the money saving proposition which this firm put before the trade. The thermostat regulator is one of the important features of the Dayton scale. Every merchant knows how uncertain scales are apt to be owing to the changes of climate. The thermostat regulator on the Dayton scale is designed to regulate the scale in any climate.

Maple Tree Producers' Association.

Many visitors stopped to inquire at the booth of the Maple Tree Producers' Association, at Waterloo, Que. People in the west are large consumers of maple products, but they have very often been imposed upon by spurious products masquerading under the name of "maple." This has done much to check the sales of the genuine article and the bona fide producer has suffered. To protect the interests of the bona fide producers the Mape Tree Producers' Association was formed, and they will not permit any maple products to bear their "Pride of Canada," "Pride of Quebec," or "Canada Country Club" brands unless they are absolutely pure. As a result, the sales of these brands is now very large in the west as well as in the east. Foley, Lock & Larson, of Winnipeg, are the western agents.

Cowan's Cocoa.

Cowan's cocoa, chocolate and confectionery were attractively displayed in a handsome exhibit which attracted the attention of many visitors. Here expert demonstrators were serving cups of Cowan's Perfection cocoa and giving practical illustrations of the good qualities of Cowan's prepared icings for cakes. Among the many confections on exhibition special prominence was given to this firm's "Maple Buds."

Christie's Biscuits.

Some 450 varieties of fancy biscuits were shown in the mammoth exhibit of Christie, Brown & Co. of Toronto. Neatly arranged in glass faced boxes an immense assortment of biscuits were placed on view. Samples of the firm's celebrated water ice wafers were served to many interested visitors, who were told of the steady growth of Christie, Brown & Co. to their present position in the biscuit trade of the Dominion. This firm do not manufacture confectionery, but the whole of their big Toronto plant is devoted to the manufacture of biscuits. Scott, Bathgate & Co., of Winnipeg, are western wholesale agents for this firm.

Nugget Polishes.

Nugget polishes were to the fore at the Industrial, as the week before at the Pure Food Show. Many visitors stopped at the booth for a free shine and learned the virtues of the Nugget polish, upon which no water can stay.

Holbrook's Sauces.

Holbrooks had a fine exhibit of their Worcestershire sauces and pickles, and samples were served to many visitors. Brack & Kirkland, the western agents of this firm, report a rapidly growing demand.

Well Satisfield.

Exhibitors at Winnipeg's first Pure Food Show were well satisfied with the results obtained. E. B. Nixon, chairman of the committee in charge, received the following letter the other day from the Codeville-Georgeson Co. expressing appreciation :

Winnipeg, Man., July 17, 1907.
E. B. Nixon, Esq.,
President Winnipeg Grocers' Association, city.:

Dear Sir,—We take this opportunity, on behalf of ourselves and Messrs. H. J. Heinz Company, for whom we are agents, of expressing our appreciation of the highly satisfactory manner in which the recent Pure Food Show in connection with your association was conducted.

The general arrangement of details and the systematic manner in which they were carried out, certainly do great credit to the executive ability of yourself, Mr. Coulson, secretary-treasurer, and all other members of the committee in charge of the work.

Your method has undoubtedly been proven to be the most valuable medium through which to place the merits of pure foodstuffs before the consuming public, and we congratulate you on your enterprise and the success which has attended it.

Yours very truly,

CAMERON & HEAP MOVING.

The wholesale grocery firm of Cameron & Heap, are moving into their new premises on Dewdney street, Regina. They occupy a warehouse built for them by Thomas Wilkinson, of that city, 120x50 feet, two storeys and a basement, and are moving in their stock as fast as it can be unloaded. When it is all in their warehouse they will have a stock of about $60,000, which will be increased to $100,000 by fall, and will include a complete stock of fancy and staple groceries.

They are handling the goods of Gordon, Ironsides & Fares, and the Gallagher, Holman, Lafrance Co.

The directors of the company are Messrs. Cameron, Heap, Andrews, Burton and Witts, all of whom are experienced in the wholesale grocery business, and associated with them at Regina is Geo. F. Stevenson, so widely and favorably known through his late connection with Codville-Georgeson & Company, who, with C. Stewart Burton, will have the active management of the company. ...

Are You Sure That You Are Handling The Right Cigars?

There's a reasonable doubt, Mr. Grocer, unless you are handling the cigars that made Granby famous from sea to sea. Ordinarily good cigars there are in abundance; but cigars nearly as good as are not on the Canadian market anywhere near the price.

PHARAOH is widely known as the king of all ten cent cigars. It compares favorably with the best sold at fifteen.

PEBBLE is better than most ten cent cigars and retails at five.

There's a profit story connected with my way of doing business which every man in the trade should know. Are you posted?

STORE EQUIPMENT AS A LABOR SAVER

Scientific Store Keeping has made the Making of Equipment and Designing of it a Business in Itself.

Most up-to-date merchants now realize that general utility, space saving, labor saving and handsome store equipments are necessary for the scientific retailing of foods, and as a result there has been an increasing demand for fixtures of this character in the past five years.

Previously, we were familiar with the old style open cracker and sugar barrels, the open bin for cereals, dried fruits, spices and other foods generally kept in drawers in bulk quantities, where they were liable to deteriorate from exposure and handling. The consumers have been in favor of a more sanitary way of handling goods, and have encouraged grocers who have made changes from their old routine way of doing business by giving them their trade.

Nowadays every grocer is striving to have the surroundings of his store of such a character as to excite favorable comment on the part of the buyer immediately after entering his place, and by having the goods displayed in such a tempting manner as to induce people to buy. In order to do this the appointments in the store must be of a kind that facilitate the showing and handling of goods, as well as keeping them from the dust and dirt always prevalent in a store, and from mice, insects and "tasters."

A grocer with modern up-to-date equipments, where such goods as crackers, dried fruits, cereals and all farinaceous goods are shown in bins, under glass, and teas, coffees and spices and other merchandise presented in an attractive way in bins made with mirror fronts, and other paraphernalia to beautify the store, making the surroundings pleasant—is the man who is doing the most business to-day, while the old "fogy" who cannot keep abreast with the times, and is satisfied to do business under conditions that have been in use for the past fifty years, is gradually losing business to "the other fellow."

Fixtures of this character not only beautify the store, but reduce the store help to a minimum. The writer knows of an instance where there is a store doing business in Philadelphia on one floor, 40 by 80, and handling from 800 to 1,200 people daily with eighteen clerks. This could never be done under the old methods of retailing. There are experts in this store-equipment business to-day who make a specialty of furnishing new stores and remodeling old ones, who have studied the subject completely and are able to advise to the merchant's profit, and who change the appearance of a store so much in a day that the customers who come in the next day to buy often wonder if they are not in the wrong place.

Take it to yourself. If two stores, side by side, were doing business, one merchant keeping his goods clean and free of contamination, presenting to the purchaser goods in the best possible manner, and the other just the reverse—prices being equal—where would you spend your money? These are points well worth considering, and the sooner the grocer begins to realize that he has to do just the same as the druggist started to do twenty years ago to retain trade and make new customers, the better off he will be.

John Jane, general store, of Savona, has been succeeded by C. S. Burton.

FOOD STUFF NEWS AND MARKETS ON THE PACIFIC COAST

(Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer)

Vancouver, B.C., July 18, 1907.

There is some interest in wholesale circles here with regard to the expected visit shortly of Jos. Hardwell, traffic officer and freight expert of the Railway Commission. It is understood that he will reopen the question of freight rates from Vancouver to Calgary, Edmonton and other Alberta points, in comparison with Winnipeg rates to the same points. It was on this subject that the Vancouver Board of Trade and the wholesale shippers generally, had a long contest with the C.P.R. Co., leading to a final settlement on a basis of Calgary as a common point as to Winnipeg and Vancouver.

In connection with the subject of freight rates, Mr. F. W. Peters, general traffic manager of the C.P.R., met the wholesalers of Calgary last week, and while no report of the proceedings was given out to the public, it is generally admitted that the whole question of rates throughout western Canada and British Columbia is to receive special attention shortly. No doubt Mr. Hardwell's visit to the west will cover this ground.

While the past week has shown the salmon run still very small on the Fraser, there are some sockeyes being taken. The traps off Vancouver Island are getting a quantity and some fishermen have had fair luck in the gulf. Still not many of the canneries on the Fraser will run this season, and a very short pack is anticipated. Advices from the north also state that the run there is very slack in comparison with last year.

The short pack is having some effect on the markets of the world already. Advices feom the Old Country report very small stocks held there. The price is now quoted at Liverpool at 17s. 3d per case for what stocks of Alaska reds are in the market.

Inquiries have been received from the Admiralty Office, London, by Hon. J. H. Turner, B. C. agent-general, for names of dealers in British Columbia canned salmon, the intention of the war office being stated to be to lay in stores for use on the vessels of the navy.

Tobacco growing is receiving some attention in the Kettle river valley, of southern British Columbia. Heretofore the chief efforts in that line have been made at Kelowna, on Okanagan Lake, and at one time a cigar manufactory was operated with a product entirely made from local stock. At Grand Forks a Mr. F. Smith, a rancher who has had experience in the southern States in tobacco growing, asserts that he has proven the Kettle river valley to be well adapted to the growing of fine tobacco. He has a crop now harvested of over a ton, and the leaf, he claims, is well able to compare with the product of more southern latitudes.

At Kelowna, where the industry was first exploited, it has not received as much attention as formerly, but still it has never been entirely abandoned. This year arrangements have been made looking to a revival of the industry, some experts being in negotiation with a view to putting a large area under crop for tobacco.

The British steamer Queen Alexandra is en route for British Columbia ports with a cargo of raw sugar for the British Columbia sugar refinery. The sugar comes from Samarang, Java, where large sugar plantations are cultivated. The bulk of the raw material handled by the British Columbia sugar refinery is from the southern seas. The coming cargo is expected to be received about the end of the month.

In the summer markets there is considerable activity in fruits now, some disappointment in the produce line, owing to short stocks of butter, and very little of remark in staple groceries. The sugar prices reduced 15c. all round, as reported last week, and the chances are they will not again advance this season. They are quoted at: Granulated, $5.-40; extra C., $4.80; fancy yellow, $4.-65; yellow, $4.55; dark yellow, $4.45, in barrels and 100-lb. sacks.

Butter remains unchanged in price all round, and still short in supply from Northwest points. Local supply keeps up well. but so do the prices, which are as last quoted: Local creamery,· 30c.; local dairy, 28c.; Northwest Government creamery, 26c. and 28c. Eastern eggs are now 25c. and fairly plentiful. Local fresh eggs are scarcer and bring up to 30c. and 35c.

On fruits, supplies are more liberal and the range is somewhat greater. Local cherries are about out, the sweet varieties being sold at 15c. Local strawberries figure as a luxury now, none but late varieties, and only a few of them, at fancy prices, being received or shipped. Raspberries have been very plentiful, prices having run at $2.-50 per crate. Some have been shipped to the Northwest, but the difficulty to convey them in crates and keep them in good shape has not been solved. A raspberry that will "stand up" under long shipments is required.

California fruits are becoming more plentiful. Apples at $3.50 per case; pears, $3.50 per case. Apricots, plums and peaches are quoted at $2 and $2.25 per crate.

New potatoes are very plentiful and down to about 2c. per lb. Ripe tomatoes are coming in from local sources now. In the Okanagan, the famous Gellatly ranch is shipping its first ripe stock to the Northwest. They net the growers 10c. per lb. Locally vegetables of all varieties are in plentiful supply and prices about as last quoted. in all parts of Americg.

ROLAND BLAIR MARRIED.

Roland Blair, grocer, of Hamilton, was married on July 10th to Jennie, daughter of W. H. Thompson, traveler for the F. F. Dalley Co. for the western States. Over seventy-five guests were present from Niagara Falls, London and Strathroy, among whom were F. R. Menzies, superintendent of sales department F. F. Dalley Co., and Mrs. Menzies. The presents were numerous and valuable. The young couple left on the evening train for the east.

BUSINESS MEN IN MUNICIPAL LIFE

No. 24.

W. M. Howe.

Wellington Mason Howe has probably achieved distinction in municipal life more rapidly than any young man in Canada to-day. He is a native and one of the most prominent citizens of Arnprior, Ontario, and was conspicuous in the municipal affairs of the town long before most young men have even thought of starting up in business for themselves. His own business record has been no less honorable than his political career. He conducts a grocery store and even when he is most busily occupied with municipal work he finds time personally to attend to the management and details of his establishment.

For several years Mr. Howe rendered good service to Arnprior as a councillor, and became mayor of the town in 1902. He was probably the youngest chief executive in the province at that time. In 1903 he was defeated by the late Claude McLachlin, only to head the polls two years later when running for council. In 1906 he was elected mayor by acclamation, and his latest triumph is having been returned at the head of the corporation for 1907 by a majority of nearly 300.

Mr. Howe seems to possess a peculiar aptitude for municipal work. He thinks quickly, is a hard worker and has a fine grasp of detail.

In politics a Conservative, in religion a Methodist, Mr. Howe has held many official positions in connection with Grace Methodist church, being superintendent of the Sunday School and president of the Arnprior branch of the Lord's Day Alliance. In addition to this, he is a member of several fraternal societies and district deputy of the Independent Order of Foresters. No one took a more prominent part than Mr. Howe in securing adequate waterworks and sewage for Arnprior, the contracts for these works being let during his first term as mayor. He was responsible for many miles of concrete pavement being laid in the principal streets, and directly instrumental in securing for the town the large shirt factory which was lately erected there. A provincial normal school and a Carnegie library are two institutions which Mr. Howe has in his mind's eye at present, but his ambitions for the success of his town run in anything but a narrow groove, and he is not likely to be satisfied with anything short of the best that can be got.

Any account of Mr. Howe's career and work would be incomplete at the present time without some reference to what he claims is the most practical and at the same time the wisest thing he has ever done. On June 26th he passed out of the ranks of the bachelors forever and became an enthusiastic volunteer of Hymen's mighty army. It was an opportunity that the citizens of Arnprior had been waiting for. The telegrams, letters and personal congratulations and presents that poured in upon the young couple were enough to have turned the head of another man. A committee representing the town council, officials and citizens of Arnprior waited upon Mr. Howe at his residence after his marriage and presented him in the name of the whole town with an exquisitely illuminated address and a cabinet of table silver. Mayor Howe, in replying to this conclusive evidence of the esteem in which he was held, was visibly affected, and assured the committee, as representing the town, that he would treasure the words of appreciation just spoken no less than the handsome gift which accompanied them, and that as much of his time and thought as possible would hereafter, as heretofore, be devoted to the interests of Arnprior, industrial, educational and municipal.

W. M. HOWE
Mayor of Arnprior.

A GROCER'S DOG.

At Clyde River, N.S., there is a canine wonder owned by E. B. Thompson, general dealer. The dog is a pure-bred collie, and can do everything but talk. Stub is his name, and he has been trained to attend shop, and does it in the most approved style. When anyone approaches the shop and Mr. Thompson is away, Stub gives so many barks, but let a traveler drive up and Stub immediately rushes to where Mr. Thompson is and begins to bark in such a manner that Mr. Thompson knows whether it is a customer or a traveler.

The dog needed very little training before he became proficient. The writer called on Mr. Thompson some time ago and noticed Stub go off at the top of his speed. On going to the door, and finding it locked, he concluded that Mr. Thompson was away. Just then the dog came back and began pawing at the door. In a few minutes Mr. Thompson appeared. When questioned as to the dog's behavior, Mr. Thompson said:

"If you wait a few minutes you will see he knows the difference between a traveler and a customer." Sure enough, a lady customer came and he began to bark, but did not run to the house to fetch Mr. Thompson. Stub is a magnificent specimen of the true collie, and it would take a lot of money to buy him. He certainly saves Mr. Thompson a great many steps.

NEXT BRAZIL COFFEE CROP.

The new Brazil coffee year, which began July 1, is estimated to produce a crop of 11,000,000 bags by a well-known Havre authority. The totals for six years, with the average price per pound for No. 7 Rio, exchange standard at New York, is as follows:

	Bags.	Av. price cents.
1906-07	*20,000,000	....
1905-06	11,055,378	8.34
1904-05	10,597,080	8.32

FLOUR TRADE WITH NORWAY.

Ion Bakke, representing Ludwigsen & Schjelderup, of Christiana, was a visitor at the offices of The Canadian Grocer the other day. Mr. Bakke has been traveling over Canada in the interests of his firm, and is decidedly optimistic regarding the possibilities of trade expansion between his country and the Dominion. Referring specially to flour, Mr. Bakke said that the development within the last few years of this branch of trade between the two countries had been remarkable, but he thought there were still many exporters in Canada who were not fully alive to the market that awaited them in Norway, and who, if the figures were laid before them, would be astonished at the growth of the Canadian export flour business to Norway within recent years.

Mr. Bakke is returning to Norway almost immediately, and those wishing any further information can obtain it by addressing his firm at Christiana.

NEW MANAGEMENT FOR OLD STORE.

The Spanish River Pulp and Paper Co., of Espanola, Ontario, has taken over the store business till recently carried on by H. E. Sheppard at Espanola. For the future management of this business the Spanish River Co. have in view a broader policy and scope than that on which it has hitherto been conducted, and this policy will be put into effect immediately.

THE LAW SAYS YOU MUST

Do you know that a man is obliged by law to keep a proper set of books?

The law says:

"Any man who fails and has not for five years before his failure kept proper books shall be liable to a fine of $800.00 and one year's imprisonment."

Since you must keep books of some sort, and as the law insists that you keep proper books, why not keep them properly?

It is just as easy to do a thing right as it is to do it wrong.

Business Systems mean absolute accuracy, and with less work than the old-style methods of bookkeeping.

Business Systems are not expensive to put in in the first place—the cost is in proportion to the size of the business, and they enable one clerk to do the work of two.

Business Systems allow your clerks to put their work before you in such shape that you can see at a glance how everything stands.

SODA-CRYSTALS (WASHING SODA)

Foreign Soda Crystals—and some of English manufacture—are being extensively offered for sale in this country which are grossly adulterated with Glauber-Salts (Sulphate of Soda), a cheap product which is not only entirely useless for washing purposes, but is even likely to injure the fabrics with which it comes in contact. The Adulterated Soda-Crystals, although nominally lower in price than BRUNNER MOND'S PURE SODA CRYSTALS, are in reality much dearer owing to the large quantity of useless and injurious matter which they contain.

ARE YOU AWARE

of the fact that we put up a Chutney Sauce which is admittedly the best sauce on the market? If you are not, let us make you aware of the fact. If you are, let us send you a shipment, for it is the one sauce no grocer can afford to be without. It possesses a piquancy and distinctive flavor which render it absolutely unique and the man who has not yet tasted it on cold roasts or hot steaks or chops, has missed a treat. It shows a good margin of profit and is in demand all over the world, amongst all classes of men. Place an order with your wholesaler at once, and insist on his giving you what you and your customers want. If he does not stock our Chutney Sauce, have him import it for you.

Pleasant Vacation!

The grocer who goes away on his vacation with a comfortable bank account has a pleasant time—and restful. One reason why he makes money is because he keeps his stock of goods seasonable. He carries what people want at just the time when they want to buy it. There are no dull times for him.

Take a vacation, gentlemen, but take it "feeling fit." Keep seasonable goods in stock and make some money by selling them. Three hints follow for your vacation trade.

Hints for Your Vacation Trade:

"Thistle" Canned Haddie

Caught, cured and canned right at the water's edge. No bone, dirt or slime in the "Thistle" Brand. Open a can yourself for the most convincing proof—they are all right at all times. Genuine Haddie only.

Stower's Lime Juice Cordial

Nothing but pure, freshly-squeezed Lime Juice and refined loaf sugar. No vegetable mucus or albumin substances or impurities in it. A delicious, cooling drink, all ready to serve with the addition of water.

"Taylor's" Candied and Drained Peels

Made in England from the best Corsican peels only. Prepared from finest selected whole fruits —not from fruit skins from which the essential oil has been extracted. Highest quality.

These words have controlled our business, because we were just as anxious about our reputation as any grocer could be. While this goes far towards explaining the popular demand for there are other reasons for the superiority of the popular brand which some merchants may overlook. Details, which other canners consider of no consequence, receive careful attention, and fruit and vegetables canned in our factory are never clear of the scrutiny of an expert until they are sealed up in the air-tight cans. Perhaps we do take extraordinary precautions, but the fame of and its popularity demand that much—no more, no less. Mr. Grocer! You know the women of Canada would not be so united in their insistence for Old Homestead Brand of canned goods if it were only a good brand. The demand for Old Homestead goods goes on increasing because the brand is incomparable.

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

Have you mailed your test order?

Drummers' Snack on Annual Frolic

Alton Welcomes Travelers on Their 6th Jamboree—An Immortal Outing and a Record-breaking Snack—A Mammoth Concert, An All-night Serenade, a Costume Procession and an Afternoon of Sports Were the Features—Mass Meeting of Drummers' Snack Club Held and New Officers Elected.

Laugh, and the world laughs with you:
Weep, and you weep alone.
For the dear old earth must borrow its mirth,
It has trouble enough of its own.

Now this is a true saying, and worthy of all acceptation, for in it lies the full, perfect and sufficient reason for the existence of the Drummers' Snack.

"To be great, one must have a history," says Monmouth sagaciously; "to have a history, one must have lived," he concludes a trifle obviously; and thus it is with the Drummers' Snack. They are great, for they have a history (not necessarily that it follows); they have a history because they have lived. Individually they have seen the world, and human nature has become to them as an open book. Collectively they are united, knit together in a bond of fellowship that shall endure with the sun. Of history they have no lack. The founding of their club was a performance unattended by civic authorities, destitute of hackneyed and stereotyped speeches, unnoticed by the world, lacking even the conventional corner-stone laid by a worshipful hand. But in the very modesty of its inception lies its present strength. Through its initial obscurity it has attained to the recognition that it enjoys to-day.

Seventeen years ago the Algie family, then in the general store and woolen mills business at Alton, Ont., made a practice of annually entertaining, at a two days outing held in the vicinity of the town, all the travelers who passed through Alton during the year. The boys had nothing to do but come. The Algie family did the rest. As the years went by, and more trabelers were added to the list the function became too large and unwieldy for the Algie's to handle, generous and open-homed as they were. The outing had by this time become an event to which a large proportion of the traveling world eagerly looked forward, and its popularity was proved by the clamour that arose at the first hint of abandonment. A club was formed and officers appointed to take charge of the outing, and the Drummer's Snack was fairly launched upon its career. To Billy Colville fell the honor of being its first president, and should one seek a reason for the club's phenomenal growth and prestige since the election of its first chief officer, it is but necessary to glance at the stamp of men who yearly since that date have been selected to watch over and direct its affairs. After Billy Colville came Jas. Cooper, Col. E. W. Moore, Bob Keys, Charlie Smith, and Jack Charles, and this year Mike Mal— but of that hereafter.

A Trainload of Smiles.

The sixth annual outing went to Alton on July 26. It returned 36 hours later. There is the bare statement. Here are the details.

On Friday evening the C.P.R. took on a trainload of assorted smiles at Toronto, picked up small quantities of similar freight at wayside stations dotted along the track, and three hours later disgorged the lot onto the Alton platform.

The noise began at once. There was no waiting: Sol Walters' voice was heard raised in hysterical enquiry for a short cut to the cyclone cellar. He was suppressed, and persuaded under pressure to fall in line with the procession. The Alton citizen's band, presided over by Cap. Alberton and Dr. Algie, headed by a profusely flagged and be-ribboned carriage, wherein Harry Coffen and does it matter what tune they played? Every man in the procession sang a different version of it, whatever it was. The net result, if not musically perfect, was at least harmoniously discordant. All Alton was at its doors, every ear was attuned to intercept those dulcet strains; every eye was levelled at the procession. The latter, proudly conscious of an exalted position, redoubled its efforts to give them something worth listening to. In this manner came the Drummer's Snack to Alton.

The Concert.

Long before eight o'clock, the hour set for the big concert, the mammoth tent was stretching itself to accommodate the audience. The tent itself is important enough to deserve a passing mention. Just an ordinary tent with no conceit about it at all, made of canvas and built with an eye to solidity rather than beauty. Many tender memories are associated with it by the members of the Drummers' Snack. Here is the home of the club, herein have the concerts been held from the beginning; herein not infrequently have slumbered many dozen of the elect. Staunchly it has withstood the elements for many years, and more exacting test than this has successfully weathered the sonorous snores of Mr. Walters and Jack Charles.

For once the expected came to pass. A general idea appeared to have circulated among the audience that something out of the ordinary was going to happen. But was anybody gifted with imagination sufficient to foresee the net result? If so, they were unfortunate in cheating themselves of the delights of anticipation. This is the programme presented by the Drummers' Snack for the critical appreciation of an audience prepared to be satisfied with anything:

Intermission, Selections by Alton Band.

The Piece de Resistance.

Followed the chief event of the evening. This was the production by the Hamilton branch of the Snack, of a pathetically-humorous plantation sketch, called "The Darkey's Dream," written especially for the club by their old and well-tried friend John B. Nelligan, and produced in Canada for the first time.

The four principal parts were taken by Bay Hill, Court Thompson, Col. John Stoneman, and Hy. Eckstien, but though they were conspicuously prominent, they didn't make an ounce more noise than the following promising bunch of amateur mummers:—Charley Drummers' Snack—The vice-president in kilts.

Smith, Vernon Smith, George Smye, Neil Pufford, Peter Smith, Bob Smith, Jas. Smith, Jack Smye, John Hooper, Ed. Zimmerman. To attempt to make any distinction among these last ten would be an abortive task, similar to splitting hairs. Let them be classed, as they would themselves desire—equally—neither with flattery nor derogatory remarks; only this must be said, they worked hard, they never wearied, they did their best, and it was a good best.

The Artists.

Bay Hill, the Hamilton Dockstader, Court Thompson, a disciple of Munion, by the great horn spoon, Col. John Stoneman, a master of the histrionic art, and Hy. Eckstien, who like Napoleon, does things without taking, carried individually in the highest degree the thunders of applause that again and again swept like a wave over the audience. John Kelligan must have been a proud man as he watched and listened to the way his work was produced, and heard the manner in which the audience received it. Songs, cake-walks and dances were liberally interspersed throughout the performance, and it is a safe bet that most of the actors surprised themselves as much as they such. The irrepressible Mr. Walters, gathering around him a choice band of dime novel desperadoes, and arming his little company with torches and instruments of music, descended upon Alton, as a young typhoon descends upon the luckless mariner. Barred doors and closed windows greeted them on every side. The inhabitants, having ascertain-leased the audience. The production of this play places us in a position flatly to contradict the rumour that the stage is going to the dogs.

Of the other artists who took part in the concert, special mention is almost impossible, everyone of them was vociferously encored, some more than once. The professional talent, represented by Miss Olive Belyea, Miss Bertha Crawford, Miss Hazel Bell, accompanist, Donald McGregor and Will J. White, gave their services for the evening freely and unconditionally. Will White, who was billed for only one song, gave nearly half-a-dozen. Charles Bodley was to have acted as accompanist, but upon his non-appearance, Miss Bell, who is herself a soprano of high note (top c, anyway) offered to officiate in his stead. The duet by Donald McGregor and Miss Belyea seemed somehow to catch the hearts of the audience, and a burst of clapping and cheering broke out as the last note died away. "God Save the King" was sung in unison by the whole audience standing before the gathering broke up, and the old canvas roof fairly crackled with the strains.

The Night's Work.

All the articles attaching to their persons that could be conveniently got rid of, such as wives, sweethearts, sisters, children, friends and other impediments, were now escorted by the members to the station and carefully returned to Orangeville, whence they re-appeared next day in time for the games, sports and other frivolities that characterized the passing of that Jewish sabbath.

But Friday night will not soon be forgotten in the annuals of the Snack Club. The man into whose mind entered even a thought of slumber was a traitor to the cause, and branded as ed by annual and bitter experience approximately what they might expect by attempting to parley with the enemy, have become at last wise in their generation, and upon such occasions as this, retire silently and with what dignity they can command at ten o'clock sharp. Sol, his faithful little band at his heels, took a brief review of the situation and commenced operations with a comprehensive serenade of the entire town. No quarter was given, though in some cases as much as fifty cents was offered to anyone who would remove the midnight Lotharios. The architecture of Alton was thoroughly analyzed, overhauled and replaced as nearly as possible in the same position. One or two of the band becoming hilariously hysterical were promptly resuscitated by Mr. Walters, who displayed a truly Napoleonic fortitude in the face of many discomfitures and rebuffs. About four a.m. the party attacked Bill Algie's house and announced their intention of remaining there for the night. Mr. Algie politely showed them into the kitchen, where about a score of their less energetic comrades-in-arms were already slumbering in peace.

The Snack in Session.

At 10 o'clock on Saturday a mass meeting of the club was held in the tent. Considering that it was the morning after the night before the attendance was very creditable. President John W. Charles occupied the chair, on his right and left hand, respectively, being F. C. Hunt, the Toronto secretary, and Robert Algie, of Alton, the home secretary.

M. P. Malone, the Hamilton secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting of the Snack, held several weeks ago in Hamilton to make arrangements for the present outing. They were confirmed. The president then informed the meeting that under ordinary circumstances the next item would be the treasurer's report, but the present circumstances being far from ordinary, owing to the absence of the treasurer, Bill Irwin, and his presence by proxy in the shape of a mass of incomprehensible figures, he found himself somewhat at a loss for the correct method of procedure. Having spent the whole morning trying to decipher them, he was now prepared to take the figures for granted coincident upon the accession of the meeting. The meeting was graciously pleased to access.

Followed a pause, which Mike Malone filled in a very timely manner by a short recitative descriptive of the way in which the expression "Sure Mike" had first been brought to his notice. It was a good story, but Mr. Malone made a mistake in trying to throw it at the meeting from the floor of the house. The house wouldn't stand for it and Mike had to take the platform.

Drummers' Snack—Part of the costume parade.

Robert Algie, who during the introduction of this extraneous matter had preserved a gravity, but ill according with his customary smile, now rose, and, with some hesitation informed the meeting of a partial victory over the mathematical mess of Bill Irwin, whose character and probable future, he declared himself willing, but unable to describe.

"As far as I can learn," said Mr. Algie, "the financial status of the club is on a very satisfactory basis. There is a handsome balance on the right side, our concert receipts last night having been considerable." Toronto secretary, F. C. Hunt, confirmed this estimate with a statement of the exact amount taken at the concert, giving the president an opportunity to rise and remind the members that the spirit of the Snack was to have a good time not to amass large profits financially.

A Vote of Thanks.

"While I'm talking," said President Charles, "I want to ask everyone here to pay tribute to Donald McGregor and Will White, and all the Hamilton men and lady artists, and to Charlie Leslie. We owe a big debt of gratitude also to that illustrious Dockstader, Bay Hill, and his enthusiastic helpers. His performance was unique in character and daring in enterprise." A vote of thanks to all these members, coupled with the name of John B. Nelligan, was proposed, seconded and unanimously adopted, while the canvas shook to the tune of "They are jolly good fellows."

Donald McGregor, Will White, Bay Hill, Bill Algie, John Nelligan and Col. Stoneman all replied to this evidence of appreciation according to their several temperaments. Some replied wittily, some modestly, some seriously and some humorously, but all enthusiastically and all characteristically. Will White with an air of great sacrifice, said he'd sooner miss a dog-fight than a Snack; that you couldn't bribe him to stay away, and that he'd be there next year as usual, ready to help in any way he could.

Bay Hill, who doesn't relish speech making, said that his feelings coincided in a remarkable manner with those of Mr. White and if it pleased the chair he would like to let it go at that. It didn't please the chair, so Bay added that the feature of the whole Snack which had appealed to him most was the harmonious and frictionless manner in which Hamilton and Toronto had worked together for a common interest, that it had been a great pleasure for him personally to do what he had done, and that he attributed the unique success of this entertainment to the members all having a definite object to work towards. Here he quoted some remarks of Bill Algie, who was promptly called upon to confirm or deny them. Mr. Algie started to speak of himself in a deprecatory manner, but was called to order with great sternness by the chair. Being driven to land on this tack, Mr. Algie put out on another one and referred with the deepest sympathy and respect to the memory of their old comrade and brother, Samuel E. Ryan, who was a prominent member of the Drummers' Snack Club and a favorite with everybody. Mr. Algie displayed to the members a handsome memorial, bound in black morocco and engrossed in gold lettering, "Condolence of the Drummers' Snack Club," whose preparation had been in the hands of Bob Algie. The memorial read as follows:

MRS. RYAN.

The members of the Drummers' Snack Club desire to place a tiny forget-me-not on the grave of your late husband and to express to you their united sympathy in your bereavement.

Our comrade and brother, Samuel E. Ryan, was a loved and loving husband, an affectionate father, a good citizen, and an honest man.

No nobler or grander epitaph can be inscribed on the greatest monument.

A life well lived ends well at any time. Your husband lived, he loved, he was loved. This fills the vase of joy. The longest life contains no more.

His old comrades in our social club will sadly miss his presence, which was always cordially welcomed, either as an officer, tried and trusted, or as a social companion, on the road, in the holiday camp, or at the festive board.

The gentle, loving hand of time will partly heal the wounds made by the grim sergeant, and we realize that "words are but empty barren sounds" which are utterly inadequate to express sympathy when death calls a dear one.

In the windowless Palace of rest all must in time sleep, and we who are daily traveling towards the end of life's journey extend our best wishes to you and yours.

Signed on behalf of the Club,

JNO. W. CHARLES,
President.

ROBERT ALGIE,
Secretary.

A vote of thanks to those responsible for this memorial was proposed and carried. Mr. Algie's concluding remarks were characteristic of the man's great heart and generosity. "I thank you all for coming to see us once again in the old place," he said, "and you all know that as long as there is a square foot of ground in my house, or a crust of bread in the larder, no one of you will ever have to go hungry. (Cheers). In concluding I must confess that this morning I stole a ham from the cyclone cellar to feed my 30 or 40 guests with. Having no defence I throw myself unreservedly upon the mercy of the court." Discharged.

A Few Remarks.

Jno. Nelligan, who was next called upon, spoke feelingly of the spirit of universal kindness, which was the key-note of the Snack. "The air of Alton is full of kindness," he said. "I'll try and write you something even better than "The Darkey's Dream' next year, and I think I can do it, because the objects for which I write will be an inspiration in themselves."

Col. Stoneman, M. P. Malone and Hy. Eckstein each said a few words, and Court Thompson was called out. Court proceeded in a dignified manner to the rostrum where he assumed the old Dr. Munion attitude. His listeners knew that one of the great truths of Dr. Munion was imminent, but there was no time for escape. "I've heard some of you people talking of shake-downs in Dr. Algie's house," he drawled, "Well," he continued with stern impressiveness, "I stayed out all night, and Dr. Munion says there is no punishment too great for those who neglect the afflicted."

Drummers' Snack—The Baby Show—The winner is in the go-cart.

The president called on the members for any criticisms or suggestions. A few were offered—tentatively—and—accepted—gracefully. A photograph was then taken of the meeting in session. The election of officers was next taken up, previous to which President Charles, in the course of a short address, spoke highly of the help rendered him by the members of the executive. "If I'd had an executive made to order," he said, "it couldn't have been improved upon."

The New President.

Col. Stoneman proposed M. P. Malone for the new president. Bob Keys seconded it and there being no dissenting voice, Mike was duly boosted to the platform. In his address of thanks, or welcome, or whatever it was, he remarked candidly:

"It is no cinch to be president of the Snack Club. It means hard work and lots of it. But I think that to be president of such a bunch as I see below me is well worth a little trouble. I know you all. If I didn't I wouldn't take the office. But you'll all turn out and work for the Snack of 1908 as unselfishly, as generously, and as enthusiastically as you did for the Snack of 1907. Another thing, I'm following a hard man—a popular man, a man who made last year the most enthusiastic president we ever had. I refer to Jack Charles, and I don't expect to beat him. But with your help we'll give the Snack of 1908 as little cause as possible to blush with shame by comparison with that of this year. Gentlemen, I thank you for the honor you have done me."

On the proposal of Bill Colville, an enthusiastic vote of thanks was tendered J. W. Charles for having made the Snack of 1907 the greatest in the history of the club.

For Next Year's Snack.

The following officers were then elected:

Vice-president (an office created for the first time after some discussion)—F. C. Hunt, Toronto.

Hamilton secretary—Bay Hill.

Toronto secretary—Robert Asher.

Home secretary (elected by acclamation)—Bob Algie. Mr. Algie also assumes the duties of treasurer. He does the work anyway and might as well get the title.

Auditors—Peter Smith, Hamilton, and Will Meen, Toronto.

Hamilton executive—George Smye, Hy. Eckstein, Bob Smith, Court Thompson, Col. John Stoneman, Jas. Hooper and Chas. Smith.

Toronto executive—J. Wildfong, W. Meen, Sol. Walters, D. McGregor, W. J. White, N. Oakley, Jno. W. Charles, G. Campbell, T. Gloster, F. C. Hunt, Robt. Keys.

The following were created honorary members—Jno. B. Nelligan, Ben Arthur, Chas. Leslie, B. McIntosh, of the Central Business College, Toronto; Alex. Earle, of Creemore, and Donald McGregor.

Amos Mason and Ross MacKenzie were made assistants to the secretary. Before the meeting closed, Bob Asher was presented with Bill Colville's prize for having sold the most buttons. Bob sold 32, and said it was pie. Snack buttons cost $1 each and entitle the owner to full membership in the club.

As the final wind-up to the meeting, William Algie recited a poem by Robt. W. Service, author of "Songs of a Sour Dough." The poem, which was called "The Cremation of Sam M'Ghee," was of a humorous persuasion, and made a great hit.

The Procession.

Lunch was served to all who had appetites, by the ladies of the Presbyterian Church, in the Science Hall. One paid 25 cents and ate all one could. The fare was extraprdinarily good value for the money, but this may have been on account of the ladies relying on the well-known generosity of all travelers to come forward at a slightly advanced price over the one asked. Their expectations, if they entertained any, were gratified many-fold. The boys dived into their pockets and wouldn't take any change.

Drummers' Snack—Members and friends in Wm. Algie's grounds.

After lunch, came an event from which the writer, for one, has barely recovered. From the hill-top floated the strains of sad music, and down the street there swung a procession, so marvellous in composition, so unique in character, that one regrets the paucity of the English language as a medium of description. Most of the spectators are now happily reported to be convalescent, but many of them suffered severely. A glance at the accompanying photograph will give the unprivileged outsider a faint, vague, and shadowy idea of the reality. Observe the illustrous Mr. Sol Walters, consider that he was by no means the most picturesque of that outrageous company, and in time you may train your mind to comprehend in a dim way why Galbraith, the photographer, is taking a forced holiday from business. To his credit be it said that he flinched not from the call of duty, but with clenched teeth and ashy countenance exposed his plate and staggered back to the cyclone cellar.

When the kilted processionists reached the sport's field, a baseball game was immediately arranged between a picked team from Toronto and Hamilton. It lasted most of the afternoon, and considering the strict impartiality with which Col. Stoneman and Bay Hill handed out their decisions, was remarkably devoid of friction. Jack Charles, by lashing out a magnificent home-run in the last inning, secured the fruits of victory for the Toronto IX. The score was 13 to 11. Each member got a box of Old Abe cigars and Jack Charles, as captain, a tiny silver cup on a mahogany stand. The winners declared that the referees had conducted the game in an able manner.

The teams were as follows:—

Toronto :—Jack Charles, captain, Bob Asher, F. C. Hunt, Tommy Gloster, Jack Wildfong, Bill Meen, Pud Oakley, A. R. Fraser.

Hamilton :—Bob Smith, captain, Geo. Smye, Hy. Eckstien, Billy Miles, Fat Gufford, Court Thompson, Bill Wark, Slim Arthurs, Ed. Nally.

Meanwhile the games and sports were in full progress. The Sport's Committee consisted of Wm. Colville, chairman; Col. Stoneman, referee; R. Asher and P. Smith, entry clerks. The committee were as follows :—William Irwin, Court Thompson, William Meen, E. F. Clarke, Bob Keys, Guy Long and Sol Walters.

The Sports.

All the sports and competitions were pulled off in fine style, and reflect great credit on the management. The following list of the various events with their winners, wherever it was possible to ascertain who were the winners, fairly represents the large scale upon which the whole programme was conducted. Competitors in most of the events were almost too numerous to admit of perfect handling. Sol Walters, smitten with the idea that he would like to help the committee, being one of them himself, succeeded in making himself recognized to the extent of being on nine separate occasions forcibly removed from the grounds. But nothing could daunt that indomitable spirit, and Sol was never far away from the centre of action. When last seen he was making for Orangeville, in his wake an infuriated mob of fellow-competitors, who with arms raised to heaven were calling the very firmaments to witness that through the strategical ingenuity (only they didn't put it like that) of the man they were pursuing, they had been wrongfully defrauded of their just rights.

It appears that Sol had stolen a march on them in one of the races, by rushing out of the crowd into the course when the judges were looking at other people's sisters and finishing a yard or two ahead of the legitimate winner. So let us leave him, with best wishes for his success if he was captured, and condolences for his pursuers if he escaped.

Envoie.

So let us take our leave of the Drummers' Snack. With a royal send-off that came straight from the hearts of the people of Alton, with a last cheer sent ringing back along the rails from the men and women in the vanishing train, a memorable outing was at an end, and another frolic added to the credit of the Snack.

And if, as Stevenson asserted, it is the duty of all men to be happy, surely this organization is fulfilling that duty in the highest degree. "A club of men formed in the interests of clean mirth, of honorable enjoyment and of mutual service to one another, cannot well fail of success, and if the future of the Drummers' Snack Club is to be measured even proportionately by its past and present work, in after years a great body of men is destined to arise, whose motto, "Laugh and grow fat," will echo through the trackless wastes of the Siberian desert, and tickle the risibilities of the humble Esquimaux in the bleak solitude of his frozen home.

Short Snacks.

The president wore kilts. He's Scotch anyway.

As usual the star feature of the games was Bill Colville's Comfort Soap race.

Fred Hunt, the vice-president, came in third in more races than anyone.

Jack Charles cannot be beaten as a chairman. He knows how to keep things moving.

Many of the boys were inquiring for Walter Armstrong, editor of The Canadian Grocer, who was away on his vacation.

What would a Snack be without Sol. He looked immense in kilts and used a broom for a sporan.

The Snack resembled one huge, happy family picnic. The verdict returned was "The best ever!" There will be no appeal.

Will White, former member of the executive, now living in Vermillion, Alberta, was wired the regrets of the club at his absence.

* * *

Jack Wildfong, of Gordon Mackay, a director of the Commercial Travelers' Association, was on hand early. It was Jack's first visit, but he says he'll never miss a snack again.

The bonfire and freworks display which were held after the concert made a fit ending to a glorious night. As a home secretary, Bob Algie has them all skinned. He forgets nothing.

Some members of the defeated baseball team were unkind enough to say that the Colonel's knowledge of the game antedated the new rules. And yet his decisions were perfectly satisfactory to the winners. Incomprehensible!

* * *

A telegram was received by Bob Algie from George Nicholson, familiarly known as Big Nick. Nick was in Vancouver, B.C., and wrote "Sorry not with you. Success is my wishes to all."

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. F. J. White, of Melagama Tea, were interested spectators of the games. Bill Meen, who travels for Melagama, was very much to the fore in the races. He won several firsts.

* * *

Mike Malone, the new president, has his work cut out for him for next year's snack. This one was so good. But everyone knows Mike, and when the time comes he'll deliver the goods.

Nowhere is there anybody just like Bert Menzies. During the Friday night serenade he kept the town alive and sleepless by pounding the kettle drum. He made up in energy what he lacked in artistic feeling.

The Blue Ribbon Tea hockey-broom match, under the able direction of George Campbell was an unqualified success. Many brooms were broken, but no skulls. The single ladies won fittingly by a single goal.

Col. E. E. W. Moore, whose kindly presence was so greatly missed at the snack, telegraphed to Jack Charles:

Drummers' Snack—Bay Hill, the Hamilton Dockstader.

"Sorry, cannot be with you. Best wishes for record snack." That his wish came true is now ancient history.

* * *

Bay Hill, the Hamilton Dockstader, was largely responsible for the success of the concert. Bay was made up as an old nigger, and acted, as well as looked, the part. With Bay Hill and Bob Asher as the Hamilton and Toronto secretaries, the success of the next snack is already assured. They are untireable.

Drummers' Snack—The members in session.

Bill Colville, as a games starter and general sports director, holds the belt. He is energy personified.

John B. Nelligan surpassed himself in "The Darkey's Dream." But he says he can write something better for next year's snack.

CLEAN PRODUCTION.

"The English have many religions," a witty Frenchman once observed, "but only one sauce." If this gentleman had studied at all closely English manners and customs, he would have found that sauces were just as numerous and varied as the religions. Among the most popular of these various brands, however, Mason's O.K. Sauce occupies a strong place, its qualities of excellence being recognized wherever used. A peculiar fact in connection with its manufacture is that the ingredients used come from all parts of the world. The factory itself is a point of interest to the visitor, who is always welcome. The bottling pans, for instance, are all of white enamel and the scouring and thorough washing of the bottles by modern machines is also interesting. Indeed, the company's works at Chelsea might justly be termed an almost model factory. As a result of the purity and excellence thus secured and by a judicious advertising campaign, the sauce has secured an enviable reputation.

GROCERY NEWS FROM ATLANTIC TO PACIFIC

IN THESE COLUMNS THE GROCER IS IN TOUCH WITH THE TRADE IN EVERY PART OF CANADA.

CONTRIBUTIONS ARE INVITED FROM MERCHANTS IN SMALL PLACES OR WHERE THERE IS NOT A REGULAR CANADIAN GROCER CORRESPONDENT.

GALT.

Business is brisk in grocery circles at the present time. The fruit season has commenced, and everything points to one of the most successful seasons on record. The strawberry season, which is just over, has been shorter than in previous years, and the price higher. It is an undoubted fact that strawberries are not grown in the western part in such quantities as are produced in the eastern portions. Your correspondent recalls the time when he resided in the vicinity of the Bay of Quinte, when strawberries of excellent quality could be obtained for four cents per box in unlimited quantities. The market days would bring thousands of crates to be disposed of, and this in spite of the fact that canning factories were very numerous and made a strong bid for the supply. There are no canning factories of importance in western Ontario, and yet the fact remains that strawberries this year never reached a lower figure than 7 cents per box. It is quite possible that the climate in this portion of Ontario may have some effect on the price, but this fact should not account for the great difference in price. Probably the main reason for the western Ontario prices is the law of supply and demand.

Everybody in Galt is getting ready for the Old Boys' Reunion on August 7, 8 and 9, and any former resident of Galt who may peruse this notice is heartily invited to come and bring his friends. Among the attractions will be eleven first-class bands, half a dozen vaudeville companies, an Eastern League baseball match between Toronto and Buffalo, lacrosse and football matches, parades, etc. The town will be beautifully decorated, the merchants taking an active part in the reunion arrangements.

A local merchant, in conversation with your correspondent to-day, made mention of the report of the Retail Merchants' convention in Hamilton given by The Grocer. "In addition to the excellent report," he said. "and the benefit we derived from reading it, it gives us a very clear idea of the value of a Retail Grocers' Association in Galt." The speaker referred particularly to the address given by John C. Green, secretary of the National Association of Retail Grocers in the United States. "I wish," he said, "that every grocer in Canada could read that address. It was full of sound practical advice, and would do more for the grocery trade in general than any amount of moralizing."

Allan Deans, of the firm of Deans & Walker, was asked to-day if Galt had ever been troubled with the trading stamp nuisance. "Yes," he said, "there was a time when this trade destroyer took possession of certain establishments in Galt, but luckily the parties saw their danger, and the scheme was dropped. It has been many years now since the trading stamp was in vogue in Galt, and I sincerely hope that it has been dealt a death blow."

In spite of the agitation that once promised speedy results, the clerks in Galt still work every day and all day long during the hot summer weather. It was owing to the action of a number of so-called public-spirited citizens that the scheme did not materialize. There are a certain class of merchants in Galt, and in every other town and city, too, who, rather than close their stores for half a day, would rather think of remaining open on Sundays. Such are the citizens who are not missed when the sword of fate swings in their direction.

Joseph Zuccaro, the genial Italian fruit vendor, still makes his weekly trips to the surrounding villages to supply the inhabitants with fresh fruit. Since his last escapade with a monster groundhog Joseph refuses to travel the unfrequented wilds without a companion.

The Galt Saturday market was largely attended and the buying was brisk. New potatoes made their first appearance and were sold at 45c. per bushel. New carrots, beets, etc., were also much in evidence. Egge and butter were each 20c., while scattered quantities of strawberries could not be obtained at less than two boxes for 25c.

The grocers in Galt are much interested in the action of the Customs Department in ordering that all tea under 10 cents in value be admitted for analysis by the tea testing department. The local grocers feel that the action will result in cleansing the market of all impure brands.

HAMILTON.

The boom in this good town grows apace. New industries are cropping up all over the city and real estate is going higheri all the time. Hamilton is reaching out for a hundred thousand population in a short time and I guess we will get there. Business in all lines is brisk. The old established firms in dry goods, boots and shoes, hardware, etc., are not meeting with any new competition, but in groceries it is different. Wherever a lot of new houses are built, a corner is left for a grocery, and it is usually taken up as soon as the building is finished, so that the competition in this line is keener than ever. A good deal of comment is made by the older grocers on the ease with which these new comers receive a line of credit from the wholesale houses, and the only remedy seems to be a better organization, that would be able to enter a protest against the setting up of new stores in districts where the business is already overdone. A man with two or three hundred dollars finds no trouble in securing a stock of from five hundred to a thousand dollars in a few months, and in rare cases only, does he ever succeed in getting from under the domination of the house that started him. This is one of the grave situations that the independent grocer has to meet, and it seems to me that nothing but united effort will stop the wholesaler from running supply stores.

Our genial grocery travelers are now taking their annual holidays, and the retail men miss them very much. We really do not appreciate these good fellows until the holiday season is on—and then we are lonely without them. They are all out now for a good time, "Jimmie" Price the stalwart of the party has recovered from his recent illness and he is making the most of his leisure moments. Alex. Fraser is looking after the Red Mill, and in spare hours catching black bass at the beach. George Corley as usual is talking about his dogs, which are the pride of the west end. Gow and Stratton are away and Billie Ortton is looking brighter than ever. Hamilton's grocery travelers are a lot of bright young fellows and are much liked by the trade.

Our market, the best in Canada, is now in for fruit in good earnest, hundred of crates of raspberries and currants being on sale. Early peaches, tomatoes, celery, and all the good things of the season are now coming in, but this year they are from 50 to 100 per cent. dearer than last, so the man with a small income finds it considerably harder this year to put up fruit than ever before. That old bugbear the cost of living too, is staring most of us in the face and making us wish for an increase in salary, and to the dealer a wonder if it would be possible to get a little more profit on the goods sold.

The big convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen will meet here early next month. 3,000 delegates are expected, and elaborate preparations are being made for their entertainment.

Hamilton grocers are very proud of the success of their picnic and very nice things are being said about the capable chairman, James Main, and the grocers think he is the best yet. It is proposed to ask the mayor to present him with the freedom of the city. The returns of the outing are not all in as yet, but it is hoped that the affair was a financial success. Great credit is due the G.T.R. and the T.H. & B. Railway Co.'s for the able manner in which they handled the immense crowds.

LONDON.

Lind, Kerrigan & Co. are now moving into their new warehouse, the premises on Clarence Street just vacated by Gorman, Eckert & Co., and by Monday next expect to be fully settled there. It is just about six years since this firm started in business and in that time their trade has grown to such dimensions as to rank them among the leading wholesale grocers of Ontario. For some time they have been seriously handicapped through being obliged to operate three separate warehouses. This has now been overcome as in their new quarters they have the finest wholesale grocery warehouse in Western Ontario with a floor space of over 35,000 square feet and the best of shipping facilities. In addition the warehouse is located quite close to the G.T.R. passenger station, a convenience of no small importance to customers from outside places. The firm will have a thoroughly equipped spice mill and be thus enabled to grind and prepare their own spices. With improved facilities, Lind, Kerrigan & Co. may be expected to speedily push further in the front, for their enterprise is of a character that will not stand still.

Gorman, Eckert & Co. are now pretty well installed in their new premises in the east end of the city, extended reference to which was made some time ago. Here they have facilities that are up-to-date in every particular, and their increased success is assured.

Local retailers are discussing among themselves the advisability of holding a big picnic next summer in which all the grocers of Western Ontario might join. There is somewhat of a divergence of view on the subject. For instance, President Harry Ranahan, of the Retail Grocers' Association, is greatly struck with the idea and thinks such an outing would have excellent effect in bringing those in the trade to this part of the province together in a social way. On the other hand, Mr. Ed. Ryan, a prominent member of the association, is of opinion that a better plan would be to combine business and pleasure and make a convention of grocers the main feature of such an outing. By this means there could be an exchange of views on matters of interest to the trade and the presence of ladies would add to the social enjoyment, and this suggests the question whether or not affiliation with a provincial association would be of advantage to the grocers of London.

Grocery travelers are all off on their holidays, and will give the retailers a rest for two weeks. Meantime mail orders are coming in in fair numbers.

Discussing the sugar situation this morning a local grocery broker declared sugar to be a greater mystery than ever. "So much doubt is there as to the tendency of prices" said he, "that no one can tell whether sugar will go up or down, and for that reason dealers are buying merely from hand to mouth, and in view of the poor supply and high prices of small fruits, their needs are by no means large for this time of year." Brokers' advices show an advance of 1c per lb. for low priced grades and fine are very firm. All seem to have an advancing tendency.

The local grocers spent a most enjoyable afternoon at Springbank on Wednesday last. The baseball match between the storekeepers and clerks resulted in a win for the former, the score being 12 to 11. The presentation of prizes to the handsomest grocer and clerk also took place. The last Wednesday in August will see the close of the mid-week half holiday and the grocers will mark the occasion with a grand field day at Springbank, where a programme of sports will be carried out.

* * *

Among the bowlers who attended the annual tournament of the Western Ontario Bowling Association the week before last were quite a number of grocerymen, and to a grocery broker belong the distinction of winning premier honors. James S. McDougall, of this city, skipped the rink that won the Labatt trophy, the blue ribbon of Canadian bowling honors, which now becomes the property of the London Rowing and Bowling Club, they having won it the necessary three times. On two occasions Mr. McDougall acted as skip and was a member of the other winning London rink. No other bowler in America has such a record.

CHATHAM.

The scarcity of fruit, mention of which was made last week, still continues. Raspberries are scarce, such as do come in readily selling at 15 to 20 cents per box. Other fruits are just as scarce. As a result, sales of sugar are largely affected, that article being much slower this year than for many years past. It looks, also, as if grocers would have to carry over a good share of their stock of jars till next year

St. Clair St. is to have yet another grocery. The latest aspirant is Chris. Farrell, who has purchased the building for some time past occupied as a meat shop by R. I. Weaver. Mr. Farrell intends to move the old building several blocks up, to face on Lowe St. He will make quite a few improvements to the building, put a brick foundation under it, and start a grocery. Farrell thinks that the advent of the Wolverine Brass Works to the vicinity and the opening up of the McKeough property into building lots will considerably widen the present St. Clair St. field. Mr. Weaver moved into his now premises on Monday.

On Monday last, W. M. Murdock, Gray St., disposed of his grocery business to A. L. Cummings. During his residence in this city, Mr. Murdock has made many friends, and has proven himself a shrewd and progressive business man. He leaves shortly for New Ontario, where he has considerable interests. The new purchaser formerly traveled in the interests of the I.O.F. and has resided in this city for a couple of years past.

Grading on the C.W. & L.E. extension to Lake Erie is progressing rapidly, and is now practically completed to Cedar Springs. Within the city, the Raleigh St. branch has been completed, and the first car crossed the G.T.R. tracks on Thursday night. The car will be used south of the track in connection with the construction work. The laying of the ties south of the G.T.R. is progressing rapidly.

The city has instructed City Solicitor Lewis to enter an appeal against the decision of Magistrate Houston regarding the transient trader case against Benjamin Brody. The magistrate, it will be remembered, dismissed Brody on the ground that the $100 license fee was a prohibitory one. An appeal has now been entered, and the case will come up at the divisional court in Toronto some time in September. The outcome will be of widespread interest, as settling the question of what a "prohibitive" license fee is.

At the Baptist parsonage, Wallaceburg, on Thursday afternoon, Robt. J. Broad, formerly of Jos. E. Capman's butcher shop and now traveler for the Canadian Packing Co., of London, was united in marriage to Miss Eva Crombie of Chatham. On their return from a wedding trip up the lakes, Mr. and Mrs. Broad will take up their residence on Forest St., Chatham.

The residence of John O'Mullin, the Taylor Ave. grocer, was struck by lightning during a storm Wednesday afternoon. The bolt brought down considerable plaster, and Mrs. O'Mullin suffered somewhat from the shock.

R. O. Knight drove out through the country to Kent Bridge last week. He reports that crops in that vicinity are looking splendid, having been helped materially by recent showers.

"Beans," said the ex-grocer, "are not much of a crop, as they were put down and out by the recent frost. Wheat, wherever there is any, is only fair, and much of the crop is already being cut. Oats are now coming along very nicely, although it was feared they would be affected by the long drought. Corn and barley are both splendid crops. Everything considered, I think the farmers have every reason to feel satisfied at the prospect."

In reference to the fruit crop, Hugh Malcolmson, president of the Kent Canning Co. stated the other day that the season for canning fruit should just be opening up, and the canners just beginning to get busy. Instead, the factories in which Mr. Malcolmson is interested have about 40 per cent. of their work for this year already done. The strawberry season is already over, and the canners can see the end of the season coming pretty close this year. Mr. Malcolmson has 340 acres of field corn, however, which is looking the very best, and which will give a good and satisfactory yield.

Gaspar Tavata, the Italian fruit vendor, who left the city some months ago as a result of being mixed up in a scrap with a rival, Zakoor, returned last week. He has squared things with his lawyer and his securities, and has purchased a house and lot on Queen St. where he intends opening a fruit store.

The Wallaceburg sugar factory has closed down for a couple of months, until fall, when the beet campaign will open. The company will, during the summer, erect an immense warehouse for the storing of dried beet pulp, and will double the capacity of the pulp drying equipment, as this product is now in ready demand as a stock food.

A canning factory is to be erected on Pelee Island, the municipality giving the industry financial aid.

The warm weather of the past two weeks has put a different aspect upon the tobacco question in Kent. Most of the farmers are through with transplanting for this season's crop. Many have begun hoeing, some are through for the first hoeing, and a few have commenced to hoe a second time. It is no difficult matter to hear some of the farmers talking of tobacco that is six to eight inches high or better. But so far as my observation goes tobacco that stands, on an average, six inches high would be a very good average, and for the time the tobacco has been set I think that would show a good growth.

Reports from South Kent state that the crop outlook is 100 per cent. more encouraging than a month ago, the various crops promising much better than was expected.

Beans are coming along finely, and only depend upon the weather not being too dry to make this, the crop for which South Kent is famous, quite up to the usual mark. Vegetables are away behind previous years; and potatoes are half the usual crop.

G. E. Smith, one of the best known fruit growers on the Lake Shore, lost his life in a shocking accident at Cedar Springs Saturday afternoon. He was engaged in loading wheat when he was struck either by a disengaged pulley or by the taut rope. He died about an hour afterward without regaining consciousness. Mr. Smith was about 70 years of age.

After ten years of successful business in Dresden, Baxter & Son have disposed of their bakery to Nelson Perry & Sons, of Courtright. The new proprietors take possession Sept. 1st. "Ab" Baxter was a leading spirit in Dresden baseball circles, and will be greatly missed.

J. Elgie has purchased the butcher business at Dresden formerly conducted by W. P. Forshee.

Chas. Jeffrey, of Blenheim, whose grocery was recently visited by fire, is conducting a big "slaughter fire sale" with quite a few conspicuous bargains.

Mrs. Pauline Peck, carrying on business at Jeannette's Greek, near here, as a general merchant under the name of F. C. Peck & Co., made an assignment last week to G. W. Sulman of this city, for the benefit of her creditors. The creditors' meeting will be held at the offices of Wilson, Pike & Gundy, assignee's solicitors, on Aug. 9.

Geo. Irwin Mackenzie and John A. Mackenzie, who under the firm name of Mackenzie Bros., have been carrying on business here for a year or more as confectioners, on Tuesday morning made an assignment to bailiff C. J. Moore. There are some 20 claims against the firm. The assets are reported to be inconsiderable. The creditors' meeting will be held here on Aug. 12.

GUELPH.

The fall wheat harvest started around here in earnest this week. H. W. Ironsides, merchant at Schaw Station, states that he has his harvested and that it shocked up well.

Jos. Harris, the popular head clerk of the Noted Tea Store and China Palace, returned on Saturday after a week's well-earned rest.

The market Saturday was again slimly attended by the farmers. Butter and eggs again advancing in price. Eggs from 20 to 22 cents and butter quite firm at 20 to 23 cents. The fruit market also was poorly attended and the fruit being scarce, the prices were kept up. Cherries brought as high as $1.50 a basket and raspberries 15 cents a box. The Hamilton men refusing to take orders for this week at anything less than 15 cents for raspberries.

The Salesmen and Clerks' Association report a balance in the wrong direction of $25 on the excursion to Hamilton, and are going to give an afternoon and evening programme of sports, etc., in the Exhibition Park on the 15th of August, which is expected to put them in good shape again.

Tuesday's fruit market was again limited to two loads which were picked up quick. Cherries bringing $1.30 and raspberries dropping ½ cent less than Saturday. Cucumbers were only 50 cents a basket for the first time this season.

The new postal delivery system in Guelph is still sleeping at this end of the line. The Government are ready, but our city council have not the streets numbered, or, in fact, named properly in some cases. With such good grocers as Aldermen McCrea and Simpson, and several other merchants in the council who are noted for their business ability, we should expect a better showing.

A new idea is being tried by J. D. Moore, of Waterloo and Galt, of supplying the trade with butter, eggs and cheese, sending a waggon through once a week, on a Friday. But it is not likely to be a success here in the summer time, as far as butter and eggs are concerned, especially on a Friday, as the grocers are glad to have their stock low for Saturday. We never have what you would call a great scarcity of either with the telephones and trains so handy, also so many small towns to draw from in this neighborhood. We wish them success, however.

KINGSTON.

The Kingston Old Boys of Ottawa held an excursion to their old home so full of history last week. They enjoyed themselves and went home feeling happier for the visit.

The Kingston Old Boys' Club of Toronto sent fifteen coaches and filled up the old Limestone City. What hugging, kissing and handshaking of fathers, mother there was, of sisters, brothers, and sweethearts. No city, large or small, opens her arms wider or has a warmer heart to receive its children, even prodigals, than the dear old city of maples.

The Grocer of last week was a spicy edition and a vote of thanks and some fruit is due the staff for bringing Winnipeg's Pure Food Show before us. I am sure every merchant spent an hour looking at the fine cuts of exhibits and of some of the leading men of the day connected with the trade.

* * *

H. S. Putnam of North Dakota, is home on a visit. He first worked for the late Mr. Hawkins of Seely's Bay, afterwards with J. Gilbert, then with D. J. Laidlaw, dry goods merchant. He has prospered in the west and intends going back to Grand Forks, where he intends taking a divinity course.

Grant Pyke, the great strawberry man, has been on the sick list. He finds it difficult to get good help. He has had an enormous crop. D. B. Gage, grocer, of Montreal Road, is doing a good business. He owns a good horse and rubber-tired runabout, and employs it.

James Lawless, a new beginner in the grocery line, is a hustler. He is working up a good trade.

Larry Murphy, the cheese king, reports cheese steady. He expects higher prices as the prospects for hay are very poor.

"Can't get enough new potatoes to fill orders," is the cry of all the grocers here this week. "And the old boys coming, what will we do?" They are selling here for $1 a bushel. All other fruits are plentiful. Beans, peas, carrots, beets, turnips, celery, etc. Kalamazoo celery comes in all heated and does not keep..

What a difference there is in the prices some firms charge on the same goods. I sent to Toronto and got a case of lemons, $5.50 and freight, $5.75, laid down. My clerk got a better quality of lemons from a local house for $4.75. I felt like 9 cents.

PETERBORO.

E. F. Mason & Co. have started to advertise and each Tuesday will offer special prices on certain lines of goods. The first bargain day was last Tuesday and it was very successful.

The representative of the Retail Merchants' Association was in the city a few days ago collecting the annual membership fees. He called on all the members and the majority of them maintained their connection with this worthy organization. An effort was made by several officers of the local organization to have an executive meeting called for the purpose of having a local agent appointed, as it was felt that he could secure many new members and at the same time work up enthusiasm among the merchants to a greater extent than an outside man would do. The president of the local association, however, did not take this view and did not call a meeting. As a result the society is short in the annual revenue. There are a few merchants in the city who are interested in the work of the Retail Merchants' Association and would do and are doing all they can to advance its interests, but they are handicapped by a few non-enthusiasts in the organization who are content to stay in the old rut.

For some time the people of the city have been complaining about the high prices asked for butter and eggs on the Peterboro market. Last Saturday the market opened at 20c., but dropped to 19c., and a few to 18c. Even at these prices the people are paying too much, and are paying more than they are asked at the stores. For more than two weeks the ruling prices at the stores have been 17c. and 18c., and yet the citizens go to the market and encourage the farmers to keep the price on the local market as high or higher than it is on the Montreal or Toronto markets. The grocers in the city are doing the best they can to keep the prices down. They buy in the country in large quantities and sell them at a cent or two less than the farmers ask. But the farmers get so much on the market that they will not sell to the grocers at any less, thus keeping the price up all around. A fair price for eggs during the spring, summer and early fall would be 15c., but not more than that, and the people should refuse to pay any more. A well-known housewife said, when spoken to, "How do we know that the stores are selling fresh eggs at 17c. or 18c. I for one never see an advertisement in the paper from the grocers and I haven't time to run from one store to the other until I find those selling at the lowest price. I read the papers and am always watching for advertisements, but when the grocers do not advertise eggs at 17c. or 18c., I naturally suppose they are charging the same as the farmers."

Your correspondent happened to walk into P. Connal & Son's store the other afternoon and found Jos. Connal busy turning out several batches of coffee. He was stocking up so he could get away to the lakes to spend a couple of weeks' holidays. Mr. Connal has been roasting and blending his own coffee for many years. He learned the business from his father and by good, hard study, and as a result he is to-day one of the best coffee men in the province. He not only knows how to roast and blend coffee, but he is well versed in green coffees and can buy to advantage. Then by his knowledge of this important branch of the grocery business he is in a position to give the public better coffee, a greater variety of coffees, and he saves considerable money, which, at the end of the year, amounts to a good sum.

In speaking of the grocers roasting their own coffee, Mr. Connal said he could not too strongly advocate it. He has made a success of it, and would not buy coffee from the wholesale men, as the great majority of retail men do, for anything. In the first place, he said, the man who does his own roasting,— saves at least five cents a pound. He knows what he is selling to his customers and he can cater to their individual tastes. For instance, one person likes one blend and another likes something else. One likes it strong with a dark color, and another likes a medium coffee with a nice amber color. Once a customer gets a coffee that is satisfactory, he can continue to give the same article. The grocer who buys coffee already roasted cannot depend upon getting the same thing a second time, and he is not in a position to make up a new blend, as he knows nothing about it.

Coffee is harder to handle than tea in many respects. There are so many grains that resemble each other in size and appearance that a cheap grain might very easily be bought for an expensive grain and the difference would not be detected until the goods were sold and the customers began to kick. The roasting is a difficult proposition, too, as it is hard to get a batch turned out just right. If a batch, which is usually about 40 pounds, is done a little too much it is lost. If it is under done it is also lost and at, say 50c. a pound, it means $20. But when a man can turn his coffees out right every time he will make money.

Between Toronto and Montreal there are probably only three men roasting their own coffee, one in Kingston and two in Peterboro, Mr. Connal and Mr. Hamilton. Others have made enquiries about it, but the only way to learn the trade is to get with someone who understands it. Reading books and letters are no good. It requires practical knowledge, but once it is accomplished it means money.

WOODSTOCK.

Wild raspberries are beginning to appear on the market. The season promises to be a good one for this fruit of which immense quantities are cultivated throughout this district. Haying is about finished. The crop on the whole was a good average one. Complaints are made that the oat crop is almost ruined, apparently by a blight. One explanation is that it has been attacked by a little green bug. Whatever it is, it has done an immense amount of damage. "I haven't seen a decent piece of wheat left in the whole district," said one man who has been traveling extensively.

Grocers generally report that the present season has been a very good one. Trade has been up to the average and times are good, so that they have not had to worry about collections more than usual. If they all adopted the cash system, they wouldn't need to worry at all. It is difficult in the hot summer months to keep a store looking clean and tidy, but for the sake of the statement of receipts at the end of the month it must be done. There is too much of a tendency to let things slide, to get along with as little work as possible, and the result is, if this inclination is yielded to, that the premises soon look dirty and the stock unappetizing. This soon has its effect with discriminating people, who will at once look for a new place at which to deal. A grocer who wishes to hold his trade must not relax his efforts during the hot summer months. That is just the time he must put forth unusual efforts to hold his trade. His efforts will be well rewarded. People appreciate what is done for their benefit, even if they do pay for it.

Another thing grocers may do to attract summer trade is to keep on hand a supply of fruits in season, fresh and palatable. These will attract custom just as surely as will live newspader advertising.

NOTES.

Halliday & Carlisle have bought out the dry goods and grocery business of J. E. Brooks & Son, Indian Head, Saskatchewan.

White & Co. have received three cars Texas, Elberta peaches in six-basket crates. Prices range from $2.25 to $2.75 per crate.

J. J. Pickup, for two years connected with Shaw T. Nishamura, Montreal, has joined J. L. Watt & Scott, Toronto, and will look after their Japan tea business.

Canadian trade with the Antipodes continues to expand. The Steele, Briggs Co., Toronto, shipped a large order of Scotch green peas to a firm in New Zealand last week.

The arrivals of California fruit the past week totalled five cars, all of which were handled by auction.. All varieties are in keen demand, owing to the scarcity of local fruit. Pears sold $3.25 to $3.50; plums, $1 60 to $2.40; peaches $1.40 to $1.90.

WESTERN POSTAL SERVICE.

Complaints of inadequate postal service are still heard from all parts of Western Canada and lately the Winnipeg Free Press devoted an entire page to the extracts from complaints from subscribers as to late delivery of their papers. Every other paper circulating in the west could tell a similar story and western businessmen are suffering serious losses through delays in the delivery of their correspondence.

At the recent convention of the Associated Boards of Trade of Western Canada this grievance came up for discussion and a strong resolution was passed calling the attention of the department to the serious state of affairs now existing. In the course of the discussion F. T. Fisher, ex-secretary of the Edmonton Board of Trade, told how the trouble had been dealt with in Edmonton and his remarks pointed out a remedy. One year ago Edmonton had probably the worst postal service of any town in the west and the businessmen were loud in their complaints. But complaints that are not specific seldom accomplish much and this is the reason why the west has been complaining so long and getting so little redress. The Edmonton Board of Trade took the matter up in a businesslike way and soon accomplished results. The secretary requested the businessmen of the town to give him the envelopes of all delayed letters received. Soon he had a vast collection of envelopes, the post marks on which showed long and vexatious delays in delivery. These were forwarded to the department authorities and very soon an inspector was in Edmonton looking into the matter and investigating the causes of all these delays. Edmonton businessmen established conclusively the fact that they had a serious grievance and to a great extent that grievance has been redressed.

The Edmonton plan might, with advantage, be followed in every town in the west and specific complaints of this kind could not possibly be overlooked. If the readers of this paper would go to the secretaries of their local board of trade and induce them to collect evidence of inefficient postal service according to the simple, direct method followed by Mr. Fisher in Edmonton, there would soon be in the hands of the postal authorities a mass of evidence that would compel instant action.

ORGANIZATION.

Without organization the retail grocers cannot advance their position as purveyors of food stuffs to the people of the Dominion. Every year a larger percentage of the foods consumed are made in factories and must pass through the retail grocery store to the consumer. Organization would greatly increase the influence of the retailer with manufacturer, wholesaler and consumer and with Parliament in the making of food laws. It would also enable control of those retailers who disregard their responsibility as purveyors of food stuffs. Indeed, without organization the retail trade is practically a negative quantity.

This is viewing organization over a wide area; even more important is the local view, the reforms and improvements to be effected by the men in the single community getting together. The larger organization must be built upon the smaller. The local organization must be founded in the beginning upon the disinterestedness and farsightedness of one or two retailers.

LIGHT WEIGHT BREAD.

A large number of Toronto grocers were fined last week for selling light weight bread. It looks unfair on the face of it to make the grocer responsible for the sin of the baker, or rather bread manufacturer. This action is in line with the policy upon which the pure food law is based, holding the vendor responsible for the goods he sells. In regard to bread the grocer's remedy is very simple—weigh the bread. The retailer stands next to the consumer and he should know the quality and in such things as bread the quantity of the goods that go over his counter. It is necessary to the diguity and standing of the retail trade that it should take this responsibility. It will raise the grocer in the opinion of the public, make him a larger factor with the manufacturer and greatly increase his influence, when organized, in shaping the food laws of the country.

COLD STORAGE MAKES ITS MARK.

The Canadian exhibition of fruit at the Dublin fair was greatly admired by the King and Queen. This is the best advertisement it could have had. The Queen at first thought the fruit must be artificial, it was so large and fine, and the astonishment of both of their majesties was great when they were informed by the Hon. Sydney Fisher that not only was the fruit real and eatable but that it had been preserved in its present perfect state in cold storage since last year.

Hon. Sydney Fisher, who, more than anyone else, is responsible for the inauguration of our cold storage system whereby we are enabled to transport cheese and butter in perfect condition over almost any distance, explained to their majesties that it was his intention to extend the system to fruit and fish, and in this way to keep a steady and constant supply of these commodities over the whole country at as uniform a price as possible.

The United States obtain a considerable portion of the Canadian fish trade at present, largely through the absence of any adequate system of cold storage transportation, and it is high time that this state of affairs was improved. The possibilities for development of our fruit and fish industries are tremendous and can be brought about by the adoption on a large scale of the cold storage system.

GROCERS' DEMONSTRATION.

Keep in mind the proposal for a joint grocers' picnic and demonstration in Ontario next year and send your views to The Canadian Grocer for publication. We want to express the sentiment of the trade in regard to this important matter. We believe such a gathering would be in the interest of the trade as a whole. What do you think? Send us your views in a line or a column. Remember that through The Grocer you are addressing its thousands of readers.

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—
Canned Goods—New prices.
Apricots—Very high.

Montreal, August 1, 1907.

Wholesalers report business brisk for this period and say they are quite satisfied with the trend of events. They do not find it difficult to make collections and are looking forward to a good fall trade.

All the trade are talking over the new canned goods prices which have been issued. Strawberries are high, so high that the retailers will be forced to sell them at 25c a tin, so that demand for this variety will necessarily be limited. Cherries are unchanged, while black currants are advanced. Red also are higher. Nothing has been given out which would indicate what prices will rule for corn, peas and other vegetables. Sugar is steady. Some are complaining of the competition they are meeting on the part of western manufacturers. The latter can undersell Montreal wholesalers considerably. Apricots are very much advanced over last year. Prunes are steady. Some Australian raisins are on the way to Montreal, and it is expected they will cause some drop in prices here when they arrive.

SUGAR.—Sugar is steady this week under a very good demand. Quite a large number of sales were made last week.

TEA.—Japan teas are of paramount interest in the market just now and considerable business is being done considering the season is just between the second and third crops. There is little information cabled relative to third crop teas as it is yet too early to wire anything definite. All Japans, however, are firm and few lots arriving. Anything coming to hand in New York is easily disposed of, while lots coming in here do not last long. Good Japan siftings are practically unobtainable. Cheap Ceylon and India blacks are up, London reports indicating an advance of 1c and upwards on that market. New crop China greens are reported 10 per cent. to 15 per cent. higher than last year. Young Hysons are selling at an advance of 1½c.

Dried Fruits.—Prices that have been given out on new apricots are very high and will make the cost to the retailer 30c and over, against the former price of 21c up. Nothing official has been given out in connection with peaches and pears, evaporated, but probabilities are that they will run from 17c to 22c. There is reported a drop in outside prunes in California, which will mean a 10 per cent. to 25 per cent. decline in the yield this year. Following will give some idea as to what new prunes are about to cost the retailer: 30-40, 12c to 13c; 40-50, 11c to 12c; 50-60, 10c to 11c; 60-70, 9½c to 10½c; 70-80, 9c to 10c; 80-90, 8½c to 9½c; 90-100, 7¾c to 8c. There is nothing particular in the raisin market except that some Australian raisins are on the way to this market, and will be sold at prices much better than those now ruling here. They were bought in London.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—New prices are out on several lines and are the talk of the grocery trade. They were issued the latter part of last week, and are in most cases very high. Strawberries is the line causing the most talk, owing to the fact of there being no stocks held over from the last pack here, and also because of the talk of short crop. As will be noticed, quotations on this line are quite a bit above last year. Cherry prices are the same, while black currants, also red, are 10c. to 25c. higher. Rhubarb prices are 50c. to 75c. above 1906. Beets are advanced about 10c. Spinach is also considerably higher; no figures have been given out relative to peas, corn and other vegetables, while it is too early as well for certain fruits. There is talk of very short crop of strawberries, and some say that the canners will not deliver more than 45 per cent. of their contracts. These parties believe that they give this as one reason for the high prices, saying that the canners must endeavor to save something for themselves, since they contracted to pay 15c. a case for all undelivered stock up to 60 per cent. of the order taken. On the whole, jobbers are not surprised at the high prices, but expect a necessarily limited demand for strawberries when retailers are forced to sell them at 25c. a tin. Not so long ago the best could be bought at $1.65 to $1,75. Quite a demand is reported for old salmon. Prices on new salmon is quoted 25c. to 50c. higher. New pack lobsters are selling at $12 to $16, which is $1 a case above last year. There is some complaint upon the quality of mackerel now offering; it is said to be anything but the very best. French mushrooms cannot be obtained anywhere, and it is not likely any will be offering during the next couple of months.

Lemons—Very firm.

Toronto, Aug. 1st, 1907.

The feature of the past week's grocery markets has been the consistently heavy demand for canned goods, and the rapid disappearance of most of these lines from the market. The Canadian Canners have issued their first official intimation with regard to the prices which will rule in certain vegetables and fruits for the 1907 pack. A full list of these prices will be found on another page, and are well worth a comparison with last year's list.

Among dried fruits, considerable interest is being shown in prunes. This may be attributed to the uncertainity of deliveries on contracts for most lines of dried fruits and the high prices now ruling. Considerable interest is being felt by importers and jobbers in the experiment of placing Australian raisins on the Canadian market. Several samples have already been received and have created a favorable impression. The proportion of the fruit set aside for exportation, however, is quite inadequate to meet the demand which may be expected from the quality of the advance samples. It is understood that the Australian Dried Fruits Association regulate all foreign shipments, and that less than 60,000 cases of the new crop have been set aside by them for exportation this year.

TEA—The heavy demand in the United States, together with the short crop, have combined to put Japan teas out of reach, as far as this market is concerned. The crop is estimated to be 5,000,000 pounds less than the average yield. All Japan teas imported into Canada, especially for the last four or five years, have been of a grade intended to be retailed at 25 cents, but the tendency of the price during this period has been higher. This year it is higher than ever, so that only the commonest grades of Japan tea can now be sold at 25 cents retail, and that with less profit, both to the jobber and retailer, than was formerly obtained on better grades sold at the same price.

The market here is practically bare of cheap teas, but such demand as there is is for the lowest grades.

COFFEE—Trade is quiet locally, but there is an anticipation of higher prices in the near future. Willett and Gray, New York, say:

Some Santos firms report that the quality of the current crop is very unsatisfactory. It may, of course, improve later on, but the reports go to confirm previous advices that the unfavorable weather has not only hurt the quality but affected the quantity also. Generally speaking, the lower grades predominate in the stocks at Santos and Rio, and as there is a constant and increasing demand in those markets as well as here, for the higher qualities, it seems probable that the premium over the lower grades will continue to increase. During the past year the differences have widened in favor of the higher qualities and therefore any deterioration in the quality outturn of the current crop will work in that direction.

It has been reported frequently that the States of Rio and Minas abolish the surtax, but it can be just as positively stated that such is not the case.

The new crop receipts so far give no indication at all as to the size of the current crop. The movement to date is smaller than last year (crop total 19,654,000 bags) and smaller than same time 1905-06 (crop total 10,227,000 bags), but there is not much difference in the receipts to date on the three crops. A small crop can be harvested and brought down to the coast in the first three months nearly as fast as a big one, so in the this respect the movement gives no actual indication.

The crop estimates differ more than usual. The greater number of the exporters in Brazil have been almost unanimous in their opposition to the market and lean to the bear side, but it is a matter of fact that in previous years exporters adopted small estimates when they were bulls and large estimates when bears. By awaiting further developments oportunity will arise to gauge the crop by the actual movement.

The visible supply of the world on July 1st, 1907, was 16,399,954 bags, as against 16,551,708 on the same date a month ago.

SUGAR—The quiet tone of last week prevails, with no one willing to prophesy as to the future. Unsold stocks of raw sugar in Cuba are in small compass, and this will oblige refiners to obtain supplies from the full duty-paying countries, and to pay foreign values therefor. As a direct consequence of this the price of refined is expected shortly to go up. Reviewing the situation in raws for the past week. Willet and Gray say:

The week under review has been quite satisfactory in its course to holders of raw sugars.

The reduced receipts in the United States for several weeks with only 13,840 tons the present week, against 47,000 required for meltings, evidently set buyers thinking of consequences of much longer continuance of such conditions.

To relieve the situation buyers took advantage of a slight recession in Europe, causing increased offerings in raws, and came into the market, securing everything on offer for shipment and including some 80,000 bags of stored parcels.

Europe did not feel any demand from America, but, nevertheless, strengthened up to 9s. 9¾d. for beet sugar under unfavorable weather for crops, and closed quiet and steady at 9s. 9d., the parity of 4.04c. for Centrifugals at New York or, only 10 points above the basis of quotations here.

Cuba reports by cable the need of rains for the growing cane.

Naturally the American Co. were the largest purchasers for shipment during the late activity when some 150,000 bags Centrifugals were bought. The Federal and Arbuckle followed with purchases mostly from store, advancing the spot quotation to 3.94c. per pound for 96 degrees test, an advance of the week of 10 points.

The c. & f. advance of the week to 2 9-16 c., 95 degrees test, for August shipment, equal to 3.95c. landed for 96 degrees, represents 6 points, as well. The general conditions, tone and tendency all point to further improvement in due time.

The action of the refined market has been also satisfactory to buyers. The reaction in prices granted by refiners, notwithstanding the strength of raws, was appreciated by buyers and taken advantage of to increase their lines of stock, which is good policy.

DRIED FRUITS—The Australian raisins, which are expected to appear on the market in saleable quantities within the next few weeks, have been the subject of considerable discussion of late. There is no doubt that for quality, size and flavor they are almost the equal of the new Valencia. For some time to come, however, it is improbable that sufficient quantity can be produced both to supply the home demand, which is heavy and satisfy the market here as well. At best, Australian raisins are not likely to become more than an alternative to the Valencia. The latter, being unusually scarce and high this year, have left an exceptionally favorable opening for the introduction of the new article to the Canadian market, but when one compares the small quantity set aside for export—about 600 tons or 50,000 cases—with the 3,500,000 boxes annually exported of Valencias, it is a reasonable prophesy that the Australian product will never supplant its better-known competition in this market. It may serve as a useful filler, in years when the new Valencia crop is late, and old stocks are cleaned up, but given normal prices and an adequate supply, Valencias will never be materially affected by the new arrival.

The Sultana crop promises well. Estimates now place the yield as high as 45,000 tons. They new Grecian currant crop is estimated at 20 per cent. larger than that of last year, conditional upon the fine weather holding till August 20th. Opening prices will be higher than might have been anticipated, for early shipments, on account of the large advance sales which have been made. When these are settled, moderate prices will prevail.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 1, 1907.)

Business is rather quiet at present, this being the slow season of the year. Business men are disposed to mark time at present waiting for the crops to be harvested and consequently few dealers are buying very heavily at present. Conditions are new this year and the crop outlook is of course rather uncertain.

Values are steady in all lines. New prices have been announced on canned strawberries and other prices for new canned fruits and vegetables are expected shortly. Country payments are reported slow.

CANNED GOODS—The canners are filling only 45 per cent. of their orders for strawberries and the supplies of new strawberries will therefore not last very long. New prices will be noted below.

RED ROSE TEA RE-UNION.

The Toronto and Montreal traveling staff of T. H. Estabrooks leave their respective territories on Saturday, 3rd inst. for St. John, N.B. A general pow-wow will be held in the wigwam of the great tea chief. The western brave led by Red Rose join Big Ingin Gaden in Montreal. The pipe of peace will be passed around the council fires and plans adopted for the further conquest of the tea palates of the white men.

PRODUCE AND PROVISIONS.

BUTTER—The dairy butter market is weak as there is much poor butter offering. Produce houses are offering 15 cents f.o.b. country stations, for dairy butter off all qualities and "freshly gathered." Houses buying according to quality offer 18 cents for No. 1, and 14 to 16 cents for No. 2, delivered in Winnipeg. Ceramery butter is selling to the retail trade at 20 to 21 cents per pound.

EGGS—Owing to the hot weather, eggs are reported to be arriving in bad shape. Winnipeg houses are paying 16 cents f.o.b., Winnipeg, subject to candling.

CHEESE—Ontario cheese is selling at 13½ cents f.o.b., Winnipeg.

A LOOKED-FOR EVENT.

Canada's Great Exhibition, of Special Interest to Grocers.

The Canadian National Exhibition, one of the biggest events of the year to Canadians generally, is on the tapis. Aug. 24 is opening day and already merchants and exhibitors are planning their exhibits and estimating what amount of trade they can corall during the rush occasionad by the Exhibition. The fair is of special interest to grocers and provision men because of the large exhibits of food products. Manufacturers and wholesalers realize that the exhibition is an excellent place to get their goods before the eyes of their customers and the most enterprising do not miss this opportunity. This year, says the secretary, applications for space from food and provision manufacturers are more numerous than ever before and it is probable that the display in these lines will much surpass that of last year. Indeed, the exhibition as a whole, promises to be bigger and better than ever.

$400,000 has been spent in new buildings; $45,000 is offered in premiums and $40,000 is being spent in special attractions. This year, too, the United States railways are making large concessions in the way of excursion rates during the time of the exhibition. The Canadian lines, of course, are all offering their usual low rates. For these reasons the two weeks, from August 24th to September 9th, promise to be more than usually interesting at Canada's National Exhibition.

DEATH OF SENIOR PARTNER.

Mr. Blackwell, of Crosse and Blackwell, Passed Away in England.

The following clipping from the London Times issue of July 15th will be read with interest by hundreds of Canadian grocers:

"Thomas Francis Blackwell, who died yesterday, at the age of 69, was for 50 years connected with the firm of Crosse & Blackwell, becoming senior partner on the death of his father in 1880, and chairman of the board when the business was transferred, in 1892, to a limited liability company. He evinced keen interest in all that pertained to commercial life in London. He was elected chairman of the London Chamber of Commerce, and later (in 1905) succeeded Lord Brassey as president, holding office until April last. He was also a member of the Advisory Committee of the Board of Trade, an honor which he greatly appreciated. He was long connected with the Salters' Company, and twice officiated as Master. As J.P. for both London and Middlesex he was High Sheriff of the latter county in 1894. A man of very generous nature, he gave freely, and in some cases largely, to many charitable institutions, hospitals, schools, and benevolent institutions being the especial objects of his bounty. He was president of the Grocers and Tea Dealers' Benevolent Association, and also of the Commercial Travelers' Schools, Pinner, and was a governor of Christ's Hospital. He was keenly interested in politics, and held strong Liberal and free trade views. He was greatly and affectionately respected by all with whom he had business dealings. He was beloved by his many friends for the kindness of his nature, and respected by all with whom he came in contact for the great worth of his daily life."

GROCERY TRADE NEWS AND MARKETS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.

St. John, N.B., July 29, 1907.

With the advance of the season the market prices are undergoing some change, and the new goods are coming in slowly. In the country market, peas, beans and cabbages of this year's crop are on sale, while the earlier products have dropped in price. In the fruit line, peaches, pears and plums are coming in, but as yet are pretty high. The crop of strawberries this year has been very good, the lowest wholesale quotation for firm stock was about 5½c. Blueberries are now commencing to come in quite plentifully. The sale of canned goods has dropped off somewhat, but otherwise business is very good. With the harvesting of the new crop so near and the prospects being bright for a heavy yield, hay has fallen rapidly, and is considerably lower than it was six weeks ago. Eggs are coming in fairly well, but are still quoted at 16c. to 20c. Butter continues firm at 18c. to 21c. Flour and sugar are practically unchanged.

The fishing season as pointed out in last week's report, has fallen considerably below the average, but fishermen have realized just about as much money as the prices have been higher. It is worthy of note that the consumption of fish for the months of May, June and July was considerably in excess of the same term last year, owing to the advance in the prices of beef and other meats.

The death occurred on Tuesday, July 23, of Charles Long, a well-known retail grocer of the north end. Mr. Long was in his 83rd year, and for forty years conducted a grocery business at the corner of Chapel and Acadia streets. He is survived by one sister, one daughter, eleven grand-children and four great grand-children. The funeral which was held on Wednesday was largely attended.

* * *

As the result of a communication received from the dominion chief analyst, the board of health has issued a warning to the public against using a prepared food labelled "Canserve de Tomote." So far as can be learned none of the grocers here carry this line of goods.

A. W. Donly, commercial agent, of the government of Canada in Mexico, was in St. John last week interviewing merchants with a view of interesting them in the export of goods to Mexico. Local business men are inclined to think, however, that they have about all they can handle for some time to supply the demands of the Canadian market. Mr. Donly left here on his way to tour through Western Canada.

Horace R. Nixon, and Keith & Plummer, of Hartland, who were burned out recently, have decided to rebuild at once. No new evidence leading to a solution of the fire mystery is forthcoming, but the matter will be throughly investigated.

New Brunswick is going to have a record blueberry crop this year, and everyone remarks on the uncommon size of the fruit as compared with last season. The Sussex Packing Co. are planning to can large quantities, and the can shop is a busy place these days. they report the market good and sales made as far west as Alberta, ten cars in all. This quantity involves the use of over 130,000 and 120 tons of berries. Berries will be shipped from all over the province, as far west as St. George and north to Grand Ause.

Tenders are being asked by the I.C.R. for the erection of a flour shed and loading platform, to be built on the western side of Mill street, near the I.C.R. tracks. Tenders close Aug. 6.

A fire which caused about $10,000 damage, broke out on Mill street, Friday morning, 26th inst. Ten families were burned out, and the stock in three stores occupied by N. S. Springer, grocer and feed dealer was destroyed. E. J. Carpenter's meat store also suffered. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Percy Bremour, formerly with Walter M. Lowney, is in the city after a business trip to Boston, where he secured several commission lines.

SHORT TEA CROP.

Higher Prices May Rule For All Indian Tea.

The quantity of tea entered for export to the United Kingdom, taken from the Calcutta and Chittagong customs daily entries is wired for:

	Lbs.
First half of July	6,400,000
Same period last year	7,423,000
Total from 1st April, 1907, to 15th July, 1907	17,869,000
Total from 1st April, 1906, to 15th July, 1906	20,283,000

South India shipments to all places during the month of June, 1907, were 1,031,869 pounds, while for the same month in 1906 they were only 753,642 pounds.

From these figures, it would look as if the India tea crop this year was going to be short. As India is the largest producer of tea, the natural inference is higher prices. This will be bad hearing for the packet tea men.

L. E. Geoffrion, of L. Chaput, Fils & Cie, Montreal, and one of Montreal's harbor commissioners, leaves for a trip to the Pacific coast and San Francisco on August 20th. Bon voyage!

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

The position in the cheese market is not present as satisfying to traders as it might be. Prices which are asked at country boards are in most cases a little too high to warrant a great deal of buying with a view to later sales to English houses. Dealers are waiting for prices to decline another cent, if they will, before doing business on a large scale. During the past week in many instances, quite a lot of cheese has been left on the boards, which is not usually the case. Inquiry from the Old Country has not been very good of late, only the usual quantities going forward for export. Export figures read: Last week, 109,098 boxes, as against 94,286 boxes the previous week; and 106,671 boxes for the same week in 1906. Total shipments since opening of navigation have been 818,486 boxes, compared with 966,-221 boxes for the same period last year. It will be noticed that shipments are over 100,000 boxes behind last year.

Receipts also are still considerably behind last year. Last week 103,456 boxes were received as against 121,816 boxes in 1906. The total number of boxes received to date is 909,938, compared with 994,196 boxes in 1906 for the same period. Prices asked to-day run from 10¼ to 10⅞ cents, according to grade.

The butter situation seems to be improving, and demand from the other side is beginning to pick up somewhat. There is consequently a firmer feeling in the market and prices are slightly higher. Butter dealers are asking 21¾ to 22 cents for Townships; 21¼ to 21½ cents for Quebec and 21 cents for Ontario creamery.

During the week ending Saturday last, 20,026 packages of butter arrived in Montreal, as against 34,875 packages for the same week in 1906, making the total receipts for the season 199,783 packages, which looks very small when compared to the receipts for the same period in 1906, when 306,019 packages were received.

Only 11,344 packages of butter were shipped from Montreal last week compared with 20,751 packages for the same week last year. This quantity is, however, a noticeable gain over the shipments of the previous week, which were only 4,032 packages. For the season, 26,713 packages were exported, as against 157,794 packages last year.

BUTTER—Butter has been very firm lately and trade brisk. There has been considerable buying, so that there is no accumulation in the country. Demand in the city is excellent at the prices given below, but export demand is only fair.

CHEESE—There has not been a great deal of business transacted in cheese lately and prices, as will be noticed, are lower. Buying in the country has been limited compared to previous weeks and cable inquiry has been anything but good.

EGGS—Quite a fair demand exists for eggs at prices which are a litte firmer than last week. Dealers are now asking 17½ to 18 cents.

HONEY—Some new clover honey is arriving on the market and is being sold around 13 and 14 cents. The buckwheat will not arrive for another month or month and a half.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

Prices for live hogs are exactly on a parity with those ruling last week. $6.65-$6.75 f.o.b. country points is still being paid by the packers, and it is difficult to prophesy the future trend of prices. There is a firm undertone to the market, however. Packers all got heavy deliveries last week, totalling probably about 32,000. This week indications are that deliveries will be light. In the west Canadian houses are barely holding their own. Most western houses bought heavily for summer deliveries and there are no immediate purchases at the moment. The firmer tone to the American market may strengthen the home product with the western men to some extent. Danish deliveries for the week were about 34,000. The Old Country market remains steady under a good demand.

Provisions in the Chicago market were fairly active on Thursday of last week, irregular on Friday, lower on Saturday, irregular again on Monday and dull on Tuesday. Receipts at the latter part of last week were very light, 10,000 in fact less than a year ago. The general tone throughout the week has been quiet.

The Journal of Commerce, reviewing the situation for the week, says:

"The speculative trading in hog products for the week just ended has been rather small, but with the tendency of prices toward a higher level. The offerings have been light as well as the movement of hogs and the live hog market has ruled strong and prices higher. The brokers early in the week were said to be buying for the packing interests. While the selling was scattered, and by outsiders, later in the week, prices gave away some on selling, mostly in the way of realizing by the packers, but the general undertone is firm and toward a higher range of values."

PROVISION MARKETS

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—Packers report a very fair demand, along the shore particularly, for bacon, ham, barreled pork and lard. There is not a great deal of activity in the latter line, but there is no complaint coming. Prices hold steady and no immediate decline or advance is looked for.

PROVISIONS—Quotations for street lot hogs have narrowed down somewhat, but no farmer-killed hogs are wanted at this time of the season by the larger buyers, and in consequence, very small deliveries are sufficient to turn the edge of the market. NOTES.

L. Chaput, Fils & Cie. report having sold considerable quantities of canned turkey, chicken and soups as advertised ten days ago, but still have a small quantity in store which they are disposing of at record prices.

Buyers for McCormack Bros., fruit dealers, Montreal, left last Friday for the blueberry centre at Lake St. John. They report a large crop with everything satisfactory for a good season. Saguenay blueberries are expected on the market about the 4th or 6th of next month.

Leonard Bros., Montreal, report fish market quiet, although there is a fair movement in fresh lines. Other lines, including salted, smoked and prepared fish, are neglected. Demand for these lines will improve after the 15th of the month or as soon as the hot weather is over.

CORRESPONDENCE

BELLEVILLE.

"The grocery trade in this city and district is booming as it never did before," was the reply made by a leading grocer in the city to-day when called upon by your correspondent, "but," said he, "that does not mean that the grocers themselves are making as much money as they did in days gone by." This statement appearing rather strange the correspondent became inquisitive and wanted to know what he meant. "Quite easy to explain," said he. "You know it is only a short time ago when competition was not nearly so keen as at present, help did not cost nearly so much, margins of profit were a great deal larger, while rents have increased in some cases twenty-five per cent. There is no doubt but that every grocer is doing a much larger turnover in his business but I will wager they are not making as much money as they used to." He was asked why the grocers did not organize by themselves, that is, have a purely grocers' organization. To this he would not commit himself. He felt certain it would never succeed as he knew there were grocers who would never stick to any adopted scale of prices, just as they would not adopt a uniform hour of closing at night. An organization of grocers, in his opinion, would never prove a success as long as there were two or three who transgressed the rules and the buying public were not spending their money for sentiment, although he believed the general public would be much better pleased and better served. And the grocer who expressed the above sentiments has just about as big a city trade as any grocer in the city.

The question of fruit this year is a dominating factor in the mind of the busy and thrifty housewife. It has turned out, contrary to earlier predictions, a very poor season for berries of all kinds and as a consequence these delicacies will be conspicuous by their absence on many a table during the coming winter months. Strawberries, raspberries, blackberries and thimbleberries were a poor crop and there are just about sufficient offered to provide a few servings for current table use. The local canning factories and the Belleville Fruit and Vinegar Company did not get their full supply. Prices for raspberries ranged between 10c and 15c a box—never lower. Prices in former years were about 5c a box. But the people of Belleville always have great faith in the good old saying that "the Lord will provide" and in this case they have good reason to put trust in the belief because what we lacked in an abundant supply of berries has been provided in a supply of cherries not exceeded in years. Every market day sees load after load arrive and the quality is of the very best. There are the big luscious dark ones and the bright red juicy ones that cannot help but tempt the most delicate appetite. These are being put up in large quantities and cherry pie will doubtless be a favorite dessert this winter.

Elsewhere in this issue E. D. Marceau Company, Montreal, offer for immediate delivery Condor Japan teas at old prices, despite the high market now ruling for Japans.

CEREALS AND CONFECTIONERY

Good Prospects for Ontario Crops—Fluctuating Prices Rule in the Chicago Market—Confectionery as a Profitable Store Asset.

Ontario crops are looking well according to latest reports, and in the absence of any untoward circumstances a good yield now seems to be assured.

Fluctuating prices have been the keynote of the week on the Chicago wheat market. Reports of black rust throughout South Dakota and the Northwest made themselves felt at various times during the week, and these rumors were not without their effect on prices. The unfavorable reports from South Dakota however, were proportionately offset by the lower tendency exhibited in the Minneapolis market. Crop news was contradictory and the public kept out of the market. Towards the end of the week, prices turned bullish again and appeared to be settling to a steady rise, the market closing ¾c. above the previous days final levels. On Friday, however, this advance was broken by favorable reports from Argentina and weaker cables, the forward movement was checked and prices dropped back again to their former level. Since then they have been see-sawing up and down with fine impartiality.

The flour trade is quiet, with little export enquiry, and cereals are in satisfactory consumption for the time of year.

Confectionery.

Here is a side-line that demands attention from the progressive retailer. It is practically no trouble to handle, pays for the cost of installation in a short time, sells itself and attracts new business to your store. If you are not handling confectionery you are passing up a money-making proposition. If you are, why not push the good work among your brother grocers ?

CANADA'S EXPORT FLOUR TRADE

Canadian millers have reason to be gratified with the growth of this country's export flour trade during the past year or so. British and European importers have been evincing a great interest in the Canadian product and a largely increased export trade is confidently expected to result. The year has seen a remarkable increase in the demand for Canadian flour in China and Japan. All western mills have been affected by this and some are over-sold in the grades that the Chinese market demands. There are something like 30 new mills in the west either under construction, or projected, some of them being of quite large capacity. All this

WHEN TO STOP ADVERTISING.

The time to stop advertising is when you want to go out of business, and then only. You may not believe this, but it is every word true. You may say that you have been in business a good while and have not advertised, and expect to continue in business. This may be, but you have not made half you would if you had been a regular and judicious advertiser. You could have turned your money oftener, made larger margins and had a great deal more fun.

ORIGINAL ADVERTISING.

An original form of advertising comes from Russia, where a shopkeeper posted up the following announcement.

"The reason why I have hitherto been able to sell goods so much cheaper than anybody else is that I am a bachelor, and do not need to make a profit for the maintenance of a wife and children.

"It is now my duty of informing the public that this advantage will shortly be withdrawn from them, as I am about to be married. They will, therefore, do well to make their purchases at once at the old rate."

The result was that there was such a run on the shop that in the course of a few days this shop keeper had made money enough to pay the expense of his wedding on a very lavish scale.—Ex.

Victor Archambault, Brault & Archambault, wholesale grocers, Sherbrooke, was in Montreal for a couple of days this week. Mr. Archambault reports that notwithstanding the high market in Japans and Ceylon greens, the demand for these teas in the country is active, buyers being willing to pay the advance, and a good business in third crop Japans is anticipated.

A GROCER IN DETAIL WHO HAS WON ON HIS MERITS

The accompanying picture shows the front of one of Belleville's neatest and most attractive stores, that of John B. Harker, who may be described as a grocer in detail, having been apprenticed when a boy to the business in the north of England, and receiving a good training in the Old Country before coming to Canada. He was with Wallbridge & Clarke, of Belleville, for seventeen years before he started for himself.

His business is steadily increasing and he is looked upon as one of the leading men in the trade. He is an eloquent tea talker, well versed in the values and qualities of his teas, and the majority of his customers who leave orders with him are persuaded to include a package of his celebrated thirty-cent tea, black, green or mixed. He employs two clerks and a delivery man, who are kept constantly on the go. Besides this, he is a hustler himself and oversees every detail of management in the store.

J. B. HARKER, of Belleville, and his attractive store front.

It goes without saying that Jack is a good-natured fellow and all the travelers agree that the saying, "the smile that won't come off" originated in him. Mr. Harker always has a good, hearty hand-shake for the boys, whether he gives them an order or not. He is reputed to be one of the closest buyers in the business, placing quality above price. With him it is a question of "how good," not "how cheap." From the very first he has lived up to this principle, and the result is that he now has a class of customers second to none in the city.

The interior of his store is up-to-date and his customers' wants are well looked after, one of his mottoes being that a "satisfied customer is the best advertisement." He is a thorough believer in printers' ink and has a yearly contract with the two local papers. His ads. are changed twice a week and are usually catchy and to the point. He makes a point of never advertising a bargain unless it is a bargain, and is careful not to exaggerate the merits of any special line above its actual worth. In this respect his advertisements reflect his personality.

Mr. Harker claims to have been a constant reader of The Canadian Grocer since 1887, and always looks forward to its arrival. As soon as he has read it he passes it on to his clerks, thus setting an example to many other merchants, who, by following it, would increase the efficiency of their staff and materially add to their own profits.

ENGLISH LIBEL CASE.

Lever Bros. Awarded £50,000 in Suit Against Daily Mail.

A libel case of far-reaching interest has just been concluded in England by judgment in favor of the plaintiff, Lever Bros., of Sunlight Soap fame for damages of £50,000 ($250,000) against the Daily Mail and the Evening News. These journals, some months ago, inserted allegedly libellous statements concerning the personal character of Mr. Lever and the standing of the company. As a result of these attacks the shares of Lever Bros. were depreciated to the value of a quarter of a million pounds and this, with the great interest taken by the general public made "the great soap trial," as it was popularly known, a matter of wide interest.

The trial showed that the articles in question were entirely unwarranted and unjustified and the defendants in a characteristically English way, expressed their regret that they had been so grievously misinformed, withdrew every imputation which had been made upon Mr. Lever's honor and integrity and asked for judgment for the amount named by the plaintiffs. The judgment was nothing but a triumph for Lever Bros. The result of the trial had a beneficial effect on the company's stocks as quoted by the stock exchange, but it will take considerable time to restore the equilibrium disturbed by the newspaper attacks and consequent trial.

At Port Sunlight, the company's large factory town, a jubilation followed the announcement of the result of the trial, Mr. and Mrs. Lever were received with an ovation when they arrived shortly after its conclusion and a note of congratulation was extended from the employes.

MEDLAND BROS. MOVING.

Medland Bros., of Toronto, for the last fourteen years have been doing a large jobbing and retail grocery business at 128 King St. east, with a branch on Queen west, under the caption of "The People's Wholesale Supply Co.," are moving to the centre of the wholesale district, and will locate at 73 Front St. east in the premies formerly occupied by Robert Watson and Co. They will carry a large stock of staple and fancy groceries, and possessing, as they do, excellent facilities for handling a large trade, they should not suffer from lack of patronage. Here's good luck!

PERSONAL MENTION.

E. Littler, manager Walter M. Lowney, Company, of Canada, Montreal, has just returned from a trip to the west.

Friends of Mr. Duke, the popular representative of Shredded Wheat, will regret to learn the loss he has sustained in the death of his father a week ago.

L. E. Geoffrion, of L. Chaput & Co., Montreal, was in Quebec on business during the week.

R. Nash, E. D. Marceau Company, of Montreal, has returned from a successful trip to Winnipeg and western points. Mr. Nash had charge of his firm's exhibit at the Winnipeg food fair.

S. J. Mathewson, of Mathewson's Sons, Montreal, has just returned from a vacation, extending over a month or so, spent at Metis, Que., "S. J." as everybody knows him, is tanned a beautiful brown and has done some fishing. He was telling The Grocer about one fish, a halibut, that he and another gentleman caught. It weighed two hundred odd pounds and was seven feet something long, and—. It might be mentioned that Mathewson's Sons is one of the oldest established firms in Montreal, and the reputation borne by them is first-class, while Mr. S. J.'s word is as good as his signature on a check.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Lemons Very Firm and Exhibiting Tendency to Higher Prices—Poor Crop of Canadian Small Fruits—High Prices the Rule.

Lemons are again the most interesting feature of the week's fruit markets. While no actual raise has yet taken place, prices are becoming firmer every day and the forward movement is imminent. Stocks are getting into small compass, and this, in conjunction with the higher temperature, is bound to have its effect before long. 2,500 or 3,000 boxes would account for most of the Verdellis held in Toronto, and this supply is fairly equally divided among half a dozen wholesalers. Mail advices from New York, dated July 27th, say that "The crop of Verdellis this season as estimated by the leading importers, will approximate around 75,000 boxes, of which 25,000 boxes have already arrived and been sold, leaving about 50,000 still to come. This certainly is a very small lot for this big country, and it looks as if some of the best grades purchased at prices now ruling would prove to be money-makers. Indications point to a hot August and September." This report is probably conservative as regarding the quantity of the Verdelli crop, 100,000 boxes is likely to be nearer the mark. The new Messina lemons are not expected on the market here before October. There is a quantity of wasty lemons on the Toronto market at present, and some of this stock is selling as low as $3. Good lemons, however, are well worth the money under the prevailing conditions. Verdellis were scarce in New York all last week.

Small fruits of all kinds are exceedingly scarce. This week will see practically the last of the raspberries. 20 cents per box has been paid for this fruit more than once this season, and the price has seldom gone below 10c. Gooseberries and cherries will be limited to a small quantity, and there will be no low prices.

Canadian tomatoes are just arriving, the first consignments having been received from Leamington about a week ago. So far the quality has been very poor, but this is no indication of what may be expected from the rest of the crop. American new potatoes are in full supply, most of them coming from Baltimore. The demand is very brisk.

MONTREAL.

GREEN FRUITS — The demand for green fruits is particularly good, with no one line having the preference. Blueberries are arriving in small quantities and present quotation is $3 per box. After having a long season, strawberries, with the exception of a few New Brunswick berries, are now finished. Apricots are also about done. California peaches are arriving in large quantities, but generally speaking, are in poor condition, being over-ripe and wasty. The California plum market is strong under light receipts. Prices continue high with one or two changes.

VEGETABLES—Dealers are quite satisfied with the amount of trade passing in vegetables. There is an active demand which keeps all lines moving. The recent warm weather has affected sales very favorably. Old stock is becoming pretty well cleaned up. Egyptian onions are about done. Noticeable declines in prices are lettuce, which dropped from 25c. and 40c. to 10c. and 25c., and new potatoes, quoted last week at $4, but owing to domestic varieties arriving on the market now quoting at $2.50.

FISH—The eastern salmon season will be over on August 1, and prices have advanced. Haddocks and cod are plentiful, and prices continue slow. Lake fish are in only fair supply, in fact fresh pickerel are very scarce, and pike are out of the market this week. Brook trout are in limited supply, and halibut is not so plentiful as last week. In smoked and prepared fish, there is not much doing at present. Demand will be quiet until after the middle of the month. In salted and pickled fish, business is slow in all lines, but a fair quantity of Labrador salmon and sea trout is now moving.

FRUIT—Trade has been very brisk all week, the hot weather sending all fruits, and lemons especially, into heavy consumption. The Canadian small fruits are now sufficiently advanced to prophecy with a fair degree of accuracy as to the probable quantity of the crop. Raspberries, the last of which will be in with the next fortnight, can hardly now exceed half the usual yield. Gooseberries will be scarce, and cherries will be a poor crop. It is not likely that there will be any low prices for these fruits. The canners have bid up values so high this year that the consumer will suffer pretty severely.

VEGETABLES — Business is quiet, but Canadian vegetables are in fair demand. Home tomatoes are just beginning to come in, the first shipment having been received from Leamington ten days ago. So far, however, the stock is neither sufficiently plentiful nor of good enough quality to attract much attention. It will be almost two weeks before the supply is in full swing. Canadian cucumbers are coming in slowly, but crop prospects are excellent. There are practically no old potatoes left on the market. American news and some Canadians have taken their place.

CANNED FISH PURITY.

Many complaints have been heard within the last few years of the great deterioration in the quality of fish put up on the Atlantic coast, notably in the case of finnan haddies.

When this article was packed the goods were looked upon as fully equal to, or better, than ordinary cured haddies, from the fact that they possessed all the flavor and freshness, without any bones or skin. As time went on, and it was impossible to pack haddie at a low price, other fish were substituted, and for the past few years the most widely used by many of the packers has been hake, a much cheaper and inferior fish from a dietetic point of view. There was nothing to prevent packers labeling these as haddies, and as a consequence, having neither the flavor nor the appearance of the genuine article, and being put up in a much cheaper way, the trade was much injured.

Under the present Pure Food Act it becomes a criminal offence to use false names on articles packed, and hake can no longer masquerade as haddock.

In interviewing packers they claimed it was no fault of theirs, as the demand for cheap goods was so great, but they expressed themselves as willing enough to pack the genuine article, although of necessity the cost would be higher than for the substitutes.

As the comparison between hake and haddock is very much like the comparison between chalk and cheese there is little doubt that the consumers in Canada would gladly pay for the genuine article, while there will be every incentive now to produce the very best,

A MAN IN A THOUSAND.

An interesting little story came to us during the week which is of a nature to encourage one's faith in mankind and to the belief that this sad old world is growing better, after all. It is a story of a man who was honest. Not the honesty demanded by the law courts or by men in the business world generally, but the old-fashioned kind, out and out, straight-forwardness. The hero of the story was willing to work and fight and above all, to keep everlastingly at it for a decade to keep his word and keep his conscience clean.

John S. Lucas is the man, and he is living now at 121 Dunn avenue, in Toronto. For several years previous to 1882 Mr. Lucas was a highly respected and successful gorcer in Churchill, Ont. In that year he went into the grain business, and though at first successful, later had disastrous losses, these in 1886 bulking to $40,000. The following year he was forced to assign, his assets being merely sufficient to wind up the estate and his creditors got practically nothing. Among the heaviest losers, (as they supposed themselves) were Eby, Blain & Co., wholesale grocers. This firm were very kind to Mr. Lucas at the time and this was well rewarded, when, on Monday of this week Mr. Lucas stepped into their office and paid the last cent of his indebtedness to them. And Eby, Blain & Co. are only one case. After his assignment, Mr. Lucas faced the situation and set himself to pay off his indebtedness. He borrowed money enough from friends who had confidence in him to start himself in another line of business, and began a long, up-hill fight to retrieve himself. That fight lasted twenty years and has meant inappreciable work and sacrifice. It ended this week when Mr. Lucas paid off his last cent of debt and breathed long breaths of relief. He has made investments which turned out very favorably and besides paying $11,000 due his creditors, he has made enough to keep him comfortably for the rest of his life. Here is a man who was honest in the real sense of the word. And his experience seems to point to the fact that this red-blooded and out and out honesty will always pay in the long run.

EFFECTIVE WINDOW DRESSING

Every Grocer Should Try to Handle Campers' Groceries—An Effective Camping Window—The Cost of Window Dressing.

Here is a window, which, while not by any means perfect, should set an example to grocers over the whole country. We should like to know how many grocers dressed a camping window this year. There's time yet if you haven't done it, but it's an opportunity of catering to a profitable class of customers that comes round every year and one which no wide-awake retailer can afford to let slip.

Michie & Co., Toronto, whose window is reproduced on this page, are peculiarly well fitted to show how a camping window should be dressed. For the last two years they have made a specialty, not only of edible camping supplies, but of every last article, culinary and otherwise, that is used by canoe-trippers under ordinary or extraordinary circumstances.

The window here reproduced is worth a careful study. You will find it difficult to think of anything needed in a camp which is not in full view here. In order to obtain the best photograph a few articles had to be removed, and these included a couple of hammocks swung from hooks and crossed above the window, and the white mosquito netting, which was hung behind and formed an effective and appropriate background for the whole setting.

The window, it will be noticed, is dressed from corner to corner, not straight across, thus giving an increased floor space for the display and the correct perspective to the man on the street.

On the left are sacks of beans, rice, oatmeal, etc., and directly behind them three or four large aluminium pails filled with cooking and eating utensils, the latter also of aluminium. Behind these again are paddles, an axe or two, and a printed card advertising charts of canoe trips in all the most favorable rivers and lakes of Ontario. Another timely card, headed, "You'll need bait," rests on a folding, collapsible minnow trap, weighing about 30 ounces, and capable of being stowed away in a small space when not in use. A dunnage bag, commonly known as a "turkey," stands in front of the open tent.

The other half of the window is devoted mainly to articles of food. Tins of chicken-soup, baked beans, baking powder, etc., etc. Slabs of bacon, evaporated apples, breakfast foods, soup squares, pickles, biscuits, and a hundred and one other necessities of camp life are prominently shown.

The chief merit of this window lies in its completeness. Since the photograph was taken the arrangement has been somewhat altered. The tent was moved to the right, facing square to the passer-by, and the window redressed with the tent as the common centre.

A Strong Camping-Window Dressed by Michie & Co., Toronto.

Campers' Specialties.

Michie & Co., in addition to carrying a large stock of all food supplies for campers, furnish boats, canoes, and launches of every description on request. They make a specialty of supplying cooks and guides for parties, give estimates of the cost of any trip in Canada, supply angle-worms and fishing tackle to order, sell books on camping and canoeing, maps of Muskoka and the Northern Lakes District, and, in a word, undertake completely to outfit any camping party, large or small, mixed or stag, poor or rich, experienced or ignorant. They have been in business for 70 years, but it is only lately that they have made such a specialty of camp supplies outside of groceries. This side of their business is increasing rapidly, with every prospect of a virtual monopoly in years to come.

Go and do Likewise.

Every grocer, of course, is not in a position to specialize in camping supplies as Michie & Co. have done. But almost all of them can improve their trade in this field by devoting a little time and thought to the best way of attracting the attention of their customers. A good method is to advertise regularly in the local paper for say, the four months of June to September, and in each advertisement to make a point of listing a few special lines, such as are shown in this window. Back up your advertising by dressing a camping window at regular intervals.

If possible, try to handle a fairly complete line of tin or aluminium ware; or if this is not practical, make arrangements whereby you can obtain such articles at short notice. Once get your customers interested in what you are doing, and the rest comes of itself.

WINDOW-DRESSING EXPENSE.

Sporting Goods Dealer.

There is one phase of the retail dealer's business that he is apt to be careless about—that is the display window. The cost of maintaining this exhibit is a just charge to the wage account, exactly as is the salary of a clerk or salesman. Without windows the rent would be much less, so there is every reason for giving special attention to making it a business-bringing feature. The show window may be considered an employe, and an expensive one. The time of an assistant to dress the window, the cost of working tools and paraphernalia are some of the expenses that may be charged against it. The question remains, does the window sell enough goods to warrant this expense? With the aid of counter books the dealer can keep track of the work of his salesmen and determine what returns they are bringing. In the case of the show window this is not so easy. Unlike the salesmen and other employes, the window may be asked to work day and night, and there are no holidays or vacations to be considered. But again, unlike good employes, the window needs constant looking after and shaking up. It is apt to get slovenly and out-of-date unless proper attention is bestowed upon it.

THIS MEANS YOU.

A Smart Delivery is a Permanent Advertisement for its Owner.

Did you ever lean on the counter and think, Mr. Grocer, what an important factor of your business your delivery outfit may be? Your store arrangements and window dressing may be ideal, and Mrs. Brown, who lives over on Q. avenue, may be delighted when she steps in to order some of that prime old Stilton and a bottle of olives for Mr. Brown's dinner, but that isn't all. The same Mrs. Brown will think some funny things a couple hours later when she looks out of the side window and sees that old box on wheels, plastered with three weeks' mud, and with your name, yours remember, only rustily legible along the side of the cover, rattle up to her door. And she will likely turn up her nose a little, too, when that boy with the dirty apron and with his hat on one side, lounges up the walk. Your delivery outfit—wagon, horse, harness, boy and all—ought to be, and easily san be, a mighty valuable traveling advertisement for your store.

Think of your grocery wagon as a sort of dining car and keep it just as spick and span as the buffet on the International Limited. You wouldn't think for a minute of having a mussy window or a rusty sign. Well, your delivery outfit is a better reflector of your shop than either, because it's a traveler. A clean and well-appointed delivery wagon traveling around town is about the best suggestion we know as to where to get good groceries, makes one think involuntarily of nutty bacon and fresh biscuits and good coffee. It will pay to give your delivery outfit just as much attention as your interior store arrangements.

GROCERY TRADE NEWS AND FOOD STUFFS OF NOVA SCOTIA

(Special Correspondence of Canadian Grocer.)

Halifax, N,S., July 29.

There is only a fair business passing at present, but it is fully up to the average of other seasons. There is no demand for any particular lines. Sales of sugar, as usual during the preserving season, are quite heavy, and there is a fair trade passing in smoked meats. the prices for which rule very high. Two large cargoes of salt are now on their way to Halifax. The steamer Augusta, from Iviza, has 4,200 tons, tho barque Alfredo, from Alfaque, has 1,415 tons. Both cargoes are for A. N. Whitman.

FISH—The fisheries are looking a little better and some good catches are being made. The prices hold very firm. Two cars of cured fish arrived here last week from Lunenburg, for shipment to the Porto Rico market. The spring catch of the banker "Ambition," which totalled 1,050 quintals, has been purchased in Halifax for $6 per quintal. Late reports from Lunenburg fleet, on the Grand Banks, are as follows:

Schr. Saratoga, 800 qtls.
Schr. Mamie Dell, 800 qtls.
Schr. Muriel L. Young, 1,800 qtls.
Schr. Mattana, 1,600 qtls.
Schr. Earl Grey, 800 qtls.
Schr. Eva June, 1,100 qtls.
Schr. Gladys B. Smith, 750 qtls.
Schr. Henry L. Montague, 400 qtls.
Schr. Alexandria, 750 qtls.
Schr. Arcadia, 800 qtls.
Schr. Cardinia, 1,000 qtls.

All these vessels are still on the banks, but some are expected to return shortly.

There is no large cod to be had in the Barbadoes market, and the medium of the poor quality is selling at high figures. The market is also bare of good pickled fish, and high prices will probably be offered for the first arrivals. Potatoes and onions are also scarce on the same market.

FRUIT—The strawberry season is about over. The crop was not nearly as large as expected owing to the unfavorable weather. The growers received handsome returns for their stock. There is a good demand for fruit, but prices are high. Quotations are:

Bananas, $2 to $2.50 per bunch; cherries, 10 to 12c. per quart; oranges, valencias, $4.50 to $6; lemons, $300 count, $5.50 to $6 per case; pines, 20 to 30c. each; watermelons, 40 to 45c. each; cocoanuts, $4 per bag; California pears $5 per box; California plums, $2.50 to $3; California peaches, $2.75 to $3.

BUTTER AND EGGS — The receipts of butter are about up to the average. Dairy, small tubs, are selling at 21 cents, and prints at 22 cents. Creamery is quoted at 23 to 24 cents. Some butter can be purchased at lower prices, but the quality is poor. Eggs are firm at 17 cents, with ony a fair demand. It is not expected that the price will go any lower. Cheese is selling at 13 cents for large, and 13½ cents for small.

PRODUCE—Local grown produce is now coming on the market, such as potatoes, turnips, beets, carrots and cabbage, The early potatoes are of good quality. They are quoted at $2 per bushel. The crops throughout the province are all looking very good.

The Wolfville Board of Trade will be represented at the Maritime Board of Trade meeting by W. M. Black, J. D. Chambers, W. T. Ford, V. B. Oakes, Dr. DeWitt, J. F. Herbin and Dr. Lawrence.

THE GROCERY BUSINESS FOR THE BOY

Some Advice by an Old Stager.

I was asked the other day by a fond mother and father which store I would recommend to put their boy in to learn the grocery business. I asked them if they had money enough to start him up in business after he had learned it. They said "No," but that the work was light and easy and the wages, no doubt, good, and he could soon save enough to start himself. I told them to start him sawing wood or something else, but for goodness sake keep him out of the grocery business as a money maker and saver for the clerk. Afterwards I thought about it. Did you ever think, "What is a grocer?" Any Tom, Dick or Harry who is sick of the farm or shop, as the case may be, and can borrow or is left money enough, will get hold of a store and put out a sign: "John So-and-So, Grocer." What right has he to call himself a grocer? He never had any experience, doesn't know one kind of tea or coffee or anything else from another, but just has the price, and mind you, very often they make a success. But some lose their money and they certainly deserve to lose. Because they have a dollar or two do they think that makes a grocer? A great many people think running a grocery business is just standing behind the counter with a nice smile and handing the goods out, getting the money, running to the bank and the day's work is done. Anybody can give the stuff away but it takes a man to sell it just as much in a grocery store as anywhere elese in fact, more so in my opinion.

Now, why should we not have a stated time, say three or four years, and let the boys serve their time as they used to do in the Old Country? Take the moulder, or almost any other trade; after learning the trade they can command a stated wage or grade of salaries. Not so in the grocery business in Canada. We have no system, nor anything to show when a man is qualified to call himself a grocer. How many practical grocers are in your town? Just count them. Then, again, take a glance at the clerks. How many clerks that have been years at the business even, are grocers? You can pick out any 15 or 20 out of stores in any town in Canada and find just as many clerks who think they are grocers as there are Johnnie So-and-Sos. Grocers! Now this should not be so. Sometimes it is the clerk's fault and sometimes it is the store they are supposed to learn the business in. I think the majority of grocery clerks are underpaid as well as uneducated in the trade, if it can be called a trade. There are clerks, and also salesmen, and a good many breeds at that. We have the fellow who is a good talker and can sell, and another who is a good stock-keeper, and so on down the line. But I venture to say you can pick out without much trouble the few who are what I would call all-round practical grocers. They just fit into a certain place, like the fixtures, and they stay there year in and year out. But there are hundreds of clerks selling tea and coffee, for instance, who don't know, or care for that matter, where it grows, or even know the different varieties, and the same applies right through the stock.

HOMEWARD BOUND.

Gottfried H. Crone, who has been for the past year and a half studying the foreign produce business in the office of J. L. Watt & Scott, Toronto, sailed on the 24th inst. on the "Vaderland" to spend two months' vacation with his parents in Amsterdam. He then goes to Singapore to study the business at the exporting end, prior to visiting his father's properties in Java and Borneo.

Mr. Crone, while living in Toronto, formed many friendships, as well in social as commercial circles, and carries with him the very best wishes of all who know him.

He looks forward to a return visit to Toronto.

LIVE SALESMANSHIP

Some Shoulder Hits on Honesty, The Foundation of all Salesmanship.

This page will be published regularly, at least once a month, and will deal with subjects primarily of interest to travellers and clerks. The next paper will treat of "Horse Sense and its Application to Business."

What does honesty mean to the man who is selling things? What does it represent to the owner of a store? To the one, advancement and the confidence of his employers; to the other, more customers and increased business. To say that honesty is the foundation of all business is a truism. To declare that it is the poor man's stepping-stone from penury to pate-de-foie-gras is a platitude. It is not honesty of the George Washington kind that business men are looking for to-day. "I cannot tell a lie," said little George, with the parental slipper in the corner of his mind's eye; and right there George passed up a chance of changing the face of history at the expense of a licking. But the man who is going to get to the top to-day is not the fellow that says: "I cannot tell a lie," but the one who will go ahead and tell the truth.

Honesty is one asset of which there is never a glut on the market. Like other staple commodities, the pure article is always in demand. The trouble is that honesty can be defined in several different ways, and many salesmen who would quit their jobs if they were accused of dishonesty are not above stooping to certain forms of chicanery and trickery that they would be the first to condemn in another man.

Negative and Positive Honesty.

Honesty may be negative or positive. Negative honesty is the sort that prevents a clerk stealing money from the cash-drawer. Positive honesty is the sort that makes him do his level best to add to it. Honesty and energy go hand in hand. Slyness and slackness are never far apart.

A traveler of my acquaintance once approached his employer for a rise in wages. "I have worked faithfully for you for two years," said he, "and I consider the value of my services to be represented very inadequately by the amount of my salary. I want more money and I am prepared to quit if I do not get it."

"Your request is not unreasonable," said his employer, "and to be candid with you I have been expecting it for some time. I do not deny that you have worked faithfully and, in your own estimation, conscientiously; but can you point to one thing which you have done to advance my interests outside of the work which you are actually paid to do? Can you show me any tangible proof of your having contributed to my success beyond what I pay you to contribute? Have you studied my business as you would have studied it had it been your own? I believe you to be honest according to your lights, and if you can assure me that you have done any one of these things I will take your word for it and double your salary."

The traveler, having nothing to say, said it. Realizing that his employer's remarks were beyond controversy, he made no denial of them, but showed that he was made of good stuff by not quitting as he had threatened. He took the hint which his boss had given him, and his determination to succeed bore fruit sooner than he had anticipated. A year after this conversation took place the wholesaler opened a branch of his business in another city, and offered the salesman the management of it, which was promptly accepted. The merchant is one of the best known wholesalers in the Lower Provinces, and his erstwhile traveler is the junior partner, with a third interest in the business.

Positive honesty was responsible for the rise of this man. Negative honesty alone would have left him a traveler for the remainder of his life.

A Receipt for Success.

F. N. Higinbotham, one of the most successful partners the late Marshall Field ever had, when asked to give in as few words as possible a receipt for success, replied with emphasis: "Do more than you are paid to do. Be constantly on the lookout for opportunities to make yourself useful."

This covers the matter like a blanket. Pages and books could and have been written on success, which depends on honesty, but their whole contents put together never said a word more than this: "Do more than you are paid to do. Be constantly on the lookout for opportunities to make yourself useful."

The business world is simply a vast race-track, and there are no favorites. The best man wins every time. The best man, like the best horse, is not best by chance, but by training.

> Work wins.
> Self-confidence and conceit are no relation.
> Energy, unless backed by intelligence, runs amuck.
> Initiative was invented before imitation.

THE CLERKS' COLUMN.

The following advice was issued in bulletin form from a sales manager's office and is full of pith and horse sense:—

New Customers.

Whenever you strike what you know to be a new customer be sure and hand the name and address to the manager.

He will do the "follow up" part and see that she comes again. He will in the first place acknowledge her business with us by a letter of thanks.

Don't overlook this. Under no circumstances must we lose a customer through any fault of ours.

A record will be kept of the clerk that hands in such names and due credit will be given him for the interest he may take in this excellent way of holding new trade.

Complaints.

Whatever criticism you may hear from time to time about the store, don't hesitate to report it. Getting face to face with our faults is the only way we can remedy them.

We must overcome any prejudice that may exist about our business. The mere fact that it is prejudice makes us all the more earnest to fight it.

State the facts as you hear them. The firm is broad enough to listen to all sides and will think all the more of you for being candid.

Personal Interest in Orders.

Since a more personal interest has been taken in the filling of orders we have had far less complaints.

Check personally and put up any item you are in doubt about going out wrong and put the name plainly on the bundle. Continue to do this and we will continue to have an increase of pleased customers.

Other Stores' Prices.

Although we do not govern our prices by those of other stores, yet in all cases where you hear of a store selling the same article for less price than we charge, it is your privilege and your duty to report it.

This applies to every department.

This is in line with what we wrote last week about criticism. Do not hesitate to report what you hear, whether favorable or unfavorable.

One of the men responded very intelligently to this Monday morning. It indicated his interest in the "Mutual Aid" sheet and also in his work.

Advertising.

Such splendid interest is being shown in the ads. by all employes that we are first in the morning to make good the prices advertised.

Remember these prices are mostly figured down to cost, the object being to get the people in the store. We must interest them in other goods besides those in the paper in order to make advertising pay.

Report all new customers.

Our Factory now boasts the most up-to-date equipment for making Catsup in Canada. We also have one of the best Catsup Cooks on the continent.

Last fall we bought tons and tons of the finest Rose Tomatoes. These have been washed, scalded, peeled and seeded, then have gone through the process of making them into Ozo Brand Tomato Catsup. Nothing of the delicious flavor of the ripe tomato has been taken away, and our chef's blending of the spices and condiments has given it an appetizing piquancy that cannot be equalled.

Along with this habit, practice the one of speaking a word to the waiting customer. We notice with pleasure that this is being done in a very agreeable manner by some of the clerks. By simply saying "I'll be with you in a minute of two" you show interest in your work. Keep it up.

Your Time Has a Commercial Value.

"I believe a great many waste valuable time in the mornings in the office and do not get out into their territories as promptly as they should. The morn- is the best time of the day. The agent feels better and the P.P.'s feel better. If you want to spend time talking things over, take the latter part of the afternoon; don't take the early mornings, especially in the spring time when the mornings are beautiful and everybody feels good.

We have mentioned this a great many times in the past, and I hope that our district managers and office managers will see to it that the agents do not spend too much time in the office. I think that we sometimes imagine we are very busy because we are talking to someone, when, as a matter of ract, we are doing nothing but wasting time.

The successful agent—the man who saves money—is not the man who hangs around the office or who wastes any time when he is out of the office. Learn to do business quickly. Some men cover twice as much ground as other men, because they know the value of time. Their business judgment tells them how to use their time to the best advantage. These are the men who are drawing the big checks in this business. Make every minute count while you are doing business."

HUGH CHALMERS,
Vice-President and General Manager, National Cash Register Company.

POTATO-GROWING IN NEW BRUNSWICK

The exceptional fertility of the soil makes potato culture a profitable business.

New Brunswick is rapidly coming to the front and occupying a prominent position among the provinces of the Dominion in potato culture. It is only within the last few years that the farmers of the province down by the sea have awakened to the fact that in the raising of potatoes they had a rare opportunity of making money. The thousands of settlers who have been pouring into the western portion of the Dominion have created a greater demand for the tubers, and during the past couple of years especially, the demand has been so great and the prices offered so attractive, that the farmers have been going into this branch of agriculture more extensively than ever before.

Blind to Their Opportunities.

A few years ago, there seemed to be an idea among the farmers living in the counties along the Maine border, that their own soil was not suitable for potato growing, and seeing their neighbors in the adjoining republic getting rich out of their potato crops, many of them sold their farms and traveled across the line, where they bought land and went in for potato raising on a foreign soil.

Gradually, however, the New Brunswick farmers saw their opportunities, and one after another took up in earnest the growing of potatoes.

Last year, immense quantities were shipped to Ontario and Quebec, and also to the West Indies. Farmers who left their New Brunswick lands a few years ago are returning and buying farms at an increase in value of 50 to 100 per cent.

One farmer tells of having paid $5,000 for a farm a few years ago and of being offered $15,000 for it this summer, and this is only one instance; there are many more, showing the large increase in land values.

A Record Yield.

In Carleton county this year the crops will be enormously in excess of all previous years. One man alone has put in fifty acres of potatoes, planting 450 barrels of seed. Farmers who last year planted five barrels of seed are this year putting in ten, and so on all over the county, double the quantity put in last year being put in this year.

He is considered a small farmer, indeed, who is only putting in five barrels of seed. The majority of them have planted considerably more, many having 100, 150 or 200 barrels of seed put in.

The increase is not altogether confined to Carleton county either; York, Victoria and Westmoreland are also making rapid strides.

Many of the farmers are selling their cattle and going in for potatoes altogether. The farmers say they can make a good profit if they sell their potatoes for 80 or 90 cents, but last winter great quantities were sold at $2.40 and $2.50 a barrel.

Judging from the present outlook the crop this year will be far and away ahead of all previous records.

Hay is also being raised more extensively than in former years past and there will be more New Brunswick hay on the market this year than ever before. The weather during the past few weeks has been most favorable for the crops.

CANNERS BUSY.

"Too Many Orders" is Their Complaint—The Crop Prospects.

Jas. B. Campbell, of the Acme Canning Co., Montreal, speaking to a Canadian Grocer representative the other day, said: "Peas are going to be a short crop this year, but we are going to have more strawberries than we had last season. If I had $50,000 I'd spend it on strawberries at their present price of $2.25. In my opinion, you will see strawberries reach $3 before this time next year.

"No, I'm not down here looking for business. I've come to find out exactly how much my customers will be satisfied with. Just now it's a question of not 'How much do you need?' but 'How little will you take?'

"I called on a man the other day who had a big contract with us. I wanted to find out his exact requirements. Before I could speak ,he said: 'Mr. Campbell, I hate to do it, but I find I can't handle the amount I contracted for. My contract gave me the option of cancelling 25 per cent. of the total order, and I guess I'll have to take advantage of it. I'd like to cancel two cars, but cut out one and we'll let it go at that.'

" 'Mr. Blank,' I said, 'I'll make you a counter proposition. Cancel one car, and I'll say 'Thank you,' and leave your office as good friends with you as when I came in. Cancel two, and I'll buy you a box of the best cigars in Quebec province and remember you in my will, besides.'

" 'Well,' he said, 'if that's the way the land lies, I guess I'll only cancel one.' "

Applied commercially it is especially true as regards

ARE YOU AWARE

of the fact that we put up a Chutney Sauce which is admittedly the best sauce on the market? If you are not, let us make you aware of the fact. If you are, let us send you a shipment, for it is the one sauce no grocer can afford to be without. It possesses a piquancy and distinctive flavor which render it absolutely unique and the man who has not yet tasted it on cold roasts or hot steaks or chops, has missed a treat. It shows a good margin of profit and is in demand all over the world, amongst all classes of men. Place an order with your wholesaler at once, and insist on his giving you what you and your customers want. If he does not stock our Chutney Sauce, have him import it for you.

Sense and Cents

Common sense or dollars and cents—which counts for most in making a trade?

Common sense says plainly "buy standard goods"; dollars and cents (your pocketbook) tempts you to buy cheap, nameless articles of trade that will grow dim, dusty, dirty on your shelves. Common sense counts for most in making a trade.

Griffin & Skelley's Dried Fruits

"The pick of the pack," please remember that. Don't forget, either, that they come from the largest vineyards and orchards on the Pacific Coast---picked and packed right where they grow.

Apricots, Peaches, Pears, Nectarines, Raisins, Dried Plums, Prunes. Clean as a whistle always. Choice Dried Fruits.

Cox's Gelatine Standard Gelatine of known worth ---known quality---known purity. Never disappoints the most particular housekeeper. Oldest brand and "best," because tried, tested, trusted. In powdered and shredded form.

Sold by leading wholesalers.

There are more than a few reasons for the preference, so unanimously expressed, by the women of Canada in favor of

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

Canned Fruits and Vegetables

The climate, where our products come from, is ideal for the gradual and thorough nourishment of the vegetable kingdom. Too sunny lands and sultry winds mean premature growth and quick decay and nowhere else on the globe are climatic conditions just right for the best fruits and vegetables. Then we better nature's work by eliminating all fruits and vegetables showing the least symptoms of coming taint, and, mind you, the scrutiny of our experts is microscopic in its severity.

Canada's Ideal Canning Factory

Home of Old Homestead Brand

And there you see Canada's best canning factory—in fact, the ideal one. The ultra cleanliness of the place goes without saying. Numerous devices, making for perfection, obtain therein. Extravagant! No sir! We had simply determined to give you the concentrated goodness of fruits and vegetables in cans—a goodness so unapproachable by even the next best brand that the particular women of Canada called OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND—"Incomparable." People who want fruit and vegetable goodness condensed, order OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND. Can you supply the demand?

The "Quality" Salt

Since "the proof of the pudding is in the eating" we think that Windsor Salt has proved up by facts, by sales, by test. It passed the "comparison" stage long ago—now other salts are proved by "Windsor".

If "other salts" prove up, 50 per cent. that means they are 50 per cent. as pure, white, crystalline as Windsor Salt.

Windsor Salt is the so-called weather gauge —the testing glass —the "prover" — the one hundred per cent salt.

CAN THE TRADE GET TOGETHER?

Suggestion that Retailers, Wholesalers and Manufacturers have a Conference.

By our Hamilton Correspondent.

The best suggestion I have heard yet, is that a meeting be called of the representatives of the Retail Grocers, Wholesale Grocers and Manufacturers some time in the near future. If the president of the Wholesale Grocers' Guild would study this matter up, I think he would be the best man to call the meeting—as he is in touch with all three parties, and if circulars were sent out asking for positive answers from each, whether or not they would attend, it would place the affair in a position where it would be a success as to attendance at least. In towns and cities the associations should send a delegate and pay his expenses, and also chip in to help pay the expense of the gathering. Now, I may be rather sanguine about the benefit of a meeting of this character, but it looks to me now as if it was the best thing that could happen. Even if it were only small in numbers, this first meeting would be a starter. Surely the grocers of this country are willing to better their position. The benefits arriving from conferences of this character would, I think, be incalculable. The retail men in Canada have been the willing slaves of the jobber and manufacturers long enough, and it is high time that they held up their heads and asserted their rights to the others—and I think both manufacturers and jobbers would heartily embrace the opportunity to meet with the retailers, and let measures be passed that would make the retail business not only more pleasant but more profitable as well.

There is no question that it would please the manufacturer, for all he knows now about the retailer is what it pleases the jobber to tell him. Let some of the best retailers in the province be selected, men who are able to state the facts in good form. It will possibly be a surprise to Mr. Manufacturer to be apprised of the straight facts of what is going on with his goods, just a clear cut statement with out frills. Now Mr. Editor, if this suggestion meets with favor in your eyes, why would it not be a good thing for you to ask Mr. President Beckett for his opinion in the matter. I always look to him as the man to put the trade on their mettle for a betterment of conditions for all concerned.

A number of smaller groceries have changed hands during the last week, the owners giving up because they were losing money, but found no trouble in getting buyers for their stock. The old saying about the birth of a sucker every minute stills holds good.

TRADE BETWEEN CANADA AND MEXICO.

Prominent Mexican Official in Montreal Discusses Trade Possibilities with Canadian Grocer.

One of the recent visitors to Montreal, seen by The Canadian Grocer, was His Excellency, Enrique Creel, Ambassador to the United States from Mexico, and Governor of Chihuahua. He came to Montreal with a three-fold purpose. He desired to look over the ground with a view to seeing in what manner trade relations between Canada and Mexico might be promoted; wished to study, as much as would be possible on a short visit, Canada's immigration policy, and was interested in having explained to him the workings of the strike laws now in force in the Dominion.

His Excellency thinks there is a great field for trade between the two countries, and is only too anxious to see business relations between Canada and Mexico developed as they should be.

"We have many products in Mexico," said he, "which could be exported to Canada in exchange for Canadian goods needed in Mexico. Take sugar, for instance, which we could export in large quantities. Some lots have been sent on here to the refiners and it pleased them, but we cannot at present develop this trade for the reason that the tariff regulations are such that we cannot compete with British colonies supplying this market. Mexico is paying to-day a duty of 71c per 100 lbs. on sugar, and when one considers that sugar from the British colonies secures a rebate of 33 per cent. it is easily seen that the colonies will get the preference because they can undersell us. Mexicans are in hopes, however, that the Canadian Government will see its way clear to reduce this tariff in some way in favor of Mexico. While at present our annual yield of sugar is large, it could be greatly increased were Canada secured as a market, as we have much land ready for cultivation.

"Tobacco is grown in large quantities in Mexico, and it is of the finest quality in the world. Each year we are in a position to ship large quantities to Canada if a market is created here.

"Then we have our coffees, which are of the finest grades; we have hemp, goatskins, hides, and numerous other products, abundant in Mexico, for which there is use in Canada.

"As for imports, in Mexico Canadian wheat and flour can very often be used, since our crops are not always as large as we could wish, and, as a result, we have to call on other parts of the world for supplies. Other grains we could use would include barley, of which we require an enormous quantity, and oats which are in great demand also. So I could go on, mentioning lumber, railway ties, and innumerable other Canadian products which would find a ready sale in Mexico.

"All that is required for the building up of a great trade between the two countries is the active co-operation of the two Governments. Trade with Canada has increased at least five hundred per cent. during the past five years. It will increase still more if proper aid is given by the Governments of the two countries. As you know there was recently inaugurated a steamship line between the two countries. This is helping considerably. It remains for the Canadian Government to encourage trade. Mexico is willing to do its share."

While in Montreal, Mr. D. A. Ansell, Consul-General for Mexico in Canada, introduced His Excellency to many prominent business men.

HALIFAX.

The grocery markets have an exceedingly firm feeling and prices have an upward tendency. All lines of canned goods are now becoming very scarce. Owing to the short crop of strawberries the packers are only delivering about forty-five per cent. of the customers' orders, and that at an advance of twenty-five to fifty cents. Prices of canned vegetables are as yet unknown here, but the indications are that they will be higher. Many of the retailers are making big cuts in the price of sugar. One dealer is advertising 22 pounds of English granulated for one dollar, and another is offering 24 pounds of Austrian granulated for the same money. Ceylon and Indian teas are also very firm and corn meal is advancing. The cheese market is now showing a decline, eggs are advancing and butter is steady with fair receipts.

The market is well supplied with all seasonable produce, but new potatoes are coming in very slowly. Small fruits are in very good supply, such as raspberries, gooseberries, and blueberries, but strawberries are about done.

The Furness-Withy line steamer Rappahannock, which sailed from Halifax last week, took a record-breaking cargo. The steamer is bound for Havre, France, thence she will proceed to London, and she carried 35,000 cases of canned lobsters, consigned to various houses in Havre, and other French cities, and firms in London and Hamburg. This is the largest cargo of lobsters which has ever been carried away from a Canadian port at any one time. Of the shipment 23,000 cases will be landed at Havre, and the balance at London. The shipment is valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars and shows that the lobster industry is not on the wane in Nova Scotia.

There is a scarcity of fresh fish on the local market at present, due to the prevalence of dogfish on the coast, which are very destructive to the gear.

Halifax merchants will suffer considerable inconvenience as a result of the wrecking of the West India line steamer Orinoco on Seal Island Ledges last week, when the vessel's cargo of 13,843 bags, 651 barrels and four tierces of sugar were destroyed. The shipments were: G. P. Mitchell & Sons, 368 bbls., 5,226 bags of sugar; Grant, Oxley & Co., 118 bbls., 437 bags of sugar; H. & M. Smith, 15 bbls. sugar; Canadian Bank of Commerce, 1,050 bags of sugar; Union Bank of Halifax, 3,907 bags of sugar; Bank of British North America, 895 bags of sugar; Colonial Bank, 450 bags of sugar; A. G. Jones & Co., 1,173 bags of sugar; H. R. Silver, 496 bags of sugar; A. G. Jones & Co., 30 pckgs. of molasses; H. R. Silver, 29 pckgs. of molasses; Grant, Oxley & Co., 87 bbls., 92 pckgs. of molasses; G. P. Mitchell & Sons, 58 puncheons of molasses and ten hhds. of lime juice. There were also 95 puncheons of rum in the cargo, besides a small quantity of fruit.

There was a fairly well attended meeting of the Montreal Retail Grocers' Association on Thursday evening of last week. President Laniel was in the chair and in his opening remarks stated that Secretary J. A. Beaudry had left on a trip to France, where he will attend the Governmental Food Fair, which is to be held in Paris, and where he will study the system of co-operative and industrial societies. Mr. Laniel made some interesting remarks to the effect that the association was going ahead nicely, sixty new members having been enrolled lately. He thought that the grocers of the city were gradually beginning to realize that good could be accomplished by the association if the grocers stood together and worked hand in hand in the interests of the trade.

The remaining goods from the annual picnic were to be sold but it was decided to dispose of them at the next meeting.

INGERSOLL.

Townspeople as well as the farmers of the surrounding districts were greatly surprised by the announcement on Saturday that H. Walter Knight had tendered his resignation to the St. Charles Condensing Co., as manager of their large factory here. It is understood that he has accepted the position of general manager of a new concern. The Canadian Condensed Milk Co., who have not yet decided upon a location. Mr. Knight has managed the factory of the St. Charles Condensing Co. here for the past seven years and under his guidance remarkable progress has been made. The capacity has been increased from four thousand to sixty thousand pounds of milk per day. Mr. Knight's departure from Ingersoll will be deeply regretted. He has been deservedly popular with all classes and the new company are to be congratulated on securing a manager of such wide experience. Until a location for the new factory has been decided upon the headquarters of the company will be in Ingersoll.

Ald. C. A. O'Neill is taking a well earned rest from the arduous duties of conducting a first-class grocery store. With Mrs. O'Neill he is enjoying a trip up the lakes.

While many merchants are very enthusiastic over a weekly half holiday there are others who share entirely opposite opinions. And it is not always because the merchants are selfish or fail to recognize the benefit of recreation, but they have learned from experience that the half holiday sometimes interferes very materially with business. The strongest objection to the holiday at this season of the year is on account of the fruits coming in. Many grocers arrange for daily shipments of fruits, and a holiday sometimes means a serious loss when considerable ripe fruit is arriving.

The enterprising grocers are advertising that this will be the last week for cherries. For the past few days they have been arriving in much larger quantities and the demand has been keen. Raspberries are also said to be "in full force" but from the quantities exhibited the supply will be considerably below that of former years. The prices would also indicate a short crop. In previous seasons the berries have about all been marketed before this. This season the crop has been late in maturing and it will soon be over. Fifteen cents per box continues to be the ruling price and in the opinion of the dealers there is not any likelihood of a reduction.

The housewife is in a dilemma. When strawberries were selling at three boxes for a quarter she quickly concluded that the price was too high for her to lay in much of a supply and she decided with a woman's confidence to stock up with other varieties of berries. But, alas! these are also as scarce as were the strawberries with the price almost five cents per box higher.

Hence it transpires that the housewife is really perturbed and there are really good grounds for believing that dried apples and prunes will figure prominently in the desserts next Christmas. The berry crop is not what was anticipated and the price—fifteen cents per box—is greatly in excess of that charged in former years. As yet there has been very little preserving done and many have visions of empty shelves in the cellar when the winter sets in. Berries are a very popular fruit, and when this crop is short there is not very much in the inexpensive kinds of fruits to fall back on. However, there is some consolation in the fact that the apple crop will be a bountiful one, and there will be plenty of apple "sass" if nothing else.

The scarcity of the smaller fruits in many sections will, no doubt, benefit the canned goods trade.

In grocery circles, last week was one of more than ordinary activity, notwithstanding the holiday on Thursday. Excursions and picnics usually add considerably to the grocery trade, and particularly in regard to canned goods, cakes, etc., and with two large excursions out of here in a little over a week, the grocers had a brisk trade in filling the baskets.

LINDSAY.

Lindsay is generally considered to be a fine fruit town. This is largely due to the number of local growers that are found here. Strawberries have been cheaper here than in most towns and they were of the finest quality, ranging in price from thirteen boxes for one dollar to two for twenty-five cents. Tame raspberries are very scarce here this season and the local dealers have to depend largely on outside points to supply them. Wild raspberries and huckleberries are arriving daily from the north country and seem to be plentiful.

Lindsay is noted as being an exceedingly good grocery town and this year has been fully up to the record, this being largely due to the new customers brought here by such new manufactures as the Madison Williams Foundry and the Hood Knitting Co.

New potatoes are going to be plentiful and of fine quality, the prices ranging about 35 cents a peck. A large trade is carried on here in baled hay. During the past season the firm of Adams Bros. have handled a great quantity. Mr. Adams sold three carloads this last week. This will about complete the sale of old hay. New hay is a very fair crop and prospects seem very favorable for a good supply for the coming year.

* * *

Many grocers have been disappointed in the bacon and lard market. It has been a general rule here for merchants to buy a supply of this line about February, with a view to advance in price later on, but this year it can be bought at about the same price, if not lower than at that time, putting the merchants at a disadvantage.

A customer on entering the majority of the stores in this town cannot help but be favorably impressed with their clean and very neat appearance. "A place for everything, and everything in its place." A clean and tidy store counts for much and the customer is made to feel that the produce offered over the counter is thoroughly clean. Many a store is judged by its exterior, but more especially its interior layout and general appearance. An attractive window draws the attention of the pedestrian and the shopper enters to purchase some article displayed or advertised in the window.

In this, also, the retailers of Lindsay are not slow. Windows are dressed and made seasonably attractive.

* * *

This is the holiday season and the hardworking clerks are "getting theirs." A half holiday for the clerks wouldn't come amiss.

LONDON.

The grocery business at the northeast corner of Central avenue and Waterloo street, for some time conducted by J. Walker, has changed hands, R. A. Ross, grocer, York street west, being the purchaser, he having bought the real estate and all. It is evident that some men in the business are making money.

* * *

Less than a dozen of the 182 retail grocers of the city are now members of the local association, and an effort is being made to bring these in. Members of the association are discussing the advisability of holding a ~~in~~ banquet in the fall, in which both wholesalers and retailers might take part.

Nothwithstanding the fact that the travelers are still on their holidays, wholesalers are kept busy filling mail and telephone orders. There is no change in sugars, the demand for which the season of the year considered, is very light, due of course to the scarcity and high price of small fruits. Lower quality teas are still advancing, fine are very firm in price, and all Japans are high. Staple goods of all kinds remain firm, except raisins and currants. The crop and quality of both these fruits are reported excellent, and buyers are therefore looking for lower prices and are ordering at present in small quantities.

The cheese industry in the London district is more than holding its own. Besides the fifty factories which regularly do business in the London market, there are several which have independent arrangements with exporting houses, and do not appear on the London board. Fifteen buyers regularly attend the weekly market here. As compared with a year ago, the offerings for the first three months of this season—May, June and July—show a falling off, being 16,756, as compared with 19,692, a decrease of 2,936. This does not necessarily mean that the factories this year are making less cheese than they did last, for it is known that salesmen are not boarding all the cheese, and private transactions the past three months have been greater than ever before. Prices this season are below the sky-high figures of a year ago, having settled down again to normal. The total number of boxes boarded here in the season of 1906 was 42,000, about 9,000 of which were sold on the board direct and the remainder being disposed of after the close of the market.

Both Gorman, Eckert & Co. and Lind, Kerrigan & Co., are busily engaged settling down in their new premises, and by the time the travelers get to work again will be ready for business.

Prices of all foods and foodstuffs were never so high as they are at present, and were it not that labor finds better remuneration than ever before, it would certainly go hard with the wage earner. As it is, he finds himself much in the same position, so far as being able to save anything from his income is concerned, as he was when commodities were cheaper and he was more poorly paid.

The abolition of liquor salons with restaurant attachments through the refusal of licenses to such places, has resulted in the bringing into being of a number of eating houses, or cafes as they are called, and quick-lunch counters. Almost all of these places are conducted by foreigners—Greeks or Armenians—and the fact that they are able to rent some of the best business premises on Dundas and Richmond streets, is evidence that there is big money in this line of business. Indeed to the demands of the cafe man is believed to be largely due the advance of fully fifty per cent. in rents on the business streets during the past year or so.

PETERBORO.

For many years the Peterborough market has been looked upon with envy by many towns and cities in Ontario. It has been the pride and boast of this city and Saturday and Wednesday were always looked forward to with pleasure by the merchants, who always could depend upon a big business. The farmers and market gardeners came in from points many miles distant in all directions. The trains and boats always carried many extra passengers on Peterborough's market day, while the number of rigs that were driven in more than filled up the hotel driving sheds. Several hundred people offering farm, garden and dairy produce on the market was a common scene, while the amount of groceries, dry goods, etc., that went out of the city made the hearts of the merchants glad.

The past year has seen quite a change. There are still many people coming from outside points, but not nearly so many as in former years. The market is not so largely attended while the prices are higher in nearly every department. This difference is causing the merchants no end of thought. They miss the farm trade, although the volume of business is made up by the increase in the city's population.

The cause of the falling off at the market is due to several things. The methods of doing business are changing. Small general stores have been established all over the county and they take a big share of the country business. Small towns and villages have been growing and reaching out after the trade. This makes a big hole, but probably the one thing that has done most this year to drive the farmers from the market was the several visits of the police when potatoes and butter were seized. In the case of potatoes the farmers were fined because the bags did not come up to the required weight, although the bags were full enough. This was not the fault of the farmers as potatoes weigh less in the spring than in the fall. It is the natural shrinkage and not the desire of the farmer to cheat the public.

In the case of the butter quite a number of well known farmers' wives were in the police court. Their butter had been seized and in some cases it was found to be from half an ounce to two or three ounces short of a full pound. This was due, no doubt, to carelessness more than anything else. But the women were fined. Since then there has been a decided falling off in the attendance. For the action they took the police can hardly be blamed as they were instructed to enforce the bylaw.

Another feature at the market is the prevailing high prices. Eggs are selling at 20c. per dozen and the stores have had to pay as high as 17c. Last year eggs were bought for 14c and sold at at 16c, but now the merchants sell at cost and less than the price the merchants get. Butter is also high and so far the stores have had to pay from 20c up all season, which is at least 3c a pound more than heretofore.

MONTREAL.

G. H. Munro, of Munro Bros., the St. Antoine Street grocers, is spending a month's holiday on a visit to the Pacific coast, in company with two of his brothers.

In the uptown district some of the grocers find that trade this summer is better than is usually the case during July and August. Chas. Thomson, of the English Provision Company, was one of those who found things going better this year than last, and, speaking to The Grocer, said he thought the reason lay in the fact that many people going away for the summer rented their apartments to transient city visitors who came to town for a month or two on business or for other purposes.

During the past couple of years a great many new apartment houses have been erected in the uptown district and as people living in them pay a stiff rental they are many of them anxious to rent their furnished home during their summer vacation, to responsible parties. These people must live, and hence the increased business. There is a lot in what Mr. Thomson says, and hustling uptown grocers ought to be able to help out their dull summer months by getting after this trade.

* * *

The city council has wakened up to the fact that St. Paul Street is very badly in need of repair, and the worst part of that thoroughfare has been relaid. The business houses in that district are gratified to have the street once more in a condition approximating upon what they have a right to expect.

* * *

There are too many combines for the good of the trade to-day, according to some grocers we have been speaking to lately. They say they don't trust the goods manufactured by combines as they do those put up by private individuals. When a man is turning out his own goods he is forced to consider quality first of all and as a result he will not allow any deterioration in their merits. If his quality fails his competitor has the better of him. When there is a combine, all the manufacturers worth while are under one head. They have the whole field to themselves and have not the interest in sustaining quality which they had when running their own show. How much truth is there in this?

WOODSTOCK.

H. I. Clarkson, one of the city's most popular business men, will shortly remove to Toronto, where he has purchased a grocery business. For a considerable number of years Mr. Clarkson has been a member of the firm of Clarkson Bros., builders and contractors, and his departure from the city will be regretted by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances. Mr. Clarkson made a success of the business, with which he has been connected, and we hope he will enjoy uninterrupted prosperity as a member of the white-aproned brigade.

If Woodstock does not get the milk condenser, which the Borden Condensed Milk Company, of New York, will this fall erect in this district, there will be a lot of disappointed men here. However, from the present status of the negotiations, which have been in progress for the past couple of months, between the company and the civic officials, there seems no reason to doubt the desire of the company to locate here and the only thing necessary to bring them is the sanction of the ratepayers, when the necessary by-law is submitted. For a long time the matter of an adequate supply of water proved a stumbling block to the successful outcome of the negotiations. The water commissioners feared that it would be impossible to give them the two hundred and fifty thousand gallons per twenty-four hours that they wanted, without seriously stinting the domestic supply, and the supply to other manufacturers, but Ald. Dr. Mearns, a man with a lot of municipal experience, pointed out to them the error of their way, and showed how a large enough quantity of water was going to waste, to supply the condenser twice over. So that difficulty was smoothed over, and the guarantee made. A representative of the company was in the city this week. He committed the company to coming here, after he learned all he wished about certain points and an agreement was drawn up by the city solicitor and sent to the head officials of the company for their signatures. Upon its return the council will hold a special meeting to deal with it. The by-law will then be advertised and submitted to the ratepayers at the earliest possible date. Within three months after the passing of the by-law, it is proposed to have the factory erected and in operation, handling from seventy to one hundred thousand pounds of milk per day. The building and equipment will cost from $75,000 to $100,000. The matter means a lot to Woodstock, and the proposition is being viewed with the greatest of favor by every citizen. We have not heard one man say a word against it, not even those who have hitherto kicked against everything. The company get a free site, exemption from taxation for all save school purposes for ten years, and free sewer connection. They do not ask for any loan. They will employ about one hundred hands in commencing, and will bring in to the city every morning from one hundred and fifty to two hundred farmers. It will make every day a market day in the capital of Oxford.

Mr. Geo. Parker, one of the best men in the business locally, appeared at the meeting of the public school board last night, of which he is a member, without his mustache. He looked like a preacher or a college professor.

Mr. W. J. Chave, for many years a teacher on the staff of the public schools, a few months ago secured leave of absence for the balance of the spring term. He went out to British Columbia, and a short time ago word came back that he had bought out a grocery business at Fernie, B.C., and would locate there. Mr. Chave was a fine resident, and will be missed, as will be his wife. They were both active and zealous members of the Oxford Baptist church.

A TRADE PICNIC

The large number of grocer excursions and picnics on July 17, suggested the feasibility of the grocers of Ontario uniting next year to hold a great trade picnic and demonstration at some suitable place. The idea was put forward in an editorial inviting discussion. Following is a letter by a leading London grocer and we want more of them:

To the Editor Canadian Grocer: With reference to holding a united picnic and demonstration next year, I have given the matter serious thought and have also talked it over with the grocers of London. As London is the most central part, I think it is the most suitable place for a picnic of that kind to be held. I believe it would be a great success and that much good would result therefrom. At our next regular meeting here I will have the matter taken up, and if the association think favorably of the matter, we will begin at once to prepare for it.

BUSINESS MEN IN PUBLIC LIFE

No. 25.

Theodore H. Estabrooks.

Though a comparatively young man, Theodore H. Estabrooks, wholesale tea merchant, St. John, N.B., occupies an important position in the affairs of that city. In commercial life he has made a name for himself as a shrewd, clear-headed business man, who has been eminently successful as head of one of the largest tea houses in Canada. The name "Red Rose," which he adopted some years ago as the designation by which his principal line of teas would be known, is now a household word all over Canada, and the name has been made synonymous with purity and perfection in teas.

Mr. Estabrooks has not however, confined all his time to his business, but in matters of public interest in his own city, he has been a prominent figure. At the present time he is on the harbor commission of five prominent St John citizens, which was recently appointed to formulate a scheme for harbor development and improvement; and the attention and time he has given to the question in the past, fit him to be of valuable service in this important matter affecting the future of Canada's winter port.

He is a prominent and energetic member of the Board of Trade, New Brunswick Tourist Association and Exhibition Association. He has been a member of the executive boards of these organizations for a number of years, and has always taken an active interest in them. He has been a member of several important delegations to Ottawa, on matters of importance to the trade of St. John, and has always shown that he possesses a clear grasp of the needs of the port to fit it for the responsible position it occupies in the trade of the Dominion. He is a member of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, and served on the St. John tax commission which completed its work last year.

Mr. Estabrooks is also on the executive of the Protestant Orphans' Home, Boy's Industrial Home and the Associated Charities, as well as being interested in several industrial enterprises.

Mr. Estabrooks was born at Wicklow, Carleton County, N.B., on Dec. 28, 1861. He was educated in the public schools, the grammar school at Sheffield, and on coming to St. John, took a commercial course in Kerr's Business College. In April, 1884, he entered the employ of W. F. Harrison & Co., on Smythe street. He was with the firm for ten years, one year as junior and the remaining nine years as chief clerk or manager.

On the first of May, 1894, he commenced business for himself on Dock street, dealing chiefly with the import and export trade with the West Indies. The tea trade was at that time of minor importance, but gradually grew until Mr. Estabrooks gave his whole attention to it. He foresaw that a change must come, and that the direct importation and the blending and packing of teas would become a great business in St. John, and also that the teas of India and Ceylon would steadily grow in favor of this territory. His foresight and energy resulted in the development of a business of national extent.

Outgrowing the premises on Dock street, he removed to No's. 11 and 12 North Wharf, and these quarters being also soon found to be too small, he built for himself on Mill street, occupying in October, 1903, the large and handsome brick block where he is now situated. This building is the largest in Canada devoted exclusively to the tea trade.

Mr. Estabrooks now employs over seventy people. He has seventeen travelers, covering practically the whole of Canada, Newfoundland and a portion of the New England States. He has branches in Toronto and Winnipeg. He has in his St. John warehouse a complete modern equipment for blending, weighing, packing and labelling teas, and his establishment is therefore an important local industry.

Mr. Estabrooks might well be called "a captain of industry," who is a credit to St. John and to the Dominion.

THEODORE H. ESTABROOKS.

Walter Mitchell, manager of Bovril Limited, has returned from Fernie, B.C. Mr. Mitchell has purchased a fruit farm near Fernie and intends going out to superintend it in time for next season.

W. G. A. Lambe, Toronto, was a caller at the offices of the Canadian Grocer when in Montreal last week. He reports business good with his firm and anticipates brisk fall trade.

Love of virtue, devotion to honor and courage to maintain these principles everywhere and at all times, set upon any man the distinctive seal of true nobility.

LAW AGAINST PRICE-CUTTING.

Missouri has put into force legislation which should meet with the approval of retailers everywhere, the purpose of the law being to check the indiscriminate price-cutting indulged in by unwise or jealous-minded retailers. The first section of the new law reads as follows:

"Any person, or firm, company, association or corporation, foreign or domestic, doing business in the State of Missouri, and engaged in the production, manufacture or distribution of any commodity in general use, that shall intentionally, for the purpose of destroying the business of a competitor in any locality, discriminate between different sections, communities or cities of this State, by selling such commodity at a lower rate in one section, community or city, than is charged for said commodity by said party in another section, community or city, after making due allowance for the difference, if any, in the grade or quality, and in the actual cost of transportation from the point of production, if a raw product, or from the point of manufacture, if a manufactured product, shall be deemed guilty of unfair discrimination, which is hereby prohibited and declared unlawful."

The remainder of the law is devoted to an enumeration of penalties, which include the revocation of permission to do business within the State, fines from $500 to $5,000, and imprisonment in the county jail. While the dealer might say when he cuts the price on a certain article that his motive was not to drive a competitor out of business it can hardly be anything other than he might have wished to clear certain goods out of stock, but that, too, like the many other reasons he might give, is demoralizing to his business, as it is to any other, and it is to be regretted that it prevails to such a considerable extent. The sooner that this evil is abolished, which can only be done by co-operation, which to be successful requires immediate and concentrated action, the better for the trade as a whole.

MARITIME BOARD OF TRADE

No business organization in Canada is more worthy the support of its members than the Maritime Board of Trade. It has been justified by its works and what it has done is but an earnest of its possibilities. The year's meeting opens in St. John on Aug. 21 and it is expected to excel that of a year ago at Amherst. The veteran and able secretary, Charles W. Creed, writing last week of that meeting, said: "In my view the meeting at Amherst was the best since the board was formed."

In the same letter Mr. Creed wrote: "The Government at Ottawa took notice of nearly all the resolutions and the greater portion of them were discussed in Parliament. The Nova Scotia Government also fell into line. Technical education is an assured fact and the Government is now looking for a site on which to erect the college. A Bureau of Publicity and Immigration has also been established."

This is all very encouraging and should excite every member of the board and every business man in the Maritime Provinces to put forth an effort to make this year's meeting a new record for activity and attainment.

PLAIN TALK TO CUSTOMERS.

A general merchant in western Canada recently sent the following circular letter to his customers announcing his change from the credit to the cash system of doing business:

"After twelve years of successful merchandizing, I have sold my interest in the old store and stock, thereby putting myself in a better position to serve you. I now have a clean new stock of general merchandise, bought for cash at close competition between the largest wholesale houses. In opening my new stock for your inspection, it is my purpose to so shape my business policy that all will receive like treatment, and there is but one way in which that end can be reached—by selling strictly for cash.

"You can readily understand how it is impossible not to discriminate when a credit business is being done, when its workings are explained to you. 'A,' a cash customer, buys $200 worth of goods in a year. 'B' buys $200 worth on a year's credit. Money being worth 6 per cent., 'B' pays only $188 for the same amount of goods that 'A' pays $200 for. In other words, the merchant pays 'B' a premium of $12 for not paying cash (out of money that ought to go to 'A:)—besides the expense caused by 'B' in bookkeeping and the loss in bad debts. These premiums, amounting to $1,200 on $20,000 credit business, together with extra expenses and losses, as above, I propose to pay in dividends to all my customers, by pricing my goods so much below what I would have to get for them were I doing a credit business.

"A few years ago a strictly cash system would hardly have been the thing, while to-day modern merchandising conditions, as well as the financial conditions of our people demand it. I need make no exceptions to my rule, as my price concessions will confirm you in the belief that I am right. The price of every article in my stock is marked in plain figures, and that is the price to all. I take this opportunity to thank all old patrons for the confidence they have heretofore placed in me, and trust they will be able to take advantage of my price concessions."

A GOOD ADDRESS.

The address on another page by President Judson, of the National Association of Wholesale Grocers of the United States, should be read by every retailer, as well as wholesaler. It expresses in a large way the right attitude of the man in trade. It is just as true of the retailer as of the wholesaler that if he does not keep abreast of the times, he cannot complain if his business goes into other hands. And it surely will. It maybe to the catalogue house and it may be to the competitor next door to him, but in the last analysis only so long as he serves the public as well for less money or better for the same money than the service could be secured for other channels only so long and no longer will his position as a trade factor be secure and his business prestige be unimpaired.

Mr. Judson takes a sane view of things. He recognizes the position of the man on the other side of the counter and he recognizes his own responsibility.

Markets and Market Notes

QUEBEC MARKETS

POINTERS—
Fish—Revised.
Raisins—Australians offering.
Honey—New crop expected.

Montreal, August 8, 1907.

Considering that jobbers do not expect a great volume of business in the summer months, trade cannot be called poor. Very satisfactory orders have been received by most of the wholesale houses, in fact, one firm reports a good increase over last year's summer business. Collections are good.

There is still considerable interest manifested in canned goods. Some blueberries, packed by independent canners, are being purchased at 85c. Asparagus tips are now offering, new pack. Little business is being done in sugar, wholesalers reporting a falling off in demand. Molasses is subject to a good steady demand. Teas continue firm. China greens are up, and most all teas are scarce. Australian raisins are now offered at about seven cents. Valencia raisins will, apparently, be plentiful and reasonable as to price. The currant crop promises well. Figs will be received here quite early this year as compared to former seasons, owing to the new tariff. Coffees are looking up, but spices continue quiet. New crop honey is expected shortly. Butter is high and sales are not large. Cheese is also high and trade is limited. Hams and bacon are in fair demand, but lard is slow.

SUGAR—Sugars are stationary at the moment. Affairs seem to have reached a climax, and buyers in the States are not anxious to take hold of any quantities for the time being. As a consequence there is but the usual consumptive trade, and even this has fallen off a little since last week.

TEA—The tea situation remains more or less strained. Teas are not lying around in quantities with no one to take hold of them. Japans command the centre of the tea stage, and third crop reports are still coming in. Third crop teas appear to be none too plentiful, certainly not many lots are coming forward, and nothing to speak of is arriving in Montreal on consignment. From reports to hand it would seem there are no large holdings of third crop teas in Japan. From this it would seem that prices this fall would be firm, unless some new factor at present not reckoned with enters upon the situation. In China greens, gunpowders are up 1c. to 1½c. Nothing much is obtainable in Indian or Ceylon blacks under 15c.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS — From all indications there will be a plentiful crop of Valencia raisins this year and prices will be satisfactory to buyers in consequence. At the moment Valencias command high prices locally, although the market is slightly easier than last week. Australian raisins are beginning to arrive. Jobbers have not bought heavily, but rather have bought in small quantities to tide them over the 'tween seasons and to feel the market. These raisins are of nice appearance, thin-skinned, and of good keeping quality. The cost to the retailer will be around seven cents. Valencias cost 8c, to 9c., and there are few lots lying around. Currants will be abundant, from reports which have been received. The crop is estimated at 165,000 tons, which is about the same as last year. There is not a great deal of business being done in new crop goods, apparently many houses being afraid to be caught short selling as they were last year. Smyrna figs will likely be obtainable here toward the end of September, which is quite early. These will be brought in via New York, on payment of the 62½ per cent. duty. Formerly they came direct, paying only 25 per cent., but since the tariff is the same in any case now, dealers feel that it is just as well that they should get the first arrivals. Needless to say, fancy prices will be asked for the early receipts. A short crop of prunes is reported in France, owing to unfavorable weather conditions. Sicily filberts are likely to be small crop and prices are firmer this week. There has been an advance in shelled walnuts, which are now quoted 24c. to 26c. The crop of walnuts will be harvested late this year, and if we are to believe reports which have been received, will not be a large one.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL—Since the new prices came out there has been a little more interest displayed in canned goods. As stated last week, there are some of the new pack goods offering, but retailers are not in very much of a hurry to obtain supplies. There have been on sale for the past week or more some blueberries put up by independent packers. These are selling at 85c. The canners have not yet issued their blueberry prices. Jobbers are prepared to-day to supply customers with new pack asparagus tips, at the new quotations. From reports obtainable it would seem that the pack of peas this season is good. The packers have put up at least 55 per cent. of last year's pack, which is not so bad considering the talk there was of only a 25 per cent. pack. Tomatoes and corn stand to be two or three weeks later than usual, owing to the backward season. Fruits are scarce; there can be little question about this. According to what is heard, however, packers will pretty well fill the orders they booked for the early fruits, strawberries, cherries and the like. French mushrooms are exceedingly scarce. Only hotel size cases are obtainable, and these command $21 to $22. Salmon is scarce on spot, and there is a good deal of talk going the rounds as to how short the pack will be. This may be taken for just what it is worth.

TORONTO—The consumption of canned goods this year has surprised the trade. Despite high prices fruits are practically cleaned up, and of vegetables there will be a very small carry over. The late season has materially delayed the green vegetables and added proportionably to the demand for canned goods. When last year's prices were made the trade feared consumption would be retarded and the result has been to demonstrate how firmly fixed canned goods are as a staple food.

ST. THOMAS FACTORY ABOUT READY.

The installation of machinery in the St. Thomas canning factory is just about completed and it is expected the factory will commence operations in a week or so, in time for the corn crop.

Already the factory has turned out several thousand cans of fruit and vegetables, and the company has on hand at its plant now, in addition to the canned product, some 500 barrels of strawberry pulp.

But it is the canning of corn and tomatoes that promise to comprise the chief features of the industry, and it is for this that the present machinery is being installed, under the supervision of Manager R. D. Ottarson.

Before the fall the manager says the factory will be employing about 200 hands.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—

Business is good.

Sugar firm.

Australian raisins arriving.

Smoke meats slightly easier.

Butter firmer.

Toronto, Aug. 8, 1907.

The grocery trade is very active. All the houses report a very satisfactory volume of trade for July and some place the increase as high as 20 to 25 per cent. There was comparatively little sugar in that, too, as the movement of sugar has been waiting somewhat for the season. The trade has been general. The north country has made pretty heavy demands upon spot stocks and the movement of canned goods has been considerably greater than last year. The fear expressed a year ago that high prices would limit consumption seems to have been without foundation. The sugar market seems to be fairly firm but consumption has been retarded. Sales have increased during the past week, however, and a freer movement is looked for. Tapioca is still a very scarce article and quotations are as high as 8½c. Dried fruit crops prospects are about as previously stated. Canned goods are in good demand and the outlook is for a very small carry-over. Reports from British Columbia indicate a very small pack of sockeye and in view of the bare market this probably spells higher prices. Collections are reported satisfactory.

TEA.—The market, especially for common tea, continues firm. A mail advice from London, under date of July 25, says: "The outstanding feature this week has been the continued demand for common tea, Pecoes realizing in many instances only ¼d higher than the lower grade in the same invoice." Trade locally is moderately active, but the busy time is still some way ahead. In view of the high prices of common tea, medium and better teas are now offering at exceptional values.

COFFEE.—Trade is quiet and there is nothing of interest in advices from the coffee markets.

SUGAR.—Consumption of sugar thus far this season has been slow, but is increasing. The raw market has been steady for nearly a fortnight, with a firm undertone, due in part to the unfavorable weather conditions for beet in Germany. Receipts of raws at New York have been considerably below meltings, which also benefits the market. The refiners have been keeping out in the hope of inducing holders to ease off in their demands, but without success. Beet quotations have advanced slightly paid, New York, for 96 degrees Cuban to 9s 9½d, which is equal to $4.04, duty centrifugals. Cubans 96 degrees are still quoted at $3.95, duty paid, New York, and the sugar available is strongly held.

DRIED FRUITS.—Nothing unusual has happened to alter the indicated crop prospects. C. Whittall & Co., Smyrna, in their report to P. L. Mason & Co., their representatives in Toronto, estimate the sultana raisin crop at 45,000 tons, against 25,600 last year and 52,000 the year before that again. The bareness of the market, they say, may cause prices for this season to open at a higher level than is justified by the extent of the production. The outlook for figs is very favorable, the estimate being for 120,000 camel loads; or 26,500 tons, against 24,800 tons last year and 22,000 tons in 1905.

Rein & Co., Malaga, reporting regarding muscatel raisins, say that last year storms curtailed the output by 300,000 boxes, leaving only 750,000 boxes for shipment. Prospects to-day are for a particularly good crop and a considerably larger crop than last year is anticipated. Quality of the highest grades, Imperial and Extra Imperial are not expected to be quite up to standard.

Last year's stocks of almonds became exhausted between March and April. Gales of wind did the damage last year. The present crop is estimated at a fair average Prune prices seem now about steady. The dropping has been severe and small sizes are expected to be scarce.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 8, 1907.)

Business conditions are still much the same as last week. Upon the whole, crop reports are favorable, although a few districts will suffer rather severely. The month of August will determine pretty clearly what the crop will be, and during the period of uncertainty, buying is naturally light. This is the case every year at this season, but perhaps it is particularly true of August, 1907.

Market values are steady in most lines. The canners are announcing new prices for their new season pack, and some interesting details will be found under the canned goods heading.

CANNED GOODS—As mentioned last week the canners are undertaking to fill only 45 per cent. of their orders for strawberries, and there is a serious shortage in some other lines as well. Prices are announced this week for the new season's pack of red cherries, red and black currants and gooseberries. We quote :—

GROCERY TRADE NEWS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

St. John, N.B., Aug. 5, 1907.

Business continues fairly good and so far as market changes are concerned the past week has been rather uneventful. Fresh fish are very scarce for the time of year. Butter is holding steady and eggs are plentiful. The run of strawberries is about over and blueberries and raspberries are coming in plentifully. In the feed line Ontario oats have declined a cent. There are no provincial oats offering and no quotations are available. Canned strawberries have advanced to $2.30, which is the highest point reached for years. It is stated that the factories can only fill about 45 per cent. of the orders on hand.

On the 21st and 22nd of this month a very interesting gathering of influential business men will be held in St. John. The occasion will be the annual meeting of the Maritime Board of Trade, which met last year in Amherst.

The whole of the first day and half of the second will be devoted to the discussion of issues which are of vital importance to the progress and prosperity of the Maritime Provinces, and being taken part in by the most active business men from all sections, should prove of deep interest.

The delegates, of whom there are expected to be more than 100, will be looked after by the reception committee of the local board, who are making arrangements for their proper entertainment. W. S. Fisher, of the firm of Emerson & Fisher of this city, is working energetically to make the meeting one of the most successful yet held.

Merchants who have been doing business with dealers on the south shore of Nova Scotia are pleased at the announcement that the steamer Active has been engaged to go on the route in place of the Senlac, which was damaged collision in Halifax harbor recently. The Active goes on the route to-day.

T. H. Estabrooks, who returned last week from a trip through Western Canada, is inclined to think that the people of New Brunswick do not appreciate the opportunities they have for development right here at home, instead of going to the western portion of the Dominion. Mr. Estabrooks thinks that New Brunswick could be made a great fruit growing country. The valley of the St. John River has not been properly developed in this regard. He points out that the export facilities here for shipping away unlimited quantities of apples and other fruits offset to a large extent the advantages that British Columbia has in the way of a longer summer season and milder winter. The matter of fruit growing was suggested by his visit to the fruit growing section in Southern British Columbia.

Another matter touched upon by Mr. Estabrooks was the tightness in the money market and some of its results. One of these he had noticed was the checking to some extent of the land speculation in the west. The real estate boom, he thought, had been carried to excess.

Announcement has been made by the local agent of the Allan line that their steamers will make weekly sailings from St. John to Liverpool during the coming winter. It is expected that the approaching winter port season will be the greatest in the history of this port. There will be a larger number of sailings than ever before and it is thought there will be no scarcity of freight, judging by reports.

world after the doctor said "It's a fine boy," were "oo oo oolong tea," and he has been shouting it ever since. He is good looking and like many of us, barefaced. He evidently don't believe in hair lips. Well, he started out with his sample case marked Tees Wilson & Co. on every tin in 1894. He drove through Hastings and Prince Edward counties. Then he joined the staff of H. P. Eckardt & Co., Toronto, and tramped the road east of Belleville. He pushed teas for them until nearly four years ago when Eby Blain & Co. secured his services traveling east of Kingston, still handling teas.

For H. P. Eckardt & Co. he built up a valuable tea trade in New York State before the Spanish American war and advised merchants over the line to load up and those who did made their pile as a war tax of 10c a lb. was put on all teas shortly after. Since the first of the year, Tommy has made another move, this time with Doyle & Jackson, formerly Doyle & Anderson. They handle teas exclusively.

Tommy said he was in the tea business to-day, was in it to stay and if you want the best values he'll be coming your way.

Tommy in pushing Japan teas has done more towards blending friendly relations between the two great nations, Canada and Japan than Fushimi. Tommy sold tips and the prince gave tips to many institutions, same as the aldermen do when they go canvassing with candies. Humbugs. Prince Fushimi has thus by his kindness made it hard for Canada to interfere should Japan want to box Uncle Sam's ears on account of ill usage in San Francisco.

CORRESPONDENCE

GUELPH.

Saturday was again a good day for business and the grocers all report it so. In fact, when the women come to market and leave the men home, there seems to be more snap about business. The prices remain unchanged but both butter and eggs are more plentiful. A good many housewives are going to have a shortage of fruit in their cellars which will be disappointing to them. They keep waiting for cheap fruit and wait too long. The first thing they know their favorite fruit is done.

Tuesday's fruit market showed the first lot of apples, which sold at 50c a basket. Tomatoes were plentiful but the quality has been poor and the price too high. Small fruit prices remain unchanged. Gooseberries are very scarce.

* * *

Ald. J. A. McCrea went to Toronto Saturday night to meet Mrs. McCrea and son, R. J., who have just returned from a pleasant two months' trip to Ireland. Both are much improved in health and spirits. Bob brought home some good Irish blackthorns.

Chas. Worthington, the Ontario Street grocer, has been doing himself proud and also the grocers, with his good driver, Maud W., winning the race for gentlemen's drivers at the Thursday half-holiday matinees. Charlie loves a good driver.

Why some grocers buy all their granulated sugar in bags seems to me rather odd. The bags, of course, come 5c a hundred less, but the bags generally come more or less damaged. A small hole soon leaks away the profit and there are also the chances of having to handle it in all kinds of weather, while the barrels holding 300 pounds are much cleaner, no waste, seldom damaged, just as easily stored and handled. The empty barrels bring easily 25c each while the bags are practically useless. A few bags for people who insist on buying a hundred pounds is all right, but then again, why push the sale of bags of sugar when you can make just as much by selling $1 worth.

E. D. Marceau and Mrs. Marceau are entertaining a party of friends at the Kaneron Fishing Club, up Nomininque way. Mr. Marceau will spend about ten days in the fishing district.

APPLE MARKETS AND PRICES.

Views of the Dominion Government Expert on the Present Situation.

The July crop report just issued by the fruit division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, says of market conditions for apples:

The crop reports from the New England States and New York, show that the conditions for winter apples are almost as good as last year; but there is a great shortage on the whole crop. Michigan shows less than an average crop. The Canadian crop of winter apples will probably aggregate not more than an average crop or perhaps slightly below, taking into consideration all the exigencies yet to be met. On the other hand there will be a decided shortage in the United States of fall and early winter apples. Missouri, Kansas, Tennessee and practically all the states producing the apples which go upon the market up to Christmas time, report a very light crop, in some cases amounting to a total failure. Summer, fall and early winter apples in Canadian orchards will be decidedly light as a whole. Taking these conditions in connection with the probable light crop of apples, and only a moderate crop of all other fruits in Great Britain and Europe generally, it would seem that the demand in Canada for all classes of apples would this year be exceptionally good. It is true that in district No. 3 the apple crop is somewhat better than last year; but the aggregate in this district is too small to have any appreciable effect upon the general market.

Growers and shippers should not forget that the foreign demand for summer and early fall varieties from the United States, and particularly from Canada, is increasing yearly, and it is more than probable that Canadian apple growers of early varieties can compete successfully with the English apple growers in the markets of Great Britain. Indications this year would certainly point to a small crop competing with Canadian Astrachan, Duchess, early Gravensteins and other varieties of the same season. What is necessary, therefore, is preparation now by the co-operative associations and large dealers who can gather the smaller lots and ship with cold storage facilities from the initial station to the end of the ocean voyage.

Judging from last year's prices and the conditions this year, it would seem that an equally good, if not a better market, is to be found in the Northwest. During the months of September and early part of October, 1906, the Northwest was receiving large shipments of American apples at prices that would certainly satisfy the Canadian grower. At the same time small growers were complaining to the fruit division that they had a surplus of Astrachans and Duchess. It is to be hoped that every district producing an appreciable quantity of early apples will this year be organized co-operatively so as to prevent this fruit going to waste.

There are fewer orchards sold now than at the same date last year. This must be attributed in part to a growing sentiment that the speculative element in apple selling shall be reduced to the lowest possible limit. Another influence is to be found in the unfortunate experience of buyers who bought last year "by the lump." The grading demanded by the Inspection and Sale Act made it necessary to sell a large proportion of the apples as No. 3. Better informed this year on the legal grading insisted upon by the Dominion fruit inspectors, they are buying more cautiously by the barrel, graded strictly No. 1 and No. 2.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

While the average dealer can pretty well guess what has caused the recent movements in the cheese market, the casual observer would be more or less puzzled, and at a loss to account for the present situation. Cheese is higher than it should be, considering the conditions which exist. Quotations run from 11¾ to 11½ cents. These are too high figures to warrant much business. Compared with the prices which ruled last year at this time, 11⅞ to 12⅛ cents, they are lower, but then, conditions are different. The prices which ruled during August of last year established a record. There has been of late practically no inquiry from England, as there is hardly likely to be anything in the way of sales before prices decline to a more reasonable level.

Locally the prices which are quoted are not regarded seriously. The general impression is that they will not last. But how long will they hold good? Circumstances certainly have not warranted an advance. Therefore, and from what can be seen the advance is, in all probability due to manipulation. It is reported that some dealers have been caught short and this may explain matters a little also.

Stocks are heavy, if anything they are heavier than they were at this time in 1906. According to Board of Trade figures receipts last week amounted to 91,057 boxes, against 100,437 for the same week last year. Total receipts to date are reported 1,000,995 boxes, against 1,094,663 boxes corresponding period 1906.

Exports last week were 72,626 boxes, against 109,098 boxes previous week, and 68,434 boxes same week last season. Exports for the season 891,112 boxes, against 1,034,655 boxes 1906. It will be seen from these figures that shipments are falling behind.

Butter is very high, and the market is firm. Owing to the unattractive prices there is not a great deal of activity in this commodity, and dealers do not anticipate much improvement while prices are such at now rule.

Creamery is quoted around 22½ to 22¾ cents, while dairy is being sold to the retail trade at figures running from 18½ to 20 cents.

Receipts have not been as satisfactory as in former seasons. Owing to the backward spring many were late in getting started, while the high figures obtainable for cheese led more than one creamery to make cheese instead of butter. However, it is thought that present quotations being high many will be induced to abandon cheese in favor of butter, which would result in larger arrivals.

The quality of the butter arriving lately has not been in every instance up to the mark. Some lots received have contained packages which were mouldy. This is not surprising, considering the amount of wet, disagreeable weather we have had of late. There will be an improvement in the make if weather conditions are more favorable.

Demand from the Old Country is light, while local trade is checked by the high prices demanded.

Receipts last week were 18,805 packages, against 29,933 packages same week last year. Receipts since May 1 amount to 218,538 packages, against 335,952 packages same period 1906.

Shipments show a falling off, only 9,349 packages being exported last week, against 11,743 packages previous week, and 15,743 packages last year, same week. So far this year shipments have amounted to 36,062 packages, against 173,537 packages in 1906 during the same period.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

There is a slightly easier turn to the market this week, both domestic and export. Prices for live hogs are somewhat uneven, packers quoting from $6.65 to $6.85 f.o.b. shipping points and light deliveries are looked for. This will suit the packers very well because the Old Country market is not promising. There seems to have been an accumulation there of heavy products not in line with the demand, due to the fact that the farmers have held their stock too long. Export shipments last week were about normal.

The easier feeling in the domestic market is not very pronounced. The trade, while fair, has not been up to expectations. This is partly due to the backward season and to some extent to high prices. While stocks are not abnormally heavy, there is noticeable a tendency on the part of some packers to shade the prices. This is true especially in regard to bellies and backs, but hams and short cut are also fractionally easier.

Lard, on the other hand, is tending firmer. The Canadian product does not nearly satisfy the domestic demand and the American costs, laid down in Toronto, say 11½c, while Canadian has been on a basis of 11c. The natural tendency is to close the gap. The fresh meat trade is seasonably quiet with lower prices.

The American provision market is very quiet. The Journal of Commerce, reviewing last week, said:

"There have been no new features in hog products the past week, neither activity on the spot nor in futures. Cash demand has been of the minimum volume for the summer season, both home and export, and prices have been easy, while futures were easier early in the week with hogs, but firmed up later in sympathy with corn. Trading was extremely light, as there is nobody in the market but the packers, and they did not appear to be operating, but simply allowed prices to take care of themselves on light offering and demand, as the trade are afraid to sell short, while the packers own the cash stock and could squeeze them if they did. In beef products there have been no developments or change of interest, but stocks of canned meats are the lightest in three years and demand fully equal to offerings, as prices are the same as a year ago, while cost of canning cattle is 1c per pound more."

PROVISION MARKETS

TORONTO.

PROVISIONS.—The demand for smoked meats has scarcely fulfilled expectations and there is a slightly easier tone to prices. Rolls, hams and short cut appear to be the products upon which prices are being shaded. In a railway wreck between Hamilton and the Falls last week a carload of hams from Chicago to a Toronto house came to grief. They were probably intended to even up stock for some house whose product had not been going out evenly and did not necessarily indicate any tendency in the market. Lard is rather firmer to keep pace with the price movement across the line and some are asking ¼c more for tierces. A ¼c has been taken off the low price on rolls and hams. Short cut is quoted 50c a barrel lower, though there has been an advance of 25c in the cost of barrels since the first of the year. Fresh meat is lower and trade is quiet.

RED ROSE RUSTLERS.

In Annual Session at St. John—Western Men Win Ball Game.

The Red Rose Tea traveling staff have been in their annual session in St. John, N.B., this week. Despite the absorbing interest of the discussion of ways and means for convincing the entire population of Canada and the adjacent States that "Red Rose tea is good tea," they found a little time for recreation. They made the trip to Digby on Wednesday and a game of baseball was arranged between the eastern and western travelers. Under the direction of G. H. Campbell, the Toronto manager, the western men won by a score of 10 to 6. This was going some for the east can play ball.

OUTLOOK FOR FRUITS.

A. McNeill, chief of the fruit division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, in the fruit crop report just issued, says:

"There will be a fair crop of peaches in the Niagara district.

"The crops in the counties bordering on Lake Erie are almost a complete failure. This is particularly noticeable in the late varieties."

There has been almost a universal reduction in pear prospects during July. Indications are for a half crop only in the Niagara district. The crop is practically a failure in the Essex peninsula. An average crop is looked for in the Annapolis valley. Pears in British Columbia promise to be a medium crop.

For plums the outlook on the whole is far less encouraging than a month ago. A heavy drop is reported and the crop in the commercial plum sections is deteriorating rapidly.

The general outlook is for a medium to full crop of grapes in commercial vineyards.

Wheat Markets Easier—Large Quantity of Last Year's Crop is a Factor—Flour Trade Very Quiet—Oat Products Very Firm and Higher Prices Looked For.

The speculative wheat market is carrying a somewhat burdensome amount of last year's crop and the grain men are anticipating lower prices with an advance later on. Conditions for the growing crop are not too good. A few more hailstorms like that reported from Reston, Man., on Tuesday, would make a change. The report stated that 153,000 acres were stripped of their crops. The strong feature of the present situation is oats. There is heavy buying in Chicago, the Ontario crop is small, and the outlook is for high prices.

The flour trade is very dull. The market here is a shilling out of line for export and what domestic buying there is is merely from hand to mouth. Cereals, especially oat products, are very firm. The oat crop and resumed consumption, the millers think, will soon justify higher prices. In the meantime prices rule unchanged.

MONTREAL.

FLOUR.—Trade is reported excellent, local demand being very strong. Good shipments are being made by various millers to South Africa, the Old Country, and other foreign parts. The tendency of the market is to firmness.

.. THE APPLE CROP.

Chief McNeill Reports on the Situation in Various Districts.

Reviewing the apple situation by districts, A. McNeill, chief of the fruit division of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, says in the July crop report that prospects have declined considerably during the month, owing to an exceptionally heavy "drop" everywhere, due to spring frosts and dry weather. Generally speaking, the yield of early fall apples will be below the average and winter apples as a whole will be an average crop of excellent quality. He says of the districts:

In the counties on Lake Erie early apples will be light and several complete failures are noted. Fall varieties are reported light to medium and winter varieties medium.

Yellow Transparent, Astrachan and Duchess apples are a light crop, with a few failures, especially among the Astrachans.

Wealthies, Gravensteins, Colverts, Bellflowers and Ribstons are reported light to medium, and Alexanders a light crop.

Spies and Greenings promise to be light to medium, while Ben Davis, Russets, Kings and Baldwins give favorable indications of a medium crop.

In the counties on Lake Huron and inland to York county early and fall apples are light to medium with some failures reported among early varieties.

Greenings and Spies promise an average yield; Ben Davis, Kings, Russets and Baldwins at present indicate a medium to full crop.

In the counties bordering on Lake Ontario and north to Georgian Bay early apples are reported in the majority of instances nearly a medium crop; fall apples a medium crop and winter apples medium to full crop.

Alexanders, Gravensteins and Ribstons vary from light to medium, while Spies, Russets, Kings, Ben Davis and Baldwins show a medium to full crop. Duchess, Colverts, Fameuse (Snow), Bellflowers and Greenings are a medium crop.

In the Ottawa and St. Lawrence valleys the prospects are good for an average yield of fall and winter varieties; the present outlook for early varieties is a light to medium crop.

Yellow Transparent will be a medium crop, Duchess somewhat better, Alexander, Wealthy and Fameuse, light to medium. McIntosh Red promises nearly a full crop.

In New Brunswick and Northwestern Quebec apples are reported to have set well, but will be very late this year.

A medium crop of Yellow Transparent, Astrachan and Duchess apples is expected.

In the Annapolis valley the prospect is very good for a medium crop of fall and winter apples. The early varieties will be below average. Although the blossoms were delayed at least two weeks, the weather recently has been so favorable that the apples are nearly as far advanced as usual.

Gravensteins promise a fair yield; Ben Davis and Greenings are set for an average crop; Kings, Ribstons, Baldwins and Golden Russets are light to medium; Nonpareils and Spies are reported below average.

The quality promises to be much better than last year, partly due to the season so far unfavorable for fungi, and partly because of thorough spraying.

The prospect in British Columbia has depreciated slightly, but a medium crop of apples is expected. It is impossible as yet to estimate the damage done by recent hailstorms at Armstrong and in the Okanagan district.

IDEAS OF AN OLD GROCER

Some Hints which Merchants Generally may Utilize with Advantage.

Editor Canadian Grocer,

Dear Sir,—I am an old roadster and am having a few holidays and so have a few moments to sit down and write a letter.

I have been in the grocery business for nearly twenty years, and representative of the best houses in the line I carry in the country for over fifteen years, so have had a little experience.

If there is anything I desire to do more than another, it is to render honor where honor is due, and thus it is that I desire to say that the efforts of the Canadian Grocer to influence the salesmen of the Dominion and everywhere it goes with a desire to attain perfection in the art of window dressing is certainly most commendable and something that was very much needed in this and other cities. The molding effects of a trade journal that works along the lines of the present management of The Canadian Grocer cannot but be felt and seen by any observer. It certainly must be gratifying to the grocers in this and other cities to see the marked influence its pages have had along the line of window dressing upon their salesmen. I know many, I might say hundreds, that have become alive to the advantages to be obtained by reading its pages along these lines. It has entered into and has had a molding and beneficial influence on the salesman, the grocer himself has not had, mostly perhaps for lack of time, and it is here where the value of such journals is made evident. No one can estimate the true value of such work or how far-reaching its influences are. In these busy days when everything has to be done at break-neck speed, while the grocer is busy thinking of other things, the journal is silently molding and making his salesman a better man, the future grocer of the nation, a help to his employer instead of an extra load, a man, who, instead of being carried by his employer, will help to carry him and make his road smoother and easier.

Is such an influence worth two dollars a year? Is it worth a hundred? If every merchant employing salesmen would make it a point to present each of his clerks with a paid-up annual subscription for The Grocer, he could not spend ten or twenty dollars to better advantage. He would only be doing his duty to his salesmen and would receive in return a hundred fold, yea, much more.

There are hundreds of salesmen hungering for the light and would be only too glad to receive such recognition of their master's good will. Let the employer give his salesman to feel that he takes an interest in him, that he looks upon him as something more than a machine and behold the change in the carriage of the man.

What can be more attractive than a tastily dressed window to the passer-by or intending purchaser? How much does it add to the beauty of the store, to the satisfaction of those within and without? The very atmosphere which surrounds it is exhilarating and conducive to cheerfulness, and hence to increase of business.

And what can be more desirable than a cheerful salesman? There are many firms in large cities who pay very large salaries for doing this kind of work alone, and they find it pays them well or they would not continue it as they do. It is by cultivating the higher and finer faculties and talents that we become the most valuable.

I know some salesmen in this city, who, through the inspiration of The Canadian Grocer are to-day earning good salaries as window dressers and under the same inspiration many more are trying hard to equip themselves for similar positions. The management's efforts seem also to run along the line of trying to inspire the salesmen with a desire to cultivate the faculty for selling the best goods. Their efforts are having their effect, which is plainly to be seen by the largely increased sale of fine goods today. Every grocer should feel grateful to the management for in doing this they are trying to make the salesmen what every grocer should desire, a first-class salesman, a credit to himself and his employer, a credit to the country, and one who has developed himself in the highest sense of the word. It is pleasant to watch an expert window dresser handling and displaying fine goods. No man can do so without becoming affected by their refining influence and he will soon show it just as surely as he will the effects of good company and good manners. Good customers desire good goods just as surely as they desire good company and goods properly displayed meet their affinity of taste. Nicely put up goods are thoughts expressed and a man cannot be dealing in and be among them without becoming influenced by them. "I would rather live surrounded by fifty cent thoughts than ten-cent ones any day," said a salesman to me the other day. "I never sell a good thing without feeling the better of it. I am not ashamed to meet my customer afterwards and I never sell a poor article without feeling mean."

Did you ever watch the difference between the salesman who has cultivated the faculty for selling fine goods, and the salesman who has learned to display and sell inferior ones? If not, do so at once and you will soon see how much you are indebted to such efforts as the management of The Canadian Grocer are making to draw out and cultivate the best that is in your salesmen.

There is another side to this. If the grocers only knew the effect a nicely dressed window has upon the traveling salesman in reference to inspiring him with a confidence in the matter of credit they would consider the matter of more importance. As the buildings in a city or town indicate the character of its people, so do nicely dressed windows indicate a certain portion of the characters of those who occupy the stores. If a salesman dresses his window tastily he is surrounding the store with a beneficial atmosphere and giving silent lessons to those in it. When a commercial man enters a city or town to sell goods, there are certain signs that indicate certain conditions he looks for outside of commercial agencies known to himself. A tastily dressed window is one of them.

Yours for betterment and progress,
Toronto. "HUSTLER."

CANADA'S GREAT EXHIBITION.

Large Exhibits of Pure Foods and Provisions of Special Interest to Grocers.

Canadians are and should justly be proud of their national exhibition, one of the events of great annual interest, which opens this year on August 24th. Almost everyone within a radius of a couple of hundred miles from Toronto makes a yearly visit to the fair, and this year, with the excursion rates on several American lines and the usual reduced rates on the Canadian railroads the attendance promises to be above any former record. Grocers are always interested in the extensive displays of pure foods and provisions which manufacturers make, and the secretary informs us that the present year this feature will be considerably extended. The other departments of the exhibition will be up to and above any previous mark and with several magnificent new buildings, on which, by the way, $400,000 has been spent, including the removal of practically all the older buildings on the grounds, the fair will be worthy of a visit from any Canadian.

$45,000 spent on outside attractions assures the excellence of this feature of entertainment and the fact that $50,000 is being offered in premiums should be of particular interest to prospective exhibitors.

Pretty Steady Markets with only Seasonable Price Changes—Good Demand Anticipated for California Lemons—Canadian Tomatoes Lower and Quality Not too Good

August is usually about the dullest month of the year for fruit, and if the past week may be taken as a criterion, this August is going to live up to the reputation created by its predecessors. Trade generally is quiet, but in some home-grown lines there is promise of a more active movement before long. Plums are just starting to come in but not in sufficient quantities to compete with the California stock. California pears and peaches are all ariving in good quantity, the former being especially fine and moving out under a good demand. The lemon market remains firm, and the Verdelli crop is now entirely sold. Some California lemons have reached this market and, judging from the quality of the first consignment, should be in heavy demand for some weeks. Some advance sales for the new Messina lemon crop have already been made.

The new Canadian potatoes are of poor quality, small size, and ill fitted to compete with the American stock. Canadian news, however, will probably improve as the season advances. Both Canadian and American news are advancing, some sales of the latter having been made at $5 per barrel.

MONTREAL.

Green Fruits—The season for Californian goods is now at its height, and dealers are reaping a harvest of orders. Prices are a little high, but the trade seems satisfied to pay them in order to obtain the goods. Plums and peaches are both lower this week. Reports are that the crop of California grapes will be a heavy one, and when stocks begin to arrive here, after the 15th of this month, prices will be good for buyers in all probability. Pineapples are again on the list, but are rather high to tempt the average buyer. American apples at $6 a barrel have been received this week. Oranges are in but fair demand, while lemons are not in much greater request. Quite a few watermelons are selling. Raspberries are done this week, but blueberries continue to arrive and lower prices prevail. Gooseberries and other small fruits may arrive next week.

Vegetables—A good summer trade is being transacted in vegetables, and as the season advances more and more new varieties are offered. This week celery is quoted 35c. per dozen, for very nice looking goods. Valencia onions are offering freely at $3. Tomatoes are cheaper, owing to increased receipts, as are also cabbage, for which dealers are asking 35c. to 50.

Fish—Little trade is being done in fish this week, owing to the very warm weather. Such as it is, business is good. The salmon season closed, fresh fish of this variety is not now obtainable, but considerable fresh halibut is arriving and is being disposed of with apparently little difficulty through regular channels. There is plenty of haddock and cod, and good prices for the retailer are quoted. Pike and dore are in limited supply. Whitefish are plentiful. Some brook trout are offering, but they will not be obtainable in quantity until after the 1st of September. There is but little activity in smoked and salted fish, but it is expected that more interest will be exhibited in salted and pickled before long, as new pack in many lines will be offering.

FRUIT.—Business is fairly quiet, and, if anything, compares unfavorably with last week. Cherries are about over. Oranges are firmer. The low price on

FIRST AUSTRALIAN RAISINS.

The first shipment of Australian raisins to arrive in Toronto will be received in about a week. Perkins, Ince & Co. received advices of it Wednesday.

Commenting on the appearance of Australian raisins, the New York Journal of Commerce says:

"The appearance of Australian raisins in this market last week was, as one leading factor put it, 'the biggest surprise to the trade in ten years.' Entirely unannounced and unsuspected, there suddenly bobbed up at a time when the market was substantially bare and likely to remain so till well along in the fall, a fine lot of handsome fruit from a quarter hitherto undreamed of. True, the invoices aggregated only some 8,000 boxes, yet they were first-class goods and bade defiance to the men of the Coast, who had fondly felt that they were secure in the full possession of the world's available supply. Yet here were the goods, first-class stock, attractive in appearance and fine in flavor, ripening at a time exactly midway between seasons, and evidently marketable, even at this remote point, at a fair profit.

"It is merely another of those manifestations that the time is rapidly coming when enterprise will give the world a supply of fruit and seasonable delicacies the year round. Last winter this market received all through the bitter cold weather luscious fresh fruit from South Africa, equal to any ever grown in California. And before the snows had melted from the Catskills we had fresh fruit and vegetables from Texas and Florida. Then came apples from Australia, and now we have raisins as fine as any grown in sunny Italy. It has made many a man open his eyes and wonder if it wasn't worth while developing the warm climes of the Antipodes, especially if goods can bring fancy prices in a fruit depleted, but wealthy and extravagant northern country. When pears and plums can sell for 20 and 25 cents apiece in March and when new raisins can be marketed at 8 or 9 cents in July and August 10,000 miles from where they were grown, it is something to be reckoned with.

EFFECTIVE ADVERTISING

HOW TO PRODUCE IT

Brief Talks Given Occasionally by T. Johnson Stewart.

Trade journals south of the line are discussing whether the dealer pays for the big publicity campaigns of the large manufacturers, with a certain amount of "sweet reasonableness." Retailers are delivering addresses on "Publicity Advertising" with more vim than logic. They believe, generally speaking, that the retailer pays for big campaigns, while a few are clear-seeing enough to realize that publicity advertising worthy of the name, is a sure and certain trade creator.

The American Artisan sums up the situation cleverly in the following words: "There are always two sides—and sometimes more—to every question. Any innovation, especially of a commercial character, will be met by those who welcome and those who deprecate. And human nature is such that almost invariably the former will be those who [illegible] they will profit by the innovation [illegible] the latter will be those who think they will lose. The intrinsic value of the thing is nearly always lost to view."

Thus far we agree with our contemporary.

"There is nothing sordid or mercenary about this condition; it is the natural law and works to conserve the interests of mankind. A new method of carrying on business must prove its worth to the greatest number or it has no right to interfere with the old established methods."

And that's all there is about the proposition! We agree with the New York Herald in designating that, and all such logic, as pure and unadulterated tommy-

Just as soon as any method of doing business has proven its worth to the greatest number that method is outclassed by saner and better business systems. And as a mere matter of fact, the publicity campaigns—big enough to be national and international in scope—are hardly what one would call innovations. "Bold and audacious pioneers" tested the matter a decade ago and are now enjoying the fruits of their daring and scheming brains.

Who pays for the immense advertising campaigns conducted by manufacturers in the United States and for the lesser publicity advertising of the Dominion.

It's an easily demonstrated fact that advertising of a wide and judicious nature has created stupendous markets. Indeed, if we could eliminate all advertising and its direct results during the last ten years, there would be no commercial history to narrate. It is well known that judicious advertising has been an immense boon to the consumer and that it has practically doubled the business of many jobbers and retailers, as well as increasing the manufacturer's output by a great big margin.

The consumer does not pay for the manufacturer's advertising because he finds advertised goods cheaper and better as a general rule. The jobber does not pay for it, for even although his margin of profit may be curtailed on single articles, the volume of his business is immensely greater. The same applies to the retailer. The economic law of concentration explains the whole business. I know of two manufacturers in this Dominion who have been competitors for years. Their product is a few simple articles of absolute necessity in every household. A. advertises systematically and judiciously. His factory is constantly enlarging. He cannot meet the demand, but keeps on advertising as a mere matter of business insurance. B. can meet the demand—his demand all right. He does not advertise—except spasmodically. His competitor outsells him as a natural result and it's only a question of time until A. captures the whole market.

Who pays for A's advertising? The consumer is benefitted. The jobber and retailer find it good business sense to stock A's goods. And B pays for A's advertising in lost business and prestige.

Mr. Grocer! You can turn this subject upside-down, look at it from every point of the compass and then take a squint at it through a microscope, and if you can come to any other conclusion there's something the matter with your optic nerve.

The manufacturer, the jobber, the wholesaler, the retailer who does not advertise are bound to pay the advertising bills of the fellows who do. There's no other way for it.

It's a pretty safe proposition handling the goods of the manufacturer who advertises systematically and judiciously. He spends money to tell you about his values and you can depend upon it that his goods are about right. It's not his word I take as gospel in the matter, but his shrewd business sense. Because it would be utter folly to spend thousands of dollars in creating a market which his goods couldn't hold.

Mr. R. J. Donaghy, of T. A. Rowat & Co., is one of the many grocers who believe in common-sense and systematic advertising. Mr. Donaghy says: "We have used the two leading dailies of London for the past ten years—a fact that speaks for itself. We use the papers on alternate days, always changing the copy every issue and making a leader of some seasonable line when possible. I do not believe in spasmodic advertising, keeping at it in all seasons and pushing a speciality in its season is what counts. We have always made coffee our particular speciality and our trade for this alone is the largest in London."

If any grocer has doubts about the efficacy of advertising these strong words of our friend, Mr. Donaghy should go far towards dispelling them. There are men in all lines who look upon advertising as a necessary evil, but conditions governing commercial success are thinning their ranks very perceptibly. The T. A. Rowat Co. have advertised systematically for ten years and are in an excellent position to decide the vexed question—Should the retail grocer advertise? You know their answer, and you'll betray a good deal of sound reason by accepting their decision as final.

* * *

The ad. which we reprint in this issue is one of a dozen or more mailed to us some time ago by Mr. Donaghy. It is an ocular demonstration of our chief arguments. The introduction is brief and snappy—several good strong reasons for the popularity of "London's Most Satisfactory Store." There is nothing picturesque or freakish about this ad. The London Co. simply tell the story of their values in a straightforward salesmanlike manner, and price talks pretty effectively in every line. While the ad. is undoubtedly a business bringer, as it stands, yet I think the printer might make it a good deal more attractive. At least I would whisper something like that to him when paying the bills.

* * *

There's just one point I would like to emphasize; all advertising should be looked on as an important part of your business. You should pay as much attention to it as you do to your buying and selling. Judicious advertising is always an excellent investment. The daily paper is the best medium for the retail merchant, and many like the T. A. Rowat Co. have proven it such.

ATTRACTIVE I.C.R. BOOKLETS.

For the lover of history and romance, as well as for the tourist and sportsman, Eastern Canada possesses attractions unsurpassed by any other portion of North America.

To present a few of the attractions of this beautiful summer land, which, notwithstanding the thousands who travel over the road each year, is yet a veritable terra incognito to the average tourist and sportsman. The passenger department of the Intercolonial Railway has prepared a beautiful and useful series of booklets. For general information this series is far in advance of anything of the kind ever presented to the public by this railway before, and should be in the hands of everyone seeking rest and sport.

The first of these publications is entitled "Tours to Summer Haunts." It is a pamphlet of some hundred pages, printed on coated book paper and generously illustrated with artistic halftone reproductions of scenes incident to the text, with sub-heads in marginal indent, supplementing which is a schedule of tours and excursions from Montreal to the principal points of interest, and facilities offered to votaries of rod and gun, all interesting and instructive reading for even those who have no opportunity of visiting the places described. Then follow "Fishing and Hunting," "The Hunting Grounds of the Micmacs," "A Week in the Canaan Woods," "Big Game of the Southwest Miramichi," and "The Maritime Express," all of which are eminently practical subjects, indicated by their respective titles.

"Fishing and Hunting" has the game laws of the different provinces compiled in addition to tabulated information concerning the varieties of game and fish to be found in each locality along the whole line. It is a splendid effort to present desired information in concise form, and meets the requirements admirably.

"The Hunting Grounds of the Micmacs" presents to its readers a short historical reference to the tribe for which it is named, and directs the lovers of rod and gun where to find victims. It is an admirable little handbook, readable and full of information.

"A Week in the Canaan Woods" and "Big Game of the Southwest Miramichi" informs the hunter and tourist of the attractions of the territories indicated by the names.

"The Maritime Express" is really an annotated time table describing the locality of each station, and giving valuable information regarding business, sport and other data necessary or desired by travelers from Montreal to the eastern terminal of the road.

The booklets are legibly printed, well illustrated with half-tones, and each has a full four-page map of the country traversed by the railroad.

Sportsmen and tourists may obtain these interesting publications by applying to the company, mentioning this notice.

G. Mickleborough, Regina, who has been carrying on a dry goods and grocery business in that city for several years, is giving up the dry goods line and is making extensive alterations for conducting a first-class grocery business.

POSITION OF THE WHOLESALER

An address by President Judson of National Wholesale Grocers' Association of the United States—The right attitude in trade.

President William Judson of the National Association of Wholesale Grocers of the United States, at the annual meeting in Chicago recently at the end of the association's first year, delivered an address that will be read with interest by both retailers and wholesalers in Canada. He said in part :

"We wholesale grocers are canstantly feeling the pressure of changed and changing trade conditions.

"No doubt the question often comes up in our reflective moments : "Are we of importance in the body economic ?" I believe our services to the public are indispensable, but let us not overlook the fact that the measure of our security is the extent of our usefulness. Only so long as we serve the public as well for less money or better for the same money than the service could be secured through other channels, only so long and no longer will our position as trade factors be secure and our business prestige be unimpaired.

"Thoughtless and impotent declamation against conditions that exist will not solve our problems nor maintain our standing. Denouncing the manufacturer whose policy we may believe detrimental to our interests on the one hand, or the public for patronizing catalogue houses on the other, will bring us no permanent advancement.

"We will deserve to maintain our honorable calling and our important and influential trade position only so long as we serve a great public need better than it can be served through other channels. We have maintained our position well up to this time, and, believing in the conservative strength of our great organization as I do, I have no fear of the future.

Must Conform to New Conditions."

"Let us bear in mind that if we are to keep pace with the mighty tide of human progress, we must be watchful of the public need, adaptable in policy and original in method. We may not listlessly follow in beaten paths because they led our fathers to success. If we are not alert—if we do not adapt our methods to changed conditions brought about by the needs of the public under the evolution of new modes of life, we may rest assured that someone else—not wedded to conventional methods—will take advantage of opportunities brought about by new conditions and secure trade prominence that legitimately belongs to us and which we might have had by the exercise of that 'eternal vigilance' which is the price of success. No class of business men are so favorably situated to take care of the needs of the public in the distribution of commodities as are the wholesale grocers, because of their organization, training and experience.

"I sometimes fear that we do not demand the recognition for the expert service we render the public which that service merits. Our money capital is only one feature of the capital we have invested in our business. We surround ourselves with organizations of experts whose knowledge of the commodities we distribute is a guaranty of their merit and protection to the public. Yet we permit the public to accept this service as a matter of course, and, I fear, too often permit our salesmen to go on the road impressed with the idea that cheapness is the only argument worth advancing—the only sure way to obtain trade.

"It is a law of mind that the public will not place an estimate on the abilities and services of an individual above that which he himself places upon them.

Jobbers' Services.

"The heads of departments in our service, as well as ourselves, have spent long and patient years in securing the knowledge that makes us efficient in serving and protecting the public. Are we to treat this indispensable asset as practically valueless ? Are we to throw it to the public as a thing of little or no value ? Our salesmen as a rule talk price, not quality; cheapness, not value. How often do they impress upon the accentuates and emphasizes the solace and joy of the weed. Grocers certainly ought to feature T. & B. for several reasons, but chiefly because the profits are just right. Then there is this important fact in connection with T. & B.:

"Tobacco sells more than Tobacco."

attention of the trade the valuable service the jobber renders the retailer by collecting from the four quarters of the earth all the commodities demanded by civilized communities, and laying them down with their merit certified to by the painstaking investigations of the experts in the jobber's service?

"When fire, flood, drouth or epidemic temporarily disturbs the business of the retailer, if he has established himself in the confidence of the jobber he is sure to be accorded such co-operation and aid as will tide him over his trouble and put him on his feet again. These are a few of the incidental, although invaluable, functions performed by the wholesaler for the public. Our local, state and national trade organizations are of great educational value, and we should keep these important matters to the front.

"The securing of volume of trade at the sacrifice of profit is on a parity with obtaining 'peace at any price' in diplomacy. The one is as pernicious as the other is odious. There is as much difference between merchandising at cost of doing business only and doing business at a reasonable margin of profit above cost as there is between poverty and affluence.

Pernicious Practice.

"I fear that lack of sustained recognition of the truth of these facts leads too often to the pernicious practice of sacrificing profits and of selling staple goods at cut prices. I submit that such practice proclaims to the trade the estimate we place upon the value of our services and can we blame the trade for judging us by our own standards and accepting our own estimation of the value of our services? We invest large capital, maintain costly organizations, employ versatile talent, and then too often tender the benefit of this efficient and expensive combination to the public as though it were of no practical worth. Is this policy sane, safe, or business-like? 'The laborer is worthy of his hire,' and we should receive a fair margin of profit on every article we handle, as a just reward for the services we render.

Educate the Salesmen.

"We should imbue our salesmen with a realizing sense of these facts and educate them, as well as ourselves, to become conservative business men. All should work together to build up, rather than tear down; dignify, rather than degrade; co-operate, rather than antagonize, and if for no other reason, the existence of our national organization is justified by the work it has already done along these lines, and the future is bright with promise for still better results toward the realization of these ideals.

"Charity has its necessary place in business as well as in society and in works of philanthropy. We should exercise charity toward each other, toward the manufacturer, toward the retailer, and toward the consumer.

"We will not promote harmony among ourselves by rashly judging or harshly criticizing the motives of each other. When we hear that one of our number is pursuing a policy at variance with the best interests of us all, let us first find out whether or not the charge is true, before we fly off at a tangent and 'go him one better' in the mad career of demoralization. When the facts have been ascertained, calm and wise counsel will bring far better results towards correcting the evil than hostile demonstrations.

Charity to Manufacturer.

"Charity toward the manufacturer is also the part of prudence. He has his own troubles. We by no means have a monopoly of vexations incidental to successful business careers. The manufacturer necessarily operates under the limitations of conditions as he finds them, and not as he would have them. The manufacturer needs us. We need the manufacturer. He knows this as well as we do, and if at any time the policies of the manufacturer seem arbitrary and not in line with our interests let us look for the facts instead of jumping at hasty and possibly erroneous conclusions.

"We are the medium through which the manufacturer should distribute his product and under present conditions we are indispensable to him. The wise thing for us to do is to so direct our business policy as to render unnecessary the creation of other channels for the distribution of manufactured commodities. We will thereby actuate our necessity to the manufacturer and be in a position to stand up like men on the dignity of our usefulness and importance for just and equitable treatment. The sooner the manufacturer recognizes his limitations on the one hand, and we recognize the necessity for sustained and self-sufficient effort by ourselves on the other, the sooner will mutually satisfactory relations be established and maintained. I doubt not that the manufacturer often wonders that we voluntarily handle his product at so small a margin of profit, and even refrain in some cases from maintaining the profit specifically provided for us by the manufacturer's selling policies.

Charity to Retailer.

"We should also exercise a large measure of charity in our dealings with the retailer. He has his troubles and annoyances which must not be overlooked. The demand for ever quicker service, smaller and more attractive packages, new and diversified commodities, compounds and preparations, is a matter in which we should be leaders and not followers. By anticipating these varied wants of our customers our originality and usefulness are emphasized and our trade prestige enhanced and perpetuated, and the hard labor required in achieving these results is only the reasonable price that we must expect to pay for the exalted position that we occupy in the commercial economy of the nation.

"The people of the United States are protected to-day to a greater degree than ever before from adulterated foodstuffs. The influence of the National Wholesale Grocers' Association was one of the potent factors in the enactment of the national law which brought about this improvement in food qualities, and is, therefore, entitled to the moral support of the consuming public. To-day the labels are so plain and so true that the housekeeper who buys may know that the daily menu will not be harmful to the health of her family.

"The uniformity of food legislation throughout the country is necessary and the work of our organization in promoting through the state legislatures this uniformity of law safeguards the home and the health of every citizen. The wholesale grocer has done more to promote the health of the citizens of our beloved country than any other influence.

Proud of the Association.

"In conclusion, I am proud to give utterance to a feeling that is uppermost in each of our hearts at the moment. That feeling is one of just pride and elation over the success of the National Wholesale Grocers' Association. This association has brought us closer together. This better acquaintance and closer intimacy have inevitably heightened mutual confidence and respect. That priceless asset, 'good fellowship,' has grown apace, and, like the little leaven that 'leaveneth the whole lump,' has brought us into closer bonds of commercial and fraternal regard.

"However gratifying its past achievements, this association is but in the beginning of its influence and usefulness. Our membership has largely increased, interest is intensified and the sphere of our influence is rapidly enlarging."

FREIGHT QUESTION IN MONTREAL

Street Railway Company Proposes a Plan to Relieve Congestion.

A plan has been submitted by the Montreal Street Railway whereby the freight congestion which at present exists in the city of Montreal may be relieved. Their proposition is nothing less than an offer to institute a service of freight cars which will enable them to transport merchandise from one section of the city to another.

At the moment merchants in all branches of trade find it difficult to obtain prompt delivery of their goods within the city limits. It is next to impossible to secure carters when they are wanted and it is probable in consequence that any action such as that proposed by the railway company would meet with the hearty approval of business men.

It is proposed to run the freight cars at night in order that the passenger service accorded the public be not interfered with during daylight hours. Since the system owned by the company practically covers the Island of Montreal it would be possible for them to take freight for delivery to any of the suburbs, as well as within the city limits.

If the plan they propose be adopted it is probable that many manufacturers and wholesalers would have sidings built to their shipping entrances. The whole matter is now under discussion in the city council.

WHO MAKES THE TERMS?

To the Editor of The Canadian Grocer:

The following is a fac-simile of a printed notice which we received a few days ago:

HARVEY & DOBSON
General Merchants

Enderby, B.C., July 23, 1907.

Dear Sirs,—Your draft for $183.60 at 30 days will be returned to you through the bank. WE DO NOT ACCEPT ANY DRAFTS and will feel obliged if you will note this in your ledger for future reference. We pay by cheque as fast as the money comes in, and if you do not like our system please tell your travelers not to call upon us.

Yours truly,
Harvey & Dobson.

This we think is something altogether unique, and which should not be allowed to pass without comment.

We were always under the impression that the seller reserved the right to fix the terms upon which his goods may be purchased, but it appears that our friends Messrs. Harvey & Dobson think otherwise.

Needless to say our traveler will not call and we are taking the matter up with the Wholesale Grocers' Association here with the hope that all other firms in British Columbia will see the impropriety of allowing their salesmen to call, and at the same time we are referring the notice to the president of the Dominion Wholesale Grocers' Guild with the request that he take such action as he may deem best.

A LITERARY GROCER.

A very lively story by Andrew Smith of Woodstock is one of the features of the Canadian Magazine for August. Mr. Smith is engaged with his father in the grocery business on Dundas St. East and his many friends behind the counter will be glad to hear of his success. Mr. Smith's name is beginning to appear very persistently in the magazines.

Leon Fontanel left last week on a business trip through Ontario and across to the Pacific Coast in the interests of his various lines of French groceries sundries.

A Supply Credit Business

By HOWARD R. WELLINGTON.

Having gone into a plan for conducting the fishing end of the business under discussion, it has been suggested that a few words along the line of the inside end of the business might not be out of place.

The accounts necessary for such a business would be: 1, merchandise, (which may be subdivided into two others—purchases and sales); 2, fixtures and equipment; 3, accounts receivable (with customers); 4, bills receivable; 5, cash and bank (which may be kept in the cash book); 6, real estate and schooners; 7, expenses; 8, wages or salaries; 9, bills payable; 10, accounts payable (with creditors); capital account.

As a practical illustration, suppose the business has been conducted successfully for one year, and it is desired to ascertain just what profit has been made, and also how the business stands at the expiration of this time.

Depreciation written off from profits on trips	$1,500
		7,300
Equipment, etc. (original valuation)	$3,500
Depreciation written off from general profits	500
		3,000
Accounts and bills payable		25,000

With these particulars we will proceed to open up the necessary accounts to ascertain the net profits for the period, and also the standing of the business.

The items of depreciation and gain on vessels in the above account were obtained from the accounts outlined in July Special. The net gain is then transferred to the proprietor's account, or partnership accounts, and a portion of the amount usually left at the credit of profit and loss account. It will be seen by looking carefully into the accounts outlined that the fishing end of the business is kept entirely separate from the trading in the store, except when ascertaining the net profit for the period.

If full information is desired in regard to the expense account, it may be subdivided into a number of auxiliary accounts, such as postage and stationery, heat and light, rent and taxes, etc.

The stock should be valued at actual cost, as per invoice, even though values may fluctuate, as it is the only fair method to have each year stand on its own merits.

In next issue we will outline a cash book suitable for such a business as is being discussed, and also show the final statement of the business and present worth.

A DOUBLE PROFIT

Royal Baking Powder Pays a Greater Profit to the Grocer Than any Other Baking Powder He Sells.

Profit means real money in the bank. It does not mean "percentage," which may represent very little actual money. A grocer often has the chance to sell either:

1. A baking powder for 45c. a pound and make a profit of 5c. or 6c., or,
2. A baking powder for 10c. a pound and make "20 per cent profit," which means only 2c. actual money. Which choice should you take?

Royal Baking Powder makes the customer satisfied and pleased, not only with the baking powder, but also with the flour, butter, eggs, etc., which the grocer sells.

This satisfaction of the customer is the foundation of the best and surest profit in business—it is permanent. Do not take the risk of selling a cheap alum baking powder; some day the customer may find out about the alum, and then your best profit in the customer's confidence is gone.

Royal Baking Powder pays greater profits to the grocer than any other baking powder he sells.

PROPER BOOKKEEPING OR JAIL

Because he failed through keeping no books, The Canadian Merchants Protective Association have entered proceedings against a man.

The law says:

"Any man who fails and who has not for five years before his failure kept proper books shall be liable to a fine of $800.00 and one year's imprisonment."

It is cheaper to keep proper books than to pay a fine of $800.00 and go to jail for a year, isn't it?

"It's the merit of the goods that finally wins business."

And when you have merit and profit combined what more does a retailer ask?

That's why so many grocers sell

Paterson's Worcester Sauce.

ROSE & LAFLAMME, Agents,
Montreal and Toronto.

What will Mrs. Smith say when you drive up to her door with that rusty, rattling old cart? Your delivery waggon ought to be a reflection of your store—it ought to advertise the excellence of your goods. It will, too, if you will let us furnish it. We have something interesting for you just now. Sit down and write us while you're thinking of it.

ARE YOU AWARE

of the fact that we put up a Chutney Sauce which is admittedly the best sauce on the market? If you are not, let us make you aware of the fact. If you are, let us send you a shipment, for it is the one sauce no grocer can afford to be without. It possesses a piquancy and distinctive flavor which render it absolutely unique and the man who has not yet tasted it on cold roasts or hot steaks or chops, has missed a treat. It shows a good margin of profit and is in demand all over the world, amongst all classes of men. Place an order with your wholesaler at once, and insist on his giving you what you and your customers want. If he does not stock our Chutney Sauce, have him import it for you.

Sense and Cents

Common sense or dollars and cents—which counts for most in making a trade?

Common sense says plainly "buy standard goods"; dollars and cents (your pocketbook) tempts you to buy cheap, nameless articles of trade that will grow dim, dusty, dirty on your shelves. Common sense counts for most in making a trade.

Griffin & Skelley's Dried Fruits

"The pick of the pack," please remember that. Don't forget, either, that they come from the largest vineyards and orchards on the Pacific Coast---picked and packed right where they grow.

Apricots, Peaches, Pears, Nectarines, Raisins, Dried Plums, Prunes. Clean as a whistle always. Choice Dried Fruits.

Cox's Gelatine Standard Gelatine of known worth ---known quality---known purity. Never disappoints the most particular housekeeper. Oldest brand and "best," because tried, tested, trusted. In powdered and shredded form.

The Wants of Women—Study Them

MR. GROCER ! You may invest more money in your business ; you may advertise the best line of staple groceries on earth ; you may know your trade from beginning to end ; but—unless you know and study the wants of women—your business acumen will avail you nothing in the struggle for commercial supremacy. Women, consciously or no, dictate the policy of the business world, and no merchant is great or powerful enough to ignore their decision. Now, sir, since these facts are indisputable, and since the women of Canada have almost unanimously declared that .

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

of Canned Goods is peerless—beyond compare—surely you owe it to yourself to stock and talk the brand which clinches both reputation and profit, No brand of Canned Goods on the market can do more for you than Old Homestead. That much we are positive about. But the particular and economical housewives of Canada are just as positive tha is so much superior to the next best brand of Canned Goods that there is no comparison. And there are strong reasons for their belief. All the goodness of succulent fruit and fresh vegetables is retained in Old Homestead Brand. The name stands for surety of purity and that palate pleasing, appetizing flavor which has made the brand famous.

OLD HOMESTEAD BRAND

"SALADA"

Why? Because, unlike sellers of other teas, we never want you to keep a pound of "SALADA" in stock if you desire to get rid of it. It costs you in interest and insurance 10 per cent yearly to carry tea.

CURRANTS AND THE PRIVILEGED COMPANY

How the crop and prices are controlled—Interesting report made in March by British Consul P. B. Wood.

In dealing with the currant question, the all important fact to be borne in mind is the existence of the "Privileged Company for the Protection of Currant Growers and Traders," which was established last year by charter for a period of 20 years. This company to a great extent regulates the currant market, for one of the essential clauses in its charter is its obligation to purchase from any grower or holder of currants, regardless of the size of the crop or any other consideration, any quantity of good dried merchantable currants which he may offer to it for sale at the minimum price of 115dr. per 1,000 lbs. great Venetian* which is equivalent (at the present rate of exchange of 27 dr. to the £) to £9 per ton first cost, or £14 5s. per ton f.o.b., packed in quarter cases, reckoning that the price of retention warrants would rule about 10 per cent. below that of currants. As long, therefore, as the Privileged Company continues to exist, the position of the currant grower is assured, for the above mentioned minimum price for currants of the lower and medium quality—and these are what are mainly affected—is fairly remunerative. To currant traders in this country and foreign dealers in the article, this obligation of the Company is a great boon, for, in seasons of great abundance there is no longer the apprehension of any undue burdening of consumption markets with stock, for, unless they are prepared to pay the equivalent of the minimum price offered by the Company, any surplus would naturally remain in this country, and be transferred to the Company's warehouses. Dealers abroad in a large crop year, having minimum sterling f.o.b. price to guide them, can regulate their business on a safer basis. In seasons of reduced production, like the present, when prices are considerable higher than the Company's minimum, there is obviously no great risk incurred, for these prices are fixed by the relative supply and demand, which in an article like currants is easily estimated; and consequently the ruling rates represent pretty fairly the value of the article.

Company's Privileges.

It will naturally be asked what privilege the Company enjoys in return for such a great concession to currant growers; for it must be remembered that the Company is not allowed to export the currants which it buys at this minimum price in their original form. They can only be sold locally to wine makers and distillers or exporters in a liquid state, either as wine, alcohol or syrup, or pulped in a manner which makes them unfit for eating purposes, and in none of these forms do currants, under normal circumstances, give even half the equivalent of what the company has paid for them. The set-off consists in the payment to the company of 7dr. per 1,000 lbs. of dried currants produced—say about 11s. per ton at the present rate of exchange.

A total average crop of currants may now be reckoned, under normal circumstances, at 160,000 to 170,000 tons, and there is no chance of any great increase in production; for, so long as the Privileged Company's charter lasts, no new currant plantations are allowed, excepting by payment of an almost prohibitive area tax.

The company also derives the benefit of the 35 per cent. export duty (retention) which is paid in kind and deposited in its warehouses. Reckoning the usual annual export at 120,000 tons, the company receives, as a free gift, 42,000 tons of currants; but against this it is compelled to pay to the Greek Government about 4,000,000 dr.—say about £147,000 against the export duty in cash, which it used formerly to receive.

It is difficult to estimate the real value of these 42,000 tons received by the company, for, as it has been stated, these can only be used for wine making and distillation, and their value consequently varies according to the importance of the vintages, etc., in foreign countries, as these latter are the principal buyers of products derived from these currants. But, taking one year with the other, about £4 per ton would be about a fair estimate of their value.

Crops and Company's Position.

It will be seen that, in normal currant seasons, when the total crop does not exceed 160,000 tons, of which 120,000 tons are usually exported and 42,000 tons handed in against retention purposes, the company's position is a satisfactory one; but total crops of 170,000 to 180,000 tons are possible, and then the tables are turned. as the company would then, presumably, have to buy all the surplus of 8,000 to 18,000 tons at its minimum price of £9 per ton.

A clause favorable to the company was embodied in its charter, at the instance of foreign fruit dealers, which stipulates that it must sell from the retention currants any quantity of good merchantable currants applied for by any exporters at the fixed price of 200dr. per 1,000 lbs., which at present rate of exchange, is equal to £1 1s. f.o.b. per cwt. net in quarter cases.

This clause was inserted in order to check any undue enhancement of prices short one, such as the crop of 1900, when the total crop happens to be a which was reduced to one-third of its usual weight by "peronosporos," and prices for average provincial were pushed as high as £3 per cwt. f.o.b., to the great detriment of the trade generally.

It is, however, only in season of very small crops, like the present, that the company will be applied to for the retention currants by exporters, as the price of £1 1s. per cwt. f.o.b. for provincial is extremely high, and is only obtainable in markets of consumption under abnormal circumstances. At the present moment, stock in the hands of growers and merchants will be insufficient to supply the usual demand of the next five months, and were it not for the above clauses, prices would certainly have been pushed very high. As it is, however, holders are unable to get higher prices than the company is authorized to sell at, and when their stocks are depleted it is probable that the company will be able to sell 2,000 to 3,000 tons of the retention currants at the equivalent of £1 1s. f.o.b. per ewt. and naturally derives a great advantage from these sales.

At the opening of the currant season the Privileged Company, in conjunction with the Greek Government, draws up an official estimate of the crop, including the remaining stock of old currants and retention receipts. Deducting from the estimate of new crop and stocks of old currants remaining in Greece, the 35 per cent. retention duty in kind, which is levied on the export of currants, the net amount of currants available for export during the succeeding twelve months is obtained. Deducting 10 per cent. from this quantity, it announces publicly in August that when shipments reach the estimated amount available for export minus the deduction, the export duty of 35 per cent. up till then levied in kind, will be taken in cash at a fixed rate of 40.25dr. per 1,000 lbs. of currants exported—say £3 3s. per ton. This is done as it is manifestly absurd that a retention of 35 per cent. in kind should be levied when the stock of currants remaining on this side is insufficient to supply the requirements of consumption.

Estimates of Last Crop.

At the opening of the present currant season the Privileged Company issued the following estimate, and stated that when the total export of currants reached 200,000,000 lbs. great Venetian (94,000 tons) retention warrants would be no longer accepted at the custom house, but payment in cash at the above mentioned price of 40.25dr. per mill exported:

	Quantity lbs.
Estimate of total crop of currants, 1906	280,000,000
Stock of 1905 currants remaining in Greece	6,500,000
Total	286,500,000
	lbs.*
35 per cent. export duty in kind (retention) on an estimated export of 200,000,000 lbs. including Ionian Islands, which pay 40 per cent.	71,000,000
Less retention warrants held over from preceding crop	6,891,200
	64,108,800
Available for export	222,291,200

*Great Venetian.

or about 104,500 tons, against a usual export of about 120,000 to 125,000 tons.

The total export will reach the amount of 200,000,000 lbs. or 94,000 tons by about the middle of April, when the 35 per cent. export duty will be taken in cash instead of kind, and this will cause about 1s. 9d. per cwt. reduction in the export charges, a matter which needs a little explanation, for dealers and importers of currants abroad have been much perplexed, after continuous reports of strong markets and short stocks, to hear quotations about 2s. cheaper than those which have been prevailing during the last four or five months.

*1 lb. great Venetian equals 1.052 lbs. avirdupois, about.

Retention warrants are delivered to anyone depositing currants in the Privileged Company's warehouses and bear on their face the amount delivered. These warrants are sold in the open market to exporters and are usually worth 10 per cent. less than the value of the currants.

Cash Instead of Kind.

Since the beginning of this year the price of good sound provincial currants has been about 200dr. per 1,000 lbs. (great Venetian) first cost, and retention warrants have averaged 180dr. per 1,000 lbs. A retention of 35 per cent. payable in warrants costing 180dr. per 1,000 lbs., is equal to an export charge of 63dr. per 1,000 lbs., the duty in cash, as above stated, will be levied at the fixed rate of 115dr., equal to an export charge of 40dr., £25, per 1,000 lbs.—say £3 3s. per ton—1s. 9d. per cwt. less, and this is the only reason why lower quotations have been heard of lately, as the first cost of currants has in no way declined, nor is it likely to, for 1906 fruit.

The Privileged Company naturally derives considerable benefit from the 35 per cent. export duty paid in cash instead of in kind. In cash it receives 40dr., £25, per 1,000 lbs. shipped, whereas in kind it gets 350 lbs. of currants, which if sold locally, or exported for wine making or distillation, does not give it a return, under normal circumstances, of more than 15dr. per like mill.

Estimate of Currant Crop, 1906.

In the spring of 1906 everything seemed to be going favorably with the currant crop, no symptoms of disease had been noted anywhere, the show of fruit was abundant, and a very large and fine crop was expected; merchants were so much impressed with the idea that very large forward sales were made in May and June to all consuming markets at about the equivalent of the price which the Privileged Company is compelled to pay for good average provincial currants. Thus currants were sold in the United States, the Netherlands and Germany at the price of 16s. to 16s. 6d. cost freight and insurance per cwt. in barrels, to the United Kingdom at 17s. cost freight and insurance, and to Canada and Australia at 18s. to 18s. 6d. c.i.f. in cases and half cases.

By the month of July, however, rumours from all producing districts gave a less glowing view of the state of affairs, the bunches of currants had remained small in size, in places fruit was withering and dropping off, evidently the result of latent "peronosporos," and finally, when the harvest time was reached, it became evident that the crop would be a comparatively small one.

The following estimate, arrived at in August, was generally considered about exact :

District	Quantity In 1906 Tons	Quantity Estimated In 1905 Tons
Gulf of Corinth	12,000	14,000
Vostizza (Aegium)	8,000	9,000
Patras and Achaia	8,000	12,000
Pyrgos and Olympia	26,000	32,000
Campos and Gastuni	16,000	19,000
Kyparissia and Filiatra	13,000	16,000
Pylos Madone & Corone	13,000	16,000
Calamata and Nissi	24,000	27,000
Messolonghi and Lepanto	2,500	4,000
Naupila	500	4,000
Island of Zante	5,000	7,000
Cephalonia and Santa Maura	7,000	8,000
Total	135,000	165,000
Less 35 per cent. retention on 100,000 tons exported	35,000	42,000
Estimated amount available for export	100,000	123,000

*On 120,000 tons.

Reduced Fruit Crops in Mediterranean.

The effect of this greatly reduced crop of currants was still further enhanced by the falling off in the Smyrna and Spanish crops of sultanas and raisins. It is reckoned that the annual consumption of Mediterranean dried grapes and currants amounts to close upon 200,000 tons, whereas the visible supply for 1906 did not exceed 140,000 tons.

Opening Prices.

The market for currants opened very briskly in August, and prices, in response to an active demand from all markets of consumption, kept rising daily, and to such an extent that many contracts entered into during the months of May and June for forward delivery at comparatively low prices were not carried out, sellers being unable to face the heavy loss. The following table shows the gradual rise in the price of the various growths of currants during the season 1906-07.

Stocks.

Those remaining at present (March) in hands of growers and merchants are reduced to about 7,000 to 8,000 tons, which is barely sufficient to supply the demand during the next five months, so that shippers will be compelled to have recourse to the Privileged Company, and buy from the retention stock, which even with the reduced export duty, will cost fully £1 1s. f.o.b. and this is the lowest price at which currants are likely to be sold during the present season.

Export of Currants.

Exports of currants from August, 1906, to March, 1907, as compared with the same period in the previous season, are :

Shipments from the opening of the season were very brisk, especially to the British markets, due partly to the comparatively high prices demanded for sultanas, raisins, and all other dried fruits, also to the marked increase in the consumption of currants in the United Kingdom, averaging about 15 to 20 per cent. above the last season's.

Total Value of Crop, 1906.

The total encashed by growers for the currant crop of 1906, including what they got from the sale of retention warrants, will amount to about £1,700,000, against £1,400,000 in 1905, £1,500,000 in 1904, £1,450,000 in 1903, and £1,358,000 in 1902.

Prospects for Crop, 1907.

The crop prospects for 1907 are good, for one of the severest winters ever remembered has visited this country. Snow on several occasions has fallen on the plains bordering the sea coast, and frosts of considerable severity have been noted frequently, and it has been observed that a severe winter is usually followed by abundant fruit crops, owing to the destruction by cold of various insects and other pests to which they are very subject. An abundant crop of currants has no longer terror for growers, as the Privileged Company with its guaranteed minimum prices assures them a remunerative return, whatever may happen.

Sultanas.

Like currants, sultanas were a short crop last season, but the quality was excellent, and realized very satisfactory prices in markets of consumption. The total produce of the Morea did not exceed 900 to 1,000 tons, and was sold at from £1 7s. to £2 2s. per cwt. f.o.b. in quarter cases.

The cultivation of this favorite raisin has been much neglected in this country during the last few years, owing to the increased production in the district of Smyrna which has brought about a serious decline in the price of the article; still, as new currant plantations are now prohibited, it is likely that growers will turn their attention to the sultana.

BELLEVILLE.

James Eadie, organizer of the Retail Merchants' Association, was in the city last week and addressed a meeting of the local branch in the City Hall, at which there was a good attendance.

A. L. Geen, president of the local branch, was in the chair, and reported on the annual convention recently held in Hamilton. He went fully into the work which the convention had accomplished during the three days. Mr. Eadie said the association was growing to be large and its work important, both to the public and to mercnants. "It is an age of organization," he said. "All classes are organized. The merchants play a very important part in the city and town life, and are a necessity. Theirs is a most useful association, protecting the public as well as the merchants, and through the association the merchants are endeavoring to give the very best of service to the public.

Whilst almost all the merchants of Belleville belong to the association, they have not displayed the necessary amount of enthusiasm, and have not met together as often as they should have done. If you get to know and understand each other you can discuss many matters of importance. Conditions are continually changing. It is an age of change as regards the association and legislation. My contention is that both houses are made up of farmers, doctors, lawyers and bankers who do not know the wants of the retail merchants. Through the association all this is now changed, and we can place our views intelligently before our legislators. Our membership is large, and as the majority of the members are large property holders, and consequently heavy taxpayers, we find both Governments very willing to hear and help us.

"A very important bill which was introduced this last year, was Mr. Monk's in favor of co-operative stores. A committee of the House was appointed to take evidence. Earl Grey, the Postmaster-General, Mr. King, the Deputy Minister of Labor and others had given evidence in favor of them, whilst the merchants had opposed. Mr. Eadie said his experience in Edinburgh, Scotland, had been that they had depreciated property and narrowed down the employment of labor, and had been very hurtful to the people themselves, to the store-keepers, as well as to the cities and towns, and when the bill came before Parliament he trusted the merchants throughout the whole Dominion would take means to defeat the measure in the interest of the towns and cities. It was of vast importance that the merchants and those interested in the growth of our great country should awaken and give every consideration to such a change. His own personal opinion was that those who were supporting such a measure were not taking the all round view, and were only looking from one side of this great question. The merchants were also very anxious that the public should deal in their own towns and cities, where they get there goods as cheap, and help to build up the prosperity of their own localities. He knew towns and villages to-day which were going down largely through those who get their money therein, sending to Toronto and other large places. It was for the thinking public to consider the great harm they were doing. They had been the means of stopping a bill being introduced favoring a parcel-post c.o.d., which would have played into the hands of the departmental stores. The postmasters had formed a very strong organization and wanted to compile a list of the leading citizens to sell to other departmental stores and mail order companies, which the association took active means to defeat. A strong company called "The Canada Mail Order Co." has also ceased to exist, largely through the efforts of the retail merchants. The present Business Assessment Bill had to some extent been the work of the organization, and the association was anxious to know the opinion of merchants, as there was talk of the desire of some M.P.'s to return to the old methods.

Mr. Eadie entered into a large number of questions which had been discussed and action was taken. In closing he said: "All legislative measures that are introduced into Parliament come before the watchful eye of our active executive. They oppose injurious legislation, and promote measures that will benefit the retail trade. The merchants thereafter discussed the work of the association, and all were deeply impressed with the work done. It was agreed to hold a banquet in the fall of the year, and to get together oftener.

CALGARY.

By E. L. Richardson, Secretary Board of Trade.

Calgary, Aug. 2.

The grain crops, upon which so much depends in the west, are progressing very favorably, and everything points to a very large crop, particularly in southern Alberta, where the crops are more forward than in the northern part of the province. The Alberta crops are considerably ahead of those of Manitoba and Saskatchewan, particularly southern Manitoba. Our barley and winter wheat is just beginning to turn, and we will be harvesting it in a week or ten days.

The city is progressing very favorably. The census recently taken shows that we have a population of 21,040 at the present time, and it is expected that within a year we will have a population of 25,000. The custom house receipts for July, were $57,851, as against $30,035 the same month 1906. Some of our citizens, just returned from England, report that a very large amount of capital is looking towards southern Alberta for investment, and the greatest interest is taken in western Canada.

Work has been started on the new gravity system of waterworks, which is to cost $345,000, and which will be sufficient to supply Calgary's wants until the city reaches over 100,000 population. The municipal electric light plant is proving a success, and the staff is being considerably increased. At the present rate of increase, over 500 new connections will be made within the next six months. Preparations for the new street railway system are now being made. It is proposed to run 10½ miles of track at present, and to have the main street double-tracked. The cars and equipment will be up to date, and will add one more comfort of city life to Calgary. A by-law was recently passed to build a $150,000 city hall. In case the tenders are too high for the plans which have been accepted, the building will likely be put up by day labor by the city. Work on municipal improvements, such as sidewalks, sewers, etc., etc., is progressing favorably, and several magnificient blocks are in course of erection, such as the Y.M.C.A. building, the new Normal school, Cushing Bros.' new brick factory, large additions to the Standard Soap Works, Calgary Brewing & Malting Co's. plant, and three or four substantial wholesale blocks. A street delivery of letters was recently inaugurated. In fact, when our street car line is in operation, Calgary will have all the adjuncts necessary to make a fine, up-to-date city.

CHATHAM.

Early closing has scored another advance in this city, the men's furnishing stores having mutually agreed to close at 7 o'clock every evening during the month of August. Six firms are included in the agreement, the seventh, Thornton & Douglas, having made early closing a practice since their establishment here.

The Dominion Fisheries Commission, comprising John Birnie, K.C., and J. J. Noble, met in this city July 31 and Aug. 1. Much conflicting evidence as to the local situation as affecting the Thames and Lakes Erie and St. Clair was submitted. The fishermen, who desired the abolition of the present restrictions, represented that the scarcity of fish was due to the depredations of the carp, while the representatives of the Fish and Game Protective Association laid the blame upon the seine nets. Mr. Wheeler, representative of the latter interests, declared that while this vicinity possessed the cream of the fishing waters, the people of Kent and Chatham hadn't a fish to eat.

Last week John McCorvie, the popular grocer and school trustee, had the misfortune to run a file through his hand. The wound is progressing nicely, but Mr. McCorvie will be inconvenienced for some time as a result.

N. A. McGeachy & Sons have commenced work on an extension to the ice cream parlor in their "all white" establishment.

Jas. R. Palmer, of Tilbury, will shortly erect a steam bakery in Chatham. Negotiations are at present under way for the construction of the building. Mr. Palmer has for some time past contemplated locating in Chatham, and his coming is now practically an assured fact.

Wilfred McCorvie, of John McCorvie & Son, has returned from a trip to the Jamestown Exposition, incidentally visiting New York, Washington, Baltimore and other important points en route.

Mrs. Annie Rumble has moved her grocery stock into the premises on Adelaide street, recently occupied by Frank Snook.

Lamon Bros. recently moved into their new premises at the corner of St. Clair street and Grand avenue. Their new plant is a large and comprehensive one, the bakery containing two big ovens with a capcity of 800 loaves. The firm are going into the wholesale and shipping business very extensively. The front part of the building, which possessed a good show window, will be used as a confectionery and ice cream parlor.

The Tilbury Canning Co. are engaged in canning beans, a large staff being employed in the factory and the fields.

Fred. Dean, Government Inspector of Creameries, was a city visitor recently. He stated that Chatham possessed better creameries than any city in his district, extending from Windsor to Toronto.

* * *

H. E. Hughson, the local sign artist, has just finished a striking sign on the wall of Lamon Bros'. bakery at the corner of St. Clair street and Grand avenue. It takes the form of a life-sized representation of a lady just taking a loaf of their new and widely advertised "Mother's Bread" from the oven.

Wallaceburg had a big gathering last week, in the shape of the Volunteer Firemen's convention. A large number of visitors were present from various parts of Ontario, and the town was resplendent with decorations, the merchants adorning their premises in a manner befitting the occasion. The convention comprised two days, a third day being taken up with firemen's sports and prize contests.

HAMILTON.

While waiting further developments about that suggested meeting of manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers, I would like to have some opinions on the subject from your readers—both wholesale and retail, as well as the manufacturers. Why not send a letter to your paper with their idea of a general organization? Their names need not necessarily be published. Personally I think this meeting should be held, if only a few people get together and thresh out the question as to the best thing for the retailer to do. Both the others have associations now and realize the benefits to be derived, and if some way can be pointed out to the retailer it would be time well spent. As I understand now there is considerable friction between the manufacturer and the jobber, and it looks to me as if some of these troubles might be smoothed over if some good retail men were called in to the confidence of the others.

The fruit and vegetable growers of Wentworth and Halton held their annual picnic at the Brant House Park, Hamilton Beach, on Wednesday last. It proved a grand success, beautiful weather, large attendance and some capital speeches from some prominent growers like Frank Lalor, M.P., of Dunnville, E. D. Smith, M.P., Winona; Thos. Stock, Oscar Sealey and Jim Livingstone. The speeches were eloquent, instructive and amusing, and the deliberations of the association were along practical lines.

One of the important subjects was the using of second hand crates and boxes. The conclusion arrived at was that this should cease at once, particularly on sanitary grounds, as they are bought and sold by Jews and other dealers along with rags and bottles, and consequently reputable dealers will not handle fruit in boxes that have once been used, and will request the buyer to burn when empty. This outing is largely patronized by the retail grocers of Hamilton, and they certainly appear to get nearly as much pleasure out of it as they do at their own mammoth picnic.

The president of the fruit growers proposes to ask some of them for papers on agricultural questions, as, say, James Main on the "Early planting of macaroni," and Adam Ballantine on "Training of vermicelli," and John Forth on the "Pulling of grape nuts." These papers in the hands of the able grocers mentioned should be both interesting and instructive, and would no doubt have to be repeated before city audiences.

LONDON.

Grocery travellers are all back on the road after having enjoyed two weeks' holiday. Wholesalers report business to have been well maintained during the vacation period.

Brokers report prices advancing almost all along the line. Teas, especially Japans, continue to go up. Coffees are unchanged, fine qualities realizing good prices. Sugars remain stationary, the unusually small demand for this season of the year no doubt preventing any advance in prices. Prepared cocoanut is up one cent per pound. The crop and quality of both raisins and currants are reported excellent. Prices for September and October shipment are about the same as a week ago. The New York market is bare, and it is said that so high is the price demanded for California raisins that New York dealers are importing Valencias in large quantities at lower prices than they can get home-grown fruit.

Canners have placed the opening price for peas at 92½ cents per dozen for standards, as against 85 cents a year ago, and early Junes at $1.02½, compared with 95 cents last year. No. 2 group are 2½ cents lower. An advance in these prices is looked for, and it may be taken for granted that the figures for other vegetables will be put up correspondingly. These advances bear hard on the retailers, who, to meet them, need to add a cent a tin to the price. This they can hardly do, and as the profit is small enough at best, it will readily be seen how they are affected.

The scarcity and consequent high price of small fruits is setting the housewife thinking how she is going to get along the coming year, if not exactly without these dainties, at least with a considerably smaller store than she has been accustomed to. On Saturday last raspberries sold for 14 to 15 cents a quart wholesale on the local market, and 16 to 18 cents retail. The warm weather in March brought out the buds on the berry plants, but the cold weather later killed the bulk of them. Black currants are selling at the high price of $1.60 wholesale for what is called a twelve quart basket, but which really contains not more than nine or ten quarts. Harvest apples, too, are scarce, the yield being the smallest in years. However, the later varieties promise to be larger. The peach, pear and plum crops are said to be more promising. The present week will probably see the last of the berries. On Saturday evening every box in the market was sold out by eleven o'clock at prices that almost forbid canning. People have been advised to turn to the despised prunes as a substitute; but here they are met with the news that prunes this year promise not more than half a crop. If, however, it was only the fruits that were high in price people might manage to worry along somehow, but everything is dear, and bids fair to be dearer, so that one does not need to be a pessimist to see a hard time ahead the coming winter for those accustomed to a hand-to-mouth existence.

R. A. Ross, a London grocer, took a second plunge into the matrimonial swim Wednesday, and his many friends are wishing him and the bride-elect every good thing.

The members of the Retail Grocers' Association know how to enjoy themselves on occasions if anyone does. The mid-week half holidays during the summer months have been put to good use, but after this week there will be only two of these recreation periods left them for this season. Ed. Ryan and Gordon Drake got up an outing for Wednesday which was among the most enjoyable of the year. The grounds and fishing stream of the London Gun Club at Dorchester were placed at the disposal of these gentlemen and their friends for the afternoon. Fishing, a baseball match and a banquet in the village hotel in the evening constituted the programme.

The Ontario Government has inaugurated a crusade against the diluting of milk with water by farmers in cheese factory communities, and as a result two London Township men have been fined $10 and costs each. In all likelihood others will be called upon to answer a similar charge, as many complaints have been sent to Inspector Farrington, of Woodstock, regarding the quality of the milk furnished the factories. Samples of milk recently examined here were found to contain from ten to thirty per cent. of adulteration. It is considered not a little significant that, following these prosecutions and convictions, there has been an increase in the price of milk of one cent a quart.

STRATFORD.

"Business is dull," said a grocer dealer on Ontario street, and he was dead right. The holiday season is the cause, and the citizens are making holiday by the lake side at Grand Bend, near Goderich. One grocer remarked, "It would surprise you if I told you to what extent the vacation season affects the trade. When a half dozen or more regular customers leave the city in one week it is soon noticeable in the falling off in the trade." Other grocers spoke in the same tone.

Not a few of the retail grocers are displeased at the actions of one of the leading establishments in the city. This firm has recently made a decisive cut in the price of granulated sugar. They are advertising 22 pounds for the dollar, while the general price throughout the city is 19 and 20 pounds for the dollar for the same brand of sugar. In Woodstock, Ingersoll and other cities the ruling quotation is 18 pounds for the dollar. Lately the merchants in Stratford have been cutting prices in other lines as well.

A few of the grocers have huckleberries on sale, but the supply doesn't meet the demand. They are very scarce in the city.

Raspberries have had a splendid run, and now that boxes are becoming scarce the price goes up by notches.

The market is well supplied with all the seasonable produce. Green vegetables are especially delicious at this time of the year.

GUELPH.

Last week was another good week for the grocers for this time of year, fruit, sugar and jars being in good demand. Plums made their first appearance on the market on Saturday, and sold readily at 80c. a basket. Tomatoes also have improved in quality and price, 60c. to 80c. a basket. Raspberries still continue to come.

I saw a down-town grocer this morning sweeping his store and kicking an old tin can along and went in to investigate. He has a good thing for keeping down the dust. He takes an old piece of carpet, soaks it in floor oil, then puts it into an old, wide-mouthed tin, big enough to dip the broom in, every little while rubbing the broom against the piece of carpet. The broom then catches all the dust. Of course, a man needs a clean floor to start with, as it won't scrub the floor. It certainly is a good dust protector.

For the last two years we have had screens on the store doors and found we had considerable trouble trying to keep the flies out, very often the customers standing holding the door open to talk as they went in and out. This year we have thrown both doors wide open and left the screens up-stairs and have not as many flies as last year, but still have plenty, thank you. But we have the nice cool breeze blowing and a good deal more light, and use strips of fly paper along the fronts of the windows. We are not yet convinced which is the best.

INGERSOLL.

The first lots of this season's honey are now being marketed. The supply, according to present information, will hardly be up to the average in quantity, although the quality, generally speaking, is excellent. The cold weather of the early spring retarded the work of the bees very much, a fact which explains the shortage to a great extent. They were denied the privilege of working on the early flowers as usual, and their efforts have been confined very largely to the clover and other flowers which bloom later on. The clover honey this season is of fine quality and is already in good demand. Very little buckwheat or basswood honey has been seen, but it will likely find its way on to the market in due course of time. Judging from present indications, the prices will be about the same as last year. The first quality clover honey is now selling at 18 cents per section, with number two quality at a shilling, or two sections for a quarter.

That H. Walter Knight, for the past seven years superintendent of the factory of the St. Charles Condensing Co., earned the highest regard and good will of the employees of that institution was indicated in a tangible manner a few days ago. As briefly noted in these columns recently, Mr. Knight has severed his connection with the St. Charles Co. to accept the general managership of the Canadian Condensed Milk Co. A few days ago he was pleasantly surprised by being made the recipient of a solid gold watch suitably inscribed and a gold watch fob, bearing the Masonic emblem. An address which accompanied the gifts explained that they were from the employees of the St. Charles Condensing factory. The address was signed by the employes of each department.

From the time that it became known that Mr. Knight had resigned as superintendent of the condensing factory, speculation was rife as to who would be his successor, and it was with a marked degress of pleasure that citizens learned that the mantle had fallen onto the capable shoulders of R. B. Hutt. Mr. Hutt is an Ingersoll boy who has been associated with the firm for several years in the capacity of assistant superintendent, and he is well qualified for his new duties.

RED ROSE TEA TRAVELERS.

Pleasure and Business at St. John—The Annual Conference.

The men who preach the good qualities of Red Rose Tea have been having a gala time in St. John, at the annual convention held there from August 6 to 10. The travelers were quartered at the Royal Hotel during their stay, and the week was pleasantly and profitably spent in pleasure trips and conferences on matters connected with the tea trade.

The members of the staff attending were: Rupert Pratt, R. E. Miller, J. H. Boyd, Fred Rose, G. E. Taylor, T. C. Pott, Toronto; H. A. Howey, Stratford; R. W. Vout, Brockville; S. Hustwitt, G. L. Palmer, Winnipeg; W. C. Gaden, Montreal; A. P. Murchie, Portland (Me.); L. W. Cox, Truro; N. D. LeBlanc, Shediac; G. A. Trites, Salisbury; L. B. Moore, St. John's (Nfld.); J. V. Keirstead, A. W. Birmingham, L. C. Armstrong, B. M. Armstrong, St. John. Also Geo. H. Campbell, manager of the Toronto office, with Mrs. Campbell. Many of the married men in the party were accompanied by their wives.

The first day was spent in preliminary skirmishes and in getting acquainted. On the second day an excursion on the Bay of Fundy across to Digby was greatly enjoyed. The steamer Prince Rupert was boarded early in the morning, and the "Red Rose party" numbering over forty were safely piloted to the pretty little Nova Scotia town. Here buckboards were engaged for a drive around town and to the baseball grounds, where a baseball game was played between the easterners and westerners, resulting in a victory for the latter by a score of 10 to 6. It was a wonderful game in many ways, and no doubt the readers of the Grocer all over Canada will be regaled by their Red Rose man with lurid stories of how he played the whole game.

The excursion was under the personal direction of Theodore H. Estabrooks, the popular proprietor of "Canada's largest tea house," and he left nothing undone to provide for the comfort and pleasure of the party. After the game the players were conveyed to the steamer, some of them being kindly assisted by friends, and an excellent dinner was partaken of.

The return to St. John was made in the afternoon, all pronouncing the outing a grand success. The victorious westerners were somewhat startled however, to find this bold defiance presented to them by the office staff: "The office staff of T. H. Estabrooks challenge the western railroad tea travelers to a friendly game of baseball to be played on the Every Day Club grounds on a date to be arranged later."

This game has not yet been played, but it should be a terrible contest if it should materialize.

Thursday evening the 8th, the travelers were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Estabrooks, at their handsome residence on Mount Pleasant avenue.

On Saturday and Monday the members of the party started out again on their missionary work among the grocers of the Dominion.

HONEY SCARCE.

Honey is going to be dear again this year. The price committee of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association met in Toronto Monday and decided on 11 to 12½ cents for strained clover honey, and $2.50 to $2.75 for comb honey. The honey crop, which is produced mainly in Ontario, is gathered by the honey bees in about ten days. Last year the weather during those ten days was wet and bad and the crop was practically a failure. A bad crop is apt to make some beekeepers careless of their stock. This, and perhaps a shortage of supplies, occasioned a loss of a considerable portion of the stock during the winter. Past President Sibbald of the association places the loss at 75 to 50 per cent. The weather this year was all right, but fewer bees were working. Considerable honey has already been bought at less than the prices named by the association, and wholesale dealers are not very strong in the feeling that these prices can be maintained.

Honey is a commodity that will not sell above a certain price, but the people have a taste for it, for a good year and low prices greatly increase the demand. When prices go up, however, consumers turn readily to something else. One thing is certain, comb honey is very scarce this year, and there won't be much sold over the counter this season at less than 25c. a section. The Beekeepers' Association try to adjust the price to just ensure consumption of the crop. Honey was brought in last year from the West Indies and may be again.

SALT IN CANADA.

The Geological Survey Department, Ottawa, has just issued a report for 1905 of the mineral industries of Canada. Of course, the volume is of much value as a record, but its commercial value seems to us to have been lost in the year and a half's delay. If the Government is going to publish reports, it should be done promptly; else a heavy saving might be made in the printing department.

The report states:

"The production and sales of salt in Canada in 1905 reached a total, according to direct returns from operators, of about 67,340 tons, valued at $320,858, while stock in hand on December 31, 1905, amounted to about 5,206 tons. The value of the packages used was $113,004. The number of men employed was about 191, and the total wages paid, $83,391. This output is derived altogether from the Province of Ontario, from the deposits in the counties of Essex, Lambton, Middlesex, Huron and Bruce. Large quantities of salt exist in the underlying formations of that part of the country, at depths varying from 975 feet to 1,400 feet, and the industry is practically only limited by the demand.

"In 1896 a few tons of salt were produced at the south end of Lake Winnipegosis, Manitoba, but the industry was not followed up in this district. Small quantities of brine have occasionally been evaporated at Plumweseep, New Brunswick, and sold locally along the line of the Intercolonial Railway, and it is reported that preparations are being made to renew production at this place.

"The exports of salt are of small amount. The value of salt imported on which duty is levied has ranged from $20,000 to $80,000 a year, the value in 1905 being $58,056.

"Salt imported from the United Kingdom or any British possession, or imported for the use of the sea or gulf fisheries is free of duty, and a large portion of the trade of eastern Canada is supplied with salt imported under this class. The quantity imported, duty free, in 1905, was 98,453 tons, valued at $240,954."

LOOKING PROSPEROUS.

A short time ago a leading Canadian banker deprecated the growing tendency among bankers of spending a lot of time and tying up a lot of money in elaborate buildings. No doubt all good things are capable of being overdone. Nevertheless, it is extremely hard to tell whether or not the banks are putting too much money in buildings. The finer and more substantial the building, the greater the confidence of the public in the bank's stability. In these days of tight money conditions, when all banks are eagerly reaching out after the depositor, elaborate buildings assume the form of an advertisement, as well as an ornament to the community. The bankers realize that an appearance of prosperity tends to beget the real thing.

As with banks, so with grocers, appearances count for a whole lot. If your store has an untidy, out-of-repair appearance, it is liable to be shunned by the best class of trade. It is certainly the best policy to spend considerable thought and some money upon the appearance of the store and to look fully—perhaps a little more—as prosperous as circumstances permit.

FREIGHT RATES COME DOWN.

After some months of careful consideration, the members of the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners have issued an order which will have a far-reaching effect on the commerce of the Dominion east of the great lakes.

The order remedies the long standing complaint of Ontario and eastern Canada shippers that the railways discriminate in favor of through traffic from the United States to eastern Canada points as compared with traffic originating on this side of the border, and puts into effect the principle of uniform rates for equal distances. As a result, there will be a marked reduction of freight rates to the east from practically all points in western Ontario, the existing unfair discrimination will be done away with, and shippers and the public generally will greatly benefit.

The change will make a difference of several cents in connection with all points. Another feature is that the "owner's risk" condition has been dropped, according to the order, against some 250 items.

Teas—Very firm.
Tapioca—Buying Activity.

Montreal, August 15, 1907.

Summer trade continues brisk and already wholesalers are looking forward to fall, preparing plans for campaigns which will net them big orders. People are returning from the country and business at retail is improving for that reason.

This week the feature of interest is the new price list issued by the canners. It quotes peas, beans, raspberries and Lawton berries. It must be admitted that prices on the two fruit lines are extremely high, whether they are justified or not, and jobbers are wondering where in Canada they are going to find a market for such high priced specialties. The vegetables quoted, while above last year's prices, do not show such a percentage of advance. Stiffer prices on these lines were expected anyway. Canned vegetables are reported in good demand, but fruits are slow. From reports to hand it looks as though the salmon pack this year would be below the average. New prices are out on some lines. Teas are still high and are advancing. It is certainly up to the retailer to advance his prices now, if he is going to sell Japan teas bought today at any sort of profit. Sugar is rather quiet, few sales of any importance being made. Deliveries of molasses are being made by jobbers, but few sales are being made. New prices are out on valencia and sultana raisins. New crop currants are also quoted. Strong demand is reported for the Australian raisins which are now on the market. Evaporated apples are slow. There has been considerable activity in tapioca lately on the part of wholesalers, some good round lots having been purchased. Dairy products are high and markets are firm.

SUGAR.—The sugar market has been uninteresting during the past few days and developments have been nil. Business transacted is not large, the jobbers not being greatly interested, while the retailers are anything but heavy buyers.

TEA.—The situation in teas remains unchanged and the market is still very firm. Japan teas are practically unobtainable locally, very few lots coming forward. Low grade Japans are up above last year's prices by 2c.; medium grades 2½c. and low grades 3c., though in some instances, in order to get the tea at all, and this applies especially to high grade teas, an advance of 5c. or more must be paid. Medium grade black teas have been advanced and something worthy of note is the fact that dust of quality and flavor commands a higher price than broken teas in some instances. Ceylon greens are higher.

FOREIGN DRIED FRUITS.—No particularly interesting reports have been received from Spain lately regarding crop prospects for valenica raisins. Quotations have been given out, however, from which it may be inferred that packers have a fair idea as to what is coming. Fine off-stalk valencias are quoted at 6c. to 6½c.; fine selected, 7c. to 7½c.; 4-crown layers, 7½c. to 8c. At wholesale prices are down a cent on old stock, which is not surprising, considering that it will not be long before the new goods are offering for delivery within a short period. California seeded raisins are up, and it would be hard to obtain anything for delivery in November from New York at a smaller cost to the retailer than 12c. or 12½c. Australian raisins have taken the market here by storm, and the wholesalers are likely to have but little trouble in disposing of small stocks. Good business is being done in figs, which are quoted from 7c. to 9c. Importers have been busy taking orders for dates at open prices and some are just about sold up. First steamer will arrive in New York about the beginning of November, having on board an assortment of Khadrawees, Hallawees and Sayers. Quotations are being made on new crop currants arriving by the first direct steamer, dealers asking of wholesalers 19s. 6d. for fine Filiatras in half cases; 20s. for cleaned. For choice Amalias in barrels, jobbers are quoted 19s. 6d.; 20s. for half cases, and 20s. 6d. for cleaned. Sultana raisin prices are out also, dealers quoting around 9c. for 3-crown and 9½c. for 4-crown, October delivery.

RICE AND TAPIOCA.—Rice continues in good demand at old prices. In tapioca, eastern sellers appear to have been more disposed lately to meet buyers' ideas, with a consequence that a fair amount of business has been done from various Canadian points for July-September shipment, of medium pearl and seed pearl tapioca, and sago. It has apparently been at last realized that present prices are likely to rule and buyers have had the courage to go in and buy for direct shipment, instead of paying dearly for small parcels from New York and England. According to latest reports the market is quite firm. Some of the eastern houses are not selling at all.

CANNED GOODS

MONTREAL — This week we have to announce new prices which have been given out by the canners on Lawtonberries, red and black raspberries, beans and peas. In every instance prices are high. Raspberries are 40c. to 60c. above last year's quotations. Lawtonberries are 45c. to 55c. advanced. Beans are away up, though the percentage is not so great. Peas are up 5c. to 10c. Jobbers feel that these prices are too high, not so much in the case of vegetables as in fruits. They will be able to sell peas and beans at the advance, but it will be difficult to get rid of raspberries at the figures quoted to-day. The trade in this part of the country will not pay such prices as are now asked. The gallon solid pack goods are likely to be easily disposed of in the west, where there is always some demand for them. Vegetables are reported as being in good demand, but canned fruits seem slow. Salmon prices out read: Fraser River flats, $2.10; talls, $1.85 to $1.90; ½ lb. flats, $1.20; Red Spring talls, $1.60; ½ lb. flats, $1; Humpbacks, talls, $1. There appears to be a smaller pack than usual.

TORONTO—The fact that is interesting the trade at the moment is the reported shortage in the Fraser river sockeye pack, only 40,000 cases, against 120,000 cases last year, itself a very short pack. The northern rivers' pack is better, however, so while salmon may be dear, it will not be unobtainable. In the meantime packers have withdrawn from the market until final results are known.

Canned tomatoes are still going out freely and it looks as if the old pack would be pretty thoroughly cleaned up. Just as last year, the trade is wondering how the new pac will go at the advanced prices. Raspberries aknd lawton berries are about 50c. a dozen higher than last year. Beans are just a little higher. It is the small advances that tantalize the retailer because he feels they come out of his profits. Peas are 5c. higher.

ONTARIO MARKETS.

POINTERS—
Sockeye Salmon Pack.—A failure.
Australian Raisins.—Being delivered.
Sugar Market.—Steady.
Butter and Eggs.—Firmer,
Fresh Tomatoes.—Lower.

Toronto, Aug. 15, 1907.

There is a good general trade in groceries passing this week, and wholesalers here seem satisfied. The facts of interest are the reported failure of the Fraser River sockeye pack and the fresh arrivals of Australian raisins. Canned tomatoes continue to go out freely, and a pretty thorough clean up of last year's pack is expected. The sugar market is steady, but consumptions seem still to be below the average. This is attributed to the shortage in fruits. An improvement is looked for when the plum crop comes in.

TEA—Trade is inactive at the moment, with no market changes of note. Thompson's Tea Circular, London, under date of Aug. 1st, says: "We learn from several quarters that the month of June has been and the prospects for July are unfavorable to manufacture, and so far the Indian crop is both not equal in quality or quantity to last season's, so that the present time appears a favorable one for buyers to increase their holdings, as all grades of tea, except the lowest seem exceptionally cheap, and the quantity available when trade becomes more active is likely to be smaller than usual."

COFFEE—The world's visible supply on Aug. 1 was 16,075,812 bags, against 9,948,053 bags a year ago, and 16,399,954 on July 1. This is a pretty heavy load for the market, but the outlook for the coming crop is not good. Willett & Gray, New York, quote the following report from a "well-informed and conservative source" in San Paulo:

"Since the picking commenced it has rained frequently, so that the 'pluviometer' in June indicated a rainfall of 98.2 millimeters.

"The already very small crop is in great danger of suffering in quality, as the largest part of the coffee has been beaten from the trees by stormy weather and the still continuing rains will finally spoil it.

"The bad weather prevails throughout the entire State, so I fear that but few good qualities will come to market.

"As a bad omen may be considered the fact that the barometer is still standing very low, which points towards a prolongation of this situation. Owing to the constant damp weather, the trees naturally develop, so that instead of blossoms there are appearing young shoots and leaves, exactly as was the case three years ago, when a large crop was generally expected, which finally turned out to be a small one. At that time also, the twigs could not mature, which is always the case when the rainy weather continues into the winter months.

"The coffee tree, in order to give a good yield, must have damp and warm weather during the summer months, so that the young shoots can develop properly. After that there must be a certain period of dry weather, so that the young branches can mature in order to bear a healthy flowering.

"Since the weather has actually been so irregular up to the present time, I really do not know how there can be any people left who still believe in a large crop for 1908-1909."

SUGAR—The market for raws is quiet and steady, but absolutely without incident. The Montreal Journal of Commerce said on Tuesday: "There was no change in the situation that has existed in the raw sugar market. It was as it has been for about ten days. Refiners were not disposed to purchase, influenced by the dullness in the refined market, and holders were not making offers."

The cause of the quietness is the lack of business in refined. A New York authority says: "The refined market showed a little better inquiry, but that was not saying much. The weather is propitious, but the country still has a large supply on former contracts. Any day may witness a decided improvement in the demand, which would have an early effect on the raw market." Conditions here are quite in line with those in the States, but the advent of the larger fruits, peaches, plums, pears and apples, is expected to work a change for the better.

DRIED FRUITS—The arrival of Australian raisins was the event of interest in the grocery trade this week. The fruit looks very fine, and much satisfaction is expressed with it by the trade generally. The flavor of it is excellent and the keeping quality is to be tested. Whatever may be its future as a competitor of the Valencia raisin, the fruit was very welcome by many wholesalers to fill in the present gap following last year's failure of the Valencia crop and before this year's crop arrives. It is quoted at 8½c., and Valencias at 8¾c.

MANITOBA MARKETS

(Market quotations corrected by telegraph up to 12 a.m. Thursday, Aug. 15, 1907.)

An average business for the ordinarily quiet month of August is reported by the wholesale houses. Until the crop is assured buying is always light each summer.

New prices are announced this week on several lines of canned goods, and, as will be seen by an examination of the figures quoted below, there have been a number of advances which will not be welcomed either by the trade or the general public. A high level of prices will obtain throughout the entire list. In foreign dried fruits the tendency is also towards higher prices in almost every item but figs. Apricots are a very short crop and they will be scarcely obtainable this winter. Prunes have been very cheap for a year but a return to normal prices and perhaps to prices higher than normal is expected by the wholesale and commission trade.

CANEED GOODS.—Apparently high prices are to prevail in practically all lines of canned goods this season. New prices are announced on raspberries, lawtonberries, peas and beans, and a reference to the lists below will show a very high level of values. Reports from British Columbia indicate a short pack of salmon and high prices will undoubtedly prevail this season.

BUTTER.—The dairy butter market shows little change. The price offered by the produce houses averages about 15c. f.o.b. country stations. For extra fine quality some dealers have got as high as 18c. recently. Creamery butter is advancing and the price to the trade is now 23c. to 24c. per lb.

CAN PADDLE THEIR OWN CANOE.

R. C. Blackburn, city traveler for Davidson & Hay, Toronto, and Geo. Moffatt, of the sample room staff, succeeded in winning laurels at the Canadian Canoe Association meet in Montreal last week. Mr. Blackburn helped win the tandem championship and the intermediate fours. Mr. Moffatt was in the Toronto war canoe that won second place. There were over twenty clubs represented and over four hundred entries, so that the best canoeing talent in Canada was there.

CHEESE AND BUTTER BULLETIN

During the past week there have been changes in cheese prices, but the figures quoted a week ago still hold good, and there are few dealers who have cheese they will sell under 11¼c. The range offered now is: Finest Ontario, 11½c.; townships, 11⅜c.; Quebecs, 11¼c. These figures are high, but it does not appear as though they were likely to decline very much. At these prices business being transacted with the Old Country is not good, although some good shipments have gone forward. One can see this upon realizing that 72,575 boxes were exported last week, as compared with 72,626 boxes the week previous, and against 83,987 boxes in 1906. These figures show also that shipments continue below last year; 963,687 boxes have been exported since May 1, as against 1,118,642 boxes last year.

One reason why shipments are not larger is the great talk there is in England about the very large make of English cheese. Everybody, or at least all the interested parties, are talking about the wonderfully large make. As a matter of fact, the make this year is not up to the average. Last year the make was a small one, owing greatly to the drought experienced, and people placing this year's figures against those of 1906 are inclined to overlook the fact that the make last year was not an average one. There is too much being said about the size of the make in England, and the casual observer will notice that buyers in England are aware of this fact, because they are picking up the cheese on offer at prices which would be too stiff in the face of a large make.

There is still time for Canadian cheese. So much will be wanted, and that much is sure to go forward in time. The actual decrease in shipments to the other side is 144,955 boxes.

Stocks held in London are less than they have been at this date in four years, being but 102,000 boxes. Locally also stocks are under what they were last season.

Receipts last week were 86,395 boxes, against 91,057 boxes previous week, and 95,609 boxes in 1906. Since May 1 receipts amount to 1,087,390 boxes, against 1,190,242 boxes same period 1906. The make is not so large as it has been, there being a falling off in the milk flow of about 25 per cent.

Transactions in butter have not been many during the past few days. Prices ruling are on too high a basis to interest Old Country buyers, and as a consequence few lots have been sold. Some dealers have paid as much as 22c. f.o.b. Townships for butter, while the price in the city hovers between 21½ and 21¾ cents. One can see how much money there is in butter working on these figures.

Under the circumstances, holders are firm in their views, and as stocks are not heavy, they are not likely to part with their butter at a loss. Some would let go at 22c., but others would not. Meantime, English houses are too low in their bids. There is some Siberian butter offering in England now, which is competing against Canadian. The price for this, some of which is creamery, but most dairy, is in the neighborhood of 4s. under our price. Speaking of dairy, the present situation is peculiar, one dealer stating that he could bring butter from Liverpool and lay it down at a better price than he could buy in Canada.

Shipments of butter are 153,132 packages behind what they were last week. Last week 4,188 packages of butter went forward, against 9,349 packages for the previous week, and 19,845 packages for the corresponding week in 1906. Total shipments since May 1 amount to 40,250 packages, against 193,382 packages for the same period last year.

Receipts last week were 14,984 packages, against 18,805 the previous week, and 22,747 in 1906. Total receipts since May 1 are 233,538 packages, against 358,699 packages last season for the same period.

THE PROVISION SITUATION

The provision market continues on about an even keel, trade and prices, both in Canada and the Old Country, being described as steady. The live hog prices range from $6.60 to $6.85 f.o.b. The largest packer is paying $6.60 this week, as against $6.65 east and $6.75 west, last week. Other large operators quote $6.65, and smaller men are paying a little more. The large exporters are looking ahead a few weeks, and their advices indicate very heavy Danish deliveries about the first of September which, they expect, will bring the market down several shillings. They propose to make the reduction gradual, rather than a sudden drop. In Ontario the harvest is now interfering with deliveries, and packers' receipts last week were only 22,000; but there are reported to be plenty of hogs in the country and fair free deliveries are expected by October. In Denmark the harvest is earlier and indications there are that deliveries will reach 40,000 a week by September 1. This will most certainly depress prices in England. At present the English market is about steady, with heavy bacon a little lower and a little better prices for sizable bacon. The market has been on about the same basis for three or four weeks. The best is quoted at 61s. in London, and heavy at 50s. to 54s.

In the domestic market the trade is steady. The hot weather helped some. There is no doubt the trade as a whole has not been up to expectations, with the result that the packers have evinced a little keener desire to sell. The easy falling has been perhaps most marked in hams. The net result has, however, been a slight shading of prices. The market has not been in any sense demoralized. The opinion prevails that high prices have, to some extent, hindered consumption and are responsible for the volume of trade being in a slight degree disappointing.

The American market is more markedly depressed. Reviewing the past week the Journal of Commerce says:

"The past week has shown increased pressure from packers to sell both spot and future products on 100,000 increased receipts of hogs for the week at the west over a year ago, with corresponding accumulations in stocks in spite of heavy consignments abroad by packers of lard and meats. Cash trade has continued of the minimum summer volume, and the pressure to sell has been greater on spot stuff than on futures, without stimulating demand. The average weight of hogs continues far greater than a year ago, as it has done all the season, and to such an extent that heavy hams have declined 1c. to 1½c. from spring prices for forward delivery to boilers; and this has reduced the usual difference between these hams and light ones to the lowest figure in years, while light hams are so scarce as to command almost the same price, because of the excess of heavy hogs. This is a very bearish feature while the improved corn crop prospects is another, which is believed to have induced increased offerings of future deliveries during the week by packers themselves."

PROVISION MARKETS

MONTREAL.

PROVISIONS—The sale of smoked meats continues surprisingly good. Packer say they have been doing an excellent trade and look forward to continued transactions to the end of the warm weather. Lard is none too brisk at the moment, but not much is expected of this line at the present season. Prices are steady.

BUTTER—A fair trade is being done in butter at present. Receipts are satisfactory, being larger than they have been for some time. The season is now at hand when supplies should be langer, and very likely there will be some sort of a decline in quotations once stocks accumulate. As it is, the market is slightly easier.

Prices range from 18½c. for No. 1 to 22c. for selects. No storing is being done at present, the eggs not being of the quality to warrant putting away. PROVISIONS — Trade continues steady with practically unchanged prices. Consumption has been helped some by the hot weather, but as a whole, it has not been up to expectations. The only reason packers know is the high prices. The fresh meat trade is quiet, with prices steady.

HEARS CALL OF THE WEST.

Alfred D. Davis, Harbor Grace, Nfld., writes to the Canadian Grocer in a way that certainly wins our approval. He says :

"Having been on your list since October last, I am glad to be able to register my appreciation of your valuable trade paper. In fact, my 'source of inspiration,' is the reading of the very pages of the 'Grocer.'

"We are a fairly good-sized town, but, sad to say, things are not by any means startling, at any rate, not to my idea. Do you know that after reading your Western Canada Number, I almost wish myself out in Edmonton, Prince Albert, Regina, or the border somewhere. I very much think that another such number would 'bring forth fruit' in yours truly.

"We are doing an exclusive grocery business, specializing on tea, for which we have the cream of the trade of our locality.

"Turning over about $20,000 we are only a small concern, but the trade is not brisk enough for me. What would you really think now of a transfer? Or could you put me in communication with some of your people in the West?

"I have been giving about twelve good years to the business, and now only have twenty-six years behind me.

"Glad to note your wideawake ideas on advertising. I am sending a couple of our papers to you, just for fun. I have rather uphill work trying to make the ad. setter do the right thing."

CEREALS AND CONFECTIONERY

Grain Markets are Steady Again After the Decline—Flour Trade is Extremely Dull, both Domestic and Foreign—Oat Products to go Higher.

The wheat market steadied up this week after last week's decline, bearing out the view of New York's Journal of Commerce on Saturday, that "further declines seem improbable from the fact that our new wheats of all grades have reached a solid export basis the past week, especially for new red winter, which has been taken quite freely by the continent, as well as all grades of old spring wheat by the United Kingdom, which are still offered, though sparingly, and almost none of this crop of new hard winter, as interior millers want more than has been offered so far for domestic consumption, notwithstanding the flour trade has been very dull."

The United States Government's August crop report estimates the wheat yield of the republic at 409,000,000 bushels, against 492,880,000 bushels last year. Australia this year has shipped 40,144,000 bushels, against 18,280,000 for the same period of last year. India's shipments since April have been 17,100,000 bushels, against 16,232,000 bushels last year.

Flour markets in Canada are very dull, but prices are unchanged, and there is no export trade passing, prices being quite out of line. Cereal millers report fair business. They are anticipating higher prices for oats, because of the smaller crop of wheat.

MONTREAL.

FLOUR—Not so much export business has been done during the past few days. Demand has fallen off. Millers are anxiously waiting to see what the crops are going to be. It would appear that they will be about fair, though the manager of one large concern stated that a two-thirds crop was all he expected.

INTERVIEW WITH MR. LEDOUX.

Assistant Organizer of the R.M.A. Talks of the Association's Work in the West.

W. Ledoux, assistant organizer of the Retail Merchants' Association of Western Canada, was in Winnipeg for a day or two last week, and called at the office of the Canadian Grocer. Mr. Ledoux has been visiting the dealers in the country districts throughout Western Canada, and has met with a good reception everywhere. More than 300 new members of the Association have been secured since the first of April.

"Credit is being curtailed all through the West," said Mr. Ledoux in response to an inquiry regarding trade conditions. "Everywhere I go I find that merchants are shutting down on credit and that it is by no means so cheap as it was a few months ago. Special arrangements have to be made now to get credit in a great many stores, and the number of dealers insisting upon the cash system is rapidly increasing. I believe that the next year will see the majority of Western dealers starting the cash system. For this improvement the Association can take some credit. In fact it shares the honors with the trade press. The influence of papers like The Canadian Grocer has had a lot to do in persuading dealers to do business in a common sense way, that is, to sell for cash only.

"Another improvement I notice is ting interest on overdue accounts. It this: Dealers are insisting upon get- is only fair and right that they should get this, for they have to pay interest themselves on their overdue accounts owing to the wholesale houses."

"How is the Association work progressing in the country?"

"Very satisfactorily," was the reply. "I have been busy getting the dealers in each town to meet and form a local board. When this is done they are able to work harmoniously together, and they can see actual results from their membership in the Association."

THE POTATO SITUATION.

By our New Brunswick correspondent.

Because of the outlook for a potato crop easily double that of late years, the Government of New Brunswick is facing the problem of how successfully to house the crop. At a meeting of the Government in Fredericton on Friday, July 26, the Premier, Hon. C. W. Robinson, brought the matter up, and said it was proposed to inv?stigate the facilities for the storage of the enormous crop of potatoes which is looked for in Carleton County this year. He said he had appointed Hon. L. P. Farris and Hon. W. P. Jones as a special committee to deal with the matter. N. S. Dow, of the Agricultural Department, has received instructions to meet the shippers at Woodstock, and also to consult the C.P.R. as to the prospects for handling the crop, which it is estimated will aggregate 3,000,000 bushels. The Government were taking these steps, the Premier explained, to prevent a possible heavy loss to the farmers from a glut in the market, which would follow the lack of buildings in which to store the crop. It might be necessary, he thought, to put up storehouses, as the cold storage facilities would likely prove inadequate.

It is understood that some fifteen storehouses are now being built by dealers who buy from the farmers, but it is figured that these will hold but 100,000 bushels. It is thought that storage room should be provided for nearly double this amount, so htat the tubers can be held for better prices in the winter. Boards of trade have been asked to give the matter attention.

BRITISH COMMERCIAL ATTACHES

A London report from Consul-General R. J. Wynne states that there is a new scheme affecting the sphere of work of the British commercial attaches at Berlin, Vienna, Madrid, and St. Petersburg. It is proposed that these gentlemen shall pay periodical visits to the more important trade centers of the United Kingdom. The principal object of these visits will be to enable the commercial attaches to get into touch with those members of the commercial community who are interested in any particular branch of export trade to the countries with which the commercial attaches are officially connected. It is probable that the first of these visits will shortly be undertaken by the British attache for Austria-Hungary, Italy, and Greece.

The halibut fishing steamer New England recently arrived at Vancouver with 180,000 lbs. of fresh halibut aboard.

Mayor Galbraith, Westmount.

To preside at the meetings of the Westmount Council, the mayor of that little city adjoining Montreal must know what he is about, must be a practical man of affairs, even though the press of Montreal occasionally ridicules the sometime stormy proceedings of the Council. For in Westmount they do things, and for its size that municipality is as up to date as any in Canada.

Mayor Galbraith is a wholesale grocer, and his specialty is not politics, but groceries. In fact he has never had much to do with Federal or Provincial politics, but he has ever taken a keen interest in local government, both in Montreal and in Westmount, in both of which places he has large properties. He has been on the Westmount Council for years, and his hard work was recently fittingly recognized by Westmounters when they elected him mayor.

Wm. Galbraith, Mayor of Westmount.

Mr. Galbraith was born in the north of Ireland about fifty-nine years ago, and received his education in Dublin, coming to Canada in 1870.

He entered the employ of the late Jas. A. Mathewson, for whom he travelled for many years, finally relinquishing his position to enter as a partner the firm of Ward, Carter & Co. This was about 1885. On the dissolution of this concern the firm of Carter, Galbraith & Company was organized, and carried on business under that name until January, 1906, when they dissolved Mr. Galbraith taking his son Wesley in with him, styling the new firm William Galbraith & Son. They acquired the old premises, 80-82 St. Peter St., formerly occupied by Kinloch, Lindsay & Co., and the late Alex. Urquhart, for about sixty years.

CORRESPONDENCE

MONTREAL.

Retailers about town are wondering what the new canned goods prices will be. Quotations on tomatoes, corn and other late vegetables and fruits have yet to be given out. Speculation is rife as to whether the new figures will be on the same basis as the strawberry prices recently made public. If they are going to be such, the retail grocer is not going to pay much attention to canned goods, if one is to judge from what they are saying now. They say they cannot sell strawberries—lots of them are not going to even as much as try. Then, last year it was hard enough to sell tomatoes at the price they were, and there'll be nothing doing if bigger figures appear shortly.

As a matter of fact, more than one grocer in Montreal has plenty of tomatoes. Last spring many sold out at bare cost price, and even under it, that they might not carry over any last year stock—and they paid for the new goods. Everybody didn't sell out, however, and some are selling to-day tomatoes packed 'way back.

* * *

"Do you know," said an up-to-date retailer, who has a cracking good business, "I find that one of the surest ways to gain customers is to be prompt in delivering goods of transients when they want them delivered. I have been in business seven years and have during that time made a point of being very prompt in sending out orders. Frequently a woman will telephone for a can of tomatoes, or for a pound of butter. I don't wait for the return of one of the delivery vans, but send the boy out at once—most of my customers are within reasonable distance. It has been inconvenient sometimes, but has always paid me. When a housekeeper finds there is no butter on the table and the meal is about to be served, if she telephones for some you may be sure she wants it at once if she says so. And you may be just as certain that she will come to that grocer next time she is in an emergency, who serves her promptly and satisfactorily. More than this, these little purchases lead to larger ones and finally, by correct treatment, you may gain that woman's whole trade."

* * *

J. B. Berthiaume, of Park avenue, has a swell business and his store is as nice a one as you can see anywhere. The very look of it is worth money to J. B. Everything looks clean and fresh, for that matter, is clean and wholesome. He is very careful of his stock, and is always open to discuss the latest ideas in carrying on the grocery business. The way he keeps his bread is worthy of emulation by a good many grocers who are not too careful about the sanitary appearance, if nothing else, of their merchandise. J. B. keeps all his bread in a large silent salesman. The various kinds of loaves kept are all seen at a glance. He says it saves handling, as very often a woman comes in who does not know what kind of bread she wants. Without his showcase he would have to show on the counter half a dozen varieties. As it is, she can have her pick with a minimum of trouble to both parties.

Some grocers find that people are not buying fruit in uearly the usual quantities for preserving. If this is the case it would seem that the call for canned varieties would be greater this year.

Business during the summer months is never much to be elated about, but country grocers have the best of their city brethern in some respects. The pedlar evil is felt more during the summer than at any other time. Most retail grocers handle fruits and vegetables during the summer months, helping out as they do a dull part of the year. The pedlars seem to find fruits and vegetables very paying lines, as they are out in force every day, selling from house to house, everything from potatoes to bananas. Onions, beans, cabbage, corn, turnips, tomatoes, berries, apples are among their chief sellers. On payment of a license of $50 they are at liberty to sell anywhere within the city limits and are to be seen daily with their hand carts, or driving, crying out their wares. Efforts have been made to stop them, but nothing has been accomplished.

The early closing question is still standing in the same place. The Point grocers are enjoying themselves, but merchants in other parts of the city do not seen to be able to turn the trick. In some districts the majority are willing to close, say three evenings a week, but there always seems to be just one grocer who does not feel inclined to shut up shop with the rest, and this spoils the whole game.

One man in the uptown district was telling me he did some nights more business in one day than he did in any two during the day. People who bought at night, said he, were not on a shopping expedition, but were after groceries, and they were not anxious to argue prices. For his part, he said, he would rather open at ten in the morning, instead of seven, than close at six or seven in the evening, rather than at ten or half past ten.

SAFETY OIL CAN.

A. F. Demory, Houston, Texas, has invented an improved oil can. The aim of the inventor is to provide a non-explosive can, from which oil can be readily poured, and which will be air-vented. The pouring and filling means will render the can non-explosive, by preventing the passage of flame to the interior of the can through either the filling or dispensing means.

It is always the other fellow that's cutting prices.

FRUITS, VEGETABLES AND FISH

Canadian Tomatoes Lower—Home Potatoes Still Short of the Demand—Reports of New Lemon Crop—The Berry Market.

Canadian tomatoes remain the feature of a quiet vegetable market. Local stock is of greatly improved quality but in the face of this and of an unchanged demand, the price is steadily declining. Few imported tomatoes remain on the market, what stocks are held being offered at prices in keeping with the easier movement in Canadians.

The potato situation is somewhat difficult to fathom. Canadian News are in very light supply, shipments from Ontario points especially being disappointing. American News are going into heavy consumption, and prices are stiffening proportionately. New Brunswick potatoes are not looked for for three weeks at least, and meanwhile it behooves the farmers in Quebec and Ontario to help out the wholesalers as liberally as possible. The Ontario crop appears to be up to the average, but the demand is still many laps ahead of the supply.

The lemon market remains firm, with no material change in prices. Indications are that the new crop will be short in all districts, and consequent upon the truth of these reports, higher prices are looked for. Considerable business is passing in California lemons.

The market is short of home berries, raspberries being practically over and Lawton berries only arriving in small quantities. There is a good demand for hucks, but here again supplies are inadequate. Cherries are about exhausted, and another week is likely to see the end of them. Both red and black currants also are very scarce.

GREEN FRUITS—California fruits are of prime interest at present. Peaches, plums and pears are in good supply, and considering prices, demand is satisfactory. Lemons are selling freely. New Verdellis are now offering, prices ranging from $3.75 to $4.75. In oranges the feature of the market is the business being transacted in late Valencias from California. Bananas are selling at firm prices. Dealers say that the supply is inadequate to meet the demand. Gooseberries are now quoted.

VEGETABLES—A great many changes will be noticed in the market this week. All vegetables are coming in, in large quantities and there has been a drop in prices. Parsley, cabbage, tomatoes, beans, turnips, lettuce, potatoes, are a few of the lines which are lower in price. At present quotations business should boom. Corn is quoted this week.

FISH—For the season business is regarded by dealers as being very good, there being fair demand for almost all varieties. In fresh fish some attention is being paid to salmon, which is expected to be scarce. B.C. salmon will shortly be offered. Halibut, trout and whitefish are selling satisfactory at unchanged prices. Brook trout are scarce, and quotations on this line are firm. Boneless and prepared fish are subject to some demand and are likely to sell more freely at the beginning of next month. In pickled and salted fish, sea trout is the only line for which there is inquiry.

FRUITS—Raspberries are not yet out of the market, but the supplies remaining are flavorless and unattractive, with prices very high and the demand only fair. VEGETABLES—Shipments of new potatoes from Ontario points are straggling and irregular. American News are considerably firmer, $4 being the lowest quotation. Price changes are noticeable in various other lines. Carrots and beets are lower and cucumbers have dropped to ten cents. CALGARY BUSINESS CHANGE.

W. V. Moore, president and managing director of the Great West Jobbing and Commission Co., Calgary, is discontinuing his brokerage business and has opened out in the wholesale fruit and produce line. The new firm will be known as W. V. Moore, Ltd. In writing the Canadian Grocer with reference to this change, Mr. Moore says that he "always enjoys reading the Canadian Grocer more than any other trade journal, especially the newsy items from the homeland in the old provinces down by the sea."

The officers of the new company will be as before, W. V. Moore, president and managing director; J. W. Speer, secretary, W. E. Moore, vice-president. Besides fruit and produce, the firm will still carry a few specialties, such as Lever Bros.' Sunlight Soap, Red Rose Tea, Lumsden Flours.

CENTRAL CANADA FAIR.

The fire which destroyed the grand stand and the Experimental Farm building and damaged the ladies' building at the Central Canada Exhibition grounds, Ottawa, recently, will not affect the Fair, Sept. 13th to 21st. Already work has been started on a grand stand that will provide sufficient accommodation. The ladies' building is being repaired, and the Experimental Farm exhibit will be placed in Horticultural Hall.

FOOD STUFF NEWS OF NEW BRUNSWICK

Special Correspondence of The Canadian Grocer.

St. John, N.B., August 12, 1907.

Business was quiet in the local wholesale markets during the past week, and no notable changes in prices current took place. Retailers report trade fairly brisk for the time of year. There is a scarcity of good canned lobster. Butter and eggs are not over plentiful, and dealers say that there is little likelihood of these staples getting any cheaper than they are now. All sorts of green stuffs have declined, with the exception of peas, which seem to be scarce and are held at from $1 to $1.10 per bushel. New potatoes are coming in quite freely and are now offering at from 75c. to 80c. per bushel.

The New Brunswick Cold Storage Co. was organized at a meeting held on Wednesday, and is an amalgamation of the provincial company with the company now building the warehouse on Main street, near the I.C.R. pier.

The following officers were elected:—R. J. Graham, Belleville, Ont., president; George McAvity, St. John, vice-president. L. S. Macoun, Ottawa, secretary-treasurer; and H. R. Ross, Sussex, and A. I. Trueman, directors.

Sir Frederick Borden, who is interested in the enterprise, was in the city to attend the meeting.

The company will proceed with the building of the warehouse, now being erected at a cost of $125,000, and will operate under the provincial charter granted to the New Brunswick Company.

The promised investigation into the origin of the fire of July 15 at Hartland, N.B., will be begun this week before Justice John Barrett. Hon. H. A. McKeown, of St. John, will handle the case for the commissioners.

William Glew, a grocer, of Woodstock, died on Sunday, August 4, aged between fifty and sixty years. Born in England, he came to this province more than thirty years ago, and for almost that length of time carried on the grocery business in Woodstock. He is survived by his widow and one son, George.

Not for many years has there been so much water in the St. John river during the summer season. The lumbermen are happy, as it affords an excellent chance for rafting operations, but the farmers are correspondingly gloomy. Large quantities of hay that have been cut for ten days or more lie in the fields for want of warm, dry weather. Much of this hay is in danger of rotting. The wet weather has also had some effect on the harvesting of other crops. It is thought, however, that a few fine days will be had soon and that the danger point will be safely passed. There is a great scarcity of men to handle the immense crops, even should the weather come around more favorably.

NOTES.

J. B. Johnson, New York, was in Montreal this week.

Thos. H. Montgomery, Montreal, has returned from a vacation spent at Old Orchard.

Mr. Neilson, of the Lake of the Woods Milling Company, Montreal, is away on his holidays.

G. H. Macfarlane, assistant general manager E. W. Gillett Co., Toronto, was in Montreal last week.

C. D. Cowles, of St. Charles Condensed Milk fame, was around the Montreal trade the other day.

James Duff, of the Whitman Fish Co., Canso, passed a few days in Montreal the early part of the week.

The Acme Can Works, Montreal, was closed Saturday of last week, the occasion of the employe's annual picnic.

S. J. Carter, of S. J. Carter & Co., Montreal, has returned from Cacouna, where he spent a few days with his family.

Charles Pratt, Heathcote, has sold his general store business to Robert Conn, who will conduct it upon the same lines as heretofore.

H. T. Reason, president of the St. Thomas Canning Company, St. Thomas, passed through Montreal last week on his way to the Old Country.

S. C. Thompson, better known as "Sid," a noted football player, of Victoria, B.C., has acquired the grocery business of the late Alex. Adam, Victoria. He will keep the stock up to the standard of first-class groceries, and deliver goods to all parts of the city. Mr. Thompson was formerly with Wilson Bros., the wholesale grocers, of Victoria.

Viau & Frere, Montreal, the biscuit manufacturers, have moved into their fine new factory, corner of Ontario street and Third avenue, Viauville. The new structure is by no means finished, but the firm have found it expedient to get into the new three-storey building. It will be remembered they sold their Notre Dame street premises to the C.P.R. some months ago.

Jos. Cote, importer and wholesale tobacconist, Quebec, has enlarged and completely renovated his store on St. Paul street. On the first floor, which covers an area of about 5,000 square feet, are fine offices and the department of smokers' sundries. The second floor is used for leaf tobacco, biscuits and confectionery, and the third will be used for different lines, such as matches of all kinds, premiums which are given with the different brands of cigars, etc. The firm will have one of the finest stocks of smokers' sundries in Canada, and will give special attention to speedy delivery of goods.

CLERKS

A Page for the Man who works for Wages.
A Clerk's Education.
Retail Salesmanship.
Lines for a Clerk's Scrap Book.

The importance of the clerk is underestimated. There are more grocery clerks than grocers, and it follows that more groceries are handled by clerks than by their employers. The present relation, therefore, of the clerk to the foodstuffs trade is very important. Then there's the future. The clerk of to-day is the grocer of to-morrow. So that looking at it this way the foodstuffs trade is in the hands of the clerk.

This responsibility doesn't seem to be weighing heavily upon either employer or clerk, but it ought to, and a realization of it on the part of the trade in general would lead to a much more thorough system of education for beginners in the foodstuff trade. There are two well defined departments of grocery education, there is first the technical knowledge of foodstuffs, and second the practical knowledge of storekeeping, how to buy goods and how to sell, how to keep stock, how to keep accounts, how to dress windows, how to advertise, how to get trade, and how to hold it.

A knowledge of foodstuffs could be imparted to the trade by a system of technical education. That the Government would be justified in establishing because of the intimate relation to the public health of the handling of foodstuffs. The other branch of knowledge is a matter of experience directed by intelligence, care, thoroughness and enthusiasm.

RETAIL SALESMANSHIP

THE RETAIL CLERK HAS HIS FAULTS.

Heads of departments in large retail stores state that the most common fault with their salespeople is a marked want of tact. This, combined with an evident carelessness as to whether the customer buys or not, is said to explain why so many individuals employed in stores earn so little. "Retail salesmanship," says one man well up in a big western establishment, "is a world in itself. To the man or woman who will study retail salesmanship thoroughly, find out what makes the public buy, and how to infuse enthusiasm into the mind of the prospective customer, there is every chance for advancement. Too many clerks get set ideas about it being impossible to make progress. Those who make good selling behind the counter are the ones who take a correct view of retail salesmanship and regard it as a profession."

Nearly all of the greatest retail merchants in the country have themselves been behind the counter. There is no better training ground on earth for the future owner of a store than to sell merchandise in a big retail store.

That the contention of the storekeepers and heads of departments about a lack of interest and tact in their employes is true to a large degree can be proven by the experience of most people. Who has not been sneered at—not by word of mouth, but by the manner of the clerk—when a ten cent or fifty cent purchase was made when the clerk expected it to be several times that amount? Who has not waited for several minutes looking at the backs of salespeople engaged in doing everything but waiting on customers?

"I want my clerks to be gentlemen," says one merchant who employs men. "When they can't be classified under that title they can't sell goods for me twenty-four hours. Every man, woman and child remembers the store where they have been kindly treated. I aim to make my clerk's feel that everybody's call is important. No man likes to buy a tie or a shirt and the clerk to ask him in a careless, slovenly manner what he wants. It's not in human nature to like such treatment.

"A customer also gets grouchy if he does not get prompt attention. It's a big mistake for any store to attempt to get more people into it than can be properly waited on. Enthusiasm in the clerk begets enthusiasm in the customer. Courtesy, tact, civility and a pleasant demeanor sell goods as well as cut prices. I find men especially are keen of remembrance as to how they were treated in a certain store."

The head of a large department in one of the biggest State Street stores in Chicago vouches for the truth of the following, as told by George Brett in the Worker's Magazine: "A young man came to us three years ago and asked for a position as salesman in a certain department in this store. We asked him what his qualifications were, and he said: 'My stock in trade consists of knowing the faults of ordinary salespeople through having had to put up with them during many years of shopping.'

"He was in earnest and a man of decided intelligence. We gave him a start. It may seem incredible, but the first day he started working he sold more goods than any other clerk in the department. He seemed to have the knack of putting customers into a good humor by laying himself out to please. He studied the customer's first remarks intently. If a man asked for a cheap article and evidently couldn't afford to pay more, he never aimed to force him into paying a higher price than his purse could afford. Maybe he was a good reader of human nature. Anyhow we knew him to be a star salesman. He had not been with us more than a year when a young man came in accompanied by an elderly one. This old man was the most cross grained, obstinate and surly customer that ever walked into our store.

"But our salesman was not discouraged. He pulled down box after box, showed him one article after another with the greatest of urbanity, and ignored his rude remarks for nearly an hour. Eventually the old man seemed to get a little ashamed of his brutal speech and overbearing manner, and finally bought several articles of wearing apparel.

"While the old man was walking to another department, the young man stepped up to the counter and entered into an animated conversation with our salesman. 'Any man who can keep his temper with an individual like I brought here to-day certainly is a marvel,' was the comment to our employe. 'I've never seen anything like it. I don't care what your salary is behind that counter: I need you in my business, and whatever you're receiving here I'll give you twice as much. Put your hat and coat on and consider yourself engaged.' Our salesman told him he didn't do business that way.

"The business man then threw down his card and said: 'Well, think it over. There's no particular hurry. Look me up if you think you'd like a position at the terms named.' The upshot of the matter was that our star salesman made investigations, and being satisfied went into the young man's employ. He was getting $25 per week with us, which of course meant $50 that his new employer had to pay. I heard he made a salesman out of him. Maybe that expression is wrong. He may have had a few things to learn about the articles he had to sell, but on the art of salesmanship I never saw a man who seemed so thoroughly gifted by nature as the man who was with us but one short year. I understand one clerk asked him one day how he accounted for his remarkable ability to effect sales, and the crack salesman said the great majority of salespeople lacked tact and sympathy with customers."

CENTRAL CANADA FAIR.

Directors Making Improvements and Fair to be Better Than Ever.

Word comes from Ottawa that very extensive changes have been made in the grounds and buildings of the Central Canada Fair, all with the view of increasing the already picturesque appearance of Lansdowne Park. The buildings are being moved and changed to permit of a splendid view being obtained of the grounds immediately one enters the gate, and to provide spacious avenues where the visitors can promenade and rest when they so desire. Country people have appreciated the accommodation for resting under the trees and partaking of refreshments, and by the improvements this accommodation has been largely increased. This class of patrons probably more than any other will appreciate, also, the action of the directors in discontinuing the plan followed last year of shutting the people out from the judging ring. It has been decided to revert to the old system of permitting the visitors to see the animals being judged in the ring set aside for that purpose, and to provide seating accommodation this year as far as possible under the circumstances. A new main entrance has also been constructed. This will be especially for evening admission to the large new auditorium where the night attractions will be presented. If one only desires to attend the night show, he comes in by this new entrance, and saves the admission fee to the grounds, which are kept open until 11 o'clock for the benefit of people who desire to see the Exhibition buildings, and displays in the evening. People on the grounds can go into the auditorium by another entrance.

CANADIAN CONDENSED MILK CO.

H. W. Knight, manager and superintendent of the St. Charles condensed milk and cream factories at Ingersoll for the past five years, has resigned and organized a new company to be known as the Canadian Condensed Milk Co., Limited, with temporary sales offices at 39 James St. S., Hamilton. Mr. Knight will be the general manager, with a temporary office at Ingersoll.

The capital of the new concern has been fully subscribed. Complete and up-to-date machinery has been ordered, and work on the buildings will commence as soon as the directors are able to select a suitable location. The new plant will be one of the most up-to-date condensed milk and cream factories in America, and under the capable management of Mr. Knight the success of the company is assured.

It is expected that the new company will be in a position to supply the trade with choicest condensed milk and cream about December 1st next, under the "Canada First" brand, which has been registered.

Nicholson & Bain, of Winnipeg, Calgary and Edmonton, have been appointed wholesale agents in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta for the sale of Lea and Perrins' Sauce. This is another important addition to the big string of agencies handled by this firm.

PREPARING FOR NEW BRUNSWICK'S RECORD POTATO CROP THIS FALL

The question of housing and shipping the enormous crop of potatoes that is expected in New Brunswick, is causing not only the farmers but the Provincial Government and the railway companies considerable anxiety. Shippers of potatoes in the four counties interested, farmers and others in large numbers, met Hon. L. P. Farris, Commissioner of Agriculture and Hon. W. P. Jones, Solicitor General, the committee from the Provincial Government, in the Board of Trade rooms at Woodstock last Thursday night, to consider the providing of better facilities for the storage and shipment of potatoes in York, Carleton, Victoria aad Madawaska counties. Messrs. Kirkpatrick and Tinker, of the C.P.R. were present and J. T. A. Dibblee, president of the Woodstock Board of Trade was in the chair.

Jas. E. Porter, of Andover, H. H. McCoin, of East Florenceville, Chip Phillips, and C. W. Dugan of Woodstock spoke about the shortage of cars and the difficulty of making prompt shipments.

Lack of Cars Saved Farmers.

B. F. Smith, M.P.P., said there is no use in disguising the fact that more potatoes than last year will be raised. Then of course the C.P.R. did the best they could, but if they had furnished all the cars that were wanted the market would have been glutted and the farmers would not have realized as much as they did. He said he tried to show the farmers that they should increase their acreage gradually. As the population of Western Canada increases, the market will also increase.

"I still think," said Mr. Smith, "the farmers have made a mistake and increased their acreage too fast. The C.P.R. should build a few potato houses and say to the shippers, 'We will rent you these houses at a normal rent.' If the C.P.R. refuses, then the government should step in. Of course governments cannot create trade but they can create conditions. Or the shippers may form a company, let the government send engineers to report on potato houses and probably the government may loan the necessary money at six per cent. The shippers might charge the farmers 10 cents a barrel for storage for say a month. I know of many farmers who have planted ten acres of potatoes and no doubt there will be a large yield."

Enlarge the Markets.

Mr. Kirkpatrick, general freight agent of the C.P.R., said that as far as the C.P.R. was concerned it would enlarge the potato market. A new and more favorable tariff would be given the shippers. It might be possible to find a market in England. Some N.S. shippers sent potatoes to the West Indies last year. "We will," he said, "give you a better car service next winter, but during October and early in November the supply of cars is limited. Get the farmer to put in root houses, then he can keep his potatoes and dispose of them when he likes. There are, or will be, eighteen or twenty potato houses between Woodstock and Emundston that will take care of 300,000 bushels."

He suggested that the government get some practical man to go around and have plans drawn for the erection of root houses.

J. F. Tweeddale, M.P.P., said he was one of a company incorporated to build potato houses and had invested $15,000, and would build six new houses. J. C. Manzer and James Porter each would build one in Victoria county. He was surprised that Woodstock shippers did not provide more houses. From Victoria county last year, 478 car loads were sent, and they could have sent 200 more, and Fort Fairfield dealers sent 100 cars to the Canadian market. It was to the farmer's advantage to provide facilities for storage.

Favor Root Houses.

F. B. Carvell, M.P., N. S. Dow, C. E. Gallagher, jr., Messrs. Burden, Armstrong, Guy Porter and others spoke. It was moved by Mr. Carvell, seconded by Mr. Gallagher, that the Provincial Government employ men to travel through the four counties and discuss with the farmers the ways and means of storing the surplus crop of potatoes.

It was moved by Mr. Porter, and seconded by Mr. Armstrong, in amendment, that the government of the country be asked to assist the erection of potato houses for surplus stock. The amendment was lost and the original motion carried.

G. Porter, seconded by Mr. Burden, of York, then moved that a committee of two from each county be appointed to wait upon the C.P.R. in regard to sidings and transportation facilities. This was carried and the following committee was appointed: Victoria, Guy Porter, J. C. Manzer; Carleton, C. Dugan, H. H. McCain · York Messrs. Bell and G. F. Burden; Madawaska, A. Wirt Hall, J. A. Bernier.

After remarks by Hon. L. P. Farris and Hon. W. P. Jones the meeting adjourned.

On Friday morning the committee met the C.P.R. officials and were given the assurance that more cars would be provided and better rates given for the shippers of potatoes.

AN EVENT OF INTEREST.

Canada's Great Exhibition to be Opened by the Governor-General on August 27th.

Grocers not only in Ontario, but all over Canada, are looking forward with interest to the Canadian National Exhibition, to be held in Toronto from August 27th to September 9th. Some of the largest displays this year will be made by manufacturers and agents of foodstuffs and provisions, this department promising to be more interesting and better filled than ever before, indeed, the list of exhibitors includes many of Canada's largest manufacturers of food supplies.

The other departments of the exhibition will, of course, be of general interest. The new buildings, on which $400,000 has been spent during the year, will be worth seeing, The fact that $50,000 is offering in premiums is an assurance of a large and excellent entry list in all departments, and a provision of $50,000 for special attractions promises specially good things for the lighter attractions. Both American and Canadian railways are offering particularly attractive rates and exhibition visitors from a distance are likely to be considerably more numerous than in any previous year.
